The University of Manitoba reserves the right to make changes in the information contained in the Undergraduate Calendar and the Graduate Calendar without prior notice. The University of Manitoba web site, umanitoba.ca is a source for updated information.

Not every course listed in the Undergraduate Calendar or the Graduate Calendar will be offered in this academic year.

It is the responsibility of all students:

- To familiarize themselves each year with the university's academic regulations and policy in general;
- To familiarize themselves with the regulations and policies applying specifically to their faculty, school, or program;
- To familiarize themselves with the specific graduation requirements of the degree, diploma, or certificate they are seeking; and

In the event of an inconsistency between the general academic regulations and policies published in the Undergraduate Calendar and the Graduate Calendar, and such regulations and policies established by Senate and the councils of the faculties and schools, the version established by Senate and the councils of the faculties and schools shall prevail.

The regulations and policies contained in this year's editions of the Undergraduate Calendar and the Graduate Calendar apply, subject to change, only for the academic year indicated on the cover page of each publication.

The material in the current editions of the Undergraduate Calendar and the Graduate Calendar was submitted by the academic and administrative units concerned. The university neither represents nor warrants that all general information and course references used in these publications is accurate although reasonable efforts have been used to check the accuracy of the information.

Students also agree by the act of registration to be bound by the regulations, policies, and bylaws of the University of Manitoba that are in effect at the time of registration, including any amendments which may be enacted during the period of their registration. Students agree by the act of registration to be bound by the regulations, policies, and bylaws of the faculty or program in which they have registered, including any amendments which may be made during the period of their registration. Students also acknowledge that such amendments may have retroactive application.

No liability shall be incurred by the University of Manitoba for any loss or damage suffered or incurred by any student, or any party claiming through or under any student, as a result of delays in, or termination of, services, courses or classes by acts of God, fires, floods, riots, wars, strikes or lockouts, damage to university property, financial exigency, or any occurrence beyond the reasonable control of the university. Further, the University of Manitoba shall not be liable for any losses or damage suffered by a student who discloses his/her personal identification number (PIN) to anyone other than a university employee in the course of registration.

The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FIPPA)

Personal information is collected under the authority of The University of Manitoba Act. It is used for the purposes of admission, registration, provision of education to the student including assessment of academic status, and communication with the student. It may be used for administrative research in support of provision of education and general administration of the University. Upon graduation, the student's name and address, together with information on degrees, diplomas, and certificates earned, will be given to and maintained by the alumni records department in order to assist the University's advancement and development efforts. Information on graduation and awards may be made public. ## Disclosure of Personal Information to Statistics Canada

Statistics Canada is the national statistical agency. As such, Statistics Canada carries out hundreds of surveys each year on a wide range of matters, including education.

It is essential to follow students across time and institutions to understand, for example, the factors affecting enrolment demand at post-secondary institutions. The increased emphasis on accountability for public investment means that it is also important to understand 'outcomes'. In order to carry out such studies, Statistics Canada asks all colleges and universities to provide data on students and graduates. Institutions collect and provide to Statistics Canada student identification information (student's name, student ID number, Social Insurance Number), student contact information (address and telephone number), student demographic characteristics, enrolment information, previous education, and labour force activity.

Under the Federal Privacy Act, individuals can request access to their own, individual information held in federal information banks, including those held by Statistics Canada.

The Federal Statistics Act provides the legal authority for Statistics Canada to obtain access to personal information held by educational institutions. The information may be used only for statistical purposes, and the confidentiality provisions of the Statistics Act prevent the information from being released in any way that would identify the student.

Students who do not wish to have their information used are able to ask Statistics Canada to remove their identifying information from the national database.

Further information on the use of this information can be obtained from Statistics Canada's web

University Policies

SECTION 1: Policy on the Responsibilities of Academic Staff with Regard to Students

I Objectives,
The objectives of this policy are to identify the responsibilities of academic staff with regard to students; to promote harmonious relations between academic staff and students; and to promote fair and equitable treatment of students.

II Definitions,

For purposes of this document, the following terms shall be defined as provided by this article:

1. Academic staff shall include all individuals holding full- or part-time appointments at the rank of Instructor I, Instructor II, senior instructor, lecturer, assistant professor, associate professor or professor. The term shall include also academic administrators, academic librarians, counsellors, adjunct professors, professional associates, research associates, research assistants, student research assistants, and student teaching assistants, insofar as such persons perform duties within the ambit of the policy.
2. Student shall mean any person who is registered as a student in the university.

III Statement of Responsibilities,

Some of the responsibilities of academic staff with regard to students rest with the individual staff member, while others are collective responsibilities, to be exercised through the actions of department and faculty/school administrators and councils.

A. Individual Responsibilities

The individual responsibilities of academic staff members with regard to students are primarily instructional and scholarly, and secondarily administrative. They may include:

1. Undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education instruction, including the organization, preparation and delivery of course material, the evaluation of student academic progress, the reporting of such evaluation in accordance with approved policies and schedules, consultation with students out of class or laboratory hours, and supervision of student research and thesis preparation;
2. Scholarly attainment through personal study and research, including study for purposes of academic selfimprovement or course improvement, keeping abreast of new developments, and research that leads to a useful or original contribution toward the advancement of knowledge and understanding; and,
3. Administrative work as required for instructional and scholarly activities, including committee work at various levels - departmental, faculty, university - as it pertains directly or indirectly to students.

B. Collective Responsibilities

The collective responsibilities of the academic staff belonging to an academic unit are to provide an effective learning environment and to endeavour to ensure fair and consistent treatment of students. They include:

1. Periodically reviewing and updating all courses and programs;

2. Ensuring that academic regulations and policies provide for fair and consistent treatment of students; and,
3. Providing for convenient student access to information on policies, regulations and procedures that may affect their academic progress, including the provision of names of instructors assigned to teach particular courses and sections at the earliest possible opportunity.

IV Discharge of Responsibilities,

A. Individual Responsibilities

1. Academic staff members shall discharge their instructional responsibilities with academic integrity, scholarly competence, and pedagogic effectiveness.
2. Academic staff members shall maintain their familiarity with current university faculty/school and/or department policies regarding plagiarism and cheating, examination impersonations, student access to final examination scripts, student discipline, grade appeals, and the University policy regarding sexual harassment.
3. In discharging their instructional responsibilities, academic staff members shall adhere to regulations pertaining to the format, content and conduct of courses and laboratories, including regulations pertaining to examinations, term work, grades, and related matters.
4. A course outline or syllabus shall be provided in each course section, within the first week of classes:
a) The academic staff member responsible for that section shall provide in writing to every member of the class:

- name of instructor;
- office number and telephone number;
- a list of textbooks, materials and readings that the student is required to obtain including the appropriate referencing style guide(s) acceptable to the instructor and/or discipline in courses where it is relevant;
- an outline of the topics to be covered;
- a description of the evaluation procedure to be used, including the weighting of the components that will contribute to the final grade and whether evaluative feedback will be given to the student prior to the voluntary withdrawal date (see note);
- an indication of instructor availability for individual student consultation;
- a tentative schedule of term assignments and tests; and
- a statement of the practice to be following regarding late submission of assignments.

NOTE: It is understood by Senate that the provision of this information is not intended to affect the question of equity in multi-sectioned courses in any way.
b) The academic staff member shall provide in writing to every member of the class information regarding academic integrity which shall include:

- a reference to statements on academic dishonesty including "plagiarism and cheating" and "examination personation" found in the University General Calendar; and,
- where appropriate, a reference to specific course requirements for individual work and group work. Students should be made aware that group projects are subject to the rules of academic dishonesty and that group members must ensure that a group project adheres to the principles of academic integrity. Students should also be made aware of any specific instructions concerning study groups and individual assignments. The limits of collaboration on assignments should be defined as explicitly as possible.

5. Academic staff members shall teach their courses with due regard to calendar descriptions.
6. It is the responsibility of academic staff members to specify textbooks and materials in accordance with announced purchasing deadlines.
7. In their dealings with students, academic staff shall:
a) not deny registration for instruction in those courses for which the permission of the instructor is required, except where the student lacks appropriate qualifications or where an approved policy on limited enrolment is in effect;
b) comply with existing human rights legislation, and refrain from differential treatment of individual students on the basis of their actual or presumed membership in, or association with, some class or group of persons;
c) not accept money or other goods or services from students for assistance with any course offered by the Uuniversity. This clause, however, shall not prevent student teaching assistants or other part-time instructors from accepting payment for tutoring in courses/sections which do not fall within the scope of their University employment;
d) be available for a reasonable amount of time, on a known and posted basis, for individual consultation with students registered in their courses or laboratories;

Reason for Policy,

1.1 The University of Manitoba strives to ensure an accessible learning and working environment and is thereby committed to providing reasonable accommodation of the needs of persons with documented disabilities.
1.2 The purpose of this policy is to support an accessible learning environment where students with disabilities, who are admitted to the University of Manitoba, can gain access to all programs for which they are academically qualified.

2.0 Policy Statement

2.1 General

The University shall endeavour to foster, create, and maintain an accessible campus and provide other supports and services to students with disabilities.
2.1.1 The University of Manitoba will use reasonable efforts to ensure that students with disabilities are considered for admission to programs for which they are academically qualified; and have full and safe access to the educational process and learning environment (including but not limited to classes, laboratories, and workshops), the University campus, and University facilities and services.
2.1.2 The University will use reasonable efforts to offer reasonable accommodations in the delivery of academic programs and services to students with disabilities.
2.2 The Disability Services (DS) office is the centralized service for the University of Manitoba community. DS provides a focus for activity and expertise regarding disability-related accommodations within the University, and for liaison with outside organizations regarding accessibility issues, and programs and services for students with disabilities at the University of Manitoba. In providing accommodations, the DS office will:
2.2.1 request and evaluate appropriate medical documentation from students requesting assistance from DS and assign appropriate services to meet the needs of each student by adapting services, courses, and programs as feasible;
2.2.2 ensure that the University's criteria for academic excellence will not be compromised; and
2.2.3 inform the University community about the services available to students with disabilities through the DS office, and seek to ensure that such services are delivered in ways that promote equity, recognizing that performance is not inferior merely because it is different.
2.3 The University is responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of disability related information under The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Manitoba) and The Personal Health Information Act (Manitoba), including limiting the distribution of that information to only those parties that require the information to determine appropriate accommodation.

SECTION 4: Disclosure and Security of  Student Academic Records

Disclosure and Security of Student Academic Records, The University and its constituent units have a clear obligation to the student and to society concerning the disclosure and security of information about a student's academic record. All student records will be handled in accordance with The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Manitoba) (FIPPA) and the Personal Health Information Act (Manitoba) (PHIA) as appropriate. Students who have questions on this matter should contact the Registrar's Office or the FIPPA Office.

SECTION 5: Language Usage Guidelines

Introduction,
The University of Manitoba, as an institution of higher learning, has a commitment to high standards in all communications, both written and oral as well as a prominent role in promoting desirable social change. As an employer, it is especially sensitive to the fair treatment of individuals and groups. The University of Manitoba therefore follows guidelines which are designed to avoid communicating in a manner that reinforces questionable attitudes and assumptions about people and sex roles. Often the problem is one of word choices which may be interpreted as biased, discriminatory, or demeaning, even though they were not intended to be. These guidelines will assist administrators in choosing words which are accurate, clear, and free from bias.

Guidelines

Sexism in communications may be divided into two conceptually different categories:

1. Problems of designation, and
2.Problems of evaluation.

I. Problems of Designation,

In the case of sexism, long-established cultural practice can exert a powerful, insidious influence over even the most conscientious person. Nouns, pronouns, and adjectives that designate persons can be chosen to eliminate, or at least to minimize, the possibility of ambiguity in sex identity or sex role. In the following examples, problems of designation are divided into two sub-categories: ambiguity of referent, where it is unclear whether the communicator means one or both sexes, and stereotyping, where the communication conveys unsupported or biased connotations about sex roles and identity.

Problems of Evaluation

By definition, communications should be free of implied or irrelevant evaluation of the sexes.

Difficulties may derive from the habitual use of clichés or familiar expressions such as "man and wife." The use of "man and wife" together implies differences in the freedom and activities of each. "Husband and wife" are parallel, "man and wife" are not. In the examples that follow, problems of evaluation, like problems of designation, are divided into ambiguity of referent and stereotyping.

Problems of Designation

Ambiguity of Referent:

The student is usually the best judge of the value of his counselling.

Choices might include deleting the referent "his," changing to a plural subject (Students are...value of the counselling service they receive), or rephrase (The best judge of the value of counselling is usually the student).

Man or mankind (people, human beings, etc.) the average man (average person, people in general), manpower (workforce, personnel, human resources).

Stereotyping:

Research scientists often neglect their wives and children.
a) Acknowledge that women as well as men are research scientists (Research scientists often...neglect their families).
b) Mothering (noun substitute - parenting, nurturing).
c) Woman doctor, male nurse, lady lawyer. (delete sex description unless necessary to the discussion, then use female doctor, female lawyer).

II. Problems of Evaluation,

A. Ambiguity of Referent:

1.The authors acknowledge the assistance of Mrs. John Smith. (-Use given names in acknowledgements, e.g., Ms., Miss or Mrs. Jane Smith).

B. Stereotyping

1. men and girls. (Use parallel terms - men and women, girls and boys, unless specifically wishing to denote adult and child relationship).
2. woman driver. (Specify only if necessary and then use female driver).
3. Staff members and their wives. (Staff members and their spouses/friends/guests).
4. The girls in the office. (noun substituted - secretaries, staff, office assistants).

NOTE: A more detailed list of examples of the sexist use of language can be obtained by contacting the Office of the President.

SECTION 6: Conflict of Interest Between Evaluators and Students due to Close Personal Relationships  1.0 Reason for Policy,

The purpose of this policy is to ensure that the relationship between an evaluator and the person being evaluated is and is seen to be impartial.
2.0 Policy Statement, 2.1 Definitions
2.1.1 An evaluator includes any person who participates, whether at first instance or on appeal, in the process of admitting or selecting a student to a course or program, determination of a student's progress or academic standing, or the receipt by a student of a prize, award or university financial support.
2.1.2 A conflict of interest means a close personal relationship between an evaluator and a student or applicant, or between evaluators, that gives rise to a reasonable apprehension of bias and, in any event, such relationships shall include that of:
a) parent/child;
b) spouses;
c) grandparent/grandchild;
d) siblings;
e) in- laws; or
f) persons living in the same dwelling unit.

2.2 Procedures

2.2.1 Responsibility for avoiding the conflict of interest rests with the evaluator. In cases of uncertainty, the evaluator shall and the student may refer the matter for determination to the department head (or dean/director, as appropriate). The decision of the department head is subject to review by the dean/director of the academic unit.
2.2.2 Where there is a conflict of interest, the evaluator shall immediately withdraw from participation and shall inform the student concerned and the head or dean/director, as appropriate.
a) Where alternative sections or electives exist, the alternative must be taken, unless the dean/director concerned determines that this will create an undue hardship for the student.
b) Where the dean/director has exercised discretion under 2.2.2(a) or where no alternatives exist to compulsory courses, the dean/director shall ensure fair evaluation by having another suitably qualified evaluator review the submitted material or hear the oral presentations. Where practicable, the evaluator shall not participate in setting the examination or other evaluation method.
2.2.3 Where the dean or director has a conflict of interest, the president shall name a replacement to act in the matter.
2.2.4 In the case of failure to observe these regulations, staff members will be subject to the discipline procedures provided by the appropriate collective agreement or personnel policy of the University.

This Policy is available online at: umanitoba.ca/admin/governance/governing documents/stud ents/277.htm.

SECTION 7: Other Policies of Interest to Students Campus Alcohol Policy, 1.0 Reason for Policy

This policy is a general statement and guideline, setting out the University's requirement for strict compliance with the Liquor Control Act (Manitoba), as well as any rules and regulations, and any successor or replacement rules and regulations, at all events and facilities at which alcohol is available. This policy is further to the Liquor Control Act (Manitoba), as well as any rules and regulations and directives issues pursuant to the Act (The "MLCC rules and regulations").

2.0 Policy Statement

2.1 Alcohol abuse is a serious health problem and can lead to conduct that may endanger the safety of individuals and result in damage to property both on and off the University of Manitoba Fort Garry and Bannatyne Campuses (the "Campuses"). This in turn may result in legal claims involving the University and others. The purpose of this policy is to explicitly establish the general means by which alcohol abuse on the Campuses can be reduced, and to the extent possible, eliminated.

2.2 The University shall meet the policy's objective by:

2.2.1 Offering an alcohol education and awareness program within the scope of programs offered by or through Student Affairs;
2.2.2 Maintaining University guidelines with respect to the serving and consumption of alcohol on the Campuses;
2.2.3 Requiring that events and facilities at which alcohol is served on the Campuses (the "events and facilities") be managed effectively, and in accordance with the University's policy and procedures and Manitoba Liquor Control Commission rules and regulations; and this policy applies broadly, and covers all events and facilities on the Campuses.

This policy is available online at:
http://www.umanitoba.ca/admin/governance/governing docu ments/community/253.html

Parking Regulations,

All members of the University community and persons attending on property, owned and occupied or under the charge or control of the University, including roadways (the "University property") are required to familiarize themselves and comply with the Regulations.

The Regulations are in addition to any by-lays of the City of Winnipeg and any legislation and regulations of the Province of Manitoba regulating the operation or use of motor vehicles or regulating the crossing of or walking upon roadways by pedestrians.

A complete copy of the University Parking Regulations is available online at: umanitoba.ca/admin/governance/governing documents/\%20 community/255.htm

SECTION 8: Student Discipline Bylaw

Students are expected to conduct themselves responsibly with due regard for the rights of others and to maintain a high level of personal and academic integrity. Students who transgress these standards, whether expressed in policy or implied in generally accepted codes of conduct, can expect disciplinary action. Penalties arising from disciplinary actions may include fines, withholding of student privileges, suspension or expulsion from programs, or some other action specific to the situation. Penalties may also affect student eligibility to continue in their programs or to graduate.

Student Discipline Bylaw  \subsection*{1.0 Reason for Bylaw}

The Student Discipline Bylaw and related Procedures provide guidance to those individuals charged with administering disciplinary action ("Disciplinary Authority") while, at the same time, outlining the prohibited conduct and the right of appeal.

2.0 Rule/Principle

2.1 As members of the University Community, students have an obligation to act with academic integrity and in a fair and reasonable manner towards their peers, faculty, staff, administration and the physical property of the University. Academic integrity and personal conduct, both on-campus and off-campus in university-sanctioned activities, are critical elements in achieving these obligations.
2.2 Students will be subject to disciplinary action under this bylaw, for the following matters regardless of whether such behaviour is covered by other University governing documents; (bylaws, policies, procedures and regulations).
2.2.1 Academic dishonestly including, but not limited to:
(a) academic/scientific fraud;
(b) cheating on exams or tests;
(c) contravention of academic regulations;
(d) re-submitting own previous course work as new work;
(e) examination personation;
(f) inappropriate collaboration; and
(g) plagiarism (i.e., passing off the thoughts, writings and work of another person as one's own).
2.2.2 Inappropriate behaviour including, but not limited to:
(a) abuse of computer privileges;
(b) alcohol and substance abuse;
(c) breach of residence hall regulations;
(d) disorderly, violent or threatening behaviour;
(e) false or misleading information made for any purpose including information in connection with:
i) application for admission;
ii) application for awards;
iii) medical certificates;
iv) letters of permission;
v) transfer of credits; and
vi) transcript/student records matters;
(f) harassment and unlawful discrimination;
(g) indecent exposure;
(h) theft;
(i) unprofessional conduct; and
(j) vandalism.
2.3 The specific jurisdiction for each of the Disciplinary Authorities is set out in "Table 1: Jurisdiction of Disciplinary Authorities" ("Table 1"). For the purposes of this document and the related Procedures document, references to Faculty/School will include University 1 and Dean/Director will include the Director of University 1.
2.4 The specific disciplinary actions available for each Disciplinary Authority are set out in "Table 2: Disciplinary Actions Available to Disciplinary Authorities" ("Table 2").
2.5 Disciplinary Authorities having the closest connection with the particular alleged disciplinary matter are encouraged whenever possible and appropriate to resolve student disciplinary matters informally in the first instance.
2.6 Students who make complaints or appeals which are found by the Disciplinary Authority to be frivolous or made for an improper purpose, may be subject to disciplinary action.
2.7 If the disciplinary matter relates to a criminal offence, the Disciplinary Authority shall provide relevant information to Campus Security Services for potential follow-up by the appropriate policing authority.
2.8 Students have a right to appeal disciplinary actions made by a Disciplinary Authority excluding the decisions of the University Discipline Committee ("UDC") which are final decisions.
2.9 Students are advised that the Disciplinary Authority to whom an appeal has been made may impose a more severe disciplinary action than previously recommended by a lower disciplinary body should the hearing panel, after reviewing the disciplinary evidence presented by all parties, consider the original disciplinary action insufficient.
2.10 Student are afforded the right to representation when dealing with disciplinary matters in the first instance and with respect to appeals; and both are subject to the limitations set out in the related Procedures.
2.11 No disciplinary action shall be implemented until the time for appeal has elapsed or until the Student has waived in writing the right to appeal, whichever occurs first. The only exceptions to this rule shall be:
(a) where the disciplinary action would be entered on the academic records of the Student, the Registrar shall be notified by the Disciplinary Authority implementing such disciplinary action, and shall not issue any academic transcripts until the appeal has been disposed of;
(b) where the disciplinary action relating to academic dishonestly or academic fraud may result in a change to the Student's transcript, the Registrar shall be notified by the Disciplinary Authority implementing such disciplinary action, and shall not issue any transcripts until the appeal has been disposed of:
(c) where changes in the Student's courses and/or program are directly related to the matter under disciplinary consideration, such changes shall not be permitted; and
(d) where the disciplinary action if not implemented, the safety of members of the University Community would be compromised.

Students may request information from their faculty or school offices, the Office of Student Advocacy, or the Office of the University Secretary.

umanitoba.ca/admin/governance/governing documents/stud ents/868.html

SECTION 9: Inappropriate and Disruptive Student Behaviour

1.0 Reason for Policy

In the event of a student or students exhibiting inappropriate or disruptive behaviour, the following policy can be implemented.

2.0 Policy Statement

2.1 General

Although this policy is directed to dealing with students who exhibit inappropriate or disruptive behaviour, there are some general statements which should be made:
2.1.1 The vast majority of students will complete their academic life at the University acting appropriately and without causing disruptions to their fellow students or to the University. This policy is not directed towards individual students who have a mental illness, provided their behaviour is neither inappropriate nor disruptive.

A staff member may notice that an individual student is exhibiting debilitating stress, even though he/she is not acting disruptively. In that case, the observation should be addressed with the student and, if appropriate, the student should be referred for voluntary counselling.
2.1.2 "In appropriate or disruptive behaviour is behaviour which persistently interferes with the academic or administrative activities of the University (and/or) which inhibits the ability of other students to learn and of instructors to teach." - Amanda, G. "Dealing with the Disruptive College Student: Some Theoretical and Practical Consideration", College Health, April 1986.

Such behaviours would include but would not be limited to the following:
a) threats to the physical safety of the individuals or others;
b) verbal threats to or abuse of students or University personnel;
c) recurring and wilful damage of University property;
d) inappropriate or disruptive behaviour as a result of misuse of drugs or alcohol on University property; and
e) actions which habitually interfere with the learning environment or requires the inordinate time and attention of faulty and staff.
2.1.3 Where the individual students act inappropriately or disruptively:
a) The majority of such students will accept personal responsibility for their inappropriate or disruptive behaviour, and will accept appropriate referral for voluntary counselling. For the most part, staff members need only use the "Normal Procedure for Dealing with Inappropriate or Disruptive Behaviour" set out below.
b) Information and input received from professionals in the mental health field and professional practitioners at the University would suggest that the numbers of such students who do not accept personal responsibility or appropriate voluntary counselling are small. Where a student to whom this policy should apply identified by a staff member, he/she will use part 2 of the "Normal Procedure"; and if appropriate in more extreme cases involving physical or mental harm, he/she should use the "Procedure for More Extreme Behaviour".
c) Where an officer(s) of the University believes that a student is inappropriately involving more than one of the various service and administration offices of the University, he/she shall request the Vice-Provost (Student Affairs) to initiate a staff conference to facilitate communication and problem resolution.
d) Information regarding an acute problem of inappropriate or disruptive behaviour which is disclosed during the student application process, should be referred to the Director of Admissions or the Dean of Graduate Studies as appropriate. If the information is of serious concern to the respective Director of Admissions or the Dean of Graduate Studies, he/she may seek the advice of the University Legal Counsel and may initiate a student conference.

2.2. Normal Procedure for Dealing with Inappropriate Behaviour

When a student acts inappropriately or disruptively, staff members should, where appropriate:
2.2.1 Make timely voluntary counselling referrals through existing support services at the University. Such services include:

Counselling Service

Psychological Service Centre,
University Health Services

Faculty (of Medicine) Counselling Services.
2.2.2 Use the existing Student Discipline Bylaw and other policies, rules and regulations where additional action is necessary to deal with inappropriate or disruptive behaviour or students.

2.3 Procedure for More Extreme Behaviour

2.3.1 If a staff member is of the opinion that a student is exhibiting a behaviour of a nature of quality that likely will result in:
a) Serious harm to student,
b) Serious harm to another person, or
c) Substantial deterioration of the student's health;

The staff member shall, in addition to using the "Normal Procedure", immediately refer the matter to his/her respective Dean, Director, or Administrative Unit Head.
2.3.2 If the respective Dean, Director, or Administrative Unit Head is of the same opinion, he/she shall:
a) Advise the student to seek professional help; and
b) Contact the Director of University Health Services if the student refuses to voluntarily seek professional help. The Director of University Health Services or designate shall follow mental health legislation and regulations when determining whether or not involuntary psychiatric assessment is advisable.
c) In addition to the foregoing procedure, the Campus Police should be contacted immediately if it is deemed necessary for the protection of the student, other persons, or property. It should also be noted that, subject to the Student Discipline Bylaw, the President may at any time make an order restricting or prohibiting access by a student to any University property.

SECTION 10: Violent and Threatening Behaviour

1.0 Reason for Policy

The purpose of this Policy is to state clearly the University's refusal to tolerate violence in the workplace and on the University campus and to describe possible consequences of such action. It is believed that the Policy and the supporting Procedures represent a significant move towards the prevention of violence, as well as the management of a violent episode.

The issue of safety and health in the workplace with respect to violence is governed by provincial legislation and more specifically The Workplace Safety and Health Act (Manitoba) - Regulation 3217/2006 (the Regulation). The Regulation identifies certain responsibilities for employers and employees in this regard. A policy on violence in the workplace is required.

2.0 Policy Statement

The University of Manitoba is committed to creating and maintaining a safe, positive and productive learning and working environment. Therefore, the University will not tolerate violent or threatening behaviour. Individuals who are found to have engaged in activities prohibited under this Policy will be subject to disciplinary action which may result in termination of employment, expulsion from educational programs, a ban from university property, and any other remedies the University may be entitled to at law or otherwise.

2.1 Definitions and Interpretations

(a) Intimidation is defined as conduct or harassment that disrupts the work or learning environment and/or results in a reasonable fear for personal safety;

(f) Violent or Threatening Behaviour is behaviour that includes a combination of, or all of, the behaviour defined above as "Intimidation, Threats and Violence".
(g) Worker(s) includes:
i) any person who is employed by the University, to perform a service whether for gain or reward, or hope of gain or reward or not;
ii) any person who works or performs services in a Workplace which is owned or operated by the University;
iii) any person undergoing training or serving an apprenticeship at the University; and
iv) any individual described in the Procedure entitled "Employee Organizations and Employment Groups".

(i) Any references to legislation, committees or units within the University in this Policy shall be deemed to include successor or substitute legislation, committees or units, in their place thereof.

2.2 The following statements must be included in this Policy as a requirement of Regulation 3217. The University, as an employer,

(a) must ensure, so far as it is practicable, that no worker is subjected to violence in the Workplace;
(b) will take corrective action respecting any person under the employer's direction who subjects a Worker to Violence;
(c) will not disclose the name of a complainant to any person except where disclosure is
i) necessary in order to investigate the complaint;

ACADEMIC CALENDAR 2012-2013 b

SECTION 11: Hold Status

Students will be placed on "Hold Status" if they incur any type of outstanding obligation (either financial or otherwise) to the university or its associated faculties, schools, colleges or administrative units.

Some typical reasons for holds are:

- Outstanding fees or other unpaid university fees
- Outstanding library books and/or fines
- Parking fines
- Outstanding transcripts or documents required from other institutions
- Students records pending disciplinary action.

No administrative or academic services will be provided to students on Hold Status until the specific obligations have been met.

Students who have not cleared their Hold Status from previous registrations will not be permitted to register again until the hold has been cleared or permission to register has been obtained from the Office of the Vice-President (Administration)

General Academic Regulations

SECTION 1: Introduction

This chapter contains the regulations and requirements that apply to all students, regardless of faculty or school.

Each faculty and school has its own supplementary regulations and requirements. These are published in the faculty or school chapters of this Calendar. Some faculties and schools also have additional regulations and requirements governing their programs; these are available from the faculty or school.

It is the responsibility of each student to be familiar with the academic regulations and requirements of the University of Manitoba in general and of the specific academic regulations and requirements of their faculty or school of registration. Accordingly, students are asked to seek the advice of advisors in faculty and school general offices whenever there is any question concerning how specific regulations apply to their situations.

SECTION 2: Residence and Written English and Mathematics Requirements

2.1 Residence Requirements For Graduation, Each faculty and school recommends to the Senate the number of credit hours each student must complete in order to graduate from its programs. Senate also requires each student to complete a minimum number of credit hours at the University of Manitoba -- this is called the "residence requirement."

Unless otherwise stated in faculty and school chapters, the minimum residence requirement of the University of Manitoba is the work normally associated with one year in the case of programs of three years' duration, and two years for programs of four years' duration. Some faculties and schools may have additional residence requirements specified in their program regulations. However, in all cases, the residence requirement is assessed following an appraisal of the educational record of the student applying to transfer credits from another institution or applying to earn credits elsewhere on a letter of permission. The residence requirement is not reduced for students whose "challenge for credit" results in a passing grade.

2.2 University English and Mathematics Requirements for Undergraduate Students,

All students are required to complete, within the first 60 credit hours of their programs, a minimum of one three credit hour course with significant content in written English, and a minimum of one three credit hour course with significant content in mathematics.

Some degree programs have designated specific written English and mathematics courses to fulfil this requirement.

Some degree programs require that the written English and/or mathematics requirements be completed prior to admission.

See the program descriptions in the faculty and school chapters of this Calendar for details.

Exemptions to the Written English and Mathematics Requirement:

- All students with completed baccalaureate degrees and who transfer into any program to which these requirements apply.
- Registered Nurses entering the Bachelor of Nursing Program for Registered Nurses.
- Students admitted before the 1997-98 Regular Session.
- Written English exemption only: Students transferring from Université de Saint-Boniface who have completed a written French requirement (at the university) before transferring to the University of Manitoba will be deemed to have met the written English requirement.

2.3 Approved English and Mathematics Courses,

A complete list of all courses which satisfy the university written English and mathematics requirement is provided below. (On the web, students may search Course Attributes for courses that satisfy the written English and Mathematics requirements).

SECTION 3: Course Identification  \subsection*{3.1 Credit Hours (Cr.Hrs.),}

Each faculty and school develops courses for its degree credit programs, subject to Senate approval, and assigns a credit hour value to each course.

The credit hours for a course are expressed as a number associated with the course which indicates its relative weight. There is a correlation between class hours and credit hours (i.e., 6 credit hours $=3$ hours a week, two terms; and 3 credit hours $=3$ hours a week, one term).

For the purposes of registration, courses taught over two terms have been divided into two parts. Students registering for term spanning courses will receive one grade for the course and only when the second part is completed.

Prerequisite: If a course is prerequisite for a second course, the prerequisite must be met in order to begin the second course. To determine whether or not a course has a prerequisite, see the course descriptions in the chapter of the faculty or school offering the course. Normally, a minimum grade of " C " is required in all courses listed as prerequisites, except as otherwise noted in the course descriptions.

For some courses, the prerequisite may be completed before registering for the second course or may be taken concurrently with the second course. To determine if a course may be taken concurrently, see the course descriptions in the chapter of the faculty or school offering the course.

Corequisite: If a first course is a corequisite for a second course, the first course must be completed in the same term as the second course. To determine if a course has a corequisite, see the course descriptions in the chapter of the faculty or school offering the course.

3.2 Prerequisite and Corequisite Courses,

ACADEMIC CALENDAR 2012-2013 •

Where the sequence in which courses are taken is important, one course is stipulated as being prerequisite to another (e.g., Mathematics 1 may be prerequisite to Mathematics 2). Unless otherwise specified in the course description and/or in the regulations of any faculty or school, the prerequisite requirement is met if at least a passing grade (D) is earned in the course. If the course is failed, permission may be granted to repeat it concurrently with the course for which it is prerequisite. Some prerequisite courses may be taken concurrently. Check the course description for specific information.

Where a course is specified as a corequisite course, it must be taken at the same time as (or prior) to the course requiring it as a corequisite.

3.3 Course Numbers,

First Two to Four Characters

The two, three or four characters in every course number are a shortened version of the subject of the course.

Last Four Digits

At the University of Manitoba the last four digits of the course number reflect the level of contact with the subject.

For example:

ECON 1200 Principles of Economics Cr.Hrs. 6

ECON is the code for Economics.

1200 indicates that it is an introductory or entry level course.

If the course requires a laboratory, this will be shown following the credit hours immediately following the title.

For example:

BIOL 3242 Biodiversity: Vascular Flora of Manitoba Cr.Hrs. 3 (Lab Required)

The 2000, 3000, 4000 course numbers indicate the second, third, and fourth levels of university contact with a subject.

Numbers in the 5000 range are normally associated with pre-Master's work or courses in the Post Baccalaureate Diploma and the Post-Graduate Medical Education programs.

Courses numbered 6000-8000 are graduate courses of the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

Course numbers in the 9000 series are used to identify courses taken at the University of Winnipeg by students in the University of Manitoba/University of Winnipeg Joint Master's Programs. The 9000 numbers do not indicate the level of the course taken (see Graduate Calendar or University of Winnipeg Calendar).

In most cases, some correlation exists between the course number and a student's year of study; that is, students in the third year of a program will generally carry course loads comprised primarily of 3000 -level courses.

3.4 Other Course Information,

Courses with numbers that end in 0 or an even number are taught in English usually on the Fort Garry or Bannatyne campuses.

Courses with numbers that end in odd numbers are taught in French at Universitairé de Saint-Boniface.

SECTION 4: Grades and Grade Point Average Calculation

Final grades in most courses are expressed as letters, ranging from D , the lowest passing grade, to A+ the highest. Each letter grade has an assigned numerical value which is used to calculate grade point averages.

Some courses are graded on a pass/fail basis and because no numerical value is assigned to these courses, they do not affect grade point averages. Courses graded in this way are clearly identified in course descriptions and program outlines.

4.1 The Letter Grade System,

Letter Grade Grade Point Value

 ACADEMIC CALENDAR  2012-2013 •

| A+ | 4.5 |
| :--- | :--- |
| A | 4.0 |
| B+ | 3.5 |
| B | 3.0 |
| C+ | 2.5 |
| C | 2.0 |
| D | 1.0 |
| F | 0 |
| S |  |

The grade of " D " is regarded as marginal in most courses by all faculties and schools. It contributes to decreasing a term, degree or cumulative Grade Point Average to less than 2.0 The course in which " $D$ " standing is obtained need not be repeated except by probationary students in certain faculties or where a minimum grade of " C " is required in a prerequisite subject or to meet degree requirements. Courses graded "D" may be repeated for the purpose of improving a GPA. Students in doubt as to the status of their record should consult an advisor in their faculty or school.

For minimum grade levels, especially as they affect progression requirements, see the faculty or school regulations or consult an advisor.

4.2 Calculation of Grade Point Average, Quality Points

The quality points for a course are the product of the credit hours for the course and the grade point obtained by the student; e.g., 3 credit hours with a grade of " B " ( 3.0 points) = 3 credit hours $\times 3.0=9.0$ quality points.

Quality Point Total

The quality point total is the sum of quality points accumulated as students proceed through their program of studies.

Grade Point Average (GPA)

Cumulative Grade Point Average

The Cumulative GPA is the quality point total divided by the total number of credit hours attempted at the University of Manitoba and courses transferred from other institutions.

Degree Grade Point Average

The Degree grade point average is the Quality Point total divided by the total number of credit hours attempted at the University of Manitoba and courses transferred from other institutions for courses that are acceptable for credit in the current faculty or school.

Term Grade Point Average

The Term GPA is calculated on the basis of all final grades received in the term (eg. Fall, Winter, or Summer terms).

Repeated Courses

When a course has been repeated, the last grade achieved is that which will be used in the calculation of the GPA. (Students are normally permitted to repeat the same or equivalent course once). Admissions criteria and eligibility rules may vary by faculty with respect to inclusion and calculation of grades for repeated courses.

NOTE: Information on credit hours, courses, prerequisites and corequisites, is found in Appendix B of this chapter, entitled Course Identification.

4.3 Academic Honours,

Students qualify for the Dean's Honour List when they achieve qualifying grade point averages as specified in the faculty and school chapters of this Calendar or in program regulations.

In addition, outstanding academic achievement will qualify students for other honours and awards. These include the University Gold Medal which is awarded at graduation in each faculty or school to the student with the most outstanding academic record; program medals which are awarded by faculties and schools to the best student graduating from a specific program; graduation "with distinction," which is recorded on the transcripts of all students who attain a qualifying grade point average; and other medals and prizes that are specific to programs or disciplines.

SECTION 5: Academic Evaluation

5.1 Methods of Evaluation,

Within the first week of lectures, instructors must inform the class of the method of evaluation to be used in each course. See the Responsibilities of Academic Staff to Students Policy, in the chapter University Policies. In departments where a course is offered in more than one section, the department offering the course endeavours to provide instruction so that all sections cover similar topics and that all students achieve a similar level of competency in the topic. However, there will be differences in evaluation as well as in teaching style, readings and assignments from one section to another. Students may contact the department for additional information before registration.

5.1.1 Credit for Term Work

In subjects involving written examinations, laboratories, and term assignments, a student may be required to pass each component separately. If no final examination is scheduled in a course, the student's final grade will be determined on the basis of the method of evaluation as announced in the first week of lectures.

If credit is not given for term work, the student's final grade will be determined entirely by the results of the final written examination. Where the final grade is determined from the results of both term work and final examinations, the method of computing the final grade will be as announced within the first week of classes. Should a student write a deferred examination, term grades earned will normally be taken into account as set out in the immediately preceding paragraph.

5.1.2 Incomplete term work

A student who is unable to complete the term work prescribed in a course may apply to the instructor prior to the end of lectures for an incomplete grade and time extension for work completion. It is understood that the student is to write the final examination if one is scheduled for the course.

Taking into account the results of the final examination, the value of the term work completed, and the extent of the incomplete term work, the instructor shall calculate the temporary grade using a zero value for incomplete work. In no case will the satisfaction of the incomplete requirements cause a grade to be lowered.

The following maximum time extensions are allowed: August 1, for courses terminated in April; December 1, for courses terminated between May and August; April 1, for courses terminated in December. If a final grade is not reported within one month of the extension deadline, the letter "l" will be dropped, and the grade will remain as awarded. The student's opportunity to improve the grade will have lapsed.

5.1.3 Repeating a Course

Subject to faculty or school regulations, required courses graded "F" or "D" must be repeated, usually at the next opportunity. Elective courses graded "F" may either be repeated or another elective substituted. All electives in a program must be approved by the faculty or school.

When a course has been repeated, the last grade achieved is that which will be calculated in the GPA.

5.1.4 Probation and Academic Suspension

Failure to meet minimum levels of performance as specified in the regulations of the faculty or school will result in a student being placed either on probation or academic suspension in accordance with the faculty or school regulations.

A student's status is determined, following final examinations, at the end of each term (Fall, Winter or Summer terms) or at the end of an academic session as specified in faculty regulations. A student placed on probation is advised to discuss his/her program prior to the next registration with a representative of the dean or director to determine which courses, if any, should be repeated.

A student placed on academic suspension will normally be permitted to apply for re-entry to the faculty or school after one year has elapsed, but reinstatement is not automatic and individual faculty or school regulations must always be consulted.

While on suspension, students are not normally admissible to another faculty or school.

5.1.5 Release of Grades

Grades will be posted on the Aurora Student website when received. This may be a few days after classes for some courses and up to a few weeks after final examinations for others.

Students may access their grades through Aurora Student. Click on Enrolment and Academic Records, Student Records, Final Grades.

5.2 Examinations,

5.2.1 Examination Schedules

For most faculties/schools, final examinations are conducted in December for Fall Term courses; and in April/May for Winter Term and Fall/Winter Term courses. Check the Academic Schedule of the University for the exact time periods. A Preliminary Examination Timetable is posted approximately one month after the beginning of the term. The Final Examination Timetable, which contains the exact times and locations for each course and section, is posted by the Registrar's Office approximately six to eight weeks prior to each examination period. The examination timetable is available on the Registrar's Office Website (umanitoba.ca/registrar). Students must remain available until all examination and test obligations have been fulfilled.

5.2.2 Examination General Regulations

Any test(s) which have an aggregate value of more than $20 \%$ of the total value of the course may not be scheduled to take place during the 14 calendar days ending with the last day of classes in the term during the Fall/Winter Sessions as defined in the Calendar, or during the last two classes of Summer Evening and the last three classes of Summer terms.

No project or assignment may be announced during the periods outlined above, unless contained in the information required to be provided to all students during the first week of classes (See the Responsibilities of Academic Staff to Students in the chapter on Policies and Guidelines of the University).

5.2.3 Final Examinations

No final examinations or term or take home examinations shall be scheduled to occur prior to the examination periods as described in the Calendar except with the expressed consent of the deans and directors involved.

The weight of each question shall be clearly indicated on the examination paper.

The name of the instructor or the examination committee shall be clearly indicated on the examination paper

Students (with the exception of students auditing courses) are required to write all final examinations. Those who absent themselves without an acceptable reason will receive a grade classification of "NP" accompanied by a letter grade based on term work completed for the course using a zero value for incomplete term work and for the final examination. If no credit for term work is involved, a grade of "F" will be assigned. Under certain conditions a student may apply for a deferred examination; see Deferred Examinations.

Examinations are scheduled at the end of each term of registration.

Students are not permitted to leave an examination within the first 30 minutes and any student arriving more than 30 minutes after the commencement, but before the end, of a final examination scheduled by the Registrar's Office, might not be permitted to write that examination on the authority of the chief invigilator of the examination room.

Provided fairness is guaranteed beforehand, miniature electronic calculators shall be allowed during examinations, with the consent of the department.

Students are not permitted to bring in any unauthorized materials to an examination. This includes, but is not limited to, calculators, books, notes, or any electronic device capable of wireless communication and/or storing information (e.g. translator, cell phone, pager, PDA, MP3 units, etc.). However, students may bring in such material or devices when permission has been given by the instructor and/or the department or faculty.

Students are enouraged not to bring any valuables to the examination room. Items which you are prohibited from possessing during the test may be left at the front of the examination room. These items will not be secured, and the University accepts no responsibility for items lost or stolen from the examination room.

The use of audio visual supports (including, but not limited to overhead or slide projectors, and audio/visual tape players) to display examination or test questions shall be prohibited except where arrangements have been made to display all questions simultaneously for the entire examination/ test period or in courses where time limited identification is a legitimate and specified part of the examination/test process.

Answers to examination questions shall not be posted prior to the conclusion of the examination.

Final grades must be posted by faculties and schools (identifying students by student number only) as soon as the grades have been approved by the faculty/school/department (as appropriate) and have been submitted to the Registrar's Office. (This policy is under review).

5.2.4 Student Access to Final Examinations

In order to allow proper feedback, students shall have an opportunity to read their own final examination script and any comments written on it prior to the deadline for a formal grade appeal, but only in the presence of the instructor or a department-appointed staff member.

5.2.5 Special Examination - Religious Reasons

A student who, because of religious obligations, is unable to write a final examination when scheduled, shall be given an opportunity to write a special examination. The student is required to give reasonable notice (approximately three weeks) to the head of the department concerned prior to the examination series and to present evidence concerning the religious obligations involved.

5.2.6 Deferred Examinations

Policies and procedures with respect to deferred examinations are currently under review.

Students who miss a final examination and wish to apply for a deferred writing must apply to advising office of their faculty or school. University 1 students must contact the U1 Student Help Centre.

5.2.7 Supplemental Examinations

A limited number of faculties and schools permit a supplemental examination when a student has failed a course or failed to achieve a satisfactory result. Please refer to the section of the Calendar for your faculty or school for its policy on supplemental examinations. Where a faculty's or school's regulations permit supplemental examinations, students are normally notified of this privilege on their grade statements or by their faculty or school following publication of the grades. Students who are granted supplemental privileges are normally required to sit the examination within 30 working days from the end of the examination series in which the supplemental grade was received unless the progression rules of a faculty or school require the successful completion of an entire academic year before a student is eligible to proceed into the next. In this case, students are obliged to sit the examination at the next ensuing examination period.

The passing grade in a supplemental examination must be at least "C." Students are normally required to carry a fulltime program in order to be eligible. Accordingly, students who are granted incomplete or deferred status may not be eligible. A student may only write a supplemental once in any course; otherwise the course must be repeated.

Students are advised to check with faculty or school offices or consult an advisor as to specific regulations that may apply.

To write a supplemental examination an application must be made to the office of the dean or director and the appropriate fee paid. The application form will be forwarded to the Registrar's Office and the supplemental grade will be submitted following completion of the examination.

5.2.8 Special Supervision of Off-Campus Examinations

Students who have been given permission to write deferred or supplemental examinations off-campus may apply to the Registrar's Office to write at an approved centre outside of Winnipeg.

5.2.9 Examinations: Personations

A student who arranges for another individual to undertake or write any nature of examination for and on his/her behalf, as well as the individual who undertakes or writes the examination, will be subject to discipline under the university's Student Discipline Bylaw, which could lead to suspension or expulsion from the university. In addition, the Canadian Criminal Code treats the personation of a candidate at a competitive or qualifying examination held at a university as an offence punishable by summary conviction. Section 362 of the code provides:

Personation at Examination

Every one who falsely, with intent to gain advantage for him/herself or some other person, personates a candidate at a competitive or qualifying examination held under the authority of law or in connection with a university, college or school or who knowingly avails him/herself of the results of such personation is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction. 1953-54,c.51, s.347.

Both the personator and the individual who avails him/herself of the personation could be found guilty. Summary conviction could result in a fine being levied or up to two years of imprisonment.

5.3 Other Forms of Earning Degree Credit,

 5.3.1 Letter of Permission for Transfer of CreditStudents in degree programs at this university may take courses at other recognized colleges or universities for transfer of credit provided such courses are approved at least one month prior to the commencement of classes at the other institution by the faculty or school in which they are currently registered. The approval is subject to individual faculty/school regulations and is granted in the form of a Letter of Permission. The student must obtain a Letter of Permission whether or not the course/s being taken are for transfer of credit to the University of Manitoba. Failure to obtain a Letter of Permission may have serious academic implications.

To obtain a Letter of Permission, application must be made to the Registrar's Office as early as possible and at least one month prior to when required at the other institution.

Each application must be accompanied by the appropriate fee. The fees are for each application and a separate application is required for each session and institution regardless of the number of courses being considered. Students planning to seek permission to take courses elsewhere for transfer of credit to the University of Manitoba are cautioned to check the current Calendar for the residence and degree requirements of the degree programs in which they are enrolled.

Transferred courses will be given assigned credit hour values and grades. The transferred grade will be included in the student's degree and cumulative GPA.

5.3.2 Challenge for Credit

The purpose of Challenge for Credit is to provide students of the university with some means of obtaining academic credit in University of Manitoba courses (not otherwise obtainable as a transfer of credit from other institutions) for practical training and experience, or reading and study previously completed. Students who have registered to challenge would normally not attend classes or laboratories. Courses which have previously been taken at the University of Manitoba may not be challenged for credit.

To be eligible to challenge for credit a student must first be admitted to a faculty or school of the University of Manitoba. Eligible students will be required to demonstrate their competence in the courses which they are challenging for credit. Where formal, written examinations are required, these will be generally scheduled during the regular examination sessions in April/May, June, August, or December.

For information regarding requirements, procedures, applications and fees a student should contact the office of the faculty or school in which the student is enrolled, or in the case of new students, the faculty or school to which the new student has been admitted.

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

University of Manitoba

5.3.3 Transfer of Credit Between Programs within the University of Manitoba

When students transfer credits into their programs from another faculty or school within the University of Manitoba, the credit hour value used by the faculty or school offering the course is used. That is, there can only be one credit weight designated for a course with a particular course number.

SECTION 6: Appeals of Grades

6.1 Appeals of Grades Received for Term Work,

The appeal of term work returned or made available to students before the last day of classes shall be subject to the policies and procedures established by faculty or school councils.

Students may formally appeal a grade received for term work provided that the matter has been discussed with the instructor in the first instance in an attempt to resolve the issue without the need of formal appeal. Term work grades normally may be appealed up to ten working days after the grades for the term work have been made available to the student.

Students may obtain the form "Application for Appealing a Grade Given for Term Work" from the general office of the department which offered the course. The fee which is charged for each appealed term work grade will be refunded for any grade which is changed as a result of the appeal.

6.2 Appeal of Final Grades,

If a student has good reason to believe a mistake has been made in the assessment of the original grade, an appeal of the assigned grade may be made. A student may enter an appeal, through the Registrar's Office, for assessment of one or more grades following the posting of grades by the faculty/school/department. Grades are released by the Registrar's Office as they are received from faculties and schools. A student wishing to make a final grade appeal on a first term course grade must do so within 15 working days of the first day of classes for second term. For second term courses and full courses, the appeal must be made 15 working days following the Victoria Day Holiday.

Students wishing to appeal grades should contact the Registrar's Office to make application. The deadlines for grade appeals fall 15 working days from the first day of second term courses and 15 working days from the Victoria Day Holiday. For 2011-12, these dates are as follows:

Appeal of Fall Term Courses: on or before January 23, 2012

Appeal of Winter Term and Full Courses: on or before June 11, 2012

For more information, including fees, please consult umanitoba.ca/registrar.

The fee which is charged for each appealed grade will be refunded for any grade which is changed. It should be noted that an appealed grade may not be lowered. Appeal forms may be obtained from the Registrar's Office. Students should note that the deadline for appeal of assigned grades will not be extended for students who are on "hold status" nor will official grades be released by the Registrar's Office until the "hold" has been cleared.

6.3 Academic Appeals,

With the exception of decisions on admissions or disciplinary matters, all academic appeals from decisions of faculty or school appeals committees at the University of Manitoba or by the Comiteé d'appels at Universitairé de Saint-Boniface shall be heard by the Senate Appeals Committee regardless of the institute of registration of the student concerned.

The complete terms of reference for the Senate Committee on Appeals as well as an Appeal Form may be obtained from the Office of the University Secretary, 312
Administration Building or Student Advocacy/Student Resource Services, 519 University Centre.

SECTION 7: Attendance and Withdrawal  7.1 Attendance at Class and Debarment,

Regular attendance is expected of all students in all courses.
An instructor may initiate procedures to debar a student from attending classes and from final examinations and/or from receiving credit where unexcused absences exceed those permitted by the faculty or school regulations.

A student may be debarred from class, laboratories, and examinations by action of the dean/director for persistent non-attendance, failure to produce assignments to the satisfaction of the instructor, and/or unsafe clinical practice or practicum. Students so debarred will have failed that course.

7.2 Withdrawal from Courses and Programs, 7.2.1 Voluntary Withdrawal

The registration revision period extends two weeks from the first day of classes in both Fall and Winter terms. Courses dropped during this period shall not be regarded as withdrawals and shall not be recorded on official transcripts or student histories. The revision period is prorated for Summer terms and for parts of term.

After the registration revision period ends, voluntary withdrawals (VWs) will be recorded on official transcripts and student histories.

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

The following dates are deadlines for voluntary withdrawals:

- The Voluntary Withdrawal deadline shall be the 48th teaching day in both Fall and Winter term for those half-courses taught over the whole of each term;
- The Voluntary Withdrawal deadline for full-courses taught over both Fall and Winter term shall be the 48th teaching day of the Winter term; and
- The Voluntary Withdrawal deadline for full-and-half courses taught during Summer terms or during some other special schedule shall be calculated in a similar manner using a pro-rated number of teaching days.

The exact Voluntary Withdrawal dates that apply to courses offered in the current academic session are published in the Academic Schedule.

7.2.2 Authorized Withdrawal

Subject to the provision of satisfactory documentation to the faculty of registration, Authorized Withdrawals (AWs) may be permitted on medical or compassionate grounds.

7.2.3 Required Withdrawal from Professional Programs

Senate, at the request of some faculties and schools, has approved bylaws granting them the authority to require a student to withdraw on the basis of unsuitability for the practice of the profession to which the program of study leads.

This right may be exercised at any time throughout the academic year or following the results of examinations at the end of every year.

This right to require a student to withdraw prevails notwithstanding any other provisions in the academic regulations of the particular faculty or school regarding eligibility to proceed or repeat.

Where Senate has approved such a bylaw, that fact is indicated in the Calendar chapter for that faculty or school. A copy of the professional unsuitability bylaw may be obtained from the general office of the faculty or school.

SECTION 8: Academic Integrity

8.1 Plagiarism and Cheating,

Plagiarism or any other form of cheating in examinations, term tests or academic work is subject to serious academic penalty (e.g. suspension or expulsion from the faculty or university). Cheating in examinations or tests may take the form of copying from another student or bringing unauthorized materials into the exam room (e.g., crib notes, pagers or cell phones). Exam cheating can also include exam impersonation. (Please see Section 5.2.9/~/Catalog/ViewCatalog.aspx?pageid=viewcatalog&am p;catalogid=220&topicid=836237&topicgroupid=11 826&loaduseredits=trueon Exam Personation). A student found guilty of contributing to cheating in examinations or term assignments is also subject to serious academic penalty.

To plagiarize is to take ideas or words of another person and pass them off as one's own. In short, it is stealing something intangible rather than an object. Plagiarism applies to any written work, in traditional or electronic format, as well as orally or verbally presented work. Obviously it is not necessary to state the source of well known or easily verifiable facts, but students are expected to appropriately acknowledge the sources of ideas and expressions they use in their written work, whether quoted directly or paraphrased. This applies to diagrams, statistical tables and the like, as well as to written material, and materials or information from Internet sources.

To provide adequate and correct documentation is not only an indication of academic honesty but is also a courtesy which enables the reader to consult these sources with ease. Failure to provide appropriate citations constitutes plagiarism. It will also be considered plagiarism and/or cheating if a student submits a term paper written in whole or in part by someone other than him/herself, or copies the answer or answers of another student in any test, examination, or take-home assignment.

Working with other students on assignments, laboratory work, take-home tests, or on-line tests, when this is not permitted by the instructor, can constitute Inappropriate Collaboration and may be subject to penalty under the Student Discipline By-Law.

An assignment which is prepared and submitted for one course should not be used for a different course. This is called "duplicate submission" and represents a form of cheating because course requirements are expected to be fulfilled through original work for each course.

When in doubt about any practice, ask your professor or instructor.

The Student Advocacy Office, 519 University Centre, 4747423 , is a resource available to students dealing with Academic Integrity matters.

SECTION 9: Graduation and Convocation

If you need to change your graduation date after you have made your declaration, you must contact the general office of your faculty or school as soon as possible.

9.4 Receipt of Information about Graduation,

After you have declared your graduation, you will be sent a series of e-mails requesting you to verify your full legal name, asking you about your attendance at convocation, providing convocation information, and so on. It is imperative that you activate your University of Manitoba e-mail account and check it regularly.

9.5 Convocation,

Convocation ceremonies are held in May/June and October of each year. Correspondence with students who declare intention to graduate will be by email. Please be sure you have claimed your University of Manitoba computer account.

February graduates are included in the May ceremonies.

Graduating students are encouraged to attend with their families and friends because it is the one ceremonial occasion that marks the successful conclusion of their program of studies.

All prospective graduating students who apply for graduation will be asked to confirm by email their intention to attend Convocation.

Complete details of the time, location, and ceremony arrangements will be included in the material sent by email from the Convocation Office in the Office of Registrar.

Students who, for any reason, do not attend Convocation will receive their degrees in absentia.

The Registrar's Office will hold unclaimed parchments for a maximum of twelve months after graduation when any unclaimed parchments will be destroyed. These will include those not given at Convocation, those that were to be picked up in person but not claimed, those that were mailed but returned to the Registrar's Office by the postal outlet or courier depot, those that were not issued due to a financial hold on a student's records, and those that were reprinted immediately after convocation due to corrections.

It is critical that you update your address, phone number and email through Aurora whenever changes occur. Note that any changes made with the Alumni Association are not reflected in your University of Manitoba student records.

If you do not receive your parchment, it is your responsibility to follow up with the Registrar's Office within a twelve-month period. Any requests for parchments after this time will be processed as replacements; there is a fee charged for replacement parchments.

SECTION 1: Welcome

You are joining a vibrant community of over 27,000 students and 8,000 academic and support staff members that emphasizes excellence in teaching, learning, and research.

The University of Manitoba is a community of people who study, teach, conduct research, and create music and art, and whose ideas and accomplishments have an impact on our society and culture both here in Manitoba and in the wider world.

The University of Manitoba is the province's largest university and the first to be established in western Canada.

The majority of new University of Manitoba students will enter University 1, an innovative program that was specially designed to provide choice and flexibility. University 1 gives you the opportunity to begin your university studies with a year of personal and academic exploration. Advisors are available to provide academic advice and assistance. During the campus wide orientation that begins your first academic year, you will be introduced to the wide range of campus support services that can help you with all aspects of student life.

If you are joining the University of Manitoba after completing some college or university courses at another institution, you are equally welcome as you continue your studies.

This book, the Undergraduate Calendar, provides the basic information on admission requirements. More specific information on admission requirements and the application process can be found in the applications themselves and their accompanying guides and/or bulletins. These can be downloaded from our website at umanitoba.ca/admissions. In addition, there are advisors in the general offices of all academic units who are ready to answer your questions and to help you understand policies and regulations that affect you.

Again, welcome to the University of Manitoba. You are joining a large community of students and scholars, and when you graduate you will be joining an even larger community of graduates.

The University of Manitoba is honored to provide you with your education.

SECTION 2: An Overview of Undergraduate

Admission

The twenty-two faculties and schools of the University of Manitoba offer over 60 different undergraduate programs. Some of these programs are open to high school graduates, or to mature status applicants, while others require a year or more of university-level studies as preparation for admission.

There are several programs that offer direct entry options for qualified high school graduates, see Section 3: Direct Entry Options for the list of these programs. The majority of high school students applying to the University of Manitoba choose University 1, a first year program designed to provide a foundation for studies in Arts, Science, and the professional disciplines.

Many programs offer only an 'advanced entry' option and accept applications from students who have completed a year or more in university-level studies, either in University 1 (or another program at the University of Manitoba) or at another recognized university or college. These programs are listed in Section 4: Advanced Entry Options.

The programs offering the 'direct entry' option also offer an 'advanced entry' option for students who wish to start in University 1 and then select their degree program in second year.

In addition, students can also apply as Auditing, Visiting, or Special Students (see Section 5: Other Admission Categories). Usually students in these applicant categories will apply to General Studies (Extended Education) which they can take degree credit courses in a variety of disciplines to meet entrance requirements for a future degree application or to meet career development and personal goals.

The main criterion for admission for direct and advanced entry programs is the scholastic achievement of the student. In instances such as the Marcel A. Desautels Faculty of Music and the School of Art, additional criteria designed to assess the student's suitability for education are applied.

Most faculties and schools in the University of Manitoba have enrolment limitations, and a process of selection is applied by the university. In some programs the number of students applying for admission greatly exceeds the number which the university is able to admit. Selection, therefore, is based upon scholastic achievement and suitability for the discipline. In some faculties and schools first consideration is given to residents of Manitoba who are Canadian Citizens or Permanent Residents. A limited number of places may be assigned to Canadian Citizens or Permanent Residents who are resident outside Manitoba or to those who are not Canadian Citizens/Permanent Residents. The William and Catherine Booth College (approved teaching centre) and Université de Saint-Boniface (an affiliated college) are not limited in their enrolment, and interested students are directed to those institutions for information.

Many of the first-year level courses in mathematics and the sciences at the University of Manitoba will have high school subject prerequisites. These prerequisites are listed in the course descriptions sections of this calendar.

All applicants whose primary language is not English must fulfil the English language proficiency requirements described in Section 7: English Language Proficiency.

SECTION 3: Direct Entry Options

Comprehensive information on the entrance requirements, application process, and deadlines for each of these programs is found at www. umanitoba.ca/admissions.

The following faculties and schools offer direct entry programs which accept students graduating from Manitoba high schools (or the equivalent in other provinces/countries):

University 1

School of Agriculture (diploma program)
School of Art (Fine Arts studio degree programs)
School of Art (Fine Arts diploma program)
Asper School of Business
School of Dental Hygiene
Faculty of Engineering
General Studies (Extended Education)
Faculty of Human Ecology
Faculty of Kinesiology & Recreation Management (except Athletic Therapy)
Marcel A. Desautels Faculty of Music
Faculty of Science

Students applying from high school to a direct entry program must meet two levels of requirements:

- The general entrance requirements
- The specific subject and performance requirements of the program for which admission is sought.

Some University of Manitoba undergraduate courses, particularly mathematics and science courses, will have specific high school courses as prerequisites to register in these courses. These prerequisites may not be required for admission to the direct entry program, but are required for course registration. If students have not completed the necessary high school courses, they can complete a preparatory upgrading course at $U$ of $M$. See our website for listings of these high school prerequisites.

These programs also accept transfer students; see Section 4: Advanced Entry Options.

3.1 General Entrance Requirements,

3.1.1 Manitoba High School Students - General Entrance Requirements

Applicants must present Manitoba high school graduation, with five full credits at the Grade 12 level, in courses designated S (Specialized), G (General), or U (Dual Credit University), and with a minimum of three of these credits in S or $U$ courses. Manitoba and northwest Ontario (Thunder Bay and west) high school students will be selected on the basis of an average calculated on three courses specified by each faculty or school. Although the remaining courses offered will not be used in the computation of the average, each must bear at least a passing grade.

3.1.2 Other Canadian High School Students - General Entrance Requirements

The following certificates are usually accepted as equivalent to Manitoba high school standing and will, therefore, meet the university's general entrance requirements for students from that region.

Alberta: High school graduation with a minimum overall average of 60 percent on five acceptable Grade 12 credits .

British Columbia: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent or better over four acceptable Grade 12 credits.

New Brunswick: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent over six acceptable Grade 12 credits.

Newfoundland: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent over ten acceptable Grade 12 credits.

Northwest Territories: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent over five acceptable Grade 12 credits.

Nova Scotia: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent over five acceptable Grade 12 credits.

Nunavut: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent over five acceptable Grade 12 credits.

Ontario: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent over six Grade 12 U or M courses.

Prince Edward Island: High school graduation with a minimum average of 60 percent in a university entrance program.

Quebec: First-year CEGEP with satisfactory standing (normally a GPA of 2.0 or better or 65 percent or better).

4.1 Minimum Performance Standard of the University, The minimum performance requirement for entry to a postUniversity 1 level program at any faculty or school at the University of Manitoba is a cumulative grade point average (CGPA) of 2.0 (C). Students who do not meet this requirement may be considered for admission if they have achieved a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 2.0 (C) on all courses acceptable for credit in the faculty or school to which application is made. In this case, students must have at least 24 credit hours acceptable for credit. In addition to this university minimum performance requirement, students must meet any additional entrance requirements, performance levels, and selection criteria stipulated for the faculty or school of application.

Students who are currently on suspension at another postsecondary institution will not normally be considered for admission to the University of Manitoba.

Students are advised that selection processes are competitive and in many cases applicants must present adjusted grade point averages greater than the minimum level stated. See Section 4.2 below.

4.2 Minimum Performance Standards and Specific Requirements of the Faculty or School,

Each faculty and school has its own admission requirements and processes, including minimum performance standards and specific entrance requirements and restrictions, and this information is provided in the Applicant Information Bulletin posted on the University website (www.umanitoba/admissions). The introductory section of each faculty or school chapter provides a general overview of the admissions requirements, but for specific, comprehensive information on the entrance requirements and selection processes, students must review the Faculty's Applicant Information Bulletin posted on the website.

SECTION 5: Other Admission Categories

 5.1 Readmission, Continuing and Returning Students,All students who were admitted and who did not follow through with registration must apply for re-admission (www.umanitoba.ca/applynow).

Students who voluntarily withdraw from their first-year of studies must reapply for admission. The only exceptions are students in Agricultural and Food Science, Arts, General Studies, Human Ecology, Social Work, and University 1 who are permitted to reregister without re-applying for admission.

Former students who have attended other institutions since their last registration at the University of Manitoba must apply for re-admission, unless the other institution was attended on a letter of permission.

Students whose past registration was in the following faculties, but who have not been in attendance for one or more years, should seek formal permission to re-register from the office of the dean or director of the faculty or school concerned, to ensure that work previously completed complies with current program requirements: Agricultural and Food Sciences; Arts; General Studies (Extended Education); Engineering; Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources; Human Ecology; Science; Social Work; or University 1. Former students of the Faculty of Arts are required to re-apply for admission if they have been away from their studies for ten or more years.

All students who were admitted to the Asper School of Business, Dental Hygiene, Education, Environmental Design, School of Art, Nursing, Music, or Kinesiology & Recreation Management, where there is limited enrolment, and who have not been in attendance for one year or more, must make formal application to re-register to the office of the dean or director before June 1. Their acceptance back into the program will be subject to quota restrictions and compliance with existing program requirements.

Students who wish to change to a different faculty or school, or who are no longer eligible to continue in one program of studies at the University of Manitoba, may apply for admission to another faculty or school by the application deadline date and must meet the entrance requirements of the faculty of choice.

Students wishing to return to their program of studies after serving a period of academic or disciplinary suspension must make a formal request for re-registration to the Dean's or Director's office of their faculty or school. Students currently on suspension from a faculty or school at the University of Manitoba will not normally be eligible for consideration for admission to another faculty or school.

Students who attend another post-secondary institution or another faculty or school at the University after being placed on suspension must submit an application through the Admissions Office to be considered for readmission to the faculty or school of suspension.

Graduates who wish to take further courses in their own faculty, but not towards a degree, must apply for readmission as a "special student."

5.2 Special Students,

Special students are those who wish to enrol in a degree credit course for professional or personal interest and who are not seeking to complete a degree. These students apply to General Studies (Extended Education) or to the faculty or school offering the course.

No documentation other than the information requested on the application form is required for admission purposes. Auditing students are not entitled to examination or other evaluation privileges, and in no instance may credit standing be obtained for a course which has been audited. Once admitted, the written consent of the instructor of the course(s) which the student wishes to audit must be presented at the time of registration for approval by the faculty or school. (Students admitted in a category other than auditor may audit courses with the approval of the dean or director, provided written permission of the instructor is presented at registration.)

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

5.5 Students Transiting to Arts or Science from University $\mathbf{1}$,

University 1 students in good academic standing (see the University 1 section of this Calendar) may be admitted to either Arts or Science through a process called 'transiting', and are not required to complete the admission process through the regular application procedures. Students intending to transit to the Faculty of Arts or Science may do so prior to their next regular term of registration subject to the following conditions:

- Students in good academic standing who have completed at least 24 credit hours may choose to transit to the Faculty of Arts or Science.
- Students in good academic standing who have completed 30 credit hours or more in University 1 must choose to transit to Arts or Science, if not admitted to another faculty or school, prior to the next regular term of registration. Students will not normally transit for Summer Session.
- $\quad$ Students whose last assessment in University 1 was On Probation may be considered for entry to the Faculty of Arts or the Faculty of Science if a minimum GPA of 2.0 has been achieved on all courses acceptable for credit in the Faculty they intend to enter. In this case, students must have at least 24 credit hours acceptable for credit. Students requesting entry in this category must contact the Faculty of Arts or Science for further information
- Students who are currently on academic suspension from University 1 will not be eligible for transit to Arts or Science until the period of suspension has been completed.

Upon transit to the Faculty of Arts or Science, a student's next assessment of academic performance will be according to the standards required in Arts and Science. See the chapters for the Faculties of Arts or Science in this Calendar for further details.

SECTION 6: Admission with Advanced

Standing

Students who have previously attended a recognized postsecondary institution, including universities, colleges, community and/or technical colleges, and Bible Colleges, who are selected for admission to either a direct entry or an advanced entry program option may qualify for advanced standing. Advanced standing will be granted in compliance with the residence requirements, provided the work completed is part of the requirements of the degree program in which the student wishes to enrol. Some faculties and schools may consider only courses completed within ten (or fewer) years. Credit will be granted only for courses taken at a recognized institution. Standing cannot be determined until official transcripts and complete course descriptions have been received. Since it takes considerable time to have courses evaluated for transfer credit, students are urged to submit their results and course descriptions as early as possible in order that the evaluation process can be completed in time for registration. Students who do not have evaluations completed prior to registration should consult their faculty or school for guidance in selecting courses.

Transfer credit for each individual course will be evaluated by the appropriate University of Manitoba department and transfer credit will be granted subject to program applicability.

Further information on transfer of credit and residence requirement is found in the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements.

Students should consult the Admissions Office for information.Students admitted on the basis of high school graduation may be denied transfer of credit for any university studies completed between the filing of the application and subsequent registration at the University of Manitoba.

6.2 Students Applying from Bible Colleges,

Students who have attended a Bible college will be considered for admission/transfer credit, providing that:

- The U.S. Bible college holds regional accreditation in the U.S., or is accredited by ABHE.

Degrees from Bible Colleges will not qualify applicants for admission to second degree or after degree programs, with the exception of holders of approved degrees from Booth College and Providence College who are applying for admission to the After Degree Bachelor of Education program. These degrees may suffice for admission to the After Degree program; contact the Faculty for specific information.

Graduates of diploma schools of nursing may be considered admissible as regular students to the University of Manitoba.

Admission to specific faculties and schools will be with the consent of the dean or director and will be conditional upon the presence of specific subject fields within the program completed. ## SECTION 5: Recommended List of First Year Courses

SECTION 1: University 1

1.1 First Year Study in University 1,

University 1 is the first 30 credit hours of most University of Manitoba programs, and depending on choice of target faculty, may be completed through either full-time or parttime study. High school graduates, mature students, and transfer students with less than 24 credit hours of postsecondary education are normally admitted to University 1. A direct entry option exists for select faculties; please refer to the Admissions Chapter of this Calendar for details.

The courses taken in University 1 are introductory university level courses that are intended to qualify students to enter the target faculty of their choice. When students have completed 30 credit hours in University 1 and have a minimum cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.0, they must transit to the Faculty of Arts or the Faculty of Science or apply to another faculty or school where they complete its program requirements in order to graduate.

As outlined in the following sections the main pillars of University 1 are academic advising, academic support and academic orientation. For a more detailed description of University 1 please see the University 1 website at umanitoba.ca/u1.

1.2 The University 1 Student Help Centre,

The University 1 Student Help Centre is home to registration assistants and professionally trained Academic Advisors. Should difficulties arise in any area that would affect academic success the staff members of the University 1 Student Help Centre are available to help.

Academic Advisors typically assist students with program planning, registration difficulties, personal issues or concerns, and connecting students to other campus resources. Newly admitted students should complete the Online Registration Tutorials (see Section 4.1 in this chapter) prior to consulting with a University 1 Academic Advisor.

Please refer to the University 1 website: at umanitoba.ca/u1 for hours of operation and contact information.

1.3 ARTS 1110: Introduction to University,

ARTS 1110, Introduction to University is a three credit hour course offered by University 1. It is designed to help students make the transition from high school, college or work-place to university, and is normally only available to students who have completed fewer than 12 credit hours of university level courses. ARTS 1110 may help students adjust to university life more quickly, offering a unique combination of educational principles, practical skills, regular assignments, and the support of a group of fellow students. Features of ARTS 1110 include: strategies for academic success; introduction to libraries and research methods; exercises in critical thinking; and instruction and extensive practice in effective writing, from first draft to finished work. ARTS 1110 satisfies the university's written English requirement.

1.4 Orientation,

Making the transition from high school or another postsecondary institution can be overwhelming. Orientation provides students with the tools and information needed to start the year off strong and find success as a University of Manitoba student. All new students are strongly encouraged to attend the two-day Orientation at the beginning of the Fall Term.

During Orientation, homeroom groups of approximately 30 students, led by upper year $U$ of $M$ students, will attend study skills sessions, learn tips for academic success, become familiar with campus and the resources available to students, and find out how to get involved in the campus community. Students will also enjoy free entertainment, food, prizes and much more.

Information about Orientation will be sent to new students in August. (Students beginning their studies in the Winter Term will have the opportunity to attend Orientation in January. Information will be mailed accordingly.) For more information, please visit www.umanitoba.ca/orientation.

SECTION 2: Admission Requirements

Please see the Admissions chapter of this Calendar for a full description of the specific admission requirements to University 1.

2.1 Limited Admission,

Canadian high school graduates who do not meet the specific academic requirements for admission to University 1 may be admitted under a special Limited Admission category. Students in this category will have their registration restricted (see section 3.1) and will be provided with additional academic supports and services. For a full description of the Limited Admission program and requirements, please refer to umanitoba.ca/student/u1/advising/limited admission.htm.

SECTION 3: University 1 Academic Regulations

Academic regulations which apply to all students are described in the chapters in this Calendar titled 'General Academic Regulations', and 'University Policies'. In addition, University 1 and the faculties and schools offering University

1 courses have regulations and requirements that apply specifically to its students. The University 1 Academic Regulations are described below. Please see the specific Faculty or School chapter(s) for the academic regulations that may apply to courses in which you are registered.

3.1 Maximum Course Load,

University 1 students are normally restricted to a maximum of 30 credit hours during the Fall/Winter terms, with a maximum of five courses in each term. Students admitted under the Limited Admission category will be restricted to a maximum of 24 credit hours during the Fall/Winter terms, with a maximum of four courses in each term. In each case, a credit hour overload may be considered for Winter Term based on Fall Term performance. Contact the University 1 Student Help Centre to discuss course overload requests.

3.2 Repeating Courses,

University 1 students may repeat a course they have previously taken, but they are not required to do so because of a low grade or a VW, unless it is a course required for admission or required once in their target faculty. University 1 students who wish to repeat a course in which they have a final grade must consult with a University 1 Academic Advisor prior to registration. Students may be eligible for a laboratory exemption in classes they are repeating with a laboratory component (see Section 3.3 in this chapter).

For courses that have been repeated (i.e. 2nd attempt) only the last grade achieved will be counted towards the students' cumulative Grade Point Average. However, the official transcript will reflect the grades of all courses attempted. In most cases, students will only be given one opportunity to repeat a course in which they have received a final grade. This includes taking a course considered to be equivalent to the course originally attempted.

Students must refer to their target faculty or school's Applicant Information Bulletin to determine how repeating a course may affect admission eligibility.

3.3 Laboratory Exemptions,

University 1 students who are repeating a course with a laboratory component may qualify for a laboratory exemption. Laboratory exemptions are only granted if the lab portion of the course was passed. Only certain courses (usually courses in the Faculty of Science) offer laboratory exemptions. Students should see the general office of the department offering the course to determine if they are eligible for a laboratory exemption. Students who are eligible for a laboratory exemption should bring written permission from the department offering the course to the University 1 Student Help Centre prior to registration.

3.4 Academic Performance,

Grades obtained in University 1 become a part of the student's permanent record and will appear on the student's official transcript. See Section 4 of the General Academic Regulations chapter of this Calendar for a description of how Grade Point Averages (GPAs) are calculated. Grades earned while in University 1 will determine admission to most target faculties or schools.

Performance Level

University 1 students who have completed 12 credit hours or more will have their academic performance assessed informally as part of an Early Warning Program. Students with a cumulative GPA of less than 2.00 will be identified as part of the Early Warning Program which is designed to assist students at the earliest sign of academic difficulty by providing academic advising, support services, and strategic referrals with the goal of returning the student to good standing.

Formal academic assessments are performed following each term for all University 1 students who have completed 24 credit hours or more. As a result of this assessment students will be determined to be minimum met, on probation, or on academic suspension.

Minimum Met

University 1 students who have completed 24 credit hours or more must achieve a cumulative GPA of 2.00 or greater at each point of assessment in order to have met the minimum requirements of University 1 . Students considered to be minimum met may be eligible to enter their target faculty and are encouraged to contact their target faculty or a University 1 Academic Advisor for admission information.

Probation

Students who do not achieve a cumulative GPA of 2.00 after attempting a minimum of 24 credit hours will be placed on probation. The notation "On Probation" will be recorded on the student's transcript. Once on probation, a student will be allowed to register for another term. At each point of assessment (at the end of each term), students on probation must achieve a term GPA of 2.00 to be able to continue registering on probation. To clear probationary status the student's cumulative GPA must be 2.00 or higher. Once a student's cumulative GPA reaches 2.00 or higher they will have returned to good standing and will be able to register without restrictions.

While on probation, support services and referrals may be suggested in order to improve academic performance. Some restrictions on course load may apply. If the student does not achieve a term GPA of 2.00 in each term that they register while on probation, he/she will be placed on academic suspension for one calendar year (see below).

Please note students who are registered in spanned courses will be assessed at the end of each term in which they are registered. It is possible for a student to be placed on probation prior to completing a spanned course; however an assessment of academic suspension will not occur while a student is registered in a spanned course. Students on probation who are registered in spanned courses will continue on probation until the spanned course is complete, and may be placed on academic suspension at the end of the term in which the spanned course is complete if their term GPA is below 2.00.

Academic Suspension

A student will be placed on academic suspension after failing to achieve a minimum term GPA of 2.00 while on probation. A student placed on academic suspension in University 1 is normally not permitted to register in any other faculty or school at the University of Manitoba or to attend any other post-secondary institution for a period of one calendar year. All students placed on academic suspension are strongly encouraged to meet with a University 1 Academic Advisor to discuss possible alternatives to suspension. Students planning to return to studies once the term of the suspension has been served must meet with a University 1 Academic Advisor prior to registration for courses.

3.5 University 1 Honour List,

Students who achieve a term GPA of 3.50 or higher on a minimum of 12 credit hours will be placed on the University 1 Honour List. The University 1 Honour List will be calculated after each term (i.e. Fall, Winter, Summer).

The University 1 Honour List designation will appear on the student's transcript.

SECTION 4: University 1 Program

Requirements

4.1 Course Selection and Registration, Course selection information for University 1 students can be found in the Start Book, which describes in detail the courses and course selection options available to University 1 students. The list of courses available to University 1 students is also available in Section 5 of this chapter. With special permission, students may register for courses not on this list.

New University 1 students are strongly encouraged to complete the series of Online Registration Tutorials before registering for courses. The tutorials will teach students to use the Aurora Student registration system. Information about course selection, determining a course load, and building a timetable can be found on the University 1 website. Other registration related concerns, such as paying fees and obtaining a photo identification card can be found on the Registrar's Office website.

The Start Book and details about the Online Registration Tutorials will be distributed beginning in May and throughout the summer for students newly admitted to University 1 for the Fall Term; in the Fall for students admitted for the Winter Term; and in the Spring to students admitted for the Summer Term. Detailed registration information, including an online version of the Start Book, is also available at umanitoba.ca/u1.

4.2 University 1 Curriculum,

University 1 is normally the first $24-30$ credit hours of a student's degree program. The University 1 curriculum includes a breadth requirement to ensure that students are exposed to a representative sample of courses. To that end University 1 students are required to take 6 credit hours of courses from the Faculty of Arts, 6 credit hours of courses from the Faculty of Science, and 6 credit hours of courses from the Faculty of Arts or the Faculty of Science or the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. The remaining 12 credit hours of courses are to be chosen from the Recommended List of First Year Courses in the Start Book (also found in Section 5 of this chapter).

The University 1 curriculum will normally be fulfilled through the completion of the admission requirements to faculties and schools as outlined in this Calendar and in the Start Book. Students who are admitted to faculties and schools after University 1 and who have not completed the University 1 curriculum will complete the remaining requirements as part of their degree program. Additionally, students may be eligible to enter a faculty or school program once they have completed 24 credit hours, but must complete remaining University 1 coursework in their intended degree program (see Section 4.3 in this chapter).

4.3 Transfer to Faculties and Schools Following University 1,

Target faculties and schools that students may enter after University 1 have established minimum admission requirements. It is strongly advised that students pay attention to these requirements when choosing their courses in University 1. Target faculties and schools that admit students directly from University 1 require the completion of either 24 or 30 credit hours, depending on the program. There are often alternative courses that will fulfill admission requirements and, with careful planning, the University 1 course selection can qualify students for admission to more

SECTION 5: Recommended List of First Year Courses

Refer to Section 4 in this chapter for information about choosing courses in University 1. To find a description of the courses on this list, go to the chapter in this Calendar for the faculty or school that is offering the course. The chapters are in alphabetical order, and departments are listed alphabetically within each faculty or school chapter. Courses are listed in the department sections and sorted in numerical order.

than one program. Many target faculties and schools have also established a Focused Approach for choosing courses in University 1 that will allow students to complete their degree in the shortest possible time. Information about course requirements for each target faculty or school can be found in the Admission section in the chapter pertaining to each faculty or school in this Calendar, the Start Book, and in the Applicant Information Bulletin available on the Admissions website, or from the Enrolment Services Office, 424 University Centre.

Students who have completed 30 credit hours or more with a cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.0 must exit University 1 before registering in the next Fall/Winter Terms. Students with 30 credit hours or more who have not met specific academic standards are normally required to remain in University 1 until those standards are met. See Section 3.4 of this chapter for an explanation of University 1's academic standards.

Students who have completed 24 credit hours or more with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0 may be eligible to apply for admission to another faculty or school. Alternatively, students who have completed 24 to 29 credit hours with a cumulative GPA of 2.0 or higher may elect to remain in University 1 and register for a full course load.

Students who have completed 24 credit hours or more with a cumulative GPA of 1.99 or less may not be eligible for admission to a target faculty or school and would remain in University 1. Students should refer to University 1's academic standards as outlined in Section 3.4 of this chapter.

Students with less than 24 credit hours remain in University 1 for their next registration and may register for a full course load.

Note that not all courses listed in this section are offered every year. To determine which courses are offered in the current academic year refer to the class schedule and the University 1 Start Book. Students may be permitted to take courses not on this list with permission of the teaching faculty or school and University 1.

For a list of courses available at Université de Saint-Boniface see a University 1 Academic Advisor or refer to the Class Schedule

Faculty Overview

The Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences has earned a reputation for its high-calibre teaching programs and its friendly helpful staff. Students benefit not only from the expertise of staff in the Faculty, but also from the close proximity of other faculties on campus, federal research facilities, and a vibrant Winnipeg-based agricultural community.

Information on the Faculty's History, Vision and Mission Statements, Research, Programs, Centres, and Departments can be found on our website at: umanitoba.ca/afs.

Degree Programs

The B.Sc. degree programs in Agricultural and Food Sciences provide an applied science background for graduates to enter a range of professions. Students can choose degree specializations in Agribusiness, Agriculture (Agronomy, Animal Systems, Plant Biotechnology), Agroecology, or Food Science. The focus is on the agricultural industry with professions concerned with the production, processing and marketing of food and bioresources. However, the B.Sc. degree also provides students with the education to tackle a range of career opportunities beyond agriculture. Professional agriculturists hold positions in extension, resource management and conservation, teaching, research and business. Professional food science graduates hold similar positions related to food manufacturing and processing. Graduates from the faculty make important contributions to the economy and health of Canada and the world. The faculty also offers a two-year pre-veterinary program for students who plan to take the degree Doctor of Veterinary Medicine.

The two-year Agriculture Diploma program offers a practical education for persons interested in operating a farm or working in an agricultural business. Although many diploma graduates return to family farms after graduating, an increasing number of graduates can be found working for farm supply companies, feed companies, financial institutions and grain handling companies, as well as doing technical work for various government agencies.

The Agriculture Diploma program covers a wide range of agricultural subjects, from production through to marketing and business management. Communication and leadership skills also receive considerable emphasis. The program culminates in assignments and a major project that relate directly to the student's individual farm or business interests. The program extends over two winters. Classes begin in late September and end in early April to accommodate students with obligations to plant and harvest crops.

1.3 Professional Designations,

Graduates of the B.Sc. (Agriculture), B.Sc. (Agribusiness), B.Sc. (Agroecology) and B.Sc. (Food Science) degrees are eligible to practice agrology as members of the Manitoba Institute of Agrologists. An agrologist is a "person who is qualified to teach or to practice the science and art of agriculture or to conduct scientific experiments and research in relation thereto." The motto of the profession is Ciba ad Omnes (Food for All). B.Sc. (Food Science) graduates are eligible to become members of the Canadian Institute of Food Science and Technology (CIFST), a professional society associated with the manufacturing, processing and packaging of food.

SECTION 2: Admission Requirements

The following is a summary of the admission requirements. Equivalent academic courses completed at recognized universities elsewhere will be considered. ## First Year Agriculture: Brandon University

Brandon University offers the first year of the Agriculture degree program of the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences. Under arrangements between the two universities, students who complete the first-year Agriculture program at Brandon University may apply for admission with full credit into the second year programs of the University of Manitoba.

Transfers of Credit

School of Agriculture graduates who have obtained a GPA of 3.0 in the Agriculture Diploma program are eligible for 60 credit hours of transfer into the following degree programs: Bachelor of Science (Agribusiness), Bachelor of Science (Agroecology), Bachelor of Science (Agriculture) Agronomy or Animal Systems, when transferring into the same stream. If students choose to change streams it may not be possible to transfer the entire 60 credit hours due to program requirements; students should contact the Student Services Office for details. Grade will be transferred for those courses considered on a one-to-one basis (see below); the remaining credit hours will be transferred without grades. This transfer articulation is applicable to diploma graduates who have entered the degree program as of September 2005.

Students wishing to enter a degree program without the above qualifications will be evaluated on a course-by-course basis. Students should have a cumulative grade point average of 2.50 and a C+ or better in courses for which transfer is being considered.

The Bachelor of Science (Agriculture), Plant Biotechnology, and the Bachelor of Science (Food Science) are not part of this articulation. Students should contact the Student Services Office for details on transfer into these programs.

A Table of the Transfer of Credit courses between Diploma and Degree can be found at www.umanitoba.ca/afs. Students inquiring about transfer of credits should contact the Student Services Office at 474-9295.

Courses taken outside the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences or outside of the University of Manitoba may also qualify for credit towards the degree if the course content and the student's performance are deemed appropriate by the department concerned.
2.2 Admission Requirements for the Diploma Program, Diploma students enter directly to the Agriculture diploma program from high school; University 1 is not required.

Applicants for the incoming class of September 2012 should be high school graduates with Grade 12 standing in English, Mathematics, and one Science course - - normally one of Biology, Chemistry or Physics.

Applicants for the incoming class of September 2013 must hold Manitoba high school graduation with a minimum of five Grade 12 credits at the S (Specialized), G ( General) or U (Dual Credit-University) level, which include English 40S, Mathematics (40S or 45S) and a Science 40S. The minimum average over these three designated subjects is $60 \%$. The equivalent level of studies from other Canadian provinces or other countries will be accepted.

Students without a suitable high school standing may be admitted upon the recommendation of the Diploma Selection Committee. The committee will review each application and interview the applicant. The maturity, scholastic ability and agricultural experience of the applicant will be considered. Please contact the Academic Advisor (Diploma), Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences at (204) 474-6066, for further information.

Transfer of Credit

Courses taken within the degree program in the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences as well as outside the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences or outside of the University of Manitoba may also qualify for credit towards the diploma if the course content and the student's performance are deemed appropriate by the department concerned.

SECTION 3: Faculty Academic Regulations

3.1 Academic Regulations for Degree Program,

The B.Sc. (Agriculture), B.Sc. (Agribusiness), B.Sc. (Agroecology) and B.Sc.(Food Science) degree programs have the triple objectives of vocational, professional and cultural education. To fulfil the objectives, the degrees are offered in a program of study. Most courses in first year, which are taken in University 1 and some in second year, are prescribed. The remainder of second year courses and all courses in third and fourth years are determined by the program of study, and by the student's selection of elective courses.

It is strongly recommended that all students plan their coursework for third and fourth years before the end of their second academic year.

The provisions of the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, and the chapter, University Policies, apply to all students. In addition, the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences has regulations and requirements, published below, that apply specifically to its students. Supplementary academic regulations are on file in the general office. Admission information can be found in the Admissions chapter of this Calendar.

Scholastic Requirements

To obtain a B.Sc. (Agriculture), B.Sc. (Agribusiness), B.Sc. (Agroecology) or B.Sc. (Food Science) degree, a student must pass 120 credit hours normally comprised of 30 hours from University 1 and 90 hours in the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences (i.e., a total of 20 full-courses or the equivalent).

A maximum of 144 credit hours ( 24 full-courses or the equivalent) may be attempted to obtain the 120 credit hours.

A minimum passing grade of " $D$ " in prescribed courses is required of all students in the faculty.

Elective courses in which passing grades were not obtained need not be repeated.

A student's Grade Point Average (GPA) will be determined from the number of "effective" courses which apply at a particular stage. The effective courses consist of all courses passed in addition to all failures which have not been cleared or substituted for in the student's record.

Probational Standards

Academic Suspension Regulations

A student is placed on academic suspension when one of the following occurs:

- When a student fails to obtain 12 Weighted Grade Points in the first year program; or
- When a student fails to meet the probational standards after attempting a minimum of 24 credit hours while on probation; or
- When a student accumulates failures in excess of 24 credit hours.

Re-entry Regulations

A student must remain out of faculty for a period of one year and then apply for re-entry.

The student must complete at least 12 credit hours with a minimum Grade Point Average of 2.50 in courses approved by the faculty in the academic term or session in which reinstatement is being attempted.

The student loses credit for all courses in which a grade of " $D$ " was obtained prior to being reinstated.

The student is given credit for courses in which grades of " C " or better were obtained, as well as the courses attempted for reinstatement.

In order to graduate, students must obtain a minimum GPA of 2.0 calculated over the final 120 credit hours before graduation.

Residence Requirements of Degree Program

The residence requirements for the degrees offered by the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences, can be found in the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Policy.

Time Limits and Lapse of Credit

The normal maximum time allowed for the completion of the Agriculture degree programs is ten years from the date of first registration. A candidate for a degree will not be permitted to count toward that degree any courses taken more than ten year prior to the date of awarding the degree.

> Minimum GPA

The student is reinstated and placed in the category of "good academic standing."

A student who is placed on academic suspension for the second time, will not be permitted reinstatement in the faculty.

Appeals

Appeals of academic assessment of students must be submitted to the general office of the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences within 21 days of the date of notification of the action sent to the student.

Supplemental Exams

Supplemental Exams are not permitted in the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Science Degree Programs.

Re-registration of Returning Degree Students

All degree students who were previously admitted to the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences who have not been in attendance for one or more years must re-register through the Dean's Office. Application for re-registration must take place before July 1 for those students who wish to begin their studies in the Fall term and before November 1 for those students who wish to begin their studies in Winter Term. Students returning to the faculty will be subject to compliance with the current program requirements.

Graduation With Distinction: Degree Programs

The B.Sc. (Agriculture), B.Sc. (Agribusiness), B.Sc. (Agroecology), and the B.Sc. (Food Science) degrees with distinction will be awarded to students who have achieved a minimum degree GPA of 3.75 upon graduation.

Dean's Honour Roll

Students who have completed a minimum of 12 credit hours of study in either the Fall or Winter terms and who achieved a Term GPA of 3.50 or higher will be placed on the Dean's Honour Roll. Graduating students who achieved Dean's Honour Roll status in the previous term but complete less than 12 credit hours in their final term with a Term GPA of 3.5 or greater, will be eligible to remain on the Dean's Honour Roll.

Course Load Limits

A normal "course load" is 30 credit hours during the regular session, with 15 credit hours normally taken in each academic term. A student may attempt a maximum of 39 credit hours during the regular session, with not more than 21 credit hours in an academic term, provided the student is in a good academic standing and has completed at least 24 credit hours in the previous regular session.

University Written English and Mathematics Requirements

All students are required to complete the university written English and Mathematics requirement within the first 60 credit hours of their program. This requirement is described in the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements of this Calendar.

(NOTE: Technical Communications cannot be taken in University 1). The mathematics requirement can be met by completing MATH 1200 or MATH 1210 or MATH 1300 or MATH 1310 or MATH 1500 or MATH 1520, or STAT 1000.

3.2 Academic Regulations for Diploma Program, Requirements for Graduation

To qualify for the Diploma in Agriculture a student must have attained a cumulative GPA of at least 2.00 with a minimum grade of " $D$ " in courses totalling 93 credit hours including all those on the prescribed list. Elective courses in which failures were obtained may be substituted for and need not be repeated, except to help meet the requirements of the scholastic standards described previously.

Part-Time vs. Full-Time Status for Students

A student is considered to be equivalent to full-time if at least 60 per cent of the normal full-time course load is attempted in the academic term or session. (A normal full-time course load is usually 48-52 credit hours during the regular session.) A student will be allowed to take a partial course load with the permission of the Director of the School of Agriculture and the payment of pro-rated fees.

Transfers of Credit From Other Programs

Courses taken within the undergraduate degree programs of the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences can qualify for credit towards the Agriculture Diploma program. See Academic Regulations in the Degree section. Courses taken outside the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences or outside of the University of Manitoba can qualify for credit towards the Agriculture Diploma program if the course content and the student's performance are deemed appropriate by the department concerned.

Students who desire to receive such credit should contact the Academic Advisor of the School of Agriculture.

Agriculture Diploma to Degree Transfer of Credit Hours

School of Agriculture graduates who have obtained a GPA of 3.0 in the Agriculture Diploma program are eligible for 60 credit hours of transfer into the following degree programs: Bachelor of Science (Agribusiness), Bachelor of Science (Agroecology), Bachelor of Science (Agriculture) Agronomy or Animal Systems, when transferring into the same academic stream. If students choose to change streams it may not be possible to transfer the entire 60 credit hours due to program requirements; students should contact an Academic Advisor in the Student Services Office for details. Students wishing to enter a degree program without the above qualifications will be evaluated on a course-bycourse basis. This transfer articulation is applicable to diploma graduates who have entered the degree program as of September 2005.

Scholastic Standards

To maintain good academic standing a student must maintain a Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA) that meets or exceeds the minimum academic standards described in the table below. The standards are based on the total number of credit hours accumulated while in the Agriculture Diploma program, including courses taken during the term in question. A student who fails to meet the standard is placed on probation or on academic suspension.

Degree Credit Hours Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA)
$0--17$

18 -- 24
25-- 48
Over 48

NOTES:

1) Degree Credit Hours includes courses passed and failures not removed by supplemental exams or successful reattempts.
2) When both a final and supplemental exam are written the higher grade obtained will be used to determine Grade Point Averages.
3) A minimum of 18 credit hours must be attempted between successive determinations of standing. The minimum does not apply to students who graduate before completing an additional 18 credit hours.

Probational Standards and Academic Suspension Regulations

Suspension
1.60

Students on probation must improve their academic performance and regain good academic standing to avoid being suspended. Specifically, after an attempt of a minimum of 18 additional credit hours, students on probation are required to equal or exceed the probation standard in order to regain good academic standing, otherwise they will be placed on academic suspension.

A student on academic suspension is not allowed to register for the subsequent term of the regular academic session (a student suspended in January may not be reinstated until the following September; a student suspended in April may not be reinstated until the following January). Reinstatement requires the approval of the Director. Students should contact the Academic Advisor for further instructions. If reinstatement is granted, all courses from the student's previous attempt will be transferred, except those with a grade of "D" or "F" from their last term (the term during which the student was placed on suspension).

Appeals

Appeals of academic assessment of students must be submitted to the Director of the School of Agriculture within 21 days of the date of notification of the action sent to the student.

Supplemental Exams

Any student in good academic standing (i.e., not on probation or suspension; see previous table of Scholastic Standards) is eligible to write one supplemental exam during each academic session in a course in which an "F" was received. The student must have written the final exam. The supplemental exam shall be considered as a replacement for the final exam only, not for term work. The passing grade in supplementals must be at least " $C$ " (2.0). Students are normally required to carry a full-term program in order to be eligible. Accordingly, students who are granted incomplete or deferred status may not be eligible. When both a final and supplemental exams are written the higher grade obtained will be used to determine the final grade.

Supplemental Exams will be held in January for courses taken in the first term and in June for courses in the second term.

Time Limits and Lapse of Credit

The normal maximum time allowed for the completion of the Agriculture Diploma is five years from the date of first registration. A candidate for a Diploma in Agriculture will not be permitted to count toward that diploma any courses taken more than five years prior to the date of awarding the diploma.

Students who desire an exemption from this maximum must apply, in writing, to the Director.

Students registered in at least 36 credit hours and who obtain a sessional GPA of 3.50 or higher will be placed on the Dean's Honour roll.

Graduation with Distinction

The Diploma in Agriculture with Distinction will be awarded to Diploma students who obtain a cumulative GPA of 3.75 or better with 75 per cent of the courses taken within the Diploma in Agriculture.

3.3 Course Availability,

All courses listed in this Calendar are not offered every year. The course(s) offered for the current academic term are published in the Class Schedule.

4.1.3 Bachelor of Science (Agribusiness),  Chair: B. Oleson

Office: 356 Agriculture Building
Telephone: (204) 474-9384
Program Advisor: G. Johnson
Office: 379 Agriculture Building
Telephone: (204) 474-9795

Agribusiness students specialize in the people component of agriculture. This begins with the consumer, ends with the producer and involves all those along the food chain. Food production and distribution is undertaken in a business environment and agribusiness is the study of decision-making within this setting. Graduates gain insight into the agribusiness environment through mastering concepts in economics, finance, marketing and management. In addition to the faculty core courses, all students are required to take the B.Sc. (Agribusiness) degree core requirements. Students in Agribusiness are not required to take University 1 Chemistry as part of the Faculty Core requirement.

Through the choice of restricted electives, students will specialize in either agricultural economics, agribusiness management or international agribusiness. The respective agricultural economics, agribusiness management or international agribusiness options involve selecting restricted electives from courses offered by either the Department of Economics, or the Faculty of Management, or the Faculty of Arts through their cross-disciplinary programs.

Students selecting an option in agricultural economics can declare a minor in economics, and by meeting the additional requirements can qualify for a major in economics as well.

The international agribusiness option involves taking a minor in one of the cross disciplinary programs in the Faculty of Arts. International agribusiness requires knowledge of languages, cultures, and international political history, in addition to the other business skills required by the B.Sc. (Agribusiness) degree.

The Agroecology program, which students enter after completing University 1, provides students with an understanding of the natural processes in the agroecosystem and the impact of agricultural practices on these processes. The program emphasizes three areas: ecological sciences, agricultural production, and the social and economic implications of environmental management.

University of Manitoba

Students will develop an understanding of how to manage natural and agricultural resources in a manner that enhances economic production while maintaining the integrity of natural and agricultural environments. An undergraduate research project is completed during third and fourth years as part of AGEC 3510 and AGEC AGEC 4550 . Graduates are prepared for careers at the technical and management levels in government and non-government agencies involved in planning and management of natural and agricultural resources. By appropriate choice of free elective courses, students can prepare for graduate studies.

In addition to the courses prescribed in the faculty core for all students in the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences, the following courses are prescribed for students in the program leading to the B.Sc. Agroecology.

The B.Sc. degree program in Food Science, which students enter into after completing University 1, provides the academic foundation of knowledge and skills for the wide range of activities in food science and technology. The degree program is structured in course offerings and content to enhance the competence of graduating students by providing greater emphasis in communications, critical thinking, computer literacy and statistics which are basic requirements of a modern professional environment. The B.Sc. degree program in Food Science is accredited by the Institute of Food Technologists (IFT).

The B.Sc. (Food Science) degree program offers two options: A Science Option and a Business Option. Students will elect one of two options of study. Both Food Science options require students to complete the Faculty Core courses. A description of each program and their requirements follows after the B.Sc. Food Science Degree Core.

4.2 Pre-Veterinary Program

A pre-veterinary program is offered to students who plan to take the degree Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. Pre-veterinary students whose academic standing is acceptable may be admitted to the Western College of Veterinary Medicine (WCVM), University of Saskatchewan. Acceptance into the Western College of Veterinary Medicine from the pre-veterinary program at the University of Manitoba is normally restricted to residents of Manitoba. Students from outside Manitoba may be accepted as residents of their own province or country. Students entering the pre-veterinary program are responsible for establishing their residence status.

Western College of Veterinary Medicine, Saskatoon

Two full years of university training are required for admission comprised of 30 hours from University 1 and 30 hours in the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences, during which credit must be secured in the number of courses considered a standard load in the curriculum in which they are obtained. The deadline for applications is December.

The program of Pre-Veterinary study must include six (6) credit hours of: English*, three (3) credit hours in Physics, Biochemistry, Microbiology, six (6) credit hours of Mathematics or Statistics; nine (9) credit hours in Biology or Zoology (including three (3) credit hours in genetics), Chemistry (including three (3) credit hours in organic chemistry); plus electives sufficient to complete two full years. (*This requirement can also be met by taking AGRI 2030 Technical Communications, and one half course in philosophy.)

A Management Minor is offered by the Asper School of Business; Agriculture, Agroecology and Food Science students may complete this minor (this minor is not available to Agribusiness students). The Minor consists of 18 credit hours of Management courses. Students must meet prerequisites for all courses. Completion of a Minor is optional. It should be noted that planning for completion of a Minor should be done early in the program, ideally before 90 credit hours have been completed, due to restricted opportunities for courses later in the program. All $2^{\text {nd }}$ program majors must be declared before 75 credit hours of study have been completed.

4.5 Cooperative Education Program

Cooperative Education/Job Placement Officer: Laura Lazo
Office: 160 Agriculture Building
Telephone: (204) 474-6943
Cooperative Education is a process of learning, which formally integrates the student's academic study with work experience in employer organizations. Work-related experience is found in industry, government and the farming profession. The work terms provide the students with practical experience, help to finance their education and provide guidance for further career specialization. All regulations governing regular Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences degree and diploma programs apply to the Cooperative Education Program.

Academic Term Requirements

Once having been accepted into the Cooperative Education program there are three requirements for completion of the Work Term(s). Failure to do any of them in a timely fashion will result in a failing grade. Please note the Degree Program requires three four month work terms and the Diploma Program requires one five month Work Term. Please see each program's "Employment Term Requirements" for details.

Part way through the work term, the Cooperative Education Coordinator will contact the student for a work site evaluation. During the evaluation both the student and employer will be interviewed and the work assessed. The student will need to make him/herself available for the interview.

Two weeks after the end of the work term, a work term report is due and must be submitted to the Cooperative Education Coordinator. Both content and format will be marked. (Details as to format and what is required in the report can be found in "Guidelines for Cooperative Education Work Term Report" which can be obtained from the Cooperative Education Coordinator.)

Also, two weeks after the end of the work term, a post employment review is required to be submitted to the Cooperative Education Coordinator.

For Degree, the appropriate department head, in consultation with the student's program chair, will assign each participating student a faculty advisor. For Diploma, the Director of the School of Agriculture, in consultation with the Academic Advisor, will assign each participating student a faculty advisor. The faculty advisor will be responsible for evaluating the student's work term report and assigning the student a grade based on the report, the employer's evaluation and Cooperative Education Coordinator's site evaluation. Grades of "Pass" or "Fail" will be assigned. Students successfully completing the work term(s) will have their "Cooperative Education Option" acknowledged on their graduation parchment.

Degree Program

Admission: To be considered for admission in the Cooperative Education Program, an undergraduate degree student must have a minimum GPA of 2.5 , have completed at least 75 credit hours of study by the end of the academic year of application but still need to complete 21 credit hours in their last year of academic study.

Students are advised that satisfying the entrance requirements does not guarantee a place in the Cooperative Education Program. Acceptance into the program is dependant upon the student receiving a job placement through the Cooperative Education Office.

Employment Term Requirements: The Cooperative Education Program is a five year program in which 12 months are spent in three-four month work terms with a faculty approved employer. The student will receive three credits for completing the Cooperative Education Program (one credit for each completed term). Students are required to register in the appropriate employment term course and pay the fee prior to starting the employment term. Normally each employment term will be completed with a different employer. While on a work term, a cooperative education student is not permitted to take more that six hours of academic credit and may not take more than one course at a time.

Diploma Program

Admission: To be considered for admission in the Cooperative Education Program, a first year diploma student must have a minimum GPA of 2.5, and have completed at least 47 credit hour of studies by the end of the academic year of application.

Students are advised that satisfying the entrance requirements does not guarantee a place in the Cooperative Education Program. Acceptance into the program is dependant upon the student receiving a job placement through the Cooperative Education Office.

Employment Term Requirements: The Cooperative Education Program is a five month program between the first and second year with a faculty-approved employer. The student will receive two credits for completing the Cooperative Education Program. Students are required to register in the employment term course and pay the fee prior to starting the employment term.

General Information

Introduction to the Faculty of Architecture,
The teaching of architecture began in 1913 as a four-year degree program within the Faculty of Arts. In 1920 the program became a part of the newly established Faculty of Engineering and Architecture. In 1938 a three year diploma program in interior decoration was established. In 1945 the departments of Architecture and Interior Decoration were combined in the School of Architecture and Fine Arts. In 1948 the entire school was reorganized as the School of Architecture. The professional architecture degree became a five year program; and a new four year Bachelor of Interior Design degree was also introduced. In 1949 a one year graduate program in Community Planning was established. In 1957 the Manitoba Legislature approved a grant for the construction of a building for the School of Architecture, the first in Canada to be designed exclusively for architecture education. In 1963 the school was reconstituted as the Faculty of Architecture and a two-year graduate program leading to the degree, Master of City Planning, was introduced.

In 1966 the curriculum in Architecture was reorganized so that the degree, Bachelor of Environmental Studies, became the prerequisite for the professional programs in Architecture and Landscape Architecture. This was followed in 1970 with a new curriculum leading to the professional degree, Master of Architecture, and two years later with new curriculum leading to a Master of Landscape Architecture. In 1990 an admissions year of 30 credit hours of Arts and Sciences courses became a prerequisite for entry into Environmental Design.

In 1998 the Bachelor of Environmental Design (B.Env.D.) became an undergraduate program consisting of two years of shared design studies followed by a third year in one of the 'professional options'. These options included Architecture, City Planning, Interior Design, and Landscape Architecture. University 1 was introduced as a prerequisite for admission to the Environmental Design Program. In 2006 the Faculty of Architecture began to reform the Environmental Design Program to create a four year undergraduate design program by including University 1 in its curriculum offerings. In 2007 the Faculty of Architecture introduced a four year design program consisting of two years of common 'Foundation Studies' (ED1/U1 and ED2) followed by two years of pre-professional 'Intermediate Studies' years (ED3 and ED4). The third and fourth years are referred to as the 'Option Years' and include Architecture, Interior Environments and Landscape + Urbanism (a shared option between City Planning and Landscape Architecture).

The B.Env.D. program is envisioned as a strong multidisciplinary undergraduate degree in its own right. It provides a solid base of design education for students intending to pursue careers and/or graduate studies in a wide variety of disciplines, including the Faculty's Master's degrees in Architecture, City Planning, Interior Design and Landscape Architecture, and at other institutions globally.

Available Options

Effective September 2008, the Bachelor of Environmental Design Degree Program has been reformed to require students to declare a specific program Option after the second year of studies (ED2) in the Environmental Design Program. Of the approximately 100 students moving into the third year of studies (ED3), admission into the Options will be divided equally. Students will be required to rank their progam options in order of preference ( $1^{\text {st }}, 2^{\text {nd }}, 3^{\text {rd }}$ choice). The selection of students into these Options will be based on the GPA, a Portfolio and Statement of Intent. Students entering the program should be aware that entry into the Options will be assigned on a competitive basis, and that not all students may be successfully placed in their first choice. Students who have not completed $2^{\text {nd }}$ year studios or who still have more than 1 three credit hour lecture course to complete will not be eligible for admission into the Option years.

Architecture Option

The Architecture Option offers a program of studies that focuses on transforming the lessons of history, technology, culture, the environment, and regional and social aspirations into a program for architecture. Students have the academic freedom, one of the program's highlights, to experiment with ideas and methods as they develop their own personal and critical approaches to architectural design. The sequential design studios and supporting courses cover a wide spectrum of investigations ranging in scale from urban design to individual buildings to their construction details, examining the impact of all of these on the environment.

Interior Environments Option (not available to AMP students)

The Interior Environments Option provides an opportunity to study the design of interior spaces within the context of architecture and to investigate the design of objects within the contexts of the human body and interior spaces. Students enrol in a series of design studios and courses to explore the impact of interior environments on human beings and vice versa. The impact of technology - especially sustainable strategies - on buildings and their inhabitants is also studied.

Landscape + Urbanism Option (not available to AMP students)

The departments of Landscape Architecture and City Planning offer a joint option in Landscape + Urbanism for students who have a broad interest in understanding and shaping human settlement and habitat. Design studios and supporting courses recognize that we live in an increasingly globalized world where issues of natural resource depletion, climate change and the demand for sustainable development are paramount. Design and planning issues are addressed within the social, economic, and political contexts that drive development and of the cultural and ecological forces that create the built envronment.

Available Streams (only available to AMP students)

AMP students entering either Stream One or Stream Two of the program will enter into the Architecture Option years three (AMP 1's) or four (AMP 2's) as outlined above.

SECTION 2: Admission Requirements

2.1 Bachelor of Environmental Design (B.Env.D),

To be considered for admission into the Bachelor of Environmental Design Program an applicant must have completed 30 credit hours of university-level coursework with an overall minimum adjusted grade point average of 2.50. For a detailed outline of the admission requirements please see our web site at umanitoba.ca/environmentaldesign.

2.2 Bachelor of Environmental Design - Architecture

 Masters Preparation Program (AMP),Enrollment in the Environmental Design Masters Preparation Program is competitive and limited. Students will be admitted on the basis of an annual selection process. Applicants satisfying the minimum academic requirements are eligible for consideration at the discretion of the Department of Architecture Admissions Selection Committee. For a detailed list of the admission requirements please see our web site at umanitoba.ca/architecture.

SECTION 3: Faculty Academic Regulations

 3.1 Undergraduate Scholastic Standards, A Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.00 is required as an acceptable standard of performance.A minimum grade of ' $C$ ' is required to pass all courses offered by the Environmental Design Program and by the Departments within the Faculty. All courses offered by the Environmental Design Program stipulate a grade of " C " in the prerequisite course(s).

To be eligible for the degree of Bachelor of Environmental Design a student is required to complete a minimum of two full academic years of studies in the Environmental Design Program including Years 3 and 4 .

3.2 Supplementary Regulations,

Special regulations governing admission, attendance, withdrawals, examinations, grading procedures and curriculum requirements are on file in the general office of the Environmental Design Program, Faculty of Architecture.

SECTION 4: Program and Graduation Requirements

4.1 Bachelor of Environmental Design

The Bachelor of Environmental Design Degree is a four year program of studies consisting of two years of common 'Foundation Studies' (ED1/U1 andED2) followed by two years of 'pre-professional 'Intermediate Studies' (ED3 and ED4). The third and fourth years are referred to as the 'Option Years' and include Architecture, Interior Environments and Landscape + Urbanism (a shared option between City Planning and Landscape Architecture). Typically students entering the Environmental Design Program are admitted after completion of the admission requirements.

3.3 Dean's Honour List,

Students who achieve a term GPA of 4.0 or better, while registered in 80 per cent of a full course load will be included in the Dean's Honour List for the Faculty of Architecture.

The Foundation Studies of the Environmental Design Program provide a solid grounding in the basic knowledge and language shared by all of the environmental design disciplines. It also provides opportunity to develop interdisciplinary perspectives through the other academic units in the University of Manitoba. Students come to understand the holistic nature of environmental design and, at an early stage, begin to establish a rich and multidisciplinary dialogue with their peers in the Faculty of Architecture. It also enables students to discover their strengths and interests relating to a particular environmental design discipline.

The Intermediate Studies of the Environmental Design Program provide opportunities to pursue a specific professional design discipline including Architecture, City Planning, Interior Design and Landscape Architecture. The third and fourth years are spent studying in the Option Years where students are exposed to, and challenged by, academic and professional design theories and practices specific to a particular design discipline.

Overall, the curriculum is structured around a design studio sequence that provides a forum for exploring the complex relationships between humans and the natural and built environments that constitute the places and artifacts of cultural production. Over a four year period, a student will develop the necessary knowledge and skills to pursue work in a wide variety of design practices.

The professional options are an important curriculum link to the graduate programs. Students holding a B.Env.D degree are eligible to apply to the graduate departments of Architecture, City Planning, Interior Design and Landscape Architecture and to other graduate programs globally. Students who have completed a design degree may be eligible to apply to the graduate program. Interested students should consult the Graduate Calendar, Faculty of Architecture.

In order to be eligible for the Bachelor of Environmental Design Degree students must complete ED2, ED3 and ED4 (total 99 credit hours). Admission enrollment is limited to 100 students on a competitive basis.

These programs provide a general cultural background as well as the technical education necessary to become an educator, or a professional creative artist in fine art or applied fields. The programs reflect the assumption that in a time of fluctuating cultural values, technical training alone is not sufficient for significant work in any branch of the arts.

The first two years offer basic instruction in the fundamental principles of drawing, design and representation. In the fine arts studio electives in second year, the student selects a program that provides specialization in one or more of the following: ceramics, drawing, graphic design, painting, photography, print media, sculpture and video.

The School of Art offers two Honours Degree Programs, Graphic Design and Studio. In order to be transferred from the General Degree to either of the Honours Degree

SECTION 2: Faculty of Arts B.A. General, Advanced or Honours Degree Programs

Admission to the Faculty of Arts B.A. General, Advanced or Honours Degree Programs,
The following is a summary of the admission requirements. All admission requirements, as well as application deadline dates and forms, are included in the Faculty of Arts Applicant Information Bulletin that is available from the Admissions Office, Enrolment Services, 424 University Centre; this information is also posted on the University of Manitoba's website.

Completion of a minimum of 24 credit hours of university level courses is required. Depending on the academic performance on the courses acceptable for credit, students may be admitted to or transit into the Faculty in good standing or on academic warning.

At the point of admission or transfer to the Faculty of Arts all students proceeding to an undergraduate B.A.Degree are automatically in the General Degree Program. Subsequently, students may apply through the Faculty of Arts General Office for admission to either the Advanced Degree Program or the Honours Degree program.

The specific requirements for the General, Advanced and Honours Degree programs are given in Section 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs.

Each department and program outlines its entry and requirements in Section 8: Departments in, and Programs and Courses Offered by, the Faculty of Arts.

2.1 Direct Entry from High School for September 2013,

 Effective September 2013, eligible students may apply to enter the Faculty of Arts upon completion of a high school diploma. Eligible students must meet the criteria listed below:- Manitoba high school graduation, with five full credits at the Grade 12 level, in courses designated S (Specialized), G (General), or U (Dual Credit-University), or the equivalent standard from other provinces and countries will be considered.
- Must have a minimum average of $85 \%$ in three Grade 12 S or $U$ credits and a minimum grade of $60 \%$ in each of the three credits.
- One of the three credits included in the minimum average of $85 \%$ must be Grade 12 S or U English.

Note: High school mathematics is NOT required for admission to the Faculty of Arts. However, it is recommended students complete either applied mathematics or pre-calculus within the Manitoba high school curriculum, or equivalent, to facilitate their ability to fulfill the University's "M" (or "mathematics") requirement for graduation.

2.2 Admission from University 1,

University 1 students in good standing ( 2.00 cumulative grade point average) may transit to the Faculty of Arts or Science subject to the following conditions:

- Students in good standing who have completed at least 24 credit hours may choose to transit to the Faculty of Arts or Science.
- Students in good standing who have completed 30 credit hours or more of courses must choose to transit to Arts or Science, if not admitted to another faculty or school, prior to the next regular term of registration.
- Students who have completed 24 credit hours or more and who have not achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00 may be eligible for special consideration and therefore should contact the Faculty of Arts for further information on transitting upon "Recommendation of the Dean."
- Students who have exceeded 30 credit hours of "F" grades or have more than a combined 42 credit hours of "F" and "D" grades are not admissible. Students may contact the Faculty of Arts for further information and advice.

2.3 Admission as a Transfer Student,

Students transferring to the Faculty of Arts from another faculty or school at the University of Manitoba are called "internal transfers." Students transferring to the Faculty of Arts from another university or college are called "external transfers."

Transfer students must apply for admission to the Faculty of Arts at the Ad-missions Office or on-line at www.umanitoba.ca/applynow by the application deadline date.

For the University of Manitoba's general policy on external transfer students and advanced standing, see the chapter on Admission to the University of Manitoba in this Calendar.

Students who apply to transfer to the Faculty of Arts must have completed no fewer than 24 credit hours of university level coursework and must have achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00. Students who have completed 24 credit hours or more and who have not achieved at least a 2.00 cumulative grade point average may be eligible for special consideration and should contact the Faculty of Arts for information and advice. Students who have exceeded the maximum number of "F" and "D" grades permitted on courses acceptable for credit in Arts (see Section 5.10) will be considered for admission only if they have served the equivalent of a one year suspension.

Anyone who has been placed on academic suspension by another faculty, school, or external institution will not normally be admissible if less than one year has elapsed since he/she had been placed on suspension. The waiting period will be increased to two years if the student has been placed on suspension more than once in consecutive years. For information regarding transfer credit see Sections 5.2.1 and 5.2.2.
2.4 Admission as a Student Seeking a Second Degree, A student who holds an undergraduate degree from a recognized university program may apply for admission to pursue a second undergraduate degree. For information regarding possible transfer credit see Section 5.14.

2.5 Admission as a Visiting Student,

A "visiting" student is one who is pursuing a degree at another institution and whose basis of admission is a Letter of Permission from his/her home institution granting permission to register at the University of Manitoba. Previously admitted visiting students can register in a subsequent term without applying for admission, provided they have a Letter of Permission and have not changed their home institution. Certain restrictions may be placed on the kind and number of courses in which they will be allowed to register.

2.6 Admission as a Special Student,

A student who holds a first degree and who wishes to take courses out of interest may apply for admission as a "special" student.

SECTION 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours

Degree Programs

Section 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs, For academic regulations related to graduate degrees, see the Graduate Calendar of the Faculty of Graduate Studies. For academic regulations per-taining to the following degrees, Baccalauréat ès Arts (Latin-Philosophie), Baccalauréat ès Arts (Spécialisé en français), and Baccalauréat ès Arts (Spé-cialisé en traduction), which are also offered under the Faculty of Arts but with instruction available only at Université de Saint-Boniface, see the Annuaire of the Université de Saint-Boniface.

Students are encouraged, prior to reading the faculty regulations which follow, to review the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, in this Academic Calendar.

It is highly recommended that all students entering the Faculty of Arts to pursue a General, Advanced or Honours Degree complete six credit hours in each of five different subject fields within the first 30 credit hours, and that, if possible, they include among those courses the subject fields in which they will probably specialize because future choices may be limited by the initial choice of courses a student makes. Also, students must meet a subject field requirement to qualify for entrance to both the Advanced and Honours programs (see Sec-tion 3.2 and 3.3).

Combinations of courses for the Major, Minor and Honours programs, other than those listed, may be permitted with written consent of the department head or program coordinator and consent from the Faculty of Arts General Office. Similarly, Honours courses may be taken by students in the General or Advanced Major programs with the written consent of the department head or program coordinator.

3.1 General Degree Program, 3.1.1 Its General Purpose

The General Degree in the Faculty of Arts involves taking courses in what are traditionally referred to as the "liberal" arts. The goal of a liberal arts education is to provide students with an education in the humanities and social sciences and at the same time prepare them for future careers. An Arts education is intended to provide students with "employability skills" that are highly valued by employers and needed in the contemporary workplace. Some of these skills include reading, writing, listening, speaking effectively, knowledge of language, critical thinking, problem solving, basic numeracy, information literacy, and an appreciation of our cultural, political, and economic milieu.

The General Degree would not normally prepare students for graduate studies. Most graduate programs require students complete a four year degree. Therefore students interested in a graduate program should complete the Bachelor of Arts Advanced or Honours Degree Program following discussion with a departmental graduate program advisor.

3.1.2 Entrance into the B.A. General Degree Program

1) At the point of admission or transfer to the Faculty of Arts all students proceeding to an undergraduate B.A. Degree are automatically in the General Degree Program.
Subsequently, students may apply through the Faculty of Arts General Office for admission to either the Advanced Degree Program or the Honours Degree program.
2) All students who have completed 30 credit hours of coursework are encouraged to declare a Major and a Minor. Once the Major(s) or Minor is declared it can be changed to a different subject field at some later registration. Students may also declare a second or Double Major in lieu of a Minor. Students who want to declare a Double Major must complete a Double Major declaration form available in the Faculty of Arts General Office or on the Faculty of Arts website. Students should note that for entry into most Majors/Minors, the faculty requirement is a grade of " C " or better in the prerequisite course(s).

For entry into a Major(s)/Minor requiring courses from more than one department, the faculty requirement is an average of "C" or better in all courses which are eligible to count towards the Major(s)/Minor.

For detailed information regarding entry and specific course requirements for Majors and Minors, see the specific listing for the relevant department in Sections 8 and 9 of this Calendar.

Students who have not declared a Major or Minor by the time 60 credit hours of coursework have been completed, will not be able to continue registration until a Major/Minor is declared.

3.1.3 Requirements for Continuing in the B.A. General Degree Program

1) By the time students complete 60 credit hours, they should have six credit hours in each of five different subject fields.
2) Students admitted to the Faculty of Arts, must by the time they have com-pleted 60 credit hours have successfully completed or be registered for at least three credit hours in a course with significant content in written English and at least three credit hours in a course in mathematics. (See the Chapter General Academic Regulations and Requirements, Appendix A: List of Approved Written English and Mathematics Courses, or search Aurora Student for the course attributes "Written English Requirement" or "Mathematics Requirement.")
3) Students must meet the minimum performance level as outlined in Section 5.10.

3.1.4 Ten Faculty Requirements for Graduating with a B.A. General Degree

1) A student must successfully complete 90 credit hours of courses acceptable for credit in the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.2) with a minimum grade point average of 2.00 (i.e. "C" or better) on these 90 credit hours.

The 90 credit hours of passed coursework must include the remaining nine faculty requirements.
2) There must be at least six credit hours from subject fields designated Humanities and at least six credit hours from subject fields designated Social Science, and at least six credit hours from subject fields offered by the Faculty of Sci-ence (see Section 5.1.1).
3) There must be at least six credit hours completed in each of five different subject fields (as listed in Section 5.1.1). In addition, a subject field may also satisfy other Bachelor of Arts Degree requirements such as Humanities, or Social Sciences, or Sciences, or Mathematics, or Written English.
4) Major: There must be 30 credit hours which constitute a Major in one of the subject fields approved by the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.1.1). The student must also have a cumulative grade point average of 2.00 (i.e. "C") or better in courses where a final grade is recorded and that are used toward the Major including only the last grade of any course that has been repeated and excluding any failed course(s). A student who declares only one Major must also complete a Minor. A student who declares a Double Major will not be required or allowed to complete a Minor, but must complete five full course equivalents as specified by the Major department (i.e. 30 hours of credit in each subject field). Students who have questions about a Major in a particular subject are strongly urged to consult an instructor in the appropriate department. A Major may be declared once the prerequisite is satisfied.

Students who declare and complete a Major in Global Political Economy will not be required nor allowed to complete a separate field for a Minor for purposes of satisfying the degree requirements.
5) Minor: There must be 18 credit hours which are in a subject field that is different from that of the declared Major, and which constitute a Minor in one of the subject fields approved by the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.1.1). A student who declares only one Major must also complete a Minor. A student who declares a Double Major will not be required nor allowed to complete a Minor. A Minor may be declared once the prerequisite has been satisfied. A student who has 18 credit hours in more than one subject field can declare only one of them as a Minor (that is, it is not possible to declare a "Double Minor"). No course can be used to satisfy both the Major(s) and the Minor requirement. A Minor may be declared once the prerequisite is satisfied.
6) There must be at least 30 credit hours of coursework taken and successfully completed outside the Major(s) and Minor subject fields. In addition, there must be at least 12 credit hours of coursework taken and successfully completed in any subject acceptable for credit in the Faculty of Arts including courses in the Major(s) and Minor. Note: Students who complete a Double Major will satisfy this 12 credit hour requirement within their Double Major.
7) Normally, a student's Major and Minor cannot be from the same department. (For details on these six exceptions, see the departmental listings in Section 8 for Classics; English, Film, and Theatre; French, Spanish and Italian; German and Slavic Studies; Judaic Studies; and Native Studies.)
8) There must be at least 60 credit hours that have been taught by the Faculty of Arts (may include up to 24 credit hours from the Department of Mathematics, Marcel A. Desautels Faculty of Music List A or Art History courses considered as Humanities, see Section 5.1.1), or which have been accepted on transfer as equivalent to courses taught by the Faculty of Arts.
9) There must be at least 30 credit hours numbered at or above the 2000 level.
10) Residency Requirement: A student in the B.A. General Degree Program must complete University of Manitoba residency requirements (see Section 5.3 for details).

3.2 Advanced Degree Program, 3.2.1 Its General Purpose

This program is intended primarily to serve students who desire a general education along with a reasonable degree of specialization in one area of study through the Major. The Advanced Degree in the Faculty of Arts involves taking courses in what are traditionally referred to as the "liberal" arts. The goal of a liberal arts education is to provide students with an education in the humanities and social sciences and at the same time prepare them for future careers. An Arts education is intended to provide students with "employability skills" that are highly valued by employers and needed in the contemporary workplace. Some of these skills include: reading, writing, listening, speaking effectively, knowledge of language, critical thinking, problem solving, basic numeracy, information literacy, and an appreciation of our cultural, political, and economic milieu.

While most graduate programs require students complete an Honours Degree, it may be possible to enter a graduate program on the basis of the Advanced Degree. Students should discuss this possibility with a departmental graduate program advisor.

3.2.2 Entrance to the B.A. Advanced Degree Program

1) To enter an Advanced Degree Program, a student must have successfully completed six credit hours in each of four different subject fields (see Section 5.1.1), and also complete an application form which is available in the Faculty of Arts General Office or on-line at http://umanitoba.ca/faculties/arts/student/index.html and have it approved by an academic advisor.

Once admitted to the Faculty of Arts it is possible to enter this program at any point up to one month prior to graduation provided the student has successfully completed six credit hours in each of four different subject fields.
2) All students are required, upon entering the Advanced Degree Program, to declare a Major and Minor. Students may also declare a second or Double Advanced Major in lieu of a Minor. Students who want to declare a Double Advanced Major must complete a Double Advanced Major declaration form available in the Faculty of Arts General Office or on the Faculty of Arts website. Students should note that for entry into a Major(s) requiring courses from only one department, the faculty requirement is a grade of "C" or better in the prerequisite course(s).

For entry into a Major(s) requiring courses from more than one department, the faculty requirement is that the student must have an average of " C " or better in all courses which are eligible to count towards the Major.

For additional information regarding entrance into Majors (such as which courses are eligible for counting as fulfilling the Major) see the specific list-ing for the relevant department in Sections 8 and 9. Students with questions about an Advanced Major in a particular subject should consult an instructor in the appropriate department.
3) For entry to the Minor a grade of " $C$ " or better in the prerequisite course(s) is required.

3.2.3 Requirements for Continuing in the B.A. Advanced Degree Program

1) Students admitted to the Faculty of Arts, must by the time they have completed 60 credit hours have successfully completed or be registered for at least three credit hours in a course with significant content in written English and at least three credit hours in a course in mathematics. (See the Chapter General Academic Regulations and Requirements, Appendix A: List of Approved Written English and Mathematics Courses, or search Aurora Student for the course attributes "Written English Requirement" or "Mathematics Requirement.")
2) Students must meet the minimum performance level as outlined in Section 5.10.

3.2.4 Ten Faculty Requirements for Graduating with a B.A. Advanced Degree

1) A student must successfully complete 120 credit hours from among the courses acceptable for credit in the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.2), with a minimum grade point average of 2.00 (i.e. "C" or better) on these 120 credit hours. (Students who choose to complete a Double Advanced Major will be required to complete more than 120 credit hours.)

The 120 credit hours of passed coursework must include the remaining nine faculty requirements.
2) There must be at least six credit hours in Humanities subject fields and at least six credit hours in Social Science subject fields, and at least six credit hours in courses taught by the Faculty of Science (see Section 5.1.1).
3) There must be at least six credit hours completed in each of five different subject fields (as listed in Section 5.1.1). In addition, a subject field may also satisfy other Bachelor of Arts requirements such as Humanities, or Social Sciences, or Sciences, or Mathematics, or Written English.
4) Major: There must be at least 48 credit hours which constitute a Major in one of the subject fields approved by the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.1.1). The student must have a grade point average of 2.00 (i.e. " C ") or better in courses where a final grade is recorded that are used toward the Major including only the last grade of any course that has been repeated and excluding any failed course(s). A student who declares only one Advanced Major must also complete a Minor. A student who declares a Double Advanced Major will not be required nor allowed to complete a Minor, but must complete the Double Advanced Major in accordance with the requirements as specified by the Major department. A Major may be declared once the prerequisite has been satisfied.

Note: Not every department offers an Advanced Major. See the departmental listings in Sections 8 and 9 for information.

Students with an Advanced Major in Global Political Economy will not be required nor allowed to complete a Minor for purposes of satisfying the degree requirements.
5) Minor: There must be 18 credit hours in a field that is different from the Advanced Major, and which constitute a Minor in one of the subject fields approved by the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.1.1). A student who declares only one Advanced Major must also complete a Minor. A student who declares a Double Advanced Major will not be required nor allowed to complete a Minor. No course can be used to satisfy both the Advanced Major(s) and the Minor requirement. A student having 18 credit hours in more than one subject field can declare only one of them as his/her Minor. A Minor may be declared once the prerequisite has been satisfied.
6) A student who declares a single Advanced Major with a Minor must have at least 42 credit hours in subjects other than those used towards the Advanced Major and Minor subject fields. Similarly, a student who declares a Double Advanced Major must have at least 42 credit hours in subjects other than those used towards their Double Advanced Major subject fields. In addition, there must be at least 12 credit hours of coursework taken and successfully completed in any subject acceptable for credit in the Faculty of Arts including courses in the Major and Minor. Note: Students who complete a Double Advanced Major will satisfy this 12 credit hour requirement within their double Major.
7) Normally, a student's Advanced Major and Minor cannot be from the same department. (For exceptions, see the departmental listings, in Section 8, for Classics; English, Film and Theatre; French, Spanish and Italian; German and Slavic Studies; Judaic Studies; and Native Studies.)
8) There must be at least 81 credit hours that have been taught by the Faculty of Arts (may include up to 36 credit hours from the Department of Mathematics, Marcel A. Desautels Faculty of Music List A or Art History courses considered as Humanities, see Section 5.1.1), or which have been accepted on transfer as equivalent to courses taught by the Faculty of Arts.
9) There must be at least 42 credit hours numbered at or above the 2000 level.
10) Residency Requirement: A student in the B.A. Advanced Degree Program must complete University of Manitoba residency requirements (see Section 5.3 for details).

3.3 Honours Degree Program, 3.3.1 Its General Purpose

This program is designed to provide a high degree of specialization in a subject field. The entrance requirements and evaluation of performance are at a higher level than the General or Advanced Degree programs. The Honours Degree program is the preferred program for students seeking entrance to graduate study.

3.3.2 Entrance to the B.A. Honours Degree Program

To enter an Honours Degree program, a student must complete an application form which is available in the Faculty of Arts General Office. Students must have successfully completed six credit hours in each of four different subject fields (see Section 5.1.1), with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 (3.25 for entry to Psychology) on all courses including failed and repeated courses. In addition, students are to have a grade point average of 3.0 ( 3.25 for entry to Psychology) or better in all course(s) in the intended Honours subject field(s) including failed and repeated courses. Students applying for Honours History must have a grade of " $B$ " or higher in all 3000 and 4000 level History courses.

3.3.3 Requirements for Continuing in the B.A. Honours Degree Program

1) Prior to each registration, Honours students must have their courses approved by the department in person, and then by the Faculty of Arts General Office, and cannot make any subsequent changes without receiving prior permission from their department and the Faculty General Office.
2) Students admitted to the Faculty of Arts, must by the time they have completed 60 credit hours have successfully completed or be registered for at least three credit hours in a course with significant content in written English and at least three credit hours in a course in mathematics. (See the Chapter General Academic Regulations and Requirements, Appendix A: List of Approved Written English and Mathematics Courses, or search Aurora Student for the course attributes "Written English Requirement" or "Mathematics Requirement.").
3) To continue in an Honours Degree program, the student must maintain a degree grade point average of 3.0 ( 3.25 for Psychology) at each point of assessment on all courses where a final grade is recorded (as well as meet any additional departmental requirements there may be). In order to continue in Honours History students must also maintain a " B " grade or higher in each History course at the 3000 and 4000 levels.

Students who fail to maintain the required minimum degree grade point average are required to withdraw from the Honours Degree program. They will be automatically placed in the General Degree Program and will have the following academic assessment permanently recorded on their transcript: "Required to Withdraw from the Honours Program." These students may be eligible to apply to the Advanced Degree Program.

3.3.4 Four Faculty Requirements for Graduating with a B.A. Honours Degree

It should be noted that not every department has an Honours Degree program. For specific information on available single and Double Honours, please consult the specific listing for the relevant department in Section 8.

Note: Students in an Honours Degree program who satisfy the requirements for a Minor (in accordance with the Minor requirements listed under the B.A. General Degree; Section 3.1.4, point 5 - Minor) may request to have the Minor recorded on their transcript. These students must come to the Faculty of Arts General Office to formally declare their intention to have their Minor recorded on their transcript.

1) The number of credit hours which a student must successfully complete in order to receive an Honours Degree ranges from 108 to 120, depending on the specific requirements of the individual department. Information on the specific course requirements for the individual departments will be found in Section 8.
2) In order to graduate a student in the B.A. Honours Degree program must satisfy the University of Manitoba residency requirements (see Section 5.3 for details) and attain a minimum degree grade point average of 3.0 on all coursework where a final grade is recorded.
3) Included among the courses presented for graduation there is to be at least six credit hours completed in each of five different subject fields (as listed in Section 5.1.1).
4) Among the courses presented for graduation there must be at least six credit hours in Humanities subject fields and six credit hours in Social Science subject fields, and at least six credit hours in courses offered by the Faculty of Science (see Section 5.1.1).

SECTION 4: Admission Requirements and Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. Integrated Studies (B.A.I.S.) Degree  Program

4.1 General Purpose,

The Bachelor of Arts Integrated Studies is a 90 credit hour degree program which is geared to serve working adults who have completed some post secondary education. ### 4.3 General Structure of the B.A.I.S. Degree Program,

The Bachelor of Arts Integrated Studies Program is comprised of 90 credit hours divided into three components: Foundation Courses ( 21 credit hours), Area of Concentration ( 18 credit hours) and options ( 51 credit hours).

Foundation Courses

Students may not substitute another course for a Foundation course.

Area of Concentration

Each student must complete the course requirements of at least one Concentration. For purposes of this degree program all Minor programs offered by the Faculty of Arts will be referred to as Concentrations. All Concentrations consist of 18 credit hours of required or specified courses. There are some Concentrations that are not offered as Minors. For a listing of the Minors and Concentrations offered by the respective departments in the Faculty of Arts, please see Section 1.2 and also refer to the departmental entries in Section 8 and 9. For entry into most Concentrations, the faculty requirement is that the student must have a grade of " C " or better in the prerequisite course(s).

University of Manitoba

A student in the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program may also fulfill the requirements of a Concentration by completing the specified requirements of Minor programs offered by other Faculties and Schools providing the Minor consists of a minimum of 18 credit hours. A Minor program offered by other Faculties/Schools will be referred to as a Concentration for purposes of the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program. For details on such Concentration (Minor) programs please refer to the relevant Faculty/School's chapter in the Academic Calendar.

A Concentration may be declared once the prerequisite has been satisfied. A course that satisfies the Foundation requirement of the program cannot also be used towards a Concentration. An alternate course/credit hours within the Concentration field must be completed. For example, if PSYC 1200 (6) is taken to satisfy the Foundation requirement, and the student has chosen to complete a Psychology Concentration, then PSYC 1200 will not form part of the 18 credit hours required for the Concentration. The student will complete an additional 6 credit hours of other Psychology courses in lieu of PSYC 1200.

Students who wish to take additional courses from a second Concentration may do so within their elective component. Students who complete the requirements of a second Concentration may submit a written request to the Dean's Office to have a second Concentration recorded on their transcript.

Options

Students must complete 51 credit hours of options outside the Foundation courses and those courses used to satisfy an area of Concentration.

4.4 Requirements for Continuing in the B.A.I.S. Degree

 Program,1) By the time students complete 60 credit hours, they must normally have three credit hours in each of five different subject fields.
2) Students must by the time they have completed 60 credit hours have successfully completed or be registered for at least three credit hours in a course with significant content in written English and at least three credit hours in a course in mathematics. (See the Chapter in the Undergraduate Calendar entitled General Academic Regulations and Requirements, Appendix A: List of Approved Written English and Mathematics Courses, or search Aurora Student for the course attributes "Written English Requirement" or "Mathematics Requirement."
3) Students must meet the minimum performance level as outlined in Section 5.10.

4.5 Eight Faculty Requirements for Graduating with a

B.A.I.S. Degree,

1) A student must successfully complete 90 credit hours of coursework acceptable for credit in the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.2) with a minimum grade point average of 2.00 (i.e. "C" or better) on these 90 credit hours.

The 90 credit hours of passed coursework must include the remaining seven faculty requirements.
2) There must be six credit hours from subject fields designated Humanities and six credit hours from subject fields designated Social Science, and six credit hours from subject fields offered by the Faculty of Science (see Section 5.1.1).
3) There must be at least three credit hours completed in each of five different subject fields (as listed in Section 5.1.1). In addition, a subject field may also satisfy other B.A.I.S requirements such as Humanities, or Social Sciences, or Sciences, or Mathematics, or Written English.
4) Concentration: There must be 18 credit hours which constitute a Concentration in one of the subject fields approved by the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.1.1) or by other Faculties and Schools. A Concentration may be declared once the prerequisite has been satisfied. A student who has 18 credit hours in more than one subject field can declare only one of them as a Concentration. No course can be used to satisfy both a Foundation requirement and the Concentration requirement. A student who has completed the requirements for a second Concentration may apply at the Faculty of Arts General Office to have the second Concentration recorded on their transcript.
5) There must be at least 51 credit hours of options which are taken and successfully completed in subject fields outside the Foundation and Concentration courses.
6) There must be at least 30 credit hours that have been taught by the Faculty of Arts (may include up to 12 credit hours from the Department of Mathematics, Marcel A. Desautels Faculty of Music List A or Art History courses considered as Humanities, see Section 5.1.1) or which have been accepted on transfer as equivalent to courses taught by the Faculty of Arts.
7) There must be at least 15 credit hours numbered at or above the 2000 level plus 6 credit hours at or above the 3000 level.
8) Residency Requirement: A student in the B.A. Integrated Studies degree program must complete University of Manitoba residency requirements (see Section 5.3 for details).
4.6 Additional Faculty Regulations and Policies, Students in the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program are subject to the regulations and policies found in Section 5, Section 6, Section 7, Section 8 and Section 9.

SECTION 5: Additional Faculty Regulations  and Policies Applicable to All Degree

Programs in the Faculty of Arts
5.1 Recognized Subject Fields,
5.1.1 Five-subject Field Requirement and Humanity/Social Science/Science Requirement

Faculties and Schools offer a number of courses covering a variety of subjects. To satisfy the subject field requirement for any B.A. Degree (with the exception of the B.A. Integrated Studies) a student must complete 6 credit hours in each of 5 different course subjects. For example: 6 credit hours in Psychology plus 6 credit hours in German plus 6 credit hours in Mathematics plus 6 credit hours in Music plus 6 credit hours in Biological Sciences. Students in the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program must complete 3 credit hours in each of 5 different course subjects.

Each course subject in the Faculty of Arts has been further categorized as either a Humanity or Social Science. Courses offered by the Faculty of Science will satisfy the Science requirement. Therefore a course may satisfy both the subject field requirement as well as the requirement for the Humanity/Social Science/Science.

Listed below are the categories of Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences and the course subjects that belong to each category.

Humanities

1) Course subjects taught by the Faculty of Arts that can be used towards the Humanities requirement: Arabic, Asian Studies, Canadian Studies, Catholic Studies, Classical Studies, English (excluding ENGL 0930, ENGL 0940, ENGL 2000, ENGL 2001), Film Studies, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, History, Hungarian, Icelandic, Italian, Judaic Civilization, Latin, Native Languages, Native Studies, Philosophy, Polish, Portuguese, Religion, Russian, Spanish, Theatre, Ukrainian, and Yiddish. ### 5.1.2 Major, Minor (Concentration) or Honours Programs

1) The Faculty of Arts offers various Majors, Minors (Concentrations) and Honours programs. For a listing of the programs see Section 1.2 and also refer to the respective departmental entries in Section 8 and 9.

These include a General Major, Advanced Major and Minor (Concentration) offered by the Department of Mathematics, a General Major and Minor (Concentration) in History of Art offered by the School of Art, and a Minor (Concentration) offered by the Marcel A. Desautels Faculty of Music.

An Arts student may declare a Minor (Concentration) (dependent on the student's program) offered by any Faculty and School providing the Minor (Concentration) program consists of a minimum of 18 credit hours. For details on those Minor (Concentration) programs please refer to the relevant Faculty/ School's chapter in this Calendar.
5.2 Courses Acceptable for Credit in the Faculty of Arts, In addition to all courses offered by the Faculty of Arts there are two other categories of courses acceptable for credit in the Faculty of Arts:

5.2.1 Courses Offered by Other Faculties or Schools at the University of Manitoba:

Effective September 2007, all degree credit courses offered by other Faculties or Schools at the University of Manitoba are acceptable for credit in Arts (excludes Pass/Fail courses) subject to the Faculty of Arts overall degree requirements.

If a student was registered in another faculty or school within the University of Manitoba prior to registering in the Faculty of Arts, all courses in which the student received a final grade will be treated in the same way as they would have been had they been taken by a student already registered in the Faculty of Arts. That is, all of these courses will count in determining eligibility for admission to Arts in accordance with Sections 2.1, 2.2 and 5.10 and they will all be taken into account when determining the student's grade point averages in accordance with Sections 5.8 and 5.10. In addition, they will all count towards the minimum number of credit hours required for graduating, provided the student received a passing grade in each of them, and the courses did not conflict with some other graduation or continuing regulation (such as the Residency Requirement).

5.2.2 Courses Offered at Other Universities and Colleges:

Effective September 2007, all courses offered at other universities and colleges which are evaluated as equivalent to University of Manitoba courses (excludes Pass/Fail courses) will be used when determining eligibility for admission and transfer credit.

There are two groups of courses that are taken at other universities or colleges and which can be used for credit in the Faculty of Arts at the Univer-sity of Manitoba, namely: a) those taken by students who are already registered in the Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba, and b) those taken by students prior to transferring to the Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba.
a) Students who are already registered in the Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba, and who wish to take courses at another university or college to count towards their University of Manitoba degree are required to obtain a Letter of Permission from the Registrar's Office prior to registering at that other institution; see the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements. The Letter of Permission will not be approved for a student who has not completed at least 24 hours of coursework at the University of Manitoba or who is in academic jeopardy or on academic suspension. As of September 1999 grades earned in courses at other universities are taken into account in the cumulative hours when determining the Grade Point Averages at the University of Manitoba. Grades earned at other universities will not be used in determining eligibility for awards (see Section 5.11 and 5.12 for details).
b) All completed courses that are deemed acceptable for credit in any degree program at the University of Manitoba (excludes Pass/Fail courses) which were taken by a student registered at another university or college prior to transferring to the Faculty of Arts, will be used when determining eligibility for admission and transfer credit. That is, all of these courses will count in determining admissibility, in accordance with Sections 2.1, 2.2 and 5.10.

As of September 1999 the applicable courses (credits and attempts) in both a) and b) are included on the University of Manitoba record, the external courses are counted as attempts and external grades are taken into account when determining the University of Manitoba grade point average as well as count towards the maximum number of "F" and "D" grades permitted in an Arts degree (see Section 5.10). Grades earned at other universities will appear on the University of Manitoba transcript and will not be used in determining eligibility for awards (see Section 5.11 and 5.12 for details). There is no limit on attempts in any degree program.

All completed courses that are deemed acceptable for credit in any degree program at the University of Manitoba (excluding Pass/Fail courses), which were taken by a student at another university or college prior to transferring to the Faculty of Arts and are outside the ten-year period prior to admission and registration in the Faculty of Arts, will not be used for purposes of determining admissibility, advanced standing or transfer credit. (Some exceptions may be considered for students in the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program.)

Students who wish to request a review or reassessment of transfer credit must do so within eight months of the initial determination of transfer of credit to the University of Manitoba.

5.3 Residency Requirement,

As indicated in Section 3 and Section 4, each of the four undergraduate degree pro-grams has a residency requirement which requires that a minimum number of credit hours must be taken at the University of Manitoba itself in order to qualify for the degree. Effective September 2009, students admitted to the Faculty of Arts B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs will also be required to satisfy a residency requirement on the Major(s), Advanced Major(s) or Honours subject(s) in addition to the residency requirement on the degree. Similarly students admitted to the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program will be required to satisfy a residency requirement on the Concentration in addition to a residency requirement on the degree.

1) B.A. General Degree

a) Degree: There are two ways in which the Residency Requirement for the B.A. General Degree may be satisfied: either by successfully completing at the University of Manitoba no fewer than 48 credit hours of the required 90 credit hours (these 48 credit hours may be taken at various points in the student's career); or by successfully completing at the University of Manitoba itself no fewer than the last 30 credit hours of the required 90 credit hours.

5.4 Year-of-Study Equivalents,

A student's progress towards a degree is measured in terms of credit hours passed rather than years of study completed. The following table may be used to determine the year equivalent.

| Year  Equivalent | Credit Hours Passed  $($ General/Integrated Studies  Degree) | Credit Hours Passed  (Advanced/Honours Degree) |
| 1 | fewer than 24 credit hours | fewer than 24 credit hours |
| 2 | 24 credit hours to fewer than  54 credit hours | 24 credit hours to fewer than  54 credit hours |

| 3 | 54 credit hours or more | 54 credit hours to less than  84 credit hours |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| 4 | not applicable | 84 credit hours or more |

5.5 Maximum Number of Courses During a Term,

 Normally a student may attempt a maximum of 15 credit hours during a Fall or Winter term or a maximum of 18 credit hours during the Summer Session. If a student has taken the maximum credit hours in the previous term and has obtained a degree grade point average of 2.75 and is in good standing, he/she may apply at the Faculty of Arts General Office to be allowed to take 3 additional credit hours per term.
5.6 Prerequisite, Corequisite, and Course Availability,

 Prerequisite: Minimum grades of " C " are required in all courses listed as prerequisites, except as otherwise noted in the course descriptions published in each department and program section of this chapter. If a course is a prerequisite for a second course, the prerequisite must be met in order to continue in the second course.Some course descriptions will indicate that a specific course is a pre- or co-requisite for the course in which you wish to register. If you have not previously taken the specific course, you may register for it in the same term.

Corequisite: Where a course identifies another course as a corequisite, both courses must be taken at the same time.

Course availability: All courses listed in this Calendar are not offered every year. The course(s) being offered for the current terms are available at www.umanitoba.ca

5.7 Challenge for Credit,

Some departments in the Faculty of Arts offer courses by means of challenge for credit. Since the courses offered in this manner may vary from year to year, students interested in this method of attaining credit should consult the Challenge for Credit section in the Faculty of Arts Registration Information located on the Faculty of Arts website. The Academic Schedule in the front of this Calendar contains the relevant registration deadline dates appropriate to challenge for credit. Students on academic warning or academic suspension are not permitted to challenge courses for credit.

5.8 Repeating a Course,

A student will normally be permitted to repeat a course only once. If a student wishes to repeat a course, he/she should be aware of the following:

- To repeat a course, a student must request permission to do so from the Faculty of Arts General Office or on-line at http://umanitoba.ca/faculties/arts/student/index.html.
- All completed courses will appear on the student's transcript and will be used to calculate the student's attempted hours. Courses that have been repeated will appear on the transcript but only the grade on the last attempt will be used in the calculation of the grade point average in the Major field, the cumulative grade point average and in the calculation of the grade point average required for the degree.
- Repeating a course will not remove the original course or grade from the transcript.
- All courses with " F " and " $D$ " grades that are repeated count towards the limit of "F" and "D" grades permitted in an Arts degree as outlined in Section 5.10.

5.9 Statute of Limitations,

Students who have not been registered at the University of Manitoba (or any other post-secondary institution) for a period of five years or longer immediately preceding an admission to Arts may submit a written appeal to the General Office to be allowed to "start afresh" a Faculty of Arts degree. If the appeal is granted, all courses listed on the University of Manitoba record will remain but all previous work will not count/apply towards satisfying degree requirements nor affect the degree GPA calculation. The following notation will appear under the term of readmission:
"Having discontinued attendance at post-secondary institutions for a period of five years or more, this student has been permitted to start afresh on recommendation of the Dean. All previous credits have been forfeited."
5.10 Maximum Number of "F" and "D" Grades Permitted on Courses Acceptable for Credit in Arts,
Each student in the Faculty of Arts will be placed on academic suspension regardless if there has been evidence of improved performance if they have:
-more than 30 credit hours of "F" grades, or -more than 42 credit hours of a combination of "F" and "D" grades.

Following the one year suspension, the student may return upon applica-tion to the Faculty of Arts General Office by selecting one of the following irreversible options:
(a) to continue with no possibility of further "F" or "D" grades.

Any further " $F$ " or " $D$ " grades will result in academic suspension for two years. (Following the two year suspension, the student may apply to the Faculty of Arts General Office to return to start afresh.)

Or
(b) start afresh, with their previous work not counting towards satisfying degree requirements.
(In either case this does not mean that the previous coursework will be removed from the student history or transcript.)

5.11 Dean's Honour List and Graduating with Distinction or First Class Honours, Dean's Honour List

To qualify for this list a student must be registered in one of the four degree programs offered by the Faculty of Arts and complete at least 9 credit hours offered by the University of Manitoba during a term and attain a minimum term grade point average of 3.55 . The notation "Dean's Honour List" will be included on the student's transcript specific to that term.

With Distinction

Students graduating with a B.A. General or a B.A. Integrated Studies Degree as a first degree will have their degree granted "With Distinction" if they have a minimum degree grade point average of 3.80 on all coursework taken at the University of Manitoba and provided a minimum of 60 credit hours of acceptable coursework is completed at the University of Manitoba. (Students seeking a second degree will be eligible for this recognition provided they com-plete a minimum of 60 credit hours of acceptable coursework at the Uni-versity of Manitoba following admission to their second degree program.)

(Students seeking a second degree will be eligible for this recognition provided they complete a minimum of 90 credit hours of acceptable coursework at the University of Manitoba following admission to their second degree program.)

This distinction will be noted on the parchment and on the student's transcript.

First Class Honours

5.14 Seeking a B.A. as a Second Degree,

Once a Bachelor of Arts degree has been awarded by the University of Manitoba Senate, it cannot be revoked or "turned in" towards another degree.

Students who have completed an undergraduate degree may apply and be admitted to the Faculty of Arts seeking a second undergraduate degree. Students who hold a first degree from the Faculty of Arts may not apply for the B.A. Integrated Studies Degree Program as a second degree.

Effective the 2002-2003 Regular Session and thereafter, students who have graduated with a first undergraduate degree from the University of Manitoba will be allowed to transfer up to 60 credit hours of coursework from their first degree toward a second degree program in the Faculty of Arts. Courses taken in a qualifying program will be considered part of the first degree. Courses extra to the first degree, excluding courses taken in a qualifying program or another awarded degree, diploma or certificate, may be transferred in addition to the 60 credit hours.

Students with first degrees awarded by external institutions will be eligible for up to 60 credit hours of transfer credit providing the degree was award-ed and the courses were taken within the 10 year period prior to admission and registration in the Faculty of Arts (see Section 5.2.2).

Once admitted students must satisfy all relevant undergraduate degree requirements except for the Written English and Mathematics requirements.

Students may not be admitted to the Faculty of Arts or complete a Bachelor of Arts Degree while concurrently pursuing a degree in another Faculty or School.

No transfer credit will be awarded to students seeking a third, fourth, etc., degree.

Students cannot obtain a second degree in the same discipline at the same or lower level as any of their previously awarded degree(s).
5.15 Application to Graduate with a B.A. Degree, In order to officially receive a degree in any of the four programs leading to a B.A., students must indicate their intention to graduate by the relevant deadline date listed below. ## SECTION 6: Student Responsibilities  6.1.1 A Community of Scholars

The Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba defines itself as a community of scholars, all citizens of which must commit themselves to the ad-vancement of learning, the dissemination of knowledge, and the well-being of all its members. Essential to these goals is each individual's commitment to the following values:

The affirmation of the dignity, worth, and equality of all citizens in the community;

The importance of reasoned debate and inquiry in all academic pursuits;

The practise of ethical conduct and personal integrity in all aspects of academic life.

Students who enrol in the Faculty of Arts voluntarily choose to join this community of scholars, and in doing so they accept the responsibilities as well as the benefits of living within it.

The Faculty of Arts offers its students remarkable opportunities for the acquisition of knowledge, the development of skills, and the free exchange of ideas that will shape their future lives. The scholarly community also provides a forum for extra-curricular activities, personal growth and social relationships that are equally important to one's sense of fulfilment. This should be an exciting process of discovering new goals, new points of view, and, indeed, a new and better sense of one's ideals and potential. But it is also a process of coming to recognize the value and special nature of the academic community itself.

The dynamic freedom of student life in the Faculty of Arts carries a special obligation that each individual act in such a way as to promote the well-being of other members - to accept willingly the categorical imperative of behaving in such a way that, if everyone else did the same, the good of all would prevail. This is a matter of accepting the differences of others, respecting the rights of others, and not abusing the resources that the faculty and the university put at your disposal. It is also a matter of acting honourably in all personal and academic relationships, and not tolerating through diffidence or neglect any violations of such obligations on the part of others. Our common commitment as citizens of the scholarly community will then work to enhance every individual member's experience and likeli-hood of success. Only with such a commitment from everyone can the Faculty of Arts fulfil its mission at the core of a public institution charged with educating the leaders of tomorrow's society. And only with such a commitment can we make wise use of the public funds for which we are accountable.

6.1.2 Rights and Responsibilities

As a student in the Faculty of Arts you are entitled to the use of all appropriate resources (human and other) for the successful completion of your studies. But you are also responsible for the use of those resources in a manner that is honest, fair and equitable. For example, when you enrol in a course you implicitly accept the terms of a contract whereby the professor is committed to teaching to the best of his/her ability, while you and the other students are committed to learning to the best of yours. Repeated absences, or the neglect of reading or writing assignments, are not just matters of individual concern; because they undermine the effectiveness of discussion for others as well, they are a failure to honour the academic and social contract that is implicitly a part of your membership in this community. Similarly, borrowing a book from the library is a direct commitment to honour the rules and regulations governing the circulation of such material. To damage a library book by writing in it, highlighting, or worse, is not just an act of individual vandalism; it is the wilful partial destruction of a resource that other students (and even other generations of students) have the right and the need to consult. It is to forget, in other words, that public property is not no one's property; it is everyone's property.

Similar obligations to ethical conduct are an inherent part of all the academic work you do as requirements of your program. Participation in the free exchange of ideas, upon which the scholarly community depends, obligates all members of that community to complete honesty and to adequate documentation of their intellectual debts. Plagiarism, the representing of someone else's words or ideas as your own, or any other form of academic dishonesty such as cheating, is a betrayal not just of individual honour, but of the whole basis of civilized discourse upon which all other members of the community depend.

The Manitoba Code of Human Rights guarantees everyone the right to be free of discrimination on the basis of gender or sexual orientation, age, ancestry, religion, family status, physical or mental handicap, and political beliefs. The rights and responsibilities of students thus go well beyond the classroom, library, or computer facility. Every student in the Faculty of Arts is at all times entitled to pursue his/her activities and program of study free of any social discrimination, harassment, exploitation or abuse of power on the part of others, staff or students. Consequently, every student also has a reciprocal obligation to act in a similarly ethical fashion toward all other members of the community. In order that we all be fully empowered to take advantage of the pursuit of knowledge, the development of skills and the special opportunities for personal growth offered by the faculty, there must be on everyone's part a commitment to avoid irresponsible behaviour that damages the academic potential or self-esteem of others.
6.1.3 Rules and Regulations

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

It is the intention of the Faculty of Arts to discourage any conduct that is detrimental to the welfare of the scholarly community and its individual members. In this Undergraduate Calendar there are many regulations governing the expectations and standards of academic work in the faculty, and there are mechanisms of appeal at the department and faculty level for those who feel that the application of these regulations has been unfair or unjust. There are also rules and regulations governing the use of university resources and facilities, and others governing the social conduct of mem-bers of the community - for example, a policy on sexual harassment and a policy banning weapons from campus. Any violations of these rules and regulations should be reported to the appropriate administrative agency or authority (e.g., the director of Libraries, the sexual harassment investigation officer or the Security Services). It must be remembered, too, that all federal, provincial and municipal laws (regarding, for example, violence, alco-hol, and drugs) are enforced on campus.

There are, however, some kinds of behaviour that fall between these academic and legal concerns, which are nevertheless inappropriate in the context of an academic community. Any disruptive action or physically or verbally aggressive behaviour that serves to threaten or intimidate another member of the community (staff or student) should be immediately reported to the relevant head of department or dean. Persons who are found to have violated the rights of other individuals, or to have subverted the welfare of the academic community, will face disciplinary action, which may include expulsion from the faculty. It is important to recognize, though, that such discipline is always less effective than a common commitment to respect the rights of others.

6.1.4 Conclusion

The foregoing statement of responsibilities applies to all student members of the Faculty of Arts. Faculty members and support staff are governed by a number of university, Senate and faculty policies that set out similar standards of ethical and professional conduct. This code is meant to give the students in the Faculty of Arts a sense of the relation that exists between their rights and their responsibilities and how these rights and responsibilities in turn sustain the welfare of the whole academic community.

6.2 General Responsibilities,

Every effort is made to ensure that students in the Faculty of Arts have access to sound information and individual advice and guidance. Within this context and within the framework of faculty and department requirements indicated above, students are personally responsible for course selection and

8.2.1 Program Information,

Asia is home to approximately 60 percent of the world's population. Asian nations have emerged as major economic powers while their populations are asserting their own cultural and historical identities. With this comes an expectation that Western nations will take an interest not only in the economic potential of the continent but also in its rich cultural heritage.

The Asian Studies Centre was established in 1990 to stimulate and organize teaching and research on Asia. Faculty attached to the centre offer instruction in the languages and culture of China, India and Japan. As well, specialists in other departments offer Asia-related courses that can be used for a Major or Minor in Asian Studies.

For entry, continuation and graduation requirements for the General Degree, Advanced Degree and Honours Degree, see Section 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs.

Major Program

For entry to the Major, the prerequisite is a grade of " C " or better in both ASIA 1420 (HIST 1420) and ASIA 1430 (HIST 1430). For students who have taken additional courses toward the Major, then a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 is required on all courses including the higher grade of repeated courses and excluding failed courses.

8.9.1 Program Information,

The economy is important to all Canadians, and economics is the field of study that helps us understand our world: wages and employment, economic growth, productivity, wealth and poverty, government budgets and taxation, resource exploitation, business practices, inflation, recession, regional economic differences. In economics we study the history and current reality of these issues. We learn the principles and techniques necessary to gain a sound understanding of the choices and problems facing us during our lifetime.

For entry, continuation and graduation requirements for the General Degree, Advanced Degree and Honours Degree, see Section 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs.

Major Program

For entry to the General or Advanced Major, the prerequisite is a grade of "C" or better in both ECON 1010 and ECON 1020 , or both ECON 1210 and ECON 1220, or the former ECON 1200. For students who have taken additional courses toward the Major, then a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 is required on all courses including the higher grade of repeated courses and excluding failed courses.

It is recommended that students complete ECON 2800, ECON 3800, and ECON 3810 before attempting ECON 4430.

Where it appears appropriate, a senior Honours student may be allowed to substitute a graduate course for an undergraduate course in Economics.

Honours students are advised to select their ancillary options from the following disciplines: Geography, History, Mathematics, Political Studies, Statistics, Sociology and Philosophy. However, other fields may be selected to satisfy study or career interests.

Preparation for Graduate Studies

Honours students contemplating graduate work should normally seek to obtain a good background in both mathematics and statistics. For mathematics, it is strongly recommended that they take ECON 2530 Introduction to Mathematical Economics and seriously consider ECON 3730 Topics in Mathematical Economics. For a good statistics background, ECON 4120 Intermediate Econometrics and ECON 4130 Seminar in Econometrics in combination with some basic statistics courses are highly

8.10.1 English Program Information,

English literature connects us in vital ways to times, places, and cultures, including our own; engages us in important moral and social questions; encourages us to reflect upon the capacities of the human mind and imagination; invites us to probe connections between language, form, structure, and meaning; and entertains, surprises, shocks, and moves us.
Through its offerings of courses in contemporary and historical literature and in creative writing, our program promotes the study of English from this wide range of perspectives.

For entry, continuation and graduation requirements for the General Degree, Advanced Degree and Honours Degree, see Section 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs.

Major Program

For entry to the Major, the prerequisite is a grade of " C " or better in ENGL 1200 or ENGL 1300 (or the former 004.126) or both ENGL 1310 and ENGL 1340. For students who have taken additional courses toward the Major, then a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 is required on all courses including the higher grade of repeated courses and excluding failed courses.

Notes

For students who need help with basic writing skills, the Department of English, Film, and Theatre offers two half courses: ENGL 0930 English Composition and ENGL 0940 Writing About Literature. These courses are limited in size. Both ENGL 0930 and ENGL 0940 are acceptable for credit towards a degree in Arts or Science, but they may not be counted for credit in the 48 hours for a Major (Advanced), the 30 hours for a Major (General), or the 18 hours for a Minor (Concentration). Either or both will, however, be included in the total number of hours a student is allowed to take in the combined Major and Minor. There is no prerequisite for entry into ENGL 0930 or ENGL 0940, and these courses are not required for admission to subsequent English courses.

Study Resources

All students taking English should own a writing handbook and a good dictionary such as Webster's New Collegiate, Funk and Wagnall's Standard College, The Concise Oxford, The Gage Canadian, or The New World. Students will also find useful The MLA Handbook and M.H. Abrams, A Glossary of Literary Terms.

8.10.5 Film Studies Program Information,

Film is the most important popular culture art form of the twenty-first century. Our knowledge and perception of the modern world is shaped by film or its related media - video and television. Instructors include people who have made and written about films and who are well prepared to discuss film history, film as cultural artifact and the connections between film and other disciplines.

8.10.9 Theatre Program Information,

Theatre is a way of finding out what it means to be human and is therefore a very effective component of a liberal, humanist education. The Theatre Program is focused yet multi-faceted, offering both creative and intellectual opportunities. An intensive, hands-on experience in every aspect of play creation is a hallmark of University of Manitoba Theatre. The interrelationship between the academic program and the Black Hole Company provides students with excellent balance in the creation and interpretation of theatre.

Although it is not a professional acting program in the style of the National Theatre School, the program provides excellent preparation for professional training. It also offers a particular focus on new play development and directing. Many University of Manitoba Theatre graduates have gone on to pursue professional careers in theatre, opera, and film, with or without further study. Many others students have pursued graduate studies or have taken the skills of theatre and applied them in making an impact in careers as diverse Courses are offered in German language, literature and culture. In Slavic Studies, the department offers language, literature and culture courses in Russian, Ukrainian and Polish - the three largest Slavic language groups. ### 8.20.1 Program Information,

The linguistics approach to language is based on the analysis of sound, the structure of words and sentences, and the meanings they transmit. But it also has to deal with the way sounds change, words come and go, and meanings shift. Linguistics is the humanities discipline that is closest to being a science in the generally accepted sense of the word. Partly because human language, the subject of linguistics, is almost entirely acquired subconsciously, it is a massive and intricate structure that is free to develop in accordance with natural rather than with consciously determined social laws.

For entry, continuation and graduation requirements for the General Degree, Advanced Degree and Honours Degree, see Section 3: Basic Faculty Regulations for the B.A. General, Advanced and Honours Degree Programs.

8.20.3 Linguistics -1000 Level

LING 1200 Introduction to Linguistics Cr. Hrs. 6 (Formerly 126.120) Language as a communication system composed of sound, grammatical and semantic subsystems. Development of a theoretical framework. Exercises in a variety of languages.

LING 1340 Semantics Cr.Hrs. 3

(Formerly 126.134) An introduction to linguistic approaches to meaning, with special emphasis on the analysis of lexical domains.

LING 1360 Languages of Canada Cr.Hrs. 3 (Formerly 126.136) A survey of languages and linguistic problems encountered in North America, with particular attention to questions of relationship and classification. Examples will be drawn from both indigenous and immigrant languages.

LING 1380 General Phonetics Cr.Hrs. 3 (Formerly 126.138) The articulatory and acoustic analysis of speech sounds. Transcription exercises in a variety of languages.

LING 1420 Language and Gender Cr.Hrs. 3 (Formerly 126.142) In exploring the relationship between language and gender, this course addresses such questions as: how are gender differences manifested and perpetuated through language use?; is there such a thing as "women's language"?; how do gender differences influence communication between women and men?; how does gender interact with (for example) race, class and sexuality with respect to language use? In addition, we consider issues of language structure, including sexism in English and the relative success of gender-based language reform efforts.

LING 1440 Rules of English Grammar Cr.Hrs. 3
(Formerly 126.144) What are the criteria that are used to distinguish "good" from "bad" grammar? What are the rules we need to know in order to speak and write "properly"? In focusing on basic concepts in traditional grammar, this course reviews parts of speech, the English tense system, sentence types (active vs. passive), question formation and types of embedded clauses. It examines the rules of traditional grammar and explores the linguistic structures that lie behind the rules. This course is not intended for students learning English; it presupposes native or nearnative competence in English.

LING 2200 Syntax Cr.Hrs. 6

With spoken language as its major focus, this course draws on a variety of languages, sources and genres to study artistic and playful uses of language. Prerequisite: [a grade of "C" or better in LING 1200 (126.120)] or written consent of instructor.

LING 2620 Language in Society Cr.Hrs. 3
(Formerly 126.262) Language is embedded in a social context: dialect variability, the choice of speech registers, the use of special-purpose languages, code-switching, sexual specialization are instances of language behaviour reflecting non-linguistic reality. Prerequisite: [a grade of " C " or better in LING 1200 (126.120)] or written consent of instructor.

Examples from Indoeuropean and North American Indian languages. Prerequisite: [a grade of "C" or better in LING 1200 (126.120)] or written consent of instructor.

LING 2720 Applied Linguistics Cr.Hrs. 3

LING 2740 Introduction to Interpretation
Theory Cr.Hrs. 3
(Formerly 126.274) A survey of interpretation theory, including specifics of language use and problems in the transfer of cultural context for both source and target language, the history of language awareness on the part of the interpreter, and the development of theories of interpretation. This course will draw heavily on the field of ASL/English interpretation for illustration. Prerequisite: [a grade of "C" or better in LING 1200 (126.120)] or written consent of instructor.

LING 2800 Communication Disorders Cr.Hrs. 3 (Formerly 126.280) A general introduction to the major pathologies of speech, language and hearing as viewed against the background of normal linguistic structures and functions. The distinction between mechanically- and neurologically-based disorders is illustrated in terms of aetiology, diagnosis and approaches to treatment. Prerequisite: [a grade of "C" or better in LING 1200 (126.120)] or written consent of instructor.

LING 2830 Linguistic Anatomy and Physiology

Prerequisite: [a grade of "C" or better in both LING 1200 (126.120) and LING 1380 (126.138)] or written consent of instructor.

LING 2860 Language Acquisition Cr.Hrs. 3 (Formerly 126.286) The study of first language acquisition from infancy through childhood. Aspects of phonology, morphology, pragmatics and syntax acquisition are discussed, as well as formal theories of acquisition, second language and bilingual acquisition, atypical development and the relationship of language acquisition with literacy. Also offered as PSYC 2860. Students may not hold credit for both LING 2860 (126.286) and PSYC 2860. 8.23.1 Program Information, Philosophy is composed of several areas of study: these include logic, metaphysics, ethics, political philosophy, philosophy of science, philosophy of language, and aesthetics. Philosophers use the tools of rigorous logic and clear conceptual analysis. Their goal is to understand things such as the nature of reason, the physical universe, right and wrong, the human mind, and sometimes even the meaning of life. There are good arguments and bad arguments. Training in philosophy will help the student not only consider these important questions but also to improve his or her clarity of expression and ability to think critically.

8.24.1 Program Information,

Political Studies examines the dynamics of human interaction in which individuals and groups compete to achieve their goals. The study of politics involves a consideration of the interactions between the individual, the state, government, public affairs and public policy. Political Studies examines the dynamics of these interactions in the context of competing visions, values and interests, particularly in the pursuit of varying public goals, including the quest for political power and the control of government. Politics is thus both a study of conflict between competing interests and a study of how these competing interests achieve compromise and cooperation.

8.26.1 Program Information,

We are a world religions department. Our approach is interdisciplinary and engages a wide range of human activity commonly deemed "religious," seeking to understand how religions function, how religious discourse evolves, why certain religious perspectives gain prominence and how they are contested. We research and teach about a range of religions, past and present, from around the world, investigating the languages, ethical systems, practices, organizations, and institutions within which such religions are defined, refined, rejected, or renewed. Given the diversity of this study, such theoretical and methodological questions are viewed as central to the coherence of our courses, programs, and fields.

8.27.1 Sociology Program Information,

Sociology examines the patterns of interaction among individuals and the group activity that emerges from such interaction. A basic premise is that social behaviour, and society itself, cannot be fully understood simply by studying the individuals involved. Sociology has a special interest in all those intermediate forms of association between the family and the state which together comprise much of the basis for social solidarity and cohesion. Whether individuals cooperate, compete, or fight is in large measure determined by forces outside themselves, by social forces that encourage or restrain their behaviour.

1.2 The Profession of Dental Hygiene,

Dental hygiene is a self regulated health service profession concerned primarily with the prevention of oral disease and the promotion of optimum oral health. As a licensed professional, the dental hygienist's scope of practice is regulated by provincial legislation. The dental hygiene process of care consists of five components: assessment, dental hygiene diagnosis, planning, implementation, and evaluation. Current practice settings include: Private dental practice, community health centres, institutions (e.g., hospitals, long-term care facilities), primary health care centres, home care and other outreach programs, educational institutions (e.g., universities, community colleges), the military, research, and industry. Dental hygienists acquire competence through instruction in basic sciences, oral health sciences, the humanities and clinical practice. Through more than 600 hours of a competencybased clinical curriculum, students are prepared to meet the needs of a broad range of population groups.

The School of Dental Hygiene Mission Statement: In a dynamic environment of excellence and progressive learning, the University of Manitoba, School of Dental Hygiene prepares future dental hygienists to enhance the health and well being of the public through oral health promotion, disease prevention and therapeutic means; and to be active members of the global health care community.

Practice Requirements

After successful completion of the National Dental Hygiene Certification Board Examination, in Manitoba, graduates must apply to the College of Dental Hygienists of Manitoba for a licence to practice as a dental hygienist. Dental hygienists must fulfil the requirements of the respective provincial regulatory authorities licensing bodies. The minimum educational credential for licensure in the province of Manitoba is the Diploma in Dental Hygiene. Licensed dental hygienists may continue their education by completing a Bachelor of Science Degree in Dental Hygiene.

SECTION 2: Admission Requirements

SECTION 3: Faculty Academic Regulations

All students are asked to note that some academic policies and regulations are under review and are subject to change. Please check the Web Calendar at umanitoba.ca for updated information.

The provisions of the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, and the chapter, University Policies, apply to all students. In addition, the School of Dental Hygiene has regulations and requirements, published below, that apply specifically to its students.

Direct Entry students are to be aware that as they will be registered in courses outside of the school of Dental Hygiene (non HYGN courses), they may be subject to the rules and regulations of the faculty/school in which those courses reside (primarily the Faculties of Arts and Science). Direct Entry students are encouraged to become familiar to the rules and regulations of these faculties/schools. Please contact the School of Dental Hygiene for further information.

3.1 Diploma in Dental Hygiene,

3.1.a Immunization and Bloodborne Diseases Policy

Note: This policy is under review. Please consult the School of Dental Hygiene for further information.

All Diploma students enrolled in dental hygiene must be immunized against the following diseases: diphtheria/tetanus, polio, rubella, measles, mumps, chicken pox and hepatitis B. Students must be tested for tuberculosis if a suspected exposure occurs. Students who cannot be immunized because of allergies or other reasons must provide a physician's certificate to verify these reasons.

Before the first day of classes all students must complete the University of Manitoba Immunization Record Form, provided by the dental hygiene office. Immunization records must be signed by a physician or nurse verifying that all immunizations are up-to-date.

Direct Entry students are responsible to have all immunization requirements in place prior to their entrance into their second year (first clinical year) of the program. Further information will be provided upon admission to the School.

All students are responsible for updating their immunizations as needed.

3.1.b Criminal Record/Child Abuse Registry

An adult criminal record and child abuse registry selfdeclaration will be required of all applicants at the time of application. A formal Adult Criminal Record Check (including vulnerable sector screening) and a formal Child Abuse Registry Check is required at the time of registration, and annually thereafter keeping in accordance with existing policies of other health, education and social service programs at the University of Manitoba.

Direct Entry students will be required to provide these documents upon admission to the program and prior to October 1 of that year.

Failure to provide these documents may impact on registration and a student's ability to progress in the Dental Hygiene program.

3.1.c CPR Certification

Accepted candidates will be required to show proof of CPR certification by October 15 of each year. The CPR Certification level required by the School of Dental Hygiene is: Health Career Provider (HCP CPR Level C). This certification must be maintained on a yearly basis up to the date of graduation.

Direct Entry students will not need to provide this certification in year 1 of their program; they will be expected to complete this requirement by October $15^{\text {th }}$ of their first clinical year.

3.1.d Instruments, Computer, Textbooks and Uniforms

Students entering the School of Dental Hygiene will be expected to own or purchase a laptop computer that is compliant with University computer standards (see Bookstore - Computers on Campus for annual listing) and Vital Source Technologies software requirements. The expenditure of a computer may range approximately from $$ 1000$ to $$ 4000$ and the cost of Vital Source Technologies software over the two clinical years of the program is approximately $$ 2000$ USD.* These costs replace former textbook expenditures.

Students are responsible for clinic educational fees*, the purchase of some instruments ('kit')* and other sundry items as may be necessary or required. Over the two clinical years of the program, the cost of such instruments/fees has been approximately $$ 14,700$ (see fee schedule). Specific items and instruments purchased by students are their property. ${ }^{* *}$ The School is unable to accept returns of any student computer software, clinic fees, instruments or other items should a student leave the school for whatever reason and upon graduation.
*Direct entry students will not be expected to purchase a laptop computer, Vital Source Software, or be charged clinic education, or instrument/kit fees until the start of their second year of the program (first clinical year).
 Under review and subject to change. Please contact the school for further information.

3.1.e Examinations and Promotions

The following may not apply to Direct Entry students during their first year of the program, but will come into effect once they are registered in years two and three of the program (once registered in HYGN courses as described in Section 4). Further clarification will be communicated to Direct Entry Students upon admission to the School of Dental Hygiene.

Regular attendance in all courses as well as a satisfactory record completed during the term will be required to qualify a student to sit for the annual or other grading examination.

To obtain standing in any year, a student must attain a minimum Term Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.0 in all courses of that year. If a student is registered for less than $100 \%$ of the courses listed for the year, a minimum Term GPA of a 2.0 must also be obtained.

A student who has obtained a grade of "F" in more than two subjects or who fails to obtain a Term GPA of 2.0 will be regarded as having failed the year and will be required to repeat the work of that year in a succeeding annual session. The student must re-apply for admission to the school if the failed year is the first year.

No student will be allowed to register for the full work of any one year who has a condition remaining from a previous year.

Students are prohibited from interviewing individual members of the school with reference to examination standing at any time prior to the posting of official grade lists.

For details on final examinations, see the Chapter General Academic Regulations and Requirements of this Calendar.

For appeals process, see the Chapter General Academic Regulations and Requirements.

For a description of the grading system, see the Chapter General Academic Regulations and Requirements.

3.1.f Supplemental Examinations

The following may not apply to Direct Entry students during their first year of the program, but will come into effect once they are registered in years two and three of the program (once registered in HYGN courses as described in Section 4). Further clarification will be communicated to Direct Entry Students upon admission to the School of Dental Hygiene.

A student who has failed in not more than two subjects at the regular final examinations of any year, or who fails to obtain a Term GPA of 2.0 in courses of the year, may upon application and at the discretion of the Dental Faculty Council be awarded the privilege of one or two supplemental examination(s).

The Faculty Council will specify in which subjects the student may write supplemental examinations. The passing grade in supplemental examinations is " $C$ " in each subject.

A student must maintain a minimum Term GPA of 2.0 each year in order to be eligible for supplemental privileges.

A student who, having exercised supplemental privileges, has not more than one condition remaining, may in the ensuing annual session, be allowed to take only that one course in the Dental Hygiene program. If the condition is removed in that session, the student will be regarded as having completed the year to which the condition applied.

Supplemental examinations are held prior to the opening of the session in the autumn, and application must be made to the Registrars Office no later than those deadline dates listed in this Calendar.

3.1.g Challenge for Credit

The following may not apply to Direct Entry students during their first year of the program, but will come into effect once they are registered in years two and three of the program (once registered in HYGN courses as described in Section 4). Further clarification will be communicated to Direct Entry Students upon admission to the School of Dental Hygiene.

There are a limited number of courses which may be challenged for credit. Information on the specific courses involved may be obtained from the director of the School of Dental Hygiene. Requests for course challenge must be received prior to the commencement of the term in which the course will be offered.

3.1.h Honours and Awards

Dean's Honours: awarded to students in each year of the dental hygiene Diploma program who have achieved a minimum sessional (fall & winter term combined) G.P.A. of 3.8. In addition, only students registered for 80 per cent or more of the normal course load during a regular session are eligible for Honours Standing.

A student who fails in one or more subjects, or who fails the year at the regular final examination, is not eligible to obtain Honours Standing or to receive any awards for the work of that year.

A student repeating a year's work is not eligible to obtain Honours Standing or to receive any awards for the work of that year.

The following policy applies to the eligibility of part-time students for academic awards:

A student who is carrying less than 80 per cent of the normal course load for the year is only eligible for an award in the individual subjects taken by him/her.

A student who is repeating a course may not be eligible for an award in that subject.

3.1.i Voluntary Withdrawal

Students intending to withdraw from a portion or all of their courses must report immediately in person or in writing to the Director's Office. Please note: Computer

4.2 Bachelor of Science in Dental Hygiene, Degree

 Completion Program,Accredited dental hygiene programs in Canada and the U.S. have been traditionally offered as either stand-alone two year programs with direct entry from high school, or as twoyear programs requiring a pre-professional year of studies prior to admission into the professional program. In order to provide access to a broad range of potential degree completion students, two options have been developed.

Option A.This option is for those graduates of accredited 3 year dental hygiene programs, or equivalent, or those who have completed a proscribed pre-professional year prior to entry into their dental hygiene program.

Dental hygienists from the University of Manitoba who graduated between 1993 and 2007 must complete 21 credit hours

ACADEMIC CALENDAR 2012-2013 )

University of Manitoba

Dental hygienists from the University of Manitoba who graduated after 2007 must complete 19 credit hours

Graduates of other (non-University of Manitoba) dental hygiene programs who completed a pre-professional year prior to entry into their dental hygiene program, may be granted up to 15 credit hours from the pre-professional year and 75 credit hours from the 2 -year dental hygiene program towards their degree. These graduates will be required to complete 30 hours of University of Manitoba credits in order to complete the degree and satisfy the residency requirement.

Option B.Dental hygienists who are graduates of accredited two year programs without the pre-professional year, must complete the 21 credit hours as described below plus 24

1.2 The Profession of Dentistry,

The Faculty of Dentistry is dedicated to educating dental, dental hygiene and graduate students in a progressive learning environment, conducting research in oral health, and serving the community and the oral health professions as a source of knowledge and expertise. The faculty serves as a bridge between the fundamental scientific foundation of the profession and its translation into health care for the public. Dentists enhance and promote the total health of patients through oral health management. Dentists are concerned with promoting oral health and preventing and alleviating the effects of oral diseases and conditions in order to contribute to the well-being of their patients.

The curriculum is designed to ensure that students graduate as competent dentists prepared to meet the oral health care needs of their patients. It provides the knowledge of basic biomedical, behavioural and clinical sciences and biomaterials, the cognitive and behavioural skills, and the professional and ethical values necessary for practice as a dental professional.

Information on the Dental Hygiene program is in the chapter, School of Dental Hygiene.

Licensing Requirements

A graduate of the Faculty of Dentistry is entitled to apply to the Manitoba Dental Association to obtain a license to practice within the province of Manitoba. For information on licensing requirements and the application process please contact: The Registrar, Manitoba Dental Association, 103 698 Corydon Avenue, Winnipeg, Manitoba R3M 0X9; telephone (204) 9885300.

National Examining Body

Graduates of this faculty are required to sit a written examination and an objective structured clinical examination during the calendar year of their graduation, administered by the National Dental Examining Board of Canada. The NDEB certification granted to graduates who pass these examinations, entitles them to apply for a license to practice in all provinces of Canada. The provinces of Ontario and Quebec have additional requirements. For information contact: The Registrar, National Dental Examining Board, 80 Elgin Street, 2nd Floor, Ottawa, Ontario K1P 6R2; telephone (613) 2365912.

Other Licensing Bodies

For regulations governing licensure in other areas (e.g., other provinces, the United States), candidates are advised to write the licensing body in the province/state in which they are interested.

SECTION 2: Admission Requirements

2.1 Doctor of Dental Medicine,

Minimum time to graduation: Six years (University 1, plus one year, plus four years in the Faculty of Dentistry).

The following is a summary of the admission requirements. Equivalent academic courses completed at recognized universities elsewhere will be considered. All admission requirements, as well as application deadline dates and forms, are included in an application bulletin that is available from the Admissions Office, Enrolment Services, 424 University Centre; this information is also posted on the university's website (umanitoba.ca/dentistry).

After University 1, most students choose the Faculty of Science because the pre-Dentistry requirements easily fit Science degree programs.

BIOL 1020 and 1030

CHEM 1300 and CHEM 1310

CHEM 2210 and 2220

6 credit hours of English

24 credit hours of electives, 6 of which must be in the nonapplied sciences or non-pure sciences.

All science courses must include the laboratory component.

Other requirements

High school prerequisites: Chemistry 40S, Mathematics 40S, Physics 40S and Biology 40S.

The 6 credit hours of English satisfies the written English requirement; the mathematics requirement must be met in the first 60 credit hours even though it is not a specific admissions requirement.

The English Canadian Dental Aptitude Test (DAT) must be written.

A personal interview is required.

Admission is competitive.

Information on the admission process may be accessed through the Faculty of Dentistry's web page (umanitoba.ca/dentistry) or by requesting an Information Application Bulletin from either the Faculty of Dentistry or the umanitoba.ca/admissions(Enrolment Services)

Selection criteria: Grades, interview and DAT score equally weighted.

2.2 Bachelor of Science in Dentistry,

In addition to the basic professional degree, the faculty offers the Bachelor of Science in Dentistry to interested dental students wishing to undertake research during their undergraduate program. The program is designed to assure that participation in it will not interfere with the student's dental degree. Through active participation in a research program, the students will be given the opportunity to develop skills in applying scientific knowledge to dental practice and an interest in dental research. In addition, the program will serve as a preparatory step for entry into various graduate programs. Information on admission to this program is available from the Dean's Office and through the Faculty of Dentistry's web page (umanitoba.ca/dentistry).

2.3 International Dentist Degree Program (IDDP),

 The Faculty of Dentistry, University of Manitoba, offers the International Dentist Degree Program (IDDP) to a maximum of 7 graduates of international dental programs that are not accredited by the Commission on Dental Accreditation of Canada. After a 6 to 8 week summer orientation program, students enter the 3rd year of the regular dental program of the Faculty. Upon satisfactory completion of the 3rd and 4th years of the dental program, IDDP participants will be awarded the Doctor of Dental Medicine (DMD) degree. All graduates of DMD programs in Canada, once having passed the National Dental Examining Board of Canada (NDEB) examinations, are eligible for licensure/registration as a dentist in all provinces in Canada.Requirement to the IDDP program can be found at the Faculty of Dentistry's website at: umanitoba.ca/dentistry/IDDP. Please note that there are two tracks which may be applied to.

Should you have specific questions that cannot be answered from the above website, please call the IDDP Coordinator at (204) 977-5611.

SECTION 3: Faculty Academic Regulations

All students are asked to note that some academic policies and regulations are under review and are subject to change. Please check the Web Calendar at umanitoba.ca for updated information.

The provisions of the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, and the chapter, University Policies, apply to all students. In addition, the Faculty of Dentistry has regulations and requirements, published below that apply specifically to its students.

3.1 Instruments Computers and Textbook,

Students entering the Faculty of Dentistry will be expected to own or purchase a laptop computer that is compliant with University computer standards (see Bookstore - Computers on Campus for annual listing) and Vital Source Technology software requirements. The expenditure of a computer may range approximately from $$ 1000$ to $$ 4000$ within the first year of the program. The Vital Source Technologies costs over the four year program is approximately $$ 4000$ USD and depending on the Canadian exchange rate, students will be required to make four annual payments of approximately $$ 1000 /$ year to cover the full costs. These costs replace former textbook expenditures.

Students are responsible for clinic educational fees, the purchase of some instruments ('kit') and other sundry items as may be necessary or required. Over the four years of dentistry, the costs of such instruments/fees has been approximately $$ 44,000$ (see fee schedule); the bulk of the expenditure is incurred in the first two years. "Specific items and instruments purchased by students are their property*. The faculty is unable to accept returns of any student computer software, clinic (kit) fees, instruments or other items should a student leave the faculty for whatever reason and upon graduation.

* Under review and subject to change. Please contact the faculty for further information.

3.2 Criminal Record/Child Abuse Registry,

An adult criminal record and child abuse registry selfdeclaration will be required of all applicants at the time of application. A formal Adult Criminal Record Check (including vulnerable sector screening) and a formal Child Abuse Registry Check is required at the time of registration, and annually thereafter keeping in accordance with existing policies of other health, education and social service programs at the University of Manitoba.

Failure to provide these documents may impact on registration and a student's ability to progress in the Dental program.

3.3 Immunization and Blood Borne Diseases Policy,

 Note: This policy is under review. Please consult the Faculty of Dentistry for further information.All students enrolled in the Faculty of Dentistry must be immunized against the following diseases:
diphtheria/tetanus, polio, rubella, measles, mumps, varicella (chicken pox) and hepatitis B. Students must be tested for tuberculosis if a suspected exposure occurs. Students who cannot be immunized because of allergies or for other reasons must provide a physician's certificate to verify these reasons.

Before the first day of classes, all students must complete the University of Manitoba Immunization Record Form provided by the Admissions Office. A physician or nurse must sign immunization records. All students are responsible for updating their immunizations as needed.

Students will not be permitted to attend clinics until all immunization requirements are up-to-date

3.4 CPR Certification,

Accepted candidates will be required to show proof of CPR certification by October 15 of each year. The CPR Certification level required by the Faculty of Dentistry is:
Health Career Provider (HCP CPR Level C). This certification must be maintained on a yearly basis up to the date of graduation.

3.5 Attendance,

See the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements. The Faculty of Dentistry has additional regulations that can be found in the Student Handbook, available on-line via the Faculty's web page (umanitoba.ca/dentistry).

3.6 Voluntary Withdrawal,

Students intending to withdraw from a portion or all of their courses must report immediately in person or in writing to the Dean's Office. No fees will be refunded without the authorization of the dean. Please Note: Computer Software, Clinic and Kit fees and/or kit items are nonrefundable. See also the chapter on General Academic Regulations and Requirements.

Students who withdraw from the Faculty of Dentistry without notice will be considered to have terminated their connection with the faculty. If a subsequent application for registration is approved, they will be required to conform to the rules and regulations, fee schedules, sequence of courses, etc., in effect at the time of such subsequent application.

In cases where a student is obliged to withdraw after the final date of withdrawal published in the Calendar because of ill health or other sufficient reasons, their cases will be considered by the dean of the faculty.

3.7 Required Withdrawal,

The Senate of the university has approved bylaws granting certain faculties and schools the authority to require a student to withdraw on the basis of unsuitability for the practice of the profession to which the program of study normally leads. Senate has approved such a bylaw for the Faculty of Dentistry, and is available from the Dean's Office.

3.8 Decisions Concerning Academic Promotions,

The letter grade " $D$ " is the lowest acceptable level of performance in each undergraduate course leading to the degree of D.M.D. when the work of any given year is being taken for the first time. (In the case of a repeated year, the minimum passing grade in each course is " C ".)

A student who has a failing grade registered against him/her may not register for the program of the subsequent year, but may, at the discretion of Dental Faculty Council, be permitted to repeat the failed year.

A minimum term GPA of 2.0 in each year is required to qualify a student for standing in that year.

A student who fails to obtain a minimum term GPA of 2.0 and who is not granted supplemental privileges will be considered to have failed the year.

Except by special permission of Dental Faculty Council, no student may repeat more than one year in Dentistry, nor may any year be repeated more than once.

The work requirements of any repeated year may be modified, even increased, at the discretion of the Dental Faculty Council.

The passing grade in each course of a repeated year in Dentistry is " C ".

If a student receives an " F " grade in a fourth year clinical course, they will be required to register and pay a fee for the entire repeated year, and the work in that year may be modified or even increased by Dental Faculty Council.
3.9 Incomplete Standing in the Faculty of Dentistry, The incomplete " $(\mathrm{F})$ " designation is restricted to clinical courses.

Successful completion of course requirements is through extended clinics rather than supplemental assessment.

A student who is unable to complete the quantitative clinical requirements in a course by the end of the academic year may apply for an incomplete grade classification ["1(F)"] and extension of time. Details of this application procedure can be found in Dentistry's "Student Handbook" (on-line).
3.10 Supplemental Examinations,

A "Supplemental Examination" is an examination which may be offered as a privilege to a student who has failed a course or failed to achieve a satisfactory result. Such examinations are offered in order to grant the student an opportunity to rectify the inadequacy without repeating the course.

Information on Supplemental Examinations can be found in the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements at the beginning of this Calendar. Specific information on The Faculty of Dentistry's supplemental privileges can be found in Dentistry's "Student Handbook" (on-line).

3.11 Honours and Awards,

Dean's Honour List: awarded to students in each year of the dental program who have achieved a minimum sessional (fall & winter term combined) G.P.A. of 3.8.

To qualify for Graduation with Honours, a candidate for the D.M.D. degree must qualify for the Dean's Honour List in both third and fourth year.

A student who repeats a year at his/her own request, i.e., not at the request of Dental Faculty Council, is not eligible for the Dean's Honour List or to receive any awards for the work in that repeated year.

The following policy applies to the eligibility of part-time students for academic awards: in allocating any award, the only academic performance of a student to be considered is that attained during the year(s) for which the award is made. Therefore, a part-time student is not eligible for any purely academic award, other than one in an individual course. However, a part-time student who is carrying 80 per cent or more of the normal course load for the year is eligible for any award where conditions other than academic merit apply, and further, subject to the provisions set forth above, any part-time student is eligible for any award in the individual courses taken in the year for which the award is made.

3.12 E-Mail Accounts,

All students are expected to have an e-mail account with the University of Manitoba and check it regularly. The Faculty of Dentistry does not support communications with its students through external e-mail addresses.

3.13 Financial Aid,

A number of loan and bursary funds are available to dental students. Applications and further information are available in the Dean's Office and through the University of Manitoba's Financial Aid and Awards Office.

3.14 Registration Exceptions,

Students who have a failing grade/s registered against them and/or have other outstanding academic matters (i.e. deferred or supplemental examinations, modified program, etc.) in regards to the previous academic session will not be allowed to register using Aurora Student. Students who fall into this category should contact the student advisor for further information. A student advisor is available in D028 Dental Building or by calling (204) 789-3484.

Registration holds will also be placed on students who have outstanding non-academic matters (i.e. outstanding criminal record and child abuse registry checks, CPR requirements, Vital Source fees, etc.)

3.1.1 Criminal Records and Child Abuse Registry

The Minister of Education for the Province of Manitoba requires that background checks be conducted on all candidates for teacher education in Manitoba and on all applications for certification for this province. Accordingly, all applicants offered admission to Bachelor of Education programs will be required to complete the "Child Abuse Registry & Statement of Criminal Record(s) Self-Declaration" form as a condition of final acceptance to the program. Only adult convictions must be disclosed, and the existence of such a record will not automatically exclude applicants.

In addition to the above self-declaration all successful applicants will be conditionally admitted pending clearance of an official Criminal Record Search (including Vulnerable Sector search) and clearance from the Child Abuse Registry. Registration will not be permitted until these clearances are received. Failure to clear or failure to provide these documents by the stated deadline will result in admission offer being revoked.

Applicants should also be aware that the Professional Certification Unit will also require students graduating from the Bachelor of Education program to undergo a criminal record check, including vulnerable sector screening as part of the certification process. Information on the "Child Abuse Registry & Statement of Criminal Record(s) Self-Declaration" is included in the admission bulletin available from the Enrolment Services/Admissions, 424 University Centre and the website:
umanitoba.ca/student/admissions/application/education/.

3.2 Admission Procedure,

Application forms are available online at umanitoba.ca/student/admissions/application/education. Completed applications with supporting documentation must be submitted by February 1.

3.3 Program Requirements,

REMINDER: While Education academic advisors are available to clarify faculty and university regulations and degree requirements, it is the student's responsibility to ensure that degree and program requirements are met.

All continuing students are required to complete and submit a "Child Abuse Registry & Statement of Criminal Record(s) Self-Declaration" form prior to registration for every year they are enrolled in the Bachelor of Education program.

Returning students planning to take School Experience (EDUB 1960, EDUB 1970, EDUB 1980, EDUB 2960, EDUB 2970, or EDUB 2980) during the upcoming Regular Session must make application for a School Placement no later than February 1. Forms will be available from the Student Services Office, Room 225 Education Building, Faculty of Education, beginning December 15. Failure to apply for School Placement by February 1 may result in students being denied a placement.

Academic Requirement for Graduation
A Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA) of 2.50 is required for graduation in the Bachelor of Education.

Academic Standing

A minimum DGPA of 2.50 must be maintained in the Bachelor of Education for clear standing. A grade of " C " is considered a passing grade for Education courses.

Additional Academic Considerations
Each student in the Faculty of Education is presumed to be generally suited to a teaching program. Should this prove not to be the case, the Faculty reserves the right, at any time, to require a student to withdraw from the Bachelor of Education degree program. Unsatisfactory performance in School Experience courses may be considered reason to require a student to withdraw from the faculty. See Professional Unsuitability By-Law in this section.

Appeal Procedures

The general university policy for appeal of assigned grades applies to the Faculty of Education. See the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Policy, of this Calendar,
Appeals of Assigned Grades. Information about admission decision appeals may be found in the chapter, Admissions.

Application Deadline for School Placement

Returning students planning to take School Experience (EDUB 1960, EDUB 1970, EDUB 1980, EDUB 2960, EDUB 2970 or EDUB 2980) during the upcoming Regular Session must make application for a School Placement no later than February 1. Forms will be available from the Student Services Office, Room 225 Education Building, Faculty of Education beginning December 15. Failure to apply for School Placement by February 1 may result in students being denied a placement.

Integrated B.Mus./B.Ed. students planning to take School Experience (EDUB 1940, EDUB 1950) during the Summer Session must make application for a School Placement no later than November 1. Forms will be distributed in midOctober. Failure to apply for School Placement by November 1 may result in students being denied a placement.

Assessment of Student Academic Performance

Academic performance is assessed at the end of each regular term in which the student is registered on all courses that are used for credit towards the B.Ed. degree. Decisions concerning academic standing are normally made upon initial completion of 15 credit hours.

Based on the Degree Grade Point Average attained in these courses, the following decisions with respect to the student's eligibility to continue as a Faculty of Education student will be made. Normally,

- The student with a minimum of 2.50 is eligible to proceed;
- The student who passes all courses, but whose DGPA is a 1.99 to 2.49 is placed on academic probation; and
- The student whose DGPA is less than 1.99 is required to withdraw on academic grounds (suspension).

Academic Probation

Students placed on academic probation may continue on probation until he or she has completed an additional 15 credit hours of required degree coursework. To clear probation, a student must raise his/her DGPA to 2.50 by the end of the probationary period. Normally, students on probation who fail to raise the DGPA to at least 2.50 will be required to withdraw on academic grounds (suspension) for a period of two years.

Academic Suspension

Students who have been required to withdraw on academic grounds will be informed via registered mail. These students may not register at the university for two academic years. Following this period, students wishing to pursue a Bachelor of Education degree, must make a written request for reinstatement. The following will apply in such cases:

- No application for reinstatement will be considered before a minimum period of two academic years has lapsed from the effective date of the required withdrawal to the effective date of the requested reinstatement.
- The applicant will be expected to demonstrate that he or she will now be able to meet the academic requirements of the program
- The Associate Dean (Undergraduate) will take into consideration:
- performance in pass/fail courses;
- use of academic and personal supports in the program; and
- life circumstances affecting academic performance
- If the student is reinstated after the time limit for program completion has expired (see Statute of Limitation), the Associate Dean (Undergraduate) shall determine which, if any, courses previously successfully completed shall be repeated or replaced.

Attendance at Class/Debarment

Regular attendance is expected of all students in all courses. An instructor can initiate procedures to debar a student from attending classes and from final examinations where unexcused absences in a single course exceed three hours of scheduled classes.
See the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, Attendance at Class and Debarment.
Continuing Students
See the chapter, University of Manitoba Admissions.

Dean's Honour List

Students registered in a minimum of 12 credit hours within a single term and who achieve a Term Grade Point Average of 3.90 or better will be included in the Dean's Honour List. Grades for coursework taken on a letter of permission and used towards the Bachelor of Education degree will be used in meeting the eligibility requirements for the Deans Honour List.
Students receiving failing grades in education coursework where such coursework is required to earn the Bachelor of Education degree and/or student teaching will not be eligible for the Dean's Honour List.
Eligible students must be enrolled in either the After Degree Bachelor of Education program or the Integrated Bachelor of Music/Bachelor of Education program.

Degree with Distinction

A student graduating from the Bachelor of Education program will have the degree granted "With Distinction" if a minimum DGPA of 4.20 has been attained on all courses that are used for credit towards the B.Ed. degree. This distinction will be noted on the parchment and on the student's transcript.

Gold Medal

The Gold Medal is awarded each year to the B.Ed. graduate who has the highest Grade Point Average (minimum 3.75) in the last 60 credit hours of the B.Ed. degree and who has completed at least 80 per cent of what is considered to be the normal full course load in each of the last two years of the program.

Grading Scale

| Letter Grade | Grade Point | Level of Achievement | Percentage Range |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| A+ | 4.50 | Exceptional | 95 and above |
| A | 4.00 | Excellent | $90-94$ |

| C | 2.00 | Adequate | $70-74$ |
| D | 1.00 | Unacceptable | $60-69$ |
| F | 0.00 | Failure | Below 60 |

Incompletes

See the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, Academic Evaluation.

5000-level courses

Students enrolled in the B.Ed. and the Integrated B.Mus./B.Ed. programs are not permitted to take 5000-level courses.

Leave of Absence

Application to return for a School Placement must be made by the above stated deadline.
Any student returning to resume studies after an interval of absence is expected to conform to any new requirements that have been adopted during their absence.

Part-Time Programs

Opportunities for part-time study are available in all streams as well as the integrated programs. In any of the program streams, the curriculum and instruction courses and the practicum experience for each year must be taken concurrently. All Year 1 course requirements must be completed before proceeding to Year 2. Integrated B.Mus./B.Ed. students must complete Years 1 to 4 inclusive before proceeding to Year 5. When exceptions are permitted, they would normally only be allowed as a result of scheduling conflicts, unavailability of courses scheduled on a rotating basis, compassionate grounds or other exceptional circumstances. Part time students should note that not all curriculum and instruction courses are offered every year (see Application Deadline for School Placement). Students can begin part-time studies in the first year provided they successfully complete 3 credit hours of Education coursework from the Year 1 program requirements. Failure to do so will result in ineligibility to continue in program and require re-application and readmission.

Professional Unsuitability By-Law

The Senate of the University has approved a by-law granting authority to the Faculty of Education to require a student to withdraw from the Faculty for reasons of professional unsuitability. A student may be required to withdraw from the Faculty when, at any time, the Professional Unsuitability Committee has determined that the student is unsuited, on consideration of competence or professional fitness, for the practice of teaching.
Copies of this by-law may be obtained from the Faculty of Education website.

Required courses which receive a grade of "D" must be repeated. Complementary courses which receive a grade of "D" must be repeated or replaced with other complementary courses. Courses which receive a "C" grade or higher grade may be repeated; but, only with the consent of the Associate Dean, Undergraduate Programs.
Education courses may only be repeated once. When a course is repeated, the last grade achieved will be used in calculating the Degree Grade Point Average.
Early Years and Middle Years students who fail a school experience course will normally be required to repeat all of the Curriculum and Instruction courses related to that year's practicum.
Weekend College Middle Years students who fail Curriculum and Instruction course(s) may not be able to complete their program through this scheduling option, given that a new intake is every other year.
Senior Years and Integrated B.Mus./B.Ed. students who fail a school experience course will normally be required to repeat the Curriculum and Instruction courses associated with that practicum. Students who fail a Curriculum and Instruction course will normally be required to repeat the practicum course associated with that curriculum area.

Statute of Limitation

The normal maximum time allowed for the completion of the B.Ed. degree is six years from the date of admission.

Supplemental Examinations

Supplemental examinations are not permitted in education courses.

Voluntary Withdrawals

See the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements.

In this case, students must make formal request in writing to the Associate Dean, Undergraduate Programs.
Students in the Senior Years Stream may request written permission to complete additional Curriculum and Instruction courses, provided they have previously completed the course requirements for this additional major/minor and where there is space in that Curriculum and Instruction course. Where permission is granted, students may substitute this credit for three credit hours of complementary EDUA 1500 Aboriginal Education

SECTION 8: Post Baccalaureate Diploma in Education

The Faculty of Education offers a Post Baccalaureate Diploma in Education (PBDE) designed for teachers and other professionals.

The unique features of the PBDE program are that students can: design their own program of study and tailor it to their own areas of interest; take courses at the Faculty of Education as well as at other faculties and schools at the U of M or other approved institutions. A wide selection of courses is available through Summer Session, distance education, via the internet and summer institutes.

This program is also used for Internationally Educated Teachers who require additional coursework to meet Manitoba Teaching Certification requirements.

The PBDE is recognized by Manitoba Education for salary classification purposes. Further, the PBDE program provides the opportunity for teachers to follow courses of study leading to the school counsellor, special education and special education coordinator certificates, and to partial fulfilment of the requirements of the school administrators' (Level 1) and principals' (Level 2) certificates, all of which are issued by Manitoba Education. For information regarding specialist certificates, contact: Professional Certification Unit, Manitoba Education, Box 700, Russell, Manitoba, R0J 1W0; telephone toll free at: 1-800-667-2378, or 1-204-773-2998,

1.3 The Profession of Engineering,

Engineers use fundamental principles and energy sources from the natural world and direct them to the benefit of people. They interpret science in terms of material human needs and manage personnel, money, and materials. The profession is involved in all aspects of construction and manufacturing, including conceptualization, design, preparation of plans and specifications, and fabrication of products to meet predetermined standards of reliability and performance. Engineers acquire competence through instruction in basic sciences, mathematics, and engineering sciences; by introduction to the processes of synthesis and design; by complementary studies in the humanities, social sciences, and management; and by learning from the skills and experience of more senior engineers during the early years of employment.

The educational objective in the Faculty of Engineering is to prepare students for positions of leadership in a world where engineering, science, and management are of major importance.

SECTION 2: Admission to the Faculty of Engineering Direct admission into the Faculty of Engineering from high school:

Applicants who have completed Chemistry 40S, Mathematics 40S (pre-calculus), and Physics 40S with a minimum overall average of 85 per cent, and no grade lower than 60 per cent in any one course, may be admitted to Engineering directly from high school.

From University 1 and/or other Faculties:

A minimum of 8 of the 12 courses in the preliminary engineering program, section 4.2 , each with a minimum grade of " $C$ ", and a minimum Adjusted Grade Point Average (AGPA) of 2.0. Acceptance to a department is competitive. Courses must be completed within ten years of the application date in order to be considered for transfer credit.

Other requirements

The university written English and mathematics requirements are satisfied by the English (ENGL 1310) and mathematics (MATH 1510, MATH 1710 and MATH 1210) courses in the preliminary engineering program.

Chemical Engineering at the University of North Dakota

The University of Manitoba has an agreement with the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, N.D., which allows students to obtain a degree in chemical engineering from the University of North Dakota by taking the Preliminary Engineering program at the University of Manitoba and three years at the University of North Dakota. The chemical engineering program at the University of North Dakota is accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology in the United States and is recognized by the Association of Professional Engineers and Geoscientists of Manitoba. Information on this program may be obtained from the Student Advising Office, E1-284 EITC.

SECTION 3: Academic Regulations

The provisions of the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, and the chapter, University Policies, apply to all students. In addition, the Faculty of Engineering has regulations and requirements, published below, which apply specifically to its students.
Notwithstanding the regulations given in this section, the Faculty Council of Engineering reserves the right to rule on individual cases in exceptional circumstances.

3.1 Appeals

Students who feel that they have received unfair treatment in a course should appeal to the instructor. If the matter is not thereby resolved, it should be raised with the Department Head, or the Associate Dean (Undergraduate). Students wishing to appeal their academic status should write to the Associate Dean (Undergraduate), Committee on Standing and Appeals, E1-284 EITC before August $15^{\text {th }}$. Information regarding this process is available from the Student Advising Office, E1-284 EITC.

3.2 Attendance,

When the number of unexcused absences recorded against a student in the Faculty of Engineering in any course exceeds 10 per cent of the number of lectures and laboratories for that course the instructor may report the case to the Dean of Engineering. When a student's attendance or work continues to be unsatisfactory, the instructor has the authority to exclude the student from classes, or examinations, or both. Such cases shall be reported to the Faculty Council of Engineering at the first opportunity. Students who are excluded from an examination for inadequate attendance in a compulsory course are required to repeat the course.

3.3 Categories of Students,

A student shall normally register for three to six courses in a term. Registration for more than six or fewer than three courses in a term must be approved by the Department Head or, in the preliminary program, by the Associate Dean (Undergraduate).

Full-Time Student: Full-time students are those who are registered in at least 15 credit hours (considered 100 per cent) for the regular academic term of their specific programs. 80 per cent of a full course load is 12 credit hours; 60 per cent is 9 credit hours.

Part-Time Student: Part-time students are those who are registered for less than 15 credit hours for the regular academic term.

3.4 Complementary Studies Electives,

Complementary studies electives are an integral part of the curriculum. Their purpose is to broaden the student's experience beyond the purely scientific and technical content of engineering. They include studies in engineering economics and the impact of technology on society, as well as the central issues, methodologies and thought processes characteristic of the humanities and social sciences. Opportunities for development of the student's oral and written communication skills are also provided. The coursework requirements may vary from one department to another. XXX.09X0 courses will not be allowed as complementary studies electives ARTS 1110 Introduction to University may not be used for credit in the Faculty of Engineering.

3.5 Course Selection,

When arranging a program of study, a student must satisfy the following requirements:

- All prerequisite and corequisite course requirements must be met.
- All previously failed compulsory courses must be repeated. Students will require assistance with registration due to a block on the AURORA registration system which does not allow more than two repeats.
- Students are not normally allowed to repeat courses graded "C" or higher, except under special circumstances with the approval of the Department Head.
- Failed elective courses may be repeated or replaced with alternative elective courses.

Prerequisite Course: A prerequisite course must have been completed with a " $C$ " grade or better before a subsequent course can be attempted. Under exceptional circumstances, a course instructor may waive, subject to approval by the Department Head (or designate), a prerequisite requirement.

Corequisite Course: A corequisite course must be taken concurrently or before its companion course. Under exceptional circumstances, a course instructor may waive, subject to approval by the Department Head (or designate), a corequisite requirement.

3.6 Examinations,  Deferred Examinations

Deferred Examinations (See Chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements of this Calendar for details) are normally scheduled to take place within 30 working days from the end of the examination series from which the examination was deferred. The date of the deferred examination for a particular course will be set by the Dean's Office no later than January 15, May 15 or July 7, and in consultation with the instructor.

Special Examinations

A student who has attempted to meet all requirements for the degree and has a single failure in their final session, in an engineering course, can apply for a special examination in that course. Special examinations may not be requested for any other reason. However, a special examination may be given on the recommendation of a Board of Examiners under exceptional circumstances. A special examination is given in addition to the regular examination. The grades from both examinations are retained on the student's record, and both are used in the calculation of TGPA and DGPA. The results of special examinations must be reported to the Faculty Council of Engineering. The special examination privileges apply only to courses offered by the Faculty of Engineering.

Supplemental Examinations

The Faculty of Engineering does not provide supplemental examinations.

Challenge for Credit

Courses offered in Engineering may not be challenged for credit.

3.7 Foreign Language Requirements for co-op and non-co-op Students,

There are some opportunities for undergraduate co-op and non-co-op students to work in foreign countries. However, there are foreign language requirements that must be fulfilled before placement can be considered. Students interested in foreign work assignments should acquaint themselves with these language requirements by consulting with their department head as soon as possible after their entry into the Faculty of Engineering.

3.8 Grading and Assessment,

All grades awarded by instructors for undergraduate courses offered in the Faculty of Engineering are reviewed by examiners' boards, which comprise all of the instructors in the student's program year. After approval by department councils, they are presented to the Faculty Council of Engineering for acceptance. Following is a list of assessments which will occur at end of each of the terms (fall, winter, and summer):

Term Grade Point Average (TGPA)

Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA)

The DGPA is computed from the final grades obtained in all courses attempted as part of a student's current degree program and courses transferred from other faculties and other institutions. Where a course has been repeated or replaced by an approved equivalent course only the last grade shall be included in the computation.

Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA)

The CGPA is computed from the final grades in all undergraduate courses attempted at the University of Manitoba and courses transferred from other faculties and other institutions.

Dean's Honour List

A continuing student who achieved a Term Grade Point Average (TGPA) of 3.50 or higher in their most recent academic assessment will be placed on the Dean's Honour List. The assessment is based on a minimum of 12 credit hours. A graduating student who achieved a Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA) of 3.50 or higher in their final academic evaluation will graduate on the Dean's Honour List.

Awards

A number of scholarships, bursaries and other academic awards are available to Engineering students. For information concerning awards (prizes, scholarships, and bursaries), please visit the Faculty website.

These three courses will count for 6 of the 18 required credit hours. iii) Any course offered by the Faculty of Music may be used for credit toward the minor. However, permission to register for any course must be granted by the Faculty of Music.

3.10 Professional Registration,

In order to practice engineering in any province or territory in Canada, it is necessary to be a member of the professional engineering association of that province or territory. The requirements for membership are acceptable academic preparation and a subsequent period of acceptable engineering experience gained under the supervision of a registered professional engineer. The undergraduate programs in Biosystems, Civil, Computer, Electrical, Manufacturing, and Mechanical Engineering are accredited by the Canadian Engineering Accreditation Board (CEAB), reflecting acceptable academic preparation for membership in the association of professional engineers in any province or territory in Canada. Through a mutual recognition agreement, the programs are recognized as satisfying accreditation requirements in the United States, the United Kingdom, Ireland, New Zealand, Australia, and Hong Kong.

Graduates of an accredited program are eligible to apply for membership as an engineer-in-training, in the association of professional engineers in their province of residence in Canada. After a period of acceptable experience, they are eligible to apply to the association for registration as a professional engineer in that province.

3.11 Requirements for the Bachelor's Degree ,

The requirement for a Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering is a grade of " C " or better in all required and elective courses in the student's program. All other students are governed by the rules in effect at the time of their first registration in Engineering.

A student must complete at least 50 per cent of an engineering degree program as a full-time student in the Faculty of Engineering. Unless otherwise approved by the Dean of Engineering, students must complete all degree requirements within seven calendar years after being accepted into an Engineering department.

Degree with Distinction

A student who on graduation achieves a Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA) of 3.80 or higher is awarded the degree "With Distinction."

Criteria for Medal Awards

The Faculty of Engineering Program Gold Medal shall be awarded to the graduating student in each engineering program who has achieved the highest Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA) (minimum of 3.80) with no distinction as to full- or part-time status. The program Medal will be awarded at spring Convocation to the student who has completed that program in the past academic year (including October and February graduands).

The University Gold Medal for the Faculty of Engineering shall be awarded to the graduating student in the Faculty of Engineering who has achieved the highest Degree Grade Point Average (DPGA) (minimum of 3.80 ) for the entire program with no distinction as to full- or part-time status.

3.12 Student Progress and Academic Status,

 Students shall be evaluated at the conclusion of each academic term in which they receive a final grade in a minimum of 6 credit hours of course material (excluding Special Student credit hours), with the assessment being based on the resulting Term Grade Point Average (TGPA) in those courses. This assessment shall be based on only those courses which form part of the student's Engineering Program. The academic assessments are as follows:
Good Academic Standing

A student with a TGPA of 2.00 or higher is in Good Academic Standing.

Academic Warning Letter

The first time the student's TGPA drops below 2.00, he/she will receive an Academic Warning. Students who receive such a warning are required to meet with an academic advisor from their department or, in the preliminary program, with the Associate Dean (undergraduate).

Academic Probation

The second time that a student's TGPA drops below 2.00, the student will be placed on Academic Probation.

Required to Withdraw

The third time that a student's TGPA drops below 2.00, the student will be Required to Withdraw. Students who receive such a suspension shall be ineligible to take Engineering courses from the end of the term for which the suspension was issued through to the start of that same term in the subsequent academic year (normally, a period of 8 months.)

In order to be reinstated following the suspension period, the student must submit a written application for reinstatement to the Associate Dean (Undergraduate). Applications must be made by August 14, for reinstatement by September 1, or December 7 for reinstatement by January 1.

Ineligible to Proceed in Engineering

a) The student's TGPA drops below 2.00 for a fourth time, or;
b) The ratio of credit hours passed to credit hours attempted for that student drops below $75 \%$, and the student has attempted a minimum of 72 credit hours.

Starting Afresh

Students who have become Ineligible to Proceed in Engineering may apply to the Dean for permission to start their degree afresh, should they wish to return to the Faculty of Engineering.

At the discretion of the Dean, a student may start afresh in an engineering program after a minimum period of two years from their last academic assessment by the Faculty of Engineering, and may request to transfer up to 40 credit hours in which a minimum grade of " $\mathrm{C}+$ " was achieved. All previous courses will remain on the student's academic transcript, but will not be applied to their new program.

3.13 Limit on Time in the Preliminary Engineering Program,

Students admitted to the Faculty of Engienering shall have two years to complete the minimum course requirements and submit a program declaration form for transit into an Engineering department. In the case of students admitted to the faculty through the Engineering Access Program the limit shall be three years.

Students who fail to meet this criterion shall be required to withdraw from Engineering. Such students may subsequently apply to be reinstated after successfully completing all courses forming the Preliminary Engineering Program.

3.14 Students Transiting to Departments,

Students will be accepted into department programs based on the following criteria. Direct entry or University 1 students who have completed 8-12 Preliminary program courses by

May 1st of each academic year will be ranked and admitted on a competitive basis based on the average of the best eight marks in courses in the Preliminary Engineering program.

Students transferring in from programs, faculties, or colleges will have all courses or equivalent courses that are required in a particular engineering program transferred in, including failed grades ("D's" and "F's") in those courses. In addition, students should be aware that the Faculty evaluates an individual's eligibility to proceed in an Engineering program based on credit hours passed versus credit hours attempted, as described in Section 3.12. Students are advised to consult with the Undergraduate Student Services Office (Engineering) if there is concern as to their standing under this rule.

Direct entry students must complete a program declaration form by May $1^{\text {st }}$ in order to indicate their program of choice. Students from University 1 and other faculties must apply by May $1^{\text {st }}$ through the Admissions Office.

3.15 Use of Calculating Devices,

For courses offered by the Faculty of Engineering in which the use of devices capable of calculations is permitted in tests or examinations, such devices must be incapable of receiving and/or transmitting signals. Instructors wishing to restrict devices to certain capabilities must inform students, in writing, within the first week of term. Questions concerning the suitability of any given device should be directed to the course instructor(s).

3.16 Withdrawal from Courses,

The responsibility for initiating withdrawals rests solely with the student, and no voluntary withdrawals are permitted after the deadlines for voluntary withdrawal without academic penalty (see the chapter, General Academic Regulations and Requirements, of this Calendar). For documented medical or compassionate reasons, Authorized Withdrawals may be permitted by the Dean.

A student who, after registering for courses, in any term, becomes ineligible to proceed in Engineering or receives an Engineering Suspension will be withdrawn from his or her Intersession/Summer Session program.

The Engineering Access Program (ENGAP) recognizes that students of Aboriginal ancestry may be challenged with geographic and economic barriers, and/or lack of access to academic preparation, which may make them unable to meet the faculty's admission requirements. ENGAP serves as a specifically designed post-secondary program that provides an opportunity for students to complete their Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering. The program accomplishes this objective by offering upgrading courses in mathematics, chemistry, and physics, as well as providing academic advice, personal and family counselling along with financial supports. Aboriginal students who do meet the regular requirements may still wish to join the program to benefit from these supports.

University of Manitoba

The Department of Biosystems Engineering offers an accredited degree program in Biosystems Engineering. Biosystems Engineering emphasizes the application of engineering princi-ples to biologically-based systems (plants, animals, and microorganisms). The program is designed to give students knowledge of the fundamental principles of engineering and to introduce biological concepts to enable these engineers to successfully interact with relevant professionals when solving engineering problems involving biological systems. The program is offered in both a traditional and a co-operative education format. The department currently offers an Environmental Option, although no new students will be admitted to the Environmental Option effective September 2012 because the Environmental Option has been replaced with a Specialization. The department now offers five Specializations (Agricultural, Biomedical, Bioprocessing, Environmental, and Sustainable Building Systems) and one Minor (Agribusiness). With the appropriate selection of elective courses, the bachelor's degree in Biosystems

Program Core Courses

Any course at the 1000level or above from the faculties of Arts or Management, or the Department of Agribusiness and Agricultural Economics can be used as a complementary studies elective. However, ARTS 1100 Introduction to University may not be used for credit in the Faculty of Engineering. Other university courses which do not cover topics of science or engineering may also be acceptable. Please consult with the department head (or his/her designate) for approval of such courses.

Free Electives

Any university course at the 1000-level or above can be used as a free elective. However, ARTS 1100 Introduction to University may not be used for credit in the Faculty of Engineering.

Environmental Option

The departments of Biosystems Engineering and Civil Engineering offer an Environmental Option which provides an opportunity for stu-dents to focus on environmental engineering related courses. Successful completion of the Environmental Option will be indicated on graduates' transcripts. Students selecting the Environmental Option within the Biosystems Engineering department will have the

Co-operative Education Program in Biosystems Engineering

Coordinator: N. (Nazim) Cicek

Co-operative education is a process of learning which formally integrates the student's academic study with work experience in industry, government, and the profession. The work terms provide you with practical experience, help finance your education, and provide guidance for further career specialization. At the time of your first placement, you will have completed 80 credit hours of your program and be in a position to make a contribution in the workplace. You must be in good academic standing to enter the co-operative education program.

Students typically start their first co-op work term in May after completion of the winter term of their second year. The work term is 4 months, but can be extended to 8 months. In this case, students would replace one academic term with a work term. Students generally enter their next co-op work term in May of the following year. September and January starting times may be possible if students are willing to postpone an academic term.

Acceptance into the program is dependent upon the student re-ceiving a job placement in consultation with the department's cooperative education coordinator. Once a job place-ment has been secured through the coordinator, the student is accepted into the program and enrols in course BIOE 2000 Cooperative Work Study 1, BIOE 3000 Cooperative Work Study 2, or BIOE 4000 Cooperative Work Study 3 as appropriate. To pass these courses, students must prepare a work term report. The cooperative education coordinator assigns faculty advisors to mark work term re-ports; reports are given grades of "Pass" or "Fail." In order to remain in the co-operative education program, a student must maintain a minimum DGPA of 2.00 and must obtain a grade of "pass" for each work term report. All rules and regulations of the Faculty of Engineering apply. Students who do not maintain these stand-ards may not remain in the co-operative education program. Each successfully completed cooperative education course carries one credit hour. A graduate who successfully completes BIOE 2000, BIOE 3000, and BIOE 4000 will have the words "Co-operative Education" appear on their transcript.

4.6 Civil Engineering

The Department of Civil Engineering offers a fully accredited degree program in Civil Engineering. Graduates of the Civil Engineering program are academically qualified to register as Engineers-in-Training in engineering licensing bodies in Canada. The Civil Engineering program is designed to give students a broad knowledge of engineering principles and professional practice. The program has a strong core component that provides exposure to a range of areas in Civil Engineering, including - but not limited to - the design of building and bridges, the design of facilities and methods for treatment of water, waste water and solid waste, the design of foundations and earthworks such as dams and river bank protection, transportation planning, the design of roads and pavement, the design of hydraulic structures such as sewers, canals, and spillways, and the management of surface and ground water. In the last years of the program, there are some opportunities for specialization through selection of technical elective courses. A cooperative education option allows students to include practical work experience in their program.

Civil Engineering Degree Program

Students are to consult with the department for four and fiveyear program plans. Students are expected to follow the program plans when possible, as timetabling and course offerings are based on these plans.

Environmental Engineering Option

An option in Environmental Engineering provides an opportunity for students to focus on environmental engineering related courses.

Student Support

Summer employment for a limited number of undergraduate students may be offered by the Department of Civil Engineering. Typical duties include assisting academic staff members with their research projects. Laboratory Safety Students entering Civil Engineering are required to attend a seminar on laboratory safety. The seminar will normally be held in September.

Co-operative Education Option in Civil Engineering

The Department of Civil Engineering offers a co-operative education option that provides a combination of education and experience by alternating academic terms with work terms. Students generally apply for the co-op program in their fourth term of engineering studies. Entry into the program is competitive. Acceptance is based on GPA and general aptitude, and is contingent upon receiving a work term placement through the co-op office. The Department of Civil Engineering reserves the right to determine and select the best-qualified applicants.

University of Manitoba

Students who are unable to maintain the standards of the co-op program will be transferred back into the regular program.
The course and grade requirements for completion of the Co-operative Education Option are the same as those required for the regular program. However, in order to satisfy course prerequisite requirements, timetables may differ from the regular program. Co-op students are evaluated in the same manner as regular students and all rules and regulations of the Faculty of Engineering apply. Written reports must be completed at the end of each work term. Each successfully completed work term and its corresponding work term report receives a Pass/Fail grade. Co-op graduates with a passing grade in at least three work terms will have the Co-operative Education Option cknowledged on their B.Sc. (C.E.) graduation parchment.

Head: Dr. U. Annakkage, P.Eng.
Associate Head (Computer Engineering): Dr. W. Kinsner, P.Eng.

Associate Head (Electrical Engineering): Dr. C. Shafai, P.Eng.

The Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering offers two fully accredited degree programs, one in Electrical Engineering and one in Computer Engineering. Both programs may include an industry internship. The programs are designed to give students knowledge of the basic principles of engineering and, in particular, an adequate training and education in the fundamentals and professional applications of Electrical and Computer Engineering. It is recommended that students entering Electrical or Computer Engineering acquire their own computer.

Industry Internship Program (IIP)

Director: Dr. R. McLeod, P.Eng.
Coordinator: Elenor Friesen
The Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering offers an Industry Internship Program. This program is designed to complement and enrich the academic program with practical work experience. Preceding the final year, a student in either the Electrical Engineering or the Computer Engineering program has the option of spending a continuous work term period of 12 to 16 months in industry.
This work term provides the student with practical experience, helps to finance the student's education, and provides guidance for further career specialization.

A student in good academic standing, who will have completed 120 credit hours of the academic program by the end of the session, may apply to participate in the Industry Internship Program. Acceptance in ECE 4720 Industry Internship is dependent upon the student receiving job placement.

Satisfactory work reports, which will be evaluated by faculty members in the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering, are required upon returning in order to have this participation recorded in the student's transcript.

Preliminary Engineering Program

Common to all Engineering programs. (See Section 4.2 for details.)

Second Degree in Electrical or Computer Engineering

Requirements include:

1. The completion of all deficient third and lower year courses required for the second degree. If a student has already taken any of these courses as fourth year electives towards the first degree, then they will not have to repeat or replace the courses already taken.
2. The equivalent of a full fourth year program required for the second degree, i.e., twelve half courses. This must include:
i) A second thesis on a different topic relating to the field of the second degree
ii) All the fourth year course requirements of the second degree. If a student has already taken one or more of the required fourth year courses during their first degree, then they must replace these courses by other appropriate fourth year courses as approved by the Department Head. For example, core courses common to both programs must be replaced by fourth year electives from the Department.

Electrical Engineering Degree Program

The program in Electrical Engineering has a core-pluselective structure. The core develops the necessary base in mathematics, the physical sciences, dynamics, thermodynamics, electric fields and circuits, and fundamental professional courses focused on energy conversion and transmission, electronics, materials and devices, communications, and control systems. The final year includes a capstone group design project, control systems, and communication systems as core requirements, with the remaining program based on electives. A certain level of specialization is possible through the selection of elective courses offered in the final year.

The student's program must include a three credit hour complementary studies elective. Courses in engineering economics, technical writing, and ecology, technology and society are compulsory.

Students are encouraged to consult with the department for model four- and five-year programs. Students are strongly encouraged to follow the model programs when possible, as timetabling and course offerings are based on these.

The Department of Mechanical and Manufacturing
Engineering offers fully accredited degree programs in Mechanical Engineering and Manufacturing Engineering. Students entering the Mechanical Engineering program in September 2009 for the 2009/2010 regular session and thereafter may spe-cialize with an option in Aerospace or Manufacturing, or a stream in Ma-terials, Solid Mechanics, or Thermofluids. No new students will be accepted into the Manufacturing Engineering program as of September 2009. Students are urged to consult appropriate program requirements shown for each program/option.

The Mechanical Engineering program provides the education required by those who wish to practice in Mechanical Engineering that embraces, among other subdivisions, the design of mechanical devices and systems, manufacturing engineering and management, computeraided design and computer-aided manufacturing, power generation and utilization, air con-ditioning, the material sciences, and the aeronautical sciences. The pro-gram places special emphasis on the use of computers in solving engineering problems.

The Manufacturing Engineering program is comprised of a thorough study in the engineering sciences followed by courses directly related to the field. The students will acquire creative and analytic skills to apply sci-entific approach to study macro/micro components of manufacturing sys-tems. Advanced technologies such as robots, computer controlled machine tools, automation, mechatronics, production control methods and analysis of manufacturing systems and processes will be emphasized.

Both programs offer basic training in the sciences, mathematics and funda-mental engineering subjects followed by more specialized discipline-related subjects. During the programs, arrangements are made for conduct-ed visits to local power and industrial plants. Stu-dents are allowed to choose technical electives to suit their career objec-tives and are also required to take complementary studies electives related to social issues.

Co-operative Education Programs  Director: R. Derksen  Co-op Coordinator: Bernice Ezirim

The Department of Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering offers a Co-operative Education Program in which academic study is complement-ed and enriched with practical work experience. The work terms provide students with practical experience, assistance in financing their education, and guidance for future career specialization.

Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering Students who have successful-ly completed all courses in first year and first term of second year of Engi-neering are eligible to apply for admission into the program. Admission to Co-op occurs during the first academic term of second year for placement in May. Final acceptance into the program is dependent upon the student receiving a job placement through the Cooperative Education office. Stu-dents may seek employment on their own, but must consult with the Co-op Coordinator before doing so. Upon acceptance, Mechanical Engineer-ing students enrol in the course MECH 2050, Mechanical Engineering Co-operative Education Assignment (and subsequently, MECH 3050, MECH 4050, and the optional MECH 4060) for the specific work term of employ-ment. Corresponding courses for the Manufacturing Engineering program are MECH 3910, MECH 3920, MECH 4910, and the optional MECH 4920.

Each successfully completed work term and its corresponding work term report are rated at one credit hour. Graduates who successfully complete at least three work terms and the required work term reports will have the words "Co-operative Education Option" printed on their diplomas.

For more information regarding the Co-op Program requirements, please see the Co-op Coordinator.

Mechanical Engineering Industry Internship Program (MEIIP)

The Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering Department offers an In-dustry Internship Program in Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering. Upon successful completion of 120 credit hours, a student has the oppor-tunity of spending a continuous work term period of twelve to sixteen months in industry. Interested students may apply in the first term of third year. After an internship placement has been secured the student registers for course MECH 4930. One technical report is submitted upon comple-tion of the internship. Students may obtain additional information from the Co-op Coordinator.

Through the IEEQ Program, IEGs
-Meet requirements for academic qualification with APEGM and, upon successful completion of IEEQ program requirements, become registered with APEGM as a Member-in-Training; and,

- Earn a Post-Baccalaureate Diploma in Engineering from the University of Manitoba.

The provisions of Section 3: Academic Regulations apply to all students. In addition, the IEEQ Program has regulations and requirements that apply specifically to its students that may differ from the academic regulations in Section 3.
Details on regulations and requirements not included below are provided to students upon their admission into the IEEQ program, and can be found on-line at umanitoba.ca/engineering/ieeq

4.12.2 Admission Requirements and Application Procedures

The IEEQ Program can accept applicants whose Confirmatory Exam assignments by APEGM correspond to one of the six accredited undergraduate engineering programs offered in the Faculty of Engineering.

Program entrance is normally in September of any given year. In order to be admitted to the IEEQ Program, the student must:

SECTION 2: Admission to the Clayton H . Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources

2.1 Admission

Effective for September 2013, the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources will offer two entry options: Direct entry from high school OR Advanced Entry (transfer from University 1).

Direct Entry:

Direct entry from high school will require Manitoba high school graduation, with 5 full credits at the Grade 12 level with a minimum $85 \%$ average (and a $60 \%$ minimum) in English 40S, Mathematics 40S (Pre-calculus or Applied), and one of Social Studies 40S, Biology 40S, Chemistry 40S, Physics 40S or one "Designated Course 40S' including Economics, Law, Psychology and Current Topics in First Nations, Métis and Inuit (FNMI) Studies

From University 1 :

Most students who have completed less than 24 credit hours at another post-secondary institution will complete the first year of their degree program in University 1. In University 1, students will select courses from a wide variety of offerings in Faculties across campus. For information about University 1, see the Chapter on University 1 in this Calendar.

University 1 students are encouraged to apply for admission to a degree program in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources once they have completed 24 credit hours of course work and have met the minimum entrance requirements of their intended degree program. Students must apply to be considered eligible for admission to the Riddell Faculty. Application information is available from the Admissions Office, Enrolment Services, 424 University Centre. This information is also available in the Riddell Faculty general office, 440 Wallace Building, and is posted on the University's website (umanitoba.ca/admissions). Click to apply for Admission.

Faculty admission is determined on the basis of a 2.00 Grade Point Average on a minimum of 24 credit hours of course work from a recognized institution. Note: For students completing the Bachelor of Arts in Geography, entry is based on a Degree Standards Table.

Degree programs may define additional entrance requirements and students are referred to the appropriate section of this Chapter for further details as follows:

Section 5: Bachelor of Arts in Geography Degree Regulations and Program Description.

Section 6: Bachelor of Science in Physical Geography Degree Regulations and Program Description.

Section 7: Bachelor of Environmental Science and Bachelor of Environmental Studies Degree Regulations and Program Descriptions.

Section 8: Department of Geological Sciences: Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences - Geology, Geophysics, and General Degree Regulations and Program Descriptions.

2.2 Transfer Students,

Students applying for admission from other recognized universities or colleges are called 'transfers students'. For the University of Manitoba's general policy on transfer of credit and advanced standing, refer to the Admissions website: umanitoba.ca/admissions.

To be eligible for admission to the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources, transfer students must have completed no fewer than 24 credit hours of university level course work and satisfied the minimum performance requirements of the intended degree program. Transfer students who have completed less than 24 credit hours must register in University 1 or Extended Education to complete the required credit hours of course work. Students with more than 24 credit hours who are not admissible to the Riddell Faculty should consider applying to Extended Education as their alternative choice.

Students on academic suspension as a result of work completed at another post-secondary institution or another Faculty will not normally be considered for admission to the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources until the suspension has been served.

Transfer of Credit

The University of Manitoba assesses transfer credit as a part of the application process. Assessment of prior course work for admissions or transfer credit will only take place after your application has been submitted. The University of Manitoba transfer credit equivalencies database is now available as a reference tool to look up current course assessments. Please take note of the guidelines outlined on the database access page as these course assessments are subject to change.

See the Admissions section of this Calendar. Courses completed at an external institution ten years prior to registration in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources are not considered for transfer of credit. Students should contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor regarding transfer credit.

University of Manitoba

Visiting students may apply for admission to the Clayton H . Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources on the basis of a Letter of Permission from the Registrar or appropriate Dean of her/his home institution. Certain restrictions may be placed on the kind and number of courses in which a student will be allowed to register. Visiting students may wish to contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office for further information.

2.4 Second Degree Students,

Students possessing a first degree from a recognized university program with a minimum Cumulative Grade Point Average of 2.00 on their first degree may be eligible for admission as a Second Degree student provided they have completed the minimum coursework entrance requirements for their intended degree program.

Second Degree requirements may be shortened by up to 60 credit hours and, once admitted, students will be expected to satisfy all continuation and graduation requirements in the degree program. Second Degree students are not required to satisfy the University Written English and Mathematics requirement. See a Riddell Faculty student advisor for specific information on degree requirements following completion of the first degree.

2.5 Special Students,

After Degree Special Student

Students who have successfully completed a first degree from a recognized university program with a cumulative Grade Point Average of 2.00 or better are eligible for admission as Special Students.

2.6 Auditing Students,

Students who wish to audit courses must have written permission from the instructor of the desired course before they can register. Auditing students must register in-person in the Riddell Faculty general office. The Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources prohibits auditors from registering in courses until after the initial access period.

SECTION 3: Degree Regulations and Services Applicable to all Programs in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources

3.1 Courses Offered in Other Faculties and Schools Acceptable for Credit in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources,
Students who are registered in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources may take any course offered by another faculty or school for credit towards their degree, subject to permission from the department head (or designate) and/or a Riddell Faculty student advisor.
3.2 Available Minors in Departments and Faculties,

Students in the Bachelor of Environmental Science, Bachelor of Environmental Studies, Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences (Geology and Geophysics) and Bachelor of Science in Physical Geography degree programs may, if they wish, declare and complete a Minor from departments and interdisciplinary programs in which a Minor is offered. Students registered in the B.A. Geography (General; Advanced) and B.Sc. Geological Sciences (General) are required to complete a Minor prior to graduation. Students may not, however, declare both their Major and Minor from the same subject area. For example: a student in B.A. Geography program may not declare a minor in physical geography; a student in Environmental Science program may not declare a minor in Environmental Studies, etc.. Students can declare only one minor. For specific requirements to complete a Minor, please refer to the relevant Faculty/School's chapter in the Academic Calendar & Catalog.

It should be noted that for Honours students any consideration of completing a Minor should be made early due to restricted opportunities in later years in their programs. Students in the B.A. Geography (Honours) may not declare a Minor.

A Minor will normally consist of at least 18 credit hours, with a minimum of 12 credit hours being at the 2000-, 3000-, and 4000 -levels (although there are some exceptions). It should be noted that no course can be used as part of a prescribed Honours or Major program and also be part of a prescribed Minor. An alternate course will have to be selected to satisfy the Minor requirement. For example: if a course in Economics is part of the student's Major or Honours program in B.Env.Sc., then that course may not be used as part of a Minor in Economics.

Students planning to enrol in the I.H. Asper School of Business [Management Minor] must consult a Riddell
Faculty student advisor as enrolment in this minor program is limited. The Management minor consists of any 18 credit hours in courses offered by the Asper School of Business.

3.3 University Written English and Mathematics

 Requirement,Students are required to complete the University Written English and Mathematics requirement as outlined in the General Academic Regulations, Section 2: Residence and Written English and Mathematics Requirements in this Calendar. It is recommended that students complete these requirements while in University 1 or in Year 2 of their program.

A list of all courses that satisfy the Written English and Mathematics requirements can be found in Section 2.3 Approved English and Mathematics Courses of this Calendar. Course numbers of designated written English courses are marked with a 'W' and designated Mathematics courses are marked with an ' $M$ '.

Students may wish to consider GEOL 1410W Natural Disasters and Global Change (3), GEOG 2900W Geography

University of Manitoba
of Canadian Prairie Landscapes (3), GEOL 3130W Communication Methods in the Geological Sciences (3), GEOG 3480W Canadian Problems (3), GEOG 3580W Landforms (6), GEOG 3900W Geography of Manitoba (3), and/or GEOG 3810M Quantitative Research Methods in Geography (3) to satisfy these requirements. In addition, the Department of Environment and Geography offers several courses annually through Distance Education that satisfy the 'W' requirement.

3.4 University 1 Requirements of Faculty of Arts and

For course subjects taught by the Faculty of Arts refer to the Chapter Faculty of Arts for a complete listing.

3.5 Changes in Program Requirements,

Once students have successfully completed any portion of a degree program, they will not be required to meet new course requirements subsequently stipulated for that portion of the program, whether the requirements be for the Faculty or for an individual degree program. Students are required to complete their program in its entirety as outlined in the Calendar effective upon the point of admission to the Faculty and program.

3.6 Prerequisite and Corequisite Courses,

Definitions for prerequisite and corequisite courses are outlined in the Chapter, General Academic Regulations, Section 3: Course Identification of this Calendar.

3.7 Course Availability,

All courses listed in this Calendar are not offered every year. The course(s) offered for the current academic term are published in the Class Schedule.

The Department of Environment and Geography offers numerous courses under the following course numbers: GEOG 3770 Special Topics in Geography (3), GEOG 4670 Selected Issues (3), GEOG 3740 Field Studies in Geography (6), GEOG 3750 Field Studies in Geography (3), GEOG 3760 Special Topics in Geography (6), ENVR 2010 Field Topics in Environment (1.5), ENVR 2020 Extended Field Topics in Environment (3), ENVR 3000 Multidisciplinary Topics in Environmental Science (3), ENVR 3010 Field Topics in Environmental Science 1 (1.5), ENVR 3020 Extended Field Topics in Environmental Science 1 (3), ENVR 4000 Multidisciplinary Topics in Environmental Science (3), ENVR 4010 Field Topics in Environmental Science 2 (1.5), and ENVR 4020 Extended Field Topics in Environmental Science 2 (3).

3.8 Repeated Courses and Attempted Credit Hours,

 Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources students are subject to the University of Manitoba regulations (see General Academic Regulations, Section 5.1.3: Repeating a Course as described in this Calendar) and the Riddell Faculty degree regulations regarding eligibility to repeat a course. Repeating a course will not result in the removal of the first attempt and grade in that course from the student's record. The course will appear on the transcript as many times as it has been repeated. Only the grade from the last attempt will be included in the calculation of the cumulative and degree Grade Point Average, unless otherwise stipulated by the degree program.Students who wish to repeat a course must contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor for approval prior to registration and complete the Request to Repeat a Course form available on the Riddell Faculty web page

There is no limit to the number of credit hours permitted in the degree programs in the Faculty provided a student does not exceed the credit hour limit of failed courses stated for specific programs.

3.9 Voluntary Withdrawals,

The responsibility for initiating withdrawals rests solely with the student. When eligible to do so, Voluntary Withdrawals must be done through Aurora Student. No withdrawals will be permitted after the deadlines posted in the Academic Schedule.

There is no limit on the number of Voluntary Withdrawal hours a student can accumulate.

3.10 Authorized Withdrawals,

Students who have valid and documented reasons for withdrawal, such as medical illness or compassionate circumstances, may be authorized to withdraw without penalty. Requests for authorized withdrawals must be submitted in writing to a Riddell Faculty student advisor. The Office of Student Advocacy located at 519 University Centre (474-7423, student advocacy@umanitoba.ca) is available to provide information and assistance.

3.11 Residence Requirement,

Students are required to complete a minimum number of credit hours at the University of Manitoba. Students should refer to their degree program in the appropriate section for further information:

5: Bachelor of Arts in Geography Degree Regulations and Program Description and Courses Offered by

6: Bachelor of Science in Physical Geography Degree Regulations and Program Description and Courses Offered by

7: Bachelor of Environmental Science and Bachelor of Environmental Studies Degree Regulations and Program Descriptions and Courses Offered by

8: Department of Geological Sciences: Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences - Geology, Geophysics, and General Degree Regulations and Program Descriptions and Courses Offered by

The courses used to satisfy the residence requirement must be acceptable for credit by the degree program in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. Residence requirements apply to both first and second degree students.

3.12 Letter of Permission to Take Courses at Another University,

Students wishing to complete courses at another institution for credit at this university must obtain written permission (Letter of Permission) from the Registrar's Office prior to registering at the other institution or no credit will be permitted. Any earned grades are transferred and form part of the degree Grade Point Average, when applicable. Students who register for courses elsewhere without a Letter of Permission must reapply to the Faculty.

Students who are on academic suspension may not elect courses at another institution for credit toward an Environment, Earth, and Resources degree at this university.

Attendance at Other Institutions

Students who attend other post-secondary institutions without a Letter of Permission must reapply for admission to the Faculty before the application deadline and be academically competitive for admission. Similarly, students registered in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources may not be registered at another academic institution at the same time unless they are registered elsewhere on a Letter of Permission. The penalty for unauthorized or undisclosed attendance may be disciplinary withdrawal or academic suspension.
3.13 Dean's Honour List,

A student's eligibility for the Dean's Honour List designation is evaluated after each term.

Students enrolled in a minimum of 12 credit hours of course work during a term and who achieve a term Grade Point Average of 3.50 or higher will be placed on the Dean's Honour List. The Dean's Honour List designation will appear on the student's transcript of marks.
3.14 Academic Warning, Probation and Academic Suspension (Academic Standing),

Students shall be evaluated after each academic term in which they receive a final grade in a minimum of 4 credit hours, with the assessment being based on the resulting Degree Grade Point Average (DGPA). This assessment will determine a student's academic standing to be: faculty minimum met, academic warning, on probation, suspension warning, or academic suspension.

Faculty Minimum Met

To be in good standing and permitted to continue in a degree program, a student must achieve a 2.00 Degree Grade Point Average at each point of assessment and the notation 'Faculty Minimum Met' will be recorded on the student's transcript of marks. Note: For students completing the Bachelor of Arts in Geography, Faculty Minimum Met is based on a Degree Standards Table found in section 5.2.2.

Degree programs may define additional performance requirements for continuation and graduation. Students are referred to the appropriate section of this Chapter for further details as follows:

Section 5.3: Bachelor of Arts in Geography.
Section 6.3: Bachelor of Science in Physical Geography.
Section 7.3: Bachelor of Environmental Science and Bachelor of Environmental Studies.
Section 8.3.1: Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences - Major.

Section 8.3.2: Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences - Honours.
Section 8.3.3: Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences - General.

Academic Warning

Students will receive an academic warning if, at the point of assessment following a term, s/he fails to achieve the required minimum performance level. The notation 'Academic Warning' will be recorded on the student's transcript of marks.

On Probation

Those who fail to meet the required minimum performance level following an Academic Warning assessment will be placed on probation. The notation 'On Probation' will be recorded on the student's transcript of marks.

Suspension Warning

Those who fail to meet the required minimum performance level following an On Probation assessment will be placed on Suspension Warning. The notation, 'Suspension Warning' will be recorded on the student's transcript of marks.

Academic Suspension

Those who fail to meet the required minimum performance level following a Suspension Warning assessment will be placed on Academic Suspension for One Year. The notation, 'Academic Suspension for One Year' will be recorded on the student's transcript of marks. A student placed on academic suspension is not allowed to register in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources during the duration of the suspension.

University of Manitoba

A student will be placed on academic suspension for two years under the following circumstances:

- Upon return from one year suspension, the student fails to attain a 2.00 degree grade point average in the following two terms after the probationary assessment (see a Riddell Faculty student advisor for information).

The Faculty calculates that it is mathematically impossible for the student to clear his/her probationary standing by the following assessment period.
The student exceeds the maximum number of credit hours of failed courses.
The notation, 'Academic Suspension for Two Years', will be recorded on the student's transcript of marks. Those serving two-year suspensions are required to start the degree afresh should they choose to return to the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. Students may appeal for transfer of credit up to 30 credit hours in courses in which a minimum grade of 'C' was achieved.

Students should consult with a Riddell Faculty student advisor for further assistance in clearing their academic warning, on probation, suspension warning, or academic suspension academic standing.

3.15 Academic Misconduct,

Academic misconduct is intentional cheating, fabrication, impersonation, or plagiarism. It is also knowingly helping or attempting to help others to be dishonest. Academic dishonesty lowers scholastic quality and defrauds others who will eventually depend on their own knowledge and integrity.

Plagiarism or any other form of cheating on examinations, term tests, or assignments is subject to academic penalty as serious as suspension or expulsion from the Faculty or University.

Students who are unsure of what constitutes academic misconduct should refer to the regulations in the ChapterGeneral Academic Regulations, Academic Integrity: Plagiarism and Cheating in this Calendar and consult with your professor or instructor.

3.16 Termwork and Debarment,

A student is responsible for the completion of laboratory work, assignments, tests and other class work as prescribed by the course syllabus. A student who does not meet termwork requirements to the satisfaction of the Associate Dean (Academic) will receive a warning to this effect. If this warning is ignored, a student may be debarred from the course. Any student debarred from a course receives an automatic grade of ' $F$ ' in that course.

3.17 Deferred Examinations,

A student who is unable to write a final examination because of illness or other incapacity or compassionate reasons should contact a student advisor in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. The appropriate documentation (i.e. a medical certificate or otherwise appropriate documentation certifying the reason for the missed exam) will be required. Students are reminded to contact their home faculty (and not the faculty through which the course is offered). Please see the missed exam information on the faculty website. Refer to the Chapter General Academic Regulations, Academic Evaluation: Deferred Examinations in this Calendar for further information.

3.18 Challenge for Credit,

Some departments at the University of Manitoba offer courses by means of challenge of credit. Since the courses offered in this manner may vary from year to year, any student wishing to challenge a course for credit should contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources general office. The Academic Schedule of this Calendar contains the relevant registration deadlines dates appropriate to challenge for credit.

3.19 Appeals Involving Academic Regulations,

 The Student Appeals and Discipline Committee in the Faculty considers appeals from students who request special consideration with respect to the rules and regulations governing their degree program and qualifications for graduation.Appeals should be addressed to: Student Advisor, Secretary Student Appeals and Discipline Committee, General Office, Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources, 440 Wallace Building.

3.20 Student Advisor Office Hours,

Monday through Friday: 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Email: Faculty Environment@umanitoba.ca

3.21 Student Responsibility,

It is your responsibility to be familiar with the regulations, courses, and graduation requirements of your degree program. You are advised to review the appropriate sections of this Calendar carefully when selecting your courses to ensure compliance with degree program requirements. If you are not sure of how regulations and requirements apply to your case, please consult a Riddell Faculty student advisor. Since a complete graduation check is not done until you have declared your intention to graduate, you are encouraged to make an appointment with a Riddell Faculty student advisor prior to your initial registration access date to confirm you are meeting the degree requirements. Ultimately you are responsible to ensure compliance with degree program requirements.

Please contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor about declaring your graduation date.

Note: While we welcome the opportunity to assist you, it is important for you to realize that it is your responsibility to be familiar with university and Riddell Faculty academic regulations and registration procedures as they are described in this calendar.
3.22 Maximum Number of Courses During a Term, You may attempt a maximum of 15 credit hours in any one term unless otherwise stipulated by your program. If you wish to exceed the normal load you may apply in-person at the Faculty General Office, or complete the Application to Exceed Credit Hours form available on the Riddell Faculty web page (umanitoba.ca/environment/undergraduate).

3.23 Course Space Availability,

The initial registration access time is based on academic performance; therefore, space in all courses is available on the system from the beginning of the registration period for Fall and Winter terms.

3.24 Registration, Student Responsibilities

Know your registration time. Registration information is available on the Registrar's website under Registration.

It is the students' responsibility to ensure that all preregistration approvals are completed and that all prerequisites and program approval hold have been removed prior to the registration access period. Most students who do not complete this requirement will experience a program approval hold when they access Aurora Student.

Steps to confirming your registration access:

1. Review your program requirements and if required, complete yourAdvance/Major/Honours Program Approval form. The Program Approval form is available at the Riddell Faculty webpage:
umanitoba.ca/environment/undergraduate. The Program Approval Hold will only be removed when your course selection has been approved by the student advisor.

Students completing the Bachelor of Arts in Geography (General) or the Bachelor of Science in Geological Sciences (General) do NOT need program approval prior to registration.
2. Obtain all required departmental permission that pertain to waivers for pre-requisites, space, and timetable conflicts.

3. Complete your registration through Aurora Student.

4. Students interested in transferring between degree programs (i.e. switching from a Major to Honours, or from Major to Major Coop) must acquire the approval and submit to the student advisor in 440 Wallace Building.
5. Declaring a graduation date: Students are encouraged to declare a grad date as early as possible, and to come to the Dean's Office, 440 Wallace, to have a Riddell Faculty student advisor review your graduation requirements.

What Aurora Student cannot do:

Aurora Student will not check degree requirements. You are responsible for knowing the requirements of your degree. Consult a Riddell Faculty student advisor for advice and assistance if degree requirements are unclear.

You cannot add or change a course classification through Aurora Student. Therefore, if you are an undergraduate student and wish to take a course as an Auditor, or as Challenge for Credit, you must add this course in-person in the Riddell Faculty general office within the normal deadlines for such activity.

Aurora Student will not prevent a student from registering in two (or more) courses that are designated not to be held for credit with one another. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that they are not registered for courses that are ineligible to be held for credit with one another. Read the carefully. If you are unsure about a course you have selected, check with a Riddell Faculty student advisor prior to the revision deadline. No academic concessions will be granted in this regard.

Have you been away for a While?

Students who have been away from the Riddell Faculty for more than a year cannot use Aurora Student until they have consulted a Riddell Faculty student advisor. Students who have attended another post-secondary institution since their last registration at the University of Manitoba must normally re-apply for admission.

SECTION 4: Department of Environment and Geography

4.1 Academic Staff,

Please refer to the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources Academic Staff website.

4.2 Undergraduate Programming in the Department of Environment and Geography,

The fields of study in this department can be divided into four overlapping areas: environmental sciences, environmental studies, human geography and physical geography. These areas are built on a diverse range of academic frameworks or foundations, including: natural, physical and social sciences, education, law, agriculture, management, medicine, humanities and architecture.

Environmental Science applies scientific knowledge from many disciplines to issues and questions relating to an increasing human population, the sustainability of resource use, degradation caused by pollution and disturbance, and the endangerment and extinction of species and natural systems. Environmental Studies applies the theory and practice of group and organizational communication, understanding public policies and programs that underscore environmental concerns, and the need to integrate diverse social, institutional, political and legal considerations inherent in attaining environmental objectives. (Students have the opportunity to focus advanced studies in one of several areas, defined through consultation with a Riddell Faculty student advisor.)
"Human Geography examines how people have been influenced by the environment and how, in turn, they have left their mark on the environment," Dr. Daniel Todd, Human Geographer. Students may choose to focus their studies into one of several areas including Human-Environment Relations, Urban and Rural Development, Social Cultural Geography, Population, Resources and Development, and Area Studies.

Areas of physical geography include the study of the environment through aspects of atmospheric science, geomatics, biogeography, and hydrology. Streams are currently available in Atmospheric and Hydrological Sciences, Geomatics (an emerging subfield, referring to the techniques of spatial data acquisition, handling and analysis) and Physical Geography.

Potential careers for graduates of these programs include a diverse array of possibilities in the natural sciences, social sciences, or a combination of both. Graduates are poised to assume positions where they identify and analyze the local, regional, national, and global patterns that shape our lives. As well, technical skills such as geographic information systems and remote sensing are demanded in several of the environmental sectors. Graduates of these programs can expect to enter the workforce in private, government, research, or not-for-profit sectors.

4.3 Cooperative Education Option,

A Cooperative Education Option is available to students registered in either the Major or Honours degree programs in Environmental Science, Environmental Studies, or Physical Geography. Coop is an arrangement whereby students spend alternating periods in university and employment. There are several advantages to a cooperative education program for students. One benefit is that students are able to acquire both theoretical knowledge and practical experience. This experience assists them in selecting areas of specialization for their senior courses in their chosen Stream. As well, Coop assists students in their professional development by enhancing networking opportunities, participation in conferences and workshops and provides the foundation of skills and strategies required in searching and acquiring employment after graduation. Students can also defray some of the costs of their university education through these work term placements. Further information about Cooperative Education and student eligibility is available from a Riddell Faculty student advisor available in the Faculty general office.

Students electing to participate in the Cooperative Education Option will be assessed a program fee with their formal admission into the program. Once a student has accepted a position with a Coop employer, no portion of the program fee will normally be refunded.

The Cooperative Education Option consists of two employment work terms, each over a minimum period of four months, and contributes 6 credit hours towards the four year degree program. Students complete ENVR 2900
Professional Development 1 (1.5), ENVR 3900 Professional Development 2 (1.5), work term placements ENVR 3980
Work Term 1 (0), ENVR 3990 Work Term 2 (0), and the work term report courses ENVR 3910 Work Term Report 1 (1.5) and ENVR 3920 Work Term Report 2 (1.5). Additional work terms are available to interested students. Each academic term and each employment term commence in January, May or September. While on an employment term, a Cooperative Education Option student is not permitted to take more than three additional credit hours of academic work outside of the requirements of the Coop placement without permission of a Riddell Faculty student advisor.

Students are required to register in the appropriate Coop courses and pay course fees prior to beginning their placement.

For more information, please visit the Riddell Faculty Cooperative Education Program webpage.

5.1 Program Information

There are four broad categories of courses in the Geography discipline: physical geography is concerned with physical features on and over the globe; human geography examines the products of human activity; regional geography attempts to achieve a synthesis of physical and human geography of a particular place; and techniques in geography focus on analytical methods.

The attraction of Geography as a discipline lies in its diverse interests and approaches to knowledge building while being centred on the fundamental concepts of human-environment relations, location/place and space/ distance. Geographers see the world and want to know how physical processes and systems shape the land, air, water, flora and fauna around them and how these are influenced by human activity. We want to know how human societies, cultures, and economies work and how these human systems are interdependent with each other and with natural systems. We work at a variety of geographic scales, from the micro-scale of local communities and regions, through the macro-scale of global human and physical systems. Geography embraces the study of topics as wide-ranging as: weather and climate, population distribution, agricultural systems, globalization, landforms and geomorphology, environmental perceptions, health and healthcare, and biogeography. Therefore, by selecting courses from within the department, as well as complementary courses from other academic units of the University, students can develop fascinating, focused and challenging degree programs that will prepare them for careers in a variety of areas.

The General degree in Geography provides students with a basic level of understanding of the discipline and its interrelationships. This degree is also a useful consideration for students planning to complete the After-Degree Bachelor of Education program (see the Faculty of Education chapter of this Calendar). The General degree program may be completed entirely by Distance Education (see the Distance Education Guide for further details). The Advanced degree program in Geography provides opportunities for students who desire a broad geographical education along with a reasonable degree of specialization in a particular field of Geography. Students planning a professional career or a high degree of specialization in Geography are strongly advised to enter the Honours degree program. The Honours degree demands the highest scholastic performance of all programs available. Students are strongly advised to enter an Honours degree program with their admission to the Bachelor of Arts in Geography. Consultation with the department head is also advised.

Structure of the B.A. Geography Degree Program

The structure of the B.A. Geography degree is summarized as follows:

A Geography (Major) component that varies in credit hour requirement depending on the degree program; 30 credit hours in the General; 51 credit hours in the Advanced; and 69 credit hours in the Honours. Students are not permitted to declare a second major.

Advanced and General degree students must complete a Minor in a subject field that is different than that of the declared major, and may be chosen from one of the other programs in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. Students in the B.A. Geography are not permitted to complete a Minor in Physical Geography. The Minor requirements are described in section 3.2 of this Chapter. Contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office for further information about eligible Minors.

Students must complete 5 subject fields with 6 credit hours in each ( 30 credit hours). For example: 6 credit hours in Geography, plus 6 credit hours in Environmental Science, plus 6 credit hours in Geological Sciences, plus 6 credit hours in Anthropology, plus 6 credit hours in Native Studies.

Students must also complete 6 credit hours in Humanities and 6 credit hours offered by the Faculty of Science.

Humanities

For course subjects taught by the Faculty of Arts that can be used towards the Humanities requirement, refer to the Chapter for the Faculty of Arts, Additional Faculty Regulations and Policies section. Music (i.e. all courses listed for Advanced Major and Minor programs except ensemble courses) and History of Art (i.e. all courses listed with course prefix FAAH) may also be eligible courses. Students should see a Riddell Faculty student advisor for further information.

Note: Students can satisfy the requirement for a Humanity, and/or Arts, or Science and at the same time satisfy the Written English or Mathematics requirement and one of the 5 subject fields required with the same 6 credit hours of courses.

The qualifications of the degree programs are summarized as follows:

To be in good standing and permitted to continue in a degree program, a student must achieve the minimum standards outlined for his/her degree program at each point of assessment. For General degree students, this includes the Degree Standards Table outlined above in 5.2.2, as well as the requirements outlined in 5.3.1. Students in the Advanced and Honours degrees are required to satisfy the requirements listed in 5.3.1. Minimum academic performance is based on the degree Grade Point Average and number of failed courses. Prior to each registration, Advanced and Honours degree students must

6.1 Program Information

Physical Geography includes the study of the environment through aspects of atmospheric science, geomorphology, biogeography, and hydrology, all of which draw upon the natural and applied sciences to understand the natural environment. Atmospheric sciences examine the physical and biophysical processes at and near the earth's surface shaping climate and determining the weather. These processes are examined over cascading scales, local to global. Hydrology studies the flow of water between the Earth's surface and the atmosphere, including the quantity and quality of water resources as well as the spatial variability in the hydrologic cycle. The examination of processes at the earth's surface and the associated landforms is called geomorphology. Various sub-disciplines in geomorphology include weathering and erosional processes, volcanoes, glacial and river systems. Biogeography studies the interrelationships between the biospheric environment and the physical environment. Formation of soils, ecosystem and biome cycles and components, as well as human interaction with the physical environment are all topical areas in biogeography.

Geomatics is an emerging field referring to the techniques of spatial data acquisition, handling, and analysis. Included within this field have been geographic applications of computer analysis and spatial modeling, spatial statistics, remote sensing technology, and geographic information systems. Many of these techniques have their origins in the applied sciences, but both physical and human geographers have contributed greatly to their development and application. The application of such methodologies in geographic fields, such as resource management, urban geography, climate change, and applied geography has also provided closer co-operation between human and physical geography, as well as promoting considerable interdisciplinary research with other University disciplines.

The Major and Honours B.Sc. degree programs in Physical Geography serve students who desire advanced study in the academic subject matter of various themes contained within Physical Geography. The Honours program in particular is intended for students interested in the opportunity for exposure to advanced geographic research. As such, the Honours program demands higher academic performance. Students who are ineligible to enter Honours in their second year may establish this in the following year on the basis of their improved scholastic performance. The degree programs may be pursued on a full or part-time basis.

Minor in Another Department

Students in the B.Sc. Physical Geography have the opportunity to complete a Minor in a subject field that is different than that of the declared Major, and which normally consist of 18 credit hours from a department offering this option at the University of Manitoba. Students in the B.Sc. Physical Geography are not permitted to complete a Minor in the B.A. Geography. Students can declare only one Minor. The Minor requirements are described in section 3.2 of this Chapter. Contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office for further information about eligible Minors.

Streams

Students are required to complete a stream approved by a Riddell Faculty student advisor. Students in the Major or Major (Coop) programs are required to complete a minimum of 30 credit hours of 2000- (or higher) level courses, of which at least 18 credit hours must be at or above the 3000-level. The B.Sc. Honours and Honours (Coop) programs require students to complete 39 credit hours in a Stream, of which at least 24 credit hours are defined at or above the 3000-level and must include GEOG 4660 Honours Thesis (6). Streams are currently available in Atmospheric and Hydrological Sciences, Geomatics and Physical Geography. See the department and/ or a Riddell Faculty student advisor for current information about these Streams.

Major

To qualify for the degree, Bachelor of Science in Physical Geography (Major), a student must complete 120 credit hours with passing grades ('D' or better) and a minimum degree grade point average of 2.00. Major (Coop) students must attain a minimum degree Grade Point Average of 2.50 . Students must complete all faculty requirements. There is no limit to the number of credit hours a student completes provided he/she does not exceed 18 credit hours of failed courses.

Honours

To qualify for the degree Bachelor of Science in Physical Geography (Honours and Honours Coop), a student must complete 120 credit hours with passing grades ('D' or better) and a minimum degree grade point average of 3.00 in the courses that constitute the degree. Students must complete all faculty requirements. There is no limit to the number of credit hours a student completes provided he/she does not exceed 18 credit hours of failed courses.

7.1 Program Information

The Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources offers General, Major, and Honours degree programs leading to a Bachelor of Environmental Science (B.Env.Sc.) and Bachelor of Environmental Studies (B.Env.St.). Through an interdisciplinary approach, environmental issues relating to human populations, sustainable resource development, pollution and conservation, environmental health, and endangerment and preservation of species are explored in conjunction with alternative conditions that have the potential to reverse current trends and contribute to ecological sustainability. Students have access to undergraduate courses offered by the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources as well as the Faculties of Agricultural and Food Sciences, Arts, Law, Engineering, Architecture, and Science in order to complete their education. They are expected to take many courses outside the Riddell Faculty enabling them to obtain a truly interdisciplinary education.

The Major and Honours degree programs serve students who desire advanced study in an environmental field. The programs are intended for students interested in professional training and the opportunity for advanced research. Honours degree programs demand higher academic performance and lead most directly to graduate studies. Students who are ineligible to enter the Honours degree program in their third year may establish this in the following year on the basis of their improved scholastic performance. See a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office for information. The degree programs may be pursued on a full- or part-time basis.

The B.Env.Sc. and B.Env.St. degree programs share a general structure that includes a foundation of either introductory Sciences or Social Sciences/ Humanities. Students complete an environmental core and a Focus Area that is defined through consultation with a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office. Students completing the General degree program are required to complete 9 credit hours in a Focus Area; Major, Major Coop, Honours and Honours Coop students complete 33 credit hours in a Focus Area. Other Focus Area requirements are defined in the graduation requirements in section 7.3.1 in this Chapter. You may also refer to the Focus Area Brochure for further information.

General

To qualify for the degree Bachelor of Environmental Science (General) or Bachelor of Environmental Studies (General), students must complete 90 credit hours including all faculty and degree requirements (including the foundation, environmental core and 9 credit hours of minimum 2000level courses in a Focus Area). Minimum performance requirements include passing grades ('D' or better) in each course and a minimum degree Grade Point Average of 2.00. There is no limit to the number of credit hours a student completes provided he/she does not exceed 48 credit hours of failed courses.

Major

To qualify for the degree Bachelor of Environmental Science (Major) or Bachelor of Environmental Studies (Major), a student must complete 120 credit hours with a minimum degree grade point average of 2.00 . Focus Area requirements are as follows: 33 credit hours of which 21 credit hours must be completed at the 3000- or 4000 -level; 2.00 Grade Point Average. Major (Coop) students must attain a minimum degree Grade Point Average of 2.50. There is no limit to the number of credit hours a student completes provided he/she does not exceed 18 credit hours of failed courses.

Honours

To qualify for the degree Bachelor of Environmental Science (Honours) or Bachelor of Environmental Studies (Honours), a student must complete 120 credit hours with a minimum degree grade point average of 3.25 . Focus Area requirements are as follows: 33 credit hours of which 21 credit hours must be completed at the 3000 - or 4000 -level; 3.00 Grade Point Average and minimum 'C+' grades. There is no limit to the number of credit hours a student completes provided he/she does not exceed 18 credit hours of failed courses.

Minor in Another Department

Students in the B.Env.Sc. and B.Env.St. have the opportunity to complete a Minor in a subject field that is different than that of the declared major, and which normally consist of 18 credit hours from a department offering this option at the University of Manitoba. Students are not permitted to complete a Minor in Environmental Science or Environmental Studies. Contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office for further information about eligible Minors.

Eco-Canada Accreditation

The Environmental Science program is accredited to the National Standard of Environmental Programs in Canada by ECO Canada.

7.2 Entrance Requirements

Students admitted from University 1 are placed in the Major degree program in either the Bachelor of Environmental Science or Bachelor of Environmental Studies until they have completed a minimum of 48 credit hours after which they can transfer to the General or Honours program or remain in the Major. To make a program transfer, students must consult with a Riddell Faculty student advisor.

Transfer students, and Second Degree students may be eligible for direct entry into the General or Honours programs. These students should consult with a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the general office.

7.3 Minimum Performance Requirements for  Continuation and Graduation

A student's academic performance will be assessed with his/her application for admission to the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources and following each term thereafter. A Riddell Faculty student advisor must approve a student's registration each Fall/Winter and Summer term. Any revisions to this schedule should also be approved prior to the end of the registration revision period.

To be in good standing and permitted to continue in a degree program, a student must achieve the minimum standards outlined in section 7.3.1 at each point of assessment. This assessment is based on the student's minimum degree Grade Point Average and the number of failed courses after admission to the Riddell Faculty.

To graduate from either a Bachelor of Environmental Science or the Bachelor of Environmental Studies with the intended degree designation, a student must achieve the minimum standards and graduation requirements outlined in section 7.3.1 following the final term of registration and satisfy all degree course requirements in the foundation, environment core and Focus Area as defined in section 7.1 of this Chapter. In addition, students must satisfy the residence requirement by completing either a total of 48 credit hours or their last 24 credit hours at the University of Manitoba. These courses must be acceptable for credit in either the Bachelor of Environmental Science or the Bachelor of Environmental Studies.

Students who do not meet these minimum performance requirements for continuation or graduation will be required to transfer to the appropriate program based on their performance and eligibility as defined in 7.3.1. Students who do not meet the minimum performance requirements for the General degree program will be placed on probation or academic suspension as defined in section 3.14 Academic Warning, Probation and Academic Suspension (Academic Standing) in this Chapter.

Students required to withdraw from the Honours degree program will have the statement 'Required to Withdraw from the Honours Program' recorded on their transcript of marks. Similarly, students required to withdraw out of the Major degree program will have the statement 'Required to Withdraw from the Major Program' recorded on their transcript of marks.

7.4 Graduating with Distinction or First Class Honours

Students graduating with a Bachelor of Environmental Science (General) or Bachelor of Environmental Studies (General) degree will have their degree granted 'With Distinction' if they have a minimum Degree Grade Point Average of 3.50 on all course work.

Students graduating with a Bachelor of Environmental Science (Major) or Bachelor of Environmental Studies (Major) degree will have their degree granted 'With Distinction' if they have a minimum Degree Grade Point Average of 3.50 on all course work.

The term Degree with Distinction will appear both on the parchment and on the student's transcript of marks.

First Class Honours

Students in the Honours program will have their degree granted with 'First Class Honours' if they have a minimum Degree Point Average of 3.50 based on all acceptable course work. The term First Class Honours will appear both on the parchment and on the student's transcript of marks.

SECTION 8: Department of Geological Sciences

8.1 Academic Staff

Please refer to the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources website at: umanitoba.ca/environment/about/academic staff.html

8.2 Program Information

The Geological Sciences deal with the history of the Earth and its life, especially that which is recorded in rocks. Different component parts of the Earth system, the lithosphere, biosphere, atmosphere and hydrosphere, operate at different length and time scales. During interactions between the spheres there is feedback between the component parts as energy and mass are exchanged, transferred and redistributed. In a geological context, the feedback can occur on a global scale, or on very small scales such as that which we see in minerals. More recently humans have become a major force in this Earth system because we have intervened in many of these exchanges.

Considering the Earth's past, geoscientists typically work with long time scales (in the order of millions to billions of years). We also use Hutton's original philosophy of uniformitarianism, stated as the present is the key to the past, to solve geological problems. However, as we see changes at the Earth's surface (our environment) occurring on very short time scales we need to learn to extract the signal of human activity from the Earth's pre-human past. Once we understand and quantify the nature and extent of the Earth's natural evolution as well as our more recent environmental impact, geological sciences can help predict future changes to the Earth.

Geology and Geophysics are the sciences that provide the quantitative data on the physical and chemical behaviour and characteristics of Earth materials - rocks, minerals, fluids and gases. These data are needed to model the behaviour of minerals in natural as well as many industrial systems. The theoretical and instrumental expertise needed to tackle many resource extraction, mineral processing and environmental problems is resident in geological science departments. From a broad Earth, environmental and resource perspective our collective future will depend on sustainable use of our Earth's resources and care of the environment.

The three-year General program (comprising of 90 credit hours) in Geological Sciences is designed to give students a basic understanding of the discipline in combination with a concentration of courses in a second subject area. The General Program is not intended for those students who seek a career in the geosciences. Rather, it is a useful consideration for students planning to enter the Bachelor of Education program (see the Faculty of Education in this calendar) or other programs that require an undergraduate degree for admission. Students intending to pursue a career in the geosciences or graduate study should hold an Honours or Major degree (comprising at least 120 credit hours) in Geology or Geophysics.

Professional Registration

The professional practice of geoscience in Canada is governed by provincial/territorial law and is regulated by professional geoscience associations. In Manitoba, the Association of Professional Engineers and Geoscientists (APEGM) regulates professional practice. The requirements for professional registration are acceptable academic preparation and a subsequent period of acceptable geoscience experience. Students considering professional registration should take the B.Sc. Geological Sciences Honours or Major degree and make appropriate course selections, particularly in the basic sciences. Students should consult with the Department of Geological Sciences. Graduates who do not meet the academic requirements may be required by the professional association to take additional courses or examinations. Current registration information for APEGM is available in the department or from the association's web site: www.apegm.mb.ca

Geological Sciences Prerequisite Information

To fulfil prerequisite requirements, a grade of ' C ' must be achieved in any course stipulated as a prerequisite to a further course in Geological Sciences.

8.3 Degree Regulations

8.3.1 B.Sc. in Geological Sciences (Major) Geology or Geophysics

To qualify for the degree, a student must complete a minimum of 120 credit hours with passing grades ('D' or better) in each course and with a minimum degree grade point average of 2.30 as indicated in the Graduation Requirements Table (see section 8.3.5). Students must complete all Faculty requirements as well as the University Written English and Mathematics requirement as described in the Chapter, General Academic Regulations, in this Calendar.

Students admitted to the Major program will normally have completed University 1 requirements, which include six credit hours of courses from the Faculty of Arts, six credit hours of courses from the Faculty of Science and six credit hours from either the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources, the Faculty of Arts or the Faculty of Science. Students who do not meet this requirement while in University 1 must do so within the Major program.

Minor in Another Department

Students in the B.Sc. Geological Sciences have the opportunity to complete a Minor in a subject field that is different than that of the declared major, and which normally consist of 18 credit hours from a department offering this option at the University of Manitoba. Students in the B.Sc. Geological Sciences are not permitted to complete a Minor in Geological Sciences. The Minor requirements are described in section 3.2 of this Chapter. Contact the department and/or a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office for further information about eligible Minors.

Entrance to the Major

To enter a Major program in Geology or Geophysics, a student must have completed at least 24 credit hours with a minimum Degree Grade Point Average of 2.50 as stipulated in Entrance and Continuation Requirements Table (see section 8.3.4). In addition, the student must attain the minimum grade requirements specified for individual Year 1 courses according to the program tables for the Major in Geology (section 8.4) or the Major in Geophysics (see section 8.5). Students who do not obtain the entrance requirements for the Major program in their first year but who are interested in obtaining the Major degree should consult with the department.

Continuation in the Major

A student's academic performance is assessed first with his/her application for admission to the Riddell Faculty and then following each term in which the student is registered.
To be in good standing and permitted to continue in the degree program, a student must maintain a minimum degree Grade Point Average of 2.30 as stipulated in the Entrance and Continuation Requirements Table (section 8.3.4). Students are not limited in the number of repeated courses and failures. Students who do not meet the minimum performance requirement will be required to withdraw from the Major program and will be placed in the General program provided their Degree Grade Point Average is 2.00 or above. Students will have the notation 'Required to Withdraw from the Major Program', recorded on their transcript of marks.

If below 2.00, students will be placed on academic warning, probation or academic suspension as outlined in section 3.14 Academic Warning, Probation and Academic Suspension (Academic Standing) in this Chapter.

Failed courses: A student is required to repeat those failed courses that are specified as required courses for the program. Students are subject to the University of Manitoba regulations (see General Academic Regulations, Section 5.1.3 Repeating a Course as described in this Calendar) and the Riddell Faculty degree regulations regarding eligibility to repeat a course. Students who need to repeat a course more than once to fulfil degree requirements must contact a Riddell Faculty student advisor for approval prior to registration.

Program approval

The department head (or designate) and a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office must approve a student's Major program each term. Students must also obtain departmental approval for all revisions to their programs. For departmental approval, please contact Brenda Miller. The Advanced/Major/Honours Program Approval forms are available on the Riddell Faculty web page. (umanitoba.ca/environment/undergraduate)

Graduation in the Major

In order to graduate from the Geology or Geophysics Major, students must complete all degree program and faculty requirements as stipulated in section 3 and/~/Catalog/ViewCatalog.aspx?pageid=viewcatalog& chapterid=1007&LoadUserEdits=truesection 8 of this Chapter. Students must also achieve the minimum performance requirements as outlined in the Graduation Requirements Table (see section 8.3.5). This is defined as a minimum Degree Grade Point Average of 2.30 on 120 or 121 credit hours which constitute the degree.

Residence Requirement for Major Students

A student must successfully complete a minimum of 60 credit hours at the University of Manitoba. The courses used to satisfy the requirement must be acceptable for credit in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. Residence requirements apply both to first and second-degree students.

Recognition of Academic Merit

Degree with Distinction

To obtain a degree with distinction a student must achieve a minimum 3.50 Degree Grade Point Average on all courses constituting the Major degree. The term 'Degree with Distinction' will appear both on the parchment and on the student's transcript of marks.

8.3.2 B.Sc. in Geological Sciences (Honours) Geology or Geophysics

The Honours programs are the most heavily concentrated programs offered and lead most directly to graduate studies. A student is required to achieve higher grade standards than in the Major degree program. The Honours degree may be pursued on a part-time basis, although it must be recognized that students will require additional terms to complete degree requirements. Students must complete the degree program within 8 years of gaining initial admission to the Honours program. Failure to complete the Honours degree within the 8 -year time limit may require a student to transfer into the Major program.

A student will normally begin the Honours program in second year and must meet the entrance requirements set out below. Students in full-time study can expect to complete the prescribed courses in three years beyond the first year of University 1. Honours programs lead to either the B.Sc. Geological Sciences (Hons.) (Geology) or the B.Sc. Geological Sciences (Hons.)(Geophysics).

To be eligible for any award granted exclusively on the basis of academic performance, a student must normally be enrolled in a full-time program as defined by the department.

Students must complete the University Written English and Mathematics requirement as described in the chapter, General Academic Regulations, of this Calendar.

Entrance to Honours

To enter the Honours program in Geology or Geophysics, a student must have completed at least 24 credit hours with the minimum Degree Grade Point Average as stipulated in the Entrance and Continuation Requirements Table (section 8.3.4). In addition, the student must attain the minimum grade requirements specified for individual Year 1 courses according to the program tables for Honours Geology (section 8.4) or Honours Geophysics (section 8.5). Students who are ineligible to enter Honours with their admission to the Riddell Faculty may establish eligibility the following year on the basis of their second year of academic performance.

To enter the Honours degree program, a student must complete a program approval form available in the department general office and have it approved by the department head, or designate, and a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office.

Continuation in Honours

A student's academic performance is assessed first with his/her application for admission to the Riddell Faculty and then following each term in which the student is registered. To be in good standing and permitted to continue in the degree program, a student must maintain the performance requirement as stipulated in the Entrance and Continuation Requirements Table (section 8.3.4). Students are not limited in the number of repeated courses and failures. Students who do not meet the minimum performance requirements will be placed on academic warning, probation or academic suspension as outlined in section 3.14 Academic Warning, Probation and Academic Suspension (Academic Standing) in this Chapter. Students who do not maintain this minimum average to remain in the program will be required to withdraw from the Honours program and, if eligible, will be placed in the Major program. Students will have the notation 'Required to Withdraw from the Honours Program' recorded on their transcript of marks.

Program Approval

The department head (or designate) and a Riddell Faculty student advisor in the Faculty general office must approve a student's Major program each term. Students must also obtain departmental approval for all revisions to their programs. For departmental approval, please contact Brenda Miller. The Advanced/Major/Honours Program Approval forms are available on the Riddell Faculty web page. (umanitoba.ca/environment/undergraduate)

Residence Requirement for Honours Students

A student must successfully complete a minimum of 60 credit hours at the University of Manitoba. The courses used to satisfy the requirement must be acceptable for credit in the Clayton H. Riddell Faculty of Environment, Earth, and Resources. Residence requirements apply both to first and second-degree students.

Graduation from Honours

In order to graduate from the Honours Geology and Geophysics programs, students must complete all degree program and faculty requirements as stipulated in section 3 and section 8 of this Chapter. Students must also achieve the minimum performance requirements as outlined in the Graduation Requirements Table (see section 8.3.5). This is defined for the Honours Geology program as a minimum Degree Grade Point Average of 3.00 on 120 credit hours which constitute the degree and for Honours Geophysics as a minimum Degree Grade Point Average of 2.80 on the 120 (121) credit hours which constitute the degree.

First Class Honours

To graduate with First Class Honours, a student must achieve a Degree Grade Point Average of 3.50. The term 'First Class Honours' will appear both on the parchment and on the student's transcript of marks.

Honours Program Notes:

Double Honours Programs

Double Honours programs may be available. The program must be arranged in consultation with the departments concerned.
