Kerstin Roger, PhD

Professor, Rady Faculty of Health Sciences, Community Health Sciences; Research Affiliate, Centre on Aging

Join us for the Centre on Aging's workshop in the Research in Aging Workshop Series, Ethical considerations in aging research. Ethics is intended to protect research participants from harm and in particular vulnerable populations, but some research has indicated that on occasion ethics can be over protective or ageist. Are older adults vulnerable? How does ageism impact our own ethical approach to conducting research on older adults? In this workshop, Dr. Roger will explore these ideas and recommendations towards best practices in research with older adults.

The workshops are open to students, post-docs, research staff, and faculty interested in aging research. Workshops will take place virtually and are one hour. The sessions are free to attend, but registration will be required.
