George Belliveau is professor of theatre education at the University of British Columbia. His research focuses on research-based theatre and performed research. His latest book Research-based Theatre: An Artistic Methodology (Intellect, 2016) is co-edited with Graham W. Lea. He was recently inducted into Canada’s Royal Society of Scholars College (2017).

This presentation shares research from an initiative in which researchers in theatre education and counselling psychology collaborated with military veterans to produce the play Contact/Unload.
