

Department of Soil Science
Policy on Graduate Student Support
Approved by Department Council
March 11, 2024

The revised minimum level of graduate student financial support will be in effect for all graduate students supported by research grants for which funding applications were submitted effective April 1, 2024.

The Department of Soil Science requires a minimum level of financial support of $24,000 per year for all graduate students; this applies for a minimum period of two years for M.Sc. students and 3 years for Ph.D. students. This minimum level of financial will be considered as a combination of the student's research assistantship/stipend, scholarships, bursaries, and employer's salary (with the employer's support for the student's graduate program expressed as a letter of support).
