IN-HOUSE WITH CHERD

For over a decade, the Centre for Higher Education Research and Development has been Canada's leading provider of high quality courses and seminars for university and college administrators. Whether through its intensive residential programs, such as the Senior University Administrators Course (SUAC), the University Management Course (UMC) and the Canadian Institute on Student Affairs and Services (CISAS), or through a variety of short seminars on current issues in the post-secondary sector, CHERD has met the needs of Canadian university and college administrators. In addition, CHERD has developed an international profile working in many parts of the world delivering capacity-building programs to meet local needs in places such as South Africa, Mozambique and Mexico.

In delivering programs, CHERD draws on over forty instructors who are highly experienced practitioners who hold, or have held, senior university or college administrative positions. Not only do they bring to the classroom expert knowledge on current issues, but also a comprehensive understanding of the critical issue of institutional and departmental cultures. In addition, CHERD, on occasion, draws its facilitators from outside the post-secondary sector because of their highly specialized knowledge.

While CHERD has become primarily known for providing courses and seminars at different locations in Canada and abroad, it also provides in-house programs, tailored to the specific needs of institutions. In recent years, CHERD has provided such programs to Queen's University, Ryerson University, The University of Northern British Columbia, The University of Guadalajara, Mexico and the University of Ontario Institute of Technology.

CHERD'S IN-HOUSE PROGRAMS CAN BE:

- Tailored to your institution's specific needs through consultation with a CHERD representative.
- Delivered on-site at your institution, or in some instances, delivered asynchronously via the Web.
- Delivered at a time of your choosing.
- Delivered to participants drawn from your institution, or from your institution and partner institution(s).
- An economic way to provide education to a substantial number of participants from one or a small group of institutions.
- On a variety of topics such as: The Role of Department Heads, Academic Leadership, Improving Morale, Critical Student Issues, Financial Management and Budgeting, Conflict Resolution and Negotiating, Recruitment and Retention, Performance Indicators, or a topic emerging from your own institution's circumstances.
- Designed to include follow-up sessions for individuals or groups.
