Manitoba is known for its vibrant arts and culture scene. With events year round, such as the upcoming Winnipeg International Jazz Festival and Winnipeg Folk Festival to the Festival du Voyageur, and community festivals and events across the province, we know that arts and culture play a big role in the lives of Manitobans. What do we mean by cultural industries? How do the cultural industries impact our economy? How are the industries supported and what more can be done? How can we integrate arts and culture into public policy in order to improve our communities? Join us for an engaging discussion!

The Manitoba Institute for Policy Research is based in the department of Political Studies in the Faculty of Arts at the University of Manitoba. The Institute furthers debates and discussions on matters of public policy, administration, and governance both in Manitoba and across the country. By engaging Manitobans and increasing access to policy experts in our community through the Citizen Series, MIPR hopes to enhance the quality of public discourse in the province.
