Call for research participants:

Project: Indigenous Students Experiences in the College of Rehabilitation Sciences (CoRS)

The College of Rehabilitation Sciences is conducting a research study to improve the accessibility and quality of programs for future Canadian Indigenous students applying and enrolling in the College of Rehabilitation.

Current and past CoRS students who self-identify as Indigenous are invited to apply.

Participation will consist of:

- 1) An in-person interview (approx. 60 min)
- 2) The opportunity to provide feedback on the research findings before they are finalized.

To indicate your interest in participating, or have further questions please email:

Nichol Marsch, Research Assistant. ummarscn@myumanitoba.ca

Participation is voluntary and has no impact on your current work or student status. You can withdraw from the study at any time. We would provide you with a small token of appreciation.

This study is being conducted in partnership by the CoRS Indigenous Health Research Cluster and Ongomiizwin Education— The Indigenous Institute of Health and Healing at the University of Manitoba.

Participating in this interview may not benefit you directly, but does have the potential to have a positive impact on future Indigenous students by contributing to specific action that will be undertaken by CoRS as a result of this study to improve rehabilitation Indigenous student experience.
