PUSH YOUR LIMITS
AND THEN SEE HOW FAR YOU CAN GO.

Harley Bray says her mom—a single parent—inspires her to achieve her dreams. The third-year student is on her way to becoming a rural pediatrician. Along the way, she takes on summer research jobs and mentors youth through outreach programs, sharing her love of science.

“With hard work there are no limits to where you can go. If you put in the effort, there will come a time when you can sit back and see all that hard work pay off.”

After a year-long exchange in Tokyo through the International Centre, this Faculty of Arts student changed his major to Asian Studies, inspired to learn more about the continent’s languages and culture. Today, he works for the Government of Japan in international relations.
