

CENTRE FOR CREATIVE WRITING
AND ORAL CULTURE

NEED HELP WITH YOUR STORYTELLING or CREATIVE WRITING?

Overcoming a creative block?

Finding an audience?

Working with underserved populations?

COME SEE CLARE MURPHY!

Winter 2013 Storyteller-in-Residence

CLARE MUIREANN MURPHY has worked as a professional storyteller since 2006. She has taught and performed in English and Spanish in more than 20 countries, touring the US extensively, as well as Europe and the UK. In 2007, Clare was awarded the Social Entrepreneurship Level 1 Award for her storytelling work in marginalized communities. Her repertoire includes traditional material from many cultures ranging from 3,000 to 50 years old. She has a background in theatre and writing, and has performed at the Globe, Soho, and Barbican Theatres in London. Clare has worked as an actor, writer, director, performer, and producer of theatre and storytelling. She is a member of several international groups that focus on training for storytellers, as well as developing multilingual/translation storytelling theory. To learn more about Clare, visit her on Twitter @StoryClare or on the web at www.claremurphy.org and www.facebook.com/storytellerclare.

For help with your storytelling or creative writing, please contact Clare at ccwocwir@cc.umanitoba.ca or at 480-1067 to arrange a FREE meeting with her. She will be in residence from January to April 2013.

Improve your work with an accomplished storyteller and creative writer!

Tellers and writers of all levels are welcome!