

Developmental Health Research Group

The Developmental Health Research Group (DHRG) is a multidisciplinary group of scientists in developmental psychology, developmental disabilities, psychiatry, nursing, and family sciences with a shared interest in child developmental health.

The DHRG is a University of Manitoba Research Group with eligibility for the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR) - Manitoba Regional Partnership Program.

The objective of the DHRG is to facilitate interdisciplinary collaboration on child developmental health.

DHRG Members

Head:

Rosemary S. L. Mills, PhD

Members:

Christine A. Ateah, PhD
Brian J. Cox, PhD, CPsych
Joan E. Durrant, PhD, CPsych
Lorna S. Jakobson, PhD
Garry L. Martin, PhD
Caroline C. Piotrowski, PhD
Shahin Shooshtari, PhD
Roberta L. Woodgate, PhD
Dickie C. T. Yu, PhD, CPsych

Participating Units:

Family Social Sciences
Psychiatry
Psychology
Nursing
St. Amant Research Centre