

PHIL 1200 Introduction to Philosophy

We will begin with a discussion of attempts to show that free will and determinism are compatible. Next, we will look at some normative ethical theories and we will do some applied ethics. Other topics will be scepticism, private property, and personal identity.

One short essay and two in-class tests will be required for this half of the course.