Tony T. K. Lau Scholarship for Volunteer Service to International Students

In order to promote cultural understanding, and in honour of the support he received as an international student, Tony T.K. Lau (B.A.'71), past President of the International Students' Organization (1971-1972), co-founder and current President of the University of Manitoba Chinese Alumni Association of Canada (1986), has established a scholarship to recognize student volunteers who have had an impact in the lives of international students at the University of Manitoba.

Scholarship applicants must submit a nomination from International Centre staff and/or members of a University of Manitoba association or group with their application. The nomination must demonstrate how the nominee has volunteered to help international students adapt to Canada and the University of Manitoba, either through participation in programs offered through the International Centre, or through any University of Manitoba association or group.
