

Canadian Friends of Peace Now

2012 Peace Fellowship

Canadian Friends of Peace Now offers its 2012 Peace Fellowship in the amount of $4,000 for a deserving graduate student at any Canadian university, or for a deserving Canadian graduate student at any foreign university, whose research is consistent with the mission, goals and values of Peace Now, in particular with its advocacy of a Palestinian-Israeli peace based upon mutual recognition, a secure, viable state for the Palestinians and a secure, Jewish state for the Israelis.

Preference will be given to Doctoral and Masters students who are writing dissertations/theses on such subjects as diplomacy in the service of Arab-Israel peace-making, economic co-operation between Israel and the Palestinians, educational reforms in Arab and Israeli curricula that would foster reconciliation, grassroots activities promoting support for government peace policies, medical/health programs to attenuate the physical and psychological effects of war, etc. The preceding list is illustrative rather than comprehensive.

Students from such disciplines as political science, international relations, economics, business, education, history, psychology, sociology, environmental science, social work, public health and law are eligible, as well as students from other disciplines whose research is relevant to, and consistent with, the aims of Peace Now.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, a C.V., a five-page summary of their dissertation/thesis and two letters of recommendation, one of which must come from the dissertation/thesis supervisor.

The fellowship recipient will provide a photo that CFPN can use in publicizing the award at the time that it is announced. The recipient will permit CFPN to publish a summary of the dissertation/thesis on the CFPN web site and will agree to provide a copy of the full study to CFPN upon completion.

Deadline for application is March 3, 2012.
The recipient will be announced on April 20, 2012.
