In 2019 the university celebrated the 30th anniversary of the Annual Traditional Graduation Pow Wow, honouring the achievements of Indigenous graduates at the U of M.

U of M alumni are some of the country’s brightest stars—alumnus Sonya Ballantyne recently inspired the creation of a Cree Barbie doll.

The number of Indigenous faculty and staff at the U of M has increased 20% over the past two years.

The Engineering Access Program has graduated the most Indigenous engineers in Canada: 134 and counting.

We are home to one of the largest Indigenous student populations in Canada, including more than 250 graduate students.

The U of M offers over 100 accredited and internationally-recognized programs for students to choose from.

We are in the heart of North America where the first treaties since the Confederation of Canada were signed, and where the Métis organized the Confederation of Manitoba in 1870.
CREATE YOUR OWN PATH

A GREAT EDUCATION, AN AMAZING FUTURE

Welcome, bienvenue, pihtikwew, biindigen, en ya, peehtikway, iyuskin kuwa, tunngasugit! Come explore everything the U of M has to offer. Here, it’s about options, community and defining your future. This is your time to be adventurous, challenge yourself and make a difference.

More than 2,500 First Nations, Métis and Inuit students are already pursuing their goals at the U of M—and you can too! Experience outstanding programming, a huge variety of academic options and amazing travel opportunities. In this supportive environment, you’ll build friendships and connections that last a lifetime.

At the U of M, Indigenous Engagement is a priority. We are committed to providing a learning environment that promotes Indigenous student success. Our Pathways to Indigenous Achievement plan sees education as a positive, life-changing tool to benefit students, families and communities.

We continue to find ways to bring Indigenous knowledges and perspectives into life on our campuses.

Many U of M Indigenous graduates have become leaders and role models in their communities, province, country and around the world.

Come learn about the growing number of opportunities and resources available at the U of M. We can’t wait to meet you!

WHY UNIVERSITY?

Carve your own path with a post-secondary education
Pursuing a university education is a great way to nurture your spiritual, physical, mental and emotional strengths and figure out where your passion lies.

During your academic career, you will be encouraged to think critically, be exposed to new and exciting classroom and extra-curricular activities and have the opportunity to meet other Indigenous students who are leaders in their communities.

You will enhance your transferable skills sought by employers such as leadership, communication and time management that can be applied in your future career no matter what field you choose.

At the U of M, you’ll join a culturally rich and diverse community and learn in a way that celebrates your experiences, culture and history.

#DECLAREINDIGENOUS
Be proud of who you are and where you come from. By self-declaring you can:

- Become eligible for scholarships, fellowships, prizes and bursaries dedicated to Indigenous students;
- Receive information about opportunities, jobs, events, supports and more through a bi-weekly Indigenous student e-newsletter;
- Inform statistics that help the university to create and improve opportunities for Indigenous students like you!

Visit umanitoba.ca/indigenous for more information on connecting with the community, academic and cultural support and what’s happening on our campuses.

Note: The U of M does not require documentation or proof of Indigenous identity, although some of our support units may require verification.

“There’s a whole world to see outside of the reserve, and coming to the University of Manitoba was one of the best decisions I’ve ever made.”

- Jesse McGregor, Cree U1/Access
“I learned so much about myself and my capabilities, and what my role needs to be to influence Indigenous youth. My time at the U of M has influenced my passion for architecture and has allowed me to integrate my Indigenous identity into my work. I hope to use my experiences and education to continue working with Indigenous communities.”

Find your campus family in Migizii Agamik– Bald Eagle Lodge. This space is your home away from home.

AT HOME ON CAMPUS

Migizii Agamik is a place where connections are made. Inside, you’ll find a vibrant home base for students with a computer lab, a kitchen, lockers and a large study area. This culturally-rich, sustainable and modern building is a place of pride for the 2,600 Indigenous students and staff at the U of M.

The team of designers (which included Indigenous architects who are U of M alumni) collaborated with Elders and others in the Indigenous community to create a space inspired by Indigenous worldviews.

The heart of the smudge-friendly building is the Circle Room—a sacred and collaborative space for ceremonies, events and meetings.

Here, we welcome all nations.
Come share with us, come learn with us.

The transition from homeschooling to university was a big adjustment for Paul Ricard. He made connections through Ongomiizwin Education on the Bannatyne campus, where students in health-related fields meet, study and explore careers and culture. A recently graduated dentist, he says the guidance he got as a student not only helped him discover his passion but also inspired him to want to do the same for others through volunteering.

Fifth-year Science student Kirsten Fleury found a supportive community on campus by getting involved as a student researcher and joining student groups. The female co-president of the Metis University Students Association, she is also an aspiring family physician set on breaking down social inequalities in health care. She realized how important it is to put her own well-being first, having faced difficulties with mental health.

“I struggled with balancing the stress of life, school and health. It’s important that as students we learn it’s okay to not be okay. Reaching out for help, and getting involved in my culture were the best decisions I made. I’m thriving this year, now that I’ve learned new coping skills, management tools and have the support of the Indigenous community.”

Bachelor of Education (2019)
The Access Program, offered by Extended Education, provides you with a support network that allows you to forge your way towards a successful academic future. The program is available to all Manitoba residents, with preference given to Indigenous students.

In the Access Program, you will follow a common first year pathway with other new Access students. Small class sizes allow you to develop strong peer support and build relationships before going into your second year.

Access provides supports for various academic pathways:

UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA ACCESS PROGRAM (UMAP)

If you are pursuing any program of study that leads to a degree or diploma in arts or science at the University of Manitoba, UMAP can provide the supports you need.

HEALTH CAREERS ACCESS PROGRAM (HCAP) AND PROFESSIONAL HEALTH PROGRAM (PHP)

HCAP is designed to help Indigenous students prepare for entry to the following health-related programs:

- Medicine, Nursing, Dentistry, Dental Hygiene, Pharmacy, Rehabilitation Sciences – Physical Therapy/Occupational Therapy/Respiratory Therapy

Once you are accepted, the Professional Health Program can support your success with the respective program. Supports include:

- Academic and personal counselling
- Help with funding applications
- Extensive pre-university orientation
- Academic coaching and advocacy

Out-of-Province Applicants: Submit interim transcripts showing first semester final and second semester mid-term grades. Upon successful graduation, submit final transcripts. Official (sealed/stamped) transcripts are required for an offer of admission.

STEP 3
RECEIVE AND ACCEPT AN OFFER OF ADMISSION AND ENTRANCE SCHOLARSHIPS (IF APPLICABLE)

An offer of admission may be made based on interim grades. All offers of admission are subject to a review of final grades (May to July).

Offers must be accepted by the deadline indicated in your admission/scholarship offer (June).

All applications received by March 1 will be considered for Entrance Scholarships (see page 21). The final deadline to apply to University 1 for the fall 2020 intake is August 1, 2020 (May 1, 2020 is recommended). The deadline to apply for the winter 2021 intake is December 1, 2020 (select programs only).

UNIVERSITY OF MANITOBA

The NCTR ensures that:
• Survivors and their families have access to their own histories
• Educators in the K-12, post-secondary, professional and public service sectors understand the shared experience of Indigenous peoples and Survivors
• Researchers can explore the Residential School system and assimilation efforts
• The public can access historical records and other materials to help foster Reconciliation and healing
• The history and legacy of the Residential School system will never be forgotten

We invite you to explore the materials at the NCTR and on the NCTR website in meaningful and personal ways. You are welcome to visit the NCTR any time during operational hours.

Imagine A Canada—A National Art and Leadership Program—Encourages Students to Share Their Vision of What the Future of Canada Looks Like Through the Lens of Reconciliation: nctr.ca/imagineacanada

The University of Manitoba is committed to the journey of Reconciliation and to advancing Indigenous rights, research and scholarship.

The National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation (NCTR) at the University of Manitoba was born out of the Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement, to preserve the history of Canada’s Residential School system and legacy forever.

The Truth and Reconciliation Commission’s collection of statements, documents and other materials forms the heart of the NCTR. A shared vision held by those affected by Residential Schools, the NCTR is a place of learning and dialogue where the truths of the Survivors’ experiences are honoured and kept safe for future generations.

In preserving this sacred collection of materials, the NCTR ensures that:
• Survivors and their families have access to their own histories
• Educators in the K-12, post-secondary, professional and public service sectors understand the shared experience of Indigenous peoples and Survivors
• Researchers can explore the Residential School system and assimilation efforts
• The public can access historical records and other materials to help foster Reconciliation and healing
• The history and legacy of the Residential School system will never be forgotten

We invite you to explore the materials at the NCTR and on the NCTR website in meaningful and personal ways. You are welcome to visit the NCTR any time during operational hours.

The University of Manitoba campuses are located on original lands of Anishinaabeg, Cree, Oji-Cree, Dakota, and Dene peoples, and on the homeland of the Métis Nation. We respect the Treaties that were made on these territories, we acknowledge the harms and mistakes of the past, and we dedicate ourselves to move forward in partnership with Indigenous communities in a spirit of reconciliation and collaboration.

At the University of Manitoba, we are committed to Indigenous achievement and reconciliation, and to equity of access and opportunity for all U of M students, faculty and staff.

We welcome you to a diverse and inclusive learning environment where everyone—from all backgrounds and perspectives—is respected, valued, and can enjoy an exceptional educational experience.
