This one-day symposium on Latin American history celebrates Timothy Anna's distinguished career of over forty years at the U of M's Department of History. He not only built a reputation as a collegial and committed colleague at UofM, his scholarship has also been widely recognized in the field of Latin American history as his path-breaking research on colonial and early-national Mexico and Peru influenced a generation of scholars.

Panel 1
9:00-10:30 am - Gender, Culture, and Representations

- Patricia Harms (Brandon University): “Gendering Guatemalan History”
- Kelly Saxberg (Independent Filmmaker): “Putting Research on Film”

Break: 10:30-10:45

Panel 2
10:45-12:15 pm - Ethnicity, Class, and Power

- Mark Meuwese (University of Winnipeg): “Unsettling Spanish Peru: Alliances between the Mapuche and the Dutch in Seventeenth-Century Chile”
- Ronald Harpelle (Lakehead University): “Facing Foreigners: Labour, Ethnicity and Space in a United Fruit Enclave”

Lunch break: 12:15-1:30 pm

Remarks and Keynote Address: 1:30-3:00 pm

- Mark Gabbert (Head, Department of History, University of Manitoba)
- Timothy Anna

Keynote Presentation:
- Jim Handy (University of Saskatchewan): “So What's Different About Latin America? Land, Labour and Capitalism in Late Nineteenth-Century Latin America”

Sponsored by the Institute for the Humanities Research Cluster on Power and Resistance in Latin America in collaboration with the U of M Department of History.