

The Parkland Crop Diversification Foundation requires
Summer research assistants to be stationed in Roblin Manitoba
For the 2012 season (May-August)

The Parkland Crop Diversification Foundation is part of the Manitoba Diversification Centres applied research program. For more info on PCDF please visit our website <http://www.gov.mb.ca/agriculture/diversification/pcdf/index.html>

The summer research assistants will be assisting in plot seeding, pesticide application, data collection, harvesting, and site and plot maintenance.

Farm experience is an asset but not necessary as training is available.

The position is compensated with a competitive salary that may increase with education and experience.

Preference given to those planning or are currently enrolled in post secondary education.
