Robin Pearsall Moople, beloved colleague, adored teacher, and cherished friend, died on June 28, 2006 at Grace Hospital in Winnipeg. Robin received his B.A. in English and French from Syracuse University in 1953, his M.A. in American Literature from Syracuse in 1954, and his PhD in American Studies from the University of Minnesota in 1963. He was awarded a Tozer Foundation Fellowship at the University of Minnesota in 1960, a graduate award from Minnesota in 1961, a thesis grant from the U of Manitoba in 1962, a Canada Council summer research grant, several internal research grants, and a SSHRC leave fellowship in 1989-1990. He published articles in American Literature, The Henry James Review and The American Transcendental Quarterly, several review articles and book reviews, and two monographs on Henry James: Distinguished Discord (1997), and In Darkest James (2000). He had just completed revisions to a third book-length manuscript at the time of his death.

He began his career in the Department of English, University of Manitoba in 1961, and retired in 1992. In many ways though, Robin became even more woven into the intellectual and social life of the department as a senior scholar. He was a wise mentor, a loving guide, and a generous model for all those who wished to become, in the words of his favourite author, Henry James, "one of those upon whom nothing is lost."

Robin wrote his dissertation on the poetry of Walt Whitman, and lived his life with an immensity of spirit that seems to have been inspired by that poet of the multitudinous. He played the cello, he made a mean blueberry pie, and he was an excellent water-skier. For many years, teaching and service were the focus of his academic work. He was a founding editor of the journal Mosaic, edited several of its first volumes, and remained on its editorial board until his death. He was past VP of the Canadian Association of American Studies and on the editorial board of the Canadian Review of American Studies. He was Convocation Marshall in 1985 and 1986. He served on countless departmental committees, on Arts executive, on Senate, on decanal and headship search committees, on the Committee for Incarcerated Students, the Senate Committee on Colleges, on the Canada Council, on SSHRC, and devoted himself in particular to the good of the graduate program in English from its formalization in 1964. Robin took academic service very seriously, and brought to these positions a deep and ethically-rooted passion for the straightforward. He entered the fray of disagreement with arms crossed and positions strongly declared, but without malice or subterfuge. He held no grudges, and even those who opposed him respected, admired, and trusted him.

At any moment, a huge smile could overtake his face. "Ahhh, but I love it!" he would exclaim, leaning back in his office chair, his arms behind his head.

Robin's intellectual power and generosity are legendary among his colleagues and his students. Though he often protested that he wasn't much for teaching, he was twice nominated for the Saunderson and Stanton Awards for Excellence in Teaching and twice for an Award for Excellence in Graduate Teaching, and he often received written commendations from the Head of his department for his excellent evaluations. He offered advice and counsel on all things literary to members of his own and other departments, reading their proposals, grant applications, articles and book manuscripts. His comments were firm and breathtaking in their precision and scope. Somehow, he managed to make the necessity for complete revision appear as an opportunity to participate in a great and ongoing conversation with the world of ideas. And for Robin, that conversation revolved around American literature, and in particular, around Henry James, the author to whose work he dedicated the last twenty years of his own research life.

It was the many years of teaching American literature at all levels, from all periods, that brought Robin repeatedly to the works of Henry James, and to his most significant research accomplishments. Though he had published on Whitman early in his career (Duke UP reprinted one of his articles in 1987), it was as a Jamesian that Robin made his mark. With retirement came time to write, though Robin continued to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses as a senior scholar. He also continued to supervise graduate students, to serve on committees, to give guest lectures, and to unofficially mentor new members of the English department who routinely sought his advice. When he was in his office, and he was in it every day, his door was always open. His expertise was also sought outside the campus: in 1998 he consulted with the Manitoba Opera Association on their production of Benjamin Britten’s "The Turn of the Screw," and gave talks and interviews related to the critical history of the notoriously ambiguous tale. Nevertheless, Robin focussed on his research in retirement, seeing two books to publication, and sending a third off to the publisher a few weeks before entering hospital. He kept a journal, and was working on another paper, in the days leading up to his death.

Robin will be sorely missed by all who worked with him, by his many former students, by all who sought him out for his knowledge of the department's intricate history and arcane by-laws, by those who knew his raucous laugh at the University Club, and by his poker buddies, who saw him every Thursday night. He was our Lambert Strether, who in James's The Ambassadors is determined, in the end, to have gained nothing for himself. And like Strether, Robin urged us all by example to live, live all we can.

Optimism was his resolution. His arms stretched out in excitement at the approach of a friend, a colleague, a student, and another thought. From his last journal writings, these words from Whitman:

    All goes onward and outward, and nothing collapses.
    And to die is different from what any one supposed,
    and luckier.

There will be a memorial service at the University Club, 7:00 p.m., Saturday, July 8, 2006.

Tribute by Brenda Austin-Smith
Our friend and colleague André Joubert passed away on July 13 at his home in Tréminis, France.

André Joubert came to the Department of French, Spanish and Italian at the University of Manitoba in 1958. Although the department was well established at the time the arrival of André gave it a new impetus, an emphasis on the twentieth century which led to many theses and vocations, a critical attention to the literary text, and a rigorous approach to the French language and its many traquenards for the Anglophone and indeed the Francophone student. He was a colleague whom we all respected for his insight into the language and his awareness of its difficulties. Most particularly, those who benefited from his teaching and thesis direction appreciated not only his close attention to approach and theory, but also his judicious comments and his delicate choice of word. André directed many theses in the department, some thirty at the M.A. level and five Ph.D. theses, including the first doctoral thesis in the department in 1971. His dedication to graduate studies and to the evolution of our graduate programme has left a lasting imprint on graduate studies at the University of Manitoba.

André's scholarly work was considerable and commanded international respect. His books on Colette, François Mauriac and Duhamel gave an inkling of the breadth of his interest and knowledge. But it was perhaps in conversation with him that one came to appreciate the quality of a mind capable of discussing Valéry's critique of philosophy, Sartre's concept of the précogito or Grevisse's treatment of difficult cases of the agreement of the past participle with the same ease, clarity, authority and enthusiasm.

André's devotion to student activities, his service to the department, to the university and to the cause of French in Manitoba and in Canada were exemplary. He was instrumental in creating many of the department's graduate and undergraduate courses. He was much sought after as reader for theses. He was a member of the Canada Council Fellowship committee and a Vice President and then President of the Alliance française. For his services to French in Canada he was named Chevalier dans l'Ordre des Palmes Académiques.

André is survived by his wife Ingrid and his three children, Sven, Kristina and Pascale.

Dear Dr. Lobdell:

Re: Statement of Intent for: Bachelor of Jazz Studies

The Council on Post-Secondary Education has reviewed the above noted statement of intent submitted by the University of Manitoba.

Please feel free to proceed with developing the full program proposal and submit it to Council for approval. The Council will need to know how this new program compliments and does not duplicate music programs offered at Brandon University. A letter of support from the Faculty of Music from Brandon University may be warranted.

As you know, approval of the statement of intent does not necessarily mean that the program will ultimately be approved.

Should you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me at 945-4779.

Sincerely,

Susan Deane

MEMORANDUM

DATE: August 9, 2006

TO: Dr. Lynn Smith, Executive Director, Student Services

FROM: Brandy Usick, Director, Student Advocacy and Resource Services

The terms of reference for the Student Advocacy office state that the Director of the office should report to the Senate, at least annually, on the activities of the office.

I have enclosed the Student Advocacy office’s annual report for the period of September 1, 2004 to August 31, 2005.

Ms. Heather Morris and I are the authors of the report. We received editorial assistance from Mr. Brian Barth and Dr. Lynn Smith. Last year the format of the report was streamlined and updated, which we retained for the present document with some minor revisions. This year, Ms. Amy Dario, Communications Specialist for Student Affairs, created a fresh new look for the report, with which we are quite pleased.

We will continue to make the report available to the larger university community by uploading the document to our department website.

I would greatly appreciate if you forward this report to Mr. Jeff Leclerc, Senate Secretary and request that the report be placed on next the Senate Executive agenda.
Mission Statement

The mission of the Student Advocacy office is to ensure that students are treated fairly in their dealings with the University. The Student Advocacy office is dedicated to educating the University community concerning student rights and responsibilities and assisting students in the resolution of conflicts arising from actions or decisions taken by the University.

While serving the University, Student Advocates maintain a student focus by providing information, investigating complaints, resolving conflict through alternative and formal systems, representing students at hearings, and reviewing policies and recommending change.

Introduction

This edition of the Student Advocacy office Annual Report, submitted to the Senate, summarizes the activities of the office from September 1, 2004 to August 31, 2005 (05R).

Cases & Contacts

The Student Advocacy office handled a total of 1705 cases and contacts, the breakdown of which is shown in Table 1. These statistics are comparable to the 2003-2004 reporting year.

The largest category, individual student cases, totaled 972, which represents the number of students whose issue necessitated opening a case file. There were 949 new student case files opened in 05R and 23 case files were carried forward from 04R, either because a decision was pending or the issue was ongoing.

The second largest category, individual contacts, refers to two types of contacts: (a) students who received preliminary information or advice outside of a formal appointment (516); and (b) academic or administrative staff who contacted the office to consult on various student matters and procedural issues (211).

The student advocates handled 6 group cases and issues which involved 18 students. In the Student Advocacy office group cases are defined as situations where more than one student required assistance for the same concern, Issue cases are defined as a situation which an issue affecting several students was investigated.

Demographics
In 05R, of the 949 individual students who had case files opened, 54% were females and 46% males. The majority of students’ cases were from University 1 (22%), Science (20%), Arts (16%), and Graduate Studies (11%). This is consistent with the enrollment numbers for those faculties.

Categorizing of Issues
There were a total of 1128 issues that the advocates assisted students with in 05R. The issues and concerns brought forward to the office continue to be sorted into five main categories: academic (68%), administrative (16%), discipline (12%), admissions (3%), and equity (1%).

ACADEMIC ISSUES
The largest of these concern categories, representing 68% of the caseload for 05R, was the Academic category. Within this category there are different types of issues, as seen in Figure 1.

Special requests comprise the main type of academic concern (65%). These involve cases where a student makes a formal request for an academic concession or an exception to a rule, usually based on compassionate and/or medical grounds. Examples of this may include withdrawals, deferrals, incompletes, extensions, or leaves of absence. In 05R, the majority of special requests were for Authorized Withdrawals and Deferred Exams.

The Complaint category is the next largest type of academic concern (27%). This is a comprehensive category including dissatisfaction with faculty/staff or with policies and regulations. Appeals of decisions are commonly seen within this category. Complaints also include situations where students have a concern about their program or policies and seek clarification of their rights in various situations.

Grade appeals make up the majority of issues within this category. Due to the large number of inquiries received about grade appeals, the office has engaged in some strategies to provide timely information to students during peak periods. For example, during the grade appeal period, a poster display was set up which contained general information on filing a grade appeal. This allowed students to obtain the information without having to schedule an appointment.

The next two main issues within the complaint category for 05R are conflicts between students and professors, and between students and advisors. It is important to note that with matters involving graduate students, it is not unusual for the advocate to assist these students with multiple issues, as the matters affecting graduate students tend to be more complex and can affect various areas, including time extensions, theses, and leaves of absence.

There was one new academic concern that had increased to the point where we have created its own issue category for our record-keeping purposes. This is "Accommodations" which refers to specialized services or supports that student might be entitled to given their documented disability. Issues regarding accommodations included complaints about not receiving an accommodation or requests for assistance to obtain a particular accommodation. In the majority of these cases, the advocates worked closely with staff from Disability Services.
The third type of academic concern category is called academic deficiency and includes cases where a student has not met the minimum academic requirements for their program. This can result in probation, suspension, ineligibility to proceed and compulsory withdrawal from a faculty. This comprised 7% of cases in 05R.

Finally, the smallest of the academic concern categories pertains to professional conduct (1%). Examples of this include debarment from courses or programs, or withdrawal due to professional unsuitability. This category mainly applies to professional programs, where clinical or field work is a required component.

Administrative Issues
The next largest type of issue that was brought forward to the Student Advocacy office in 05R was administrative issues (16%). This category mainly includes fee appeals (filed through the Registrar's Office) and issues with course registration. Typically, this category includes a wide array of issues that do not directly affect a student’s continuation in an academic program (e.g., removal of transcript notation) or fall outside the jurisdiction of the university (e.g., immigration concerns).

Discipline Issues
Disciplinary cases comprised 12% of the total issues presented in 05R. This category includes not only academic discipline (i.e., academic dishonesty cases) but also non-academic discipline cases (i.e., inappropriate or disruptive student behaviour).

The student advocates were involved with 123 academic discipline cases in 05R. The breakdown of these issues is presented in Table 2.

A large number of the academic discipline cases involved cheating. One of the trends that became apparent during the reporting year involved students having unauthorized materials, in the form of cell phones or electronic translators, in a test or exam situation. Approximately a third of the total cheating cases were for this reason. Please see "Recommendations" for more information about this trend.

The caseload involved 44 plagiarism cases. Student Advocacy has long been involved with initiatives to educate students about plagiarism. A number of academic departments and faculties have actively engaged in their own efforts to promote academic honesty and increase awareness of plagiarism. These initiatives include highlighting important information about the University’s expectations about academic integrity and providing resources and tools to educate students about appropriate referencing techniques.

There were 12 inappropriate collaboration cases wherein students worked together on an assignment when individual work was required. Typically, these cases involved students who were unclear about the expectations regarding individual versus group work.

There were a few non-academic dishonesty cases seen in our office in 05R. These included 6 instances of inappropriate or disruptive student behaviour, 2 cases of inappropriate computer usage, and 3 cases of residence discipline matters. Other types of issues under this category pertain to campus bans and criminal activity.

It should also be noted that issues pertaining to inappropriate or disruptive student behaviour are sometimes brought forth to our office for consultation by the Director. In 05R, there were 5 such cases. These issues are not necessarily represented in our caseload numbers, as a student file may not be opened for all such consultations.

Admission Issues
Admissions cases are also a component of the Student Advocacy caseload as the advocates work with potential students as well as current or former students. In 05R, admissions cases represented 3% of our total caseload. This category mainly encompasses appeals of admissions decisions.
EQUITY ISSUES

Finally, Equity issues (1%) continue to comprise a small, yet important, category of student concerns. Under the Respectful Work and Learning Environment policy, the role of Student Advocacy has changed in terms of how the advocates work with students presenting with equity issues. This necessitated our adding a new category called “Personal Harassment”. Advocates assist by handling informal complaints involving students under this category. In 05R, there were 5 cases where a student brought forth a concern of personal harassment by another person on campus. In one of these cases, an informal complaint by a student resulted in a mutually agreed upon mediation lead by the advocate, while the rest were given information and advice pertaining to their options under this policy. We can expect over the next few years that this category will continue to increase in terms of its representation of the total number of the issues brought forward to this office.

Resolution of Issues

When assisting students with their concerns or issues, our goal is to resolve the matter at the lowest level possible. When issues are resolved or responded to outside of a formal process, we define this as an informal resolution to a case. In 05R 58% of the cases were resolved informally. Cases involving requests or appeals typically require a formal resolution process and in 05R 42% of the cases were resolved formally. We have described both our informal and formal case resolutions below.

INFORMAL

The majority of the cases resolved informally involved the provision of information and advice (75.2%). A little less than a quarter (22.3%) of the cases required the advocate to make a request or mediate a resolution on behalf of the student. In some instances, the office directed the student to another office to receive assistance (1.8%). In a handful of cases, students, after writing a letters of request or appeal, chose not to pursue the matter (0.6%).

FORMAL

The large majority of the formal requests and appeals that went forward were successful (70.6%). Of the 26.3% that were not successful, 19.5% were denied but 6.8% received a modified outcome. Modified outcomes are not the resolution that was originally sought, but a concession that might allow a student to recover academically.

One student retained a lawyer to assist with the formal process and seven students, after submitting their appeal materials, chose to formally withdraw their appeal. Cases that were not resolved by November 1, 2005 were closed as “pending” and carried forward to the next reporting year (3%).

MEETINGS & HEARINGS

Our work with students includes preparation for and attendance at meetings and hearings for both academic and disciplinary matters. We distinguish between meetings (less formal in terms of process or procedure followed) and hearings (which involve a committee and formalized procedures). Discipline meetings involve the investigative stages of the disciplinary process wherein the administrative authority meets with the student to discuss the allegation before making a decision.

Disciplinary hearings occur as a result of a student appealing a decision made at a lower level. Academic hearings normally are scheduled to hear requests or appeals of program policies or requirements. Figure 2 displays the monthly trend of our meetings and hearings in 05R.

Academic meetings tend to peak during April and May, which coincides with the end of the Regular Session. This may involve meetings with students and instructors/advisors regarding their courses or programs.

Disciplinary meetings tend to peak in January (following December exams and final papers being graded) as well as in March (following mid-term evaluations).

Academic hearings are more frequent in July and August, as most faculty committees convene at this time to consider requests and appeals that affect a student’s continuation in the program for Regular Session (such as suspensions or withdrawals). Disciplinary hearings are less frequent and are consistently low throughout the year.

Educational Initiatives

Student Advocacy staff endeavor to keep current on student issues and trends within higher education and infuse this knowledge into the many educational outreach activities that we initiate or are invited to present on. Our educational programming includes an annual schedule of orientations and workshops for students, academic staff and administrators. In 0SR Student Advocacy staff participated in over 80 presentations, which can be categorized into four main themes:

- Academic Integrity:
  Prevention, detection and response (6), thesis writing & citing (1), how to avoid (3), summary of plagiarism research (2), & eTools (41)

- Student Rights and Responsibilities:
  Fall orientations (18), Teaching Assistants & sessional instructor workshops (4)

- Incivility & inappropriate conduct: (3)

- Procedural Fairness & advice for faculty and administrators: (4)

NOTABLE ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

- Student Advocacy and the Learning Assistance Centre presented 41 sessions of the How to use the Net to write an A+ Paper, which was one of a series of four mandatory workshops provided to students registered in the course Introduction to University (99.111).

- The eTools partners, Information Services and Technology, Learning Assistance Centre, Libraries, Student Advocacy, in conjunction with University 1, Learning Technologies Centre, and Distance Education Program, created an online version of eTools which can be accessed at http://www.umanitoba.ca/learning_technologies/eTools/

- Student Advocacy hosted the 8th Annual Academic Integrity Week from November 1-5, the theme of which was “A Matter of Ethics”.

- Lynn Smith assisted staff from the Faculty of Nursing to create a Community Principles document.

- Lynn Smith and Dave Morphy presented a workshop on Student Matters and Legal Issues to the academic administrators group at Bannatyne Campus.

- Lynn Smith prepared and presented The Role of Students and Student Needs, an online course for the CHERD Certificate in University and College Administration. Nancy Callaghan and Brandy Usick presented two modules as guest lecturers.

INTERNAL PUBLICATIONS

STAFF

Peers: Students Helping Students (formerly Peer Advisors)

2004-2005 was a very significant year for the Peer program. This program, which is a collaborative effort of Student Affairs and UMSU, underwent a name change to better reflect the purpose of and activities associated with the program. It is now called Peers: Students Helping Students. The Peer program and its volunteers assist students by being supportive listeners, providing information, and making referrals to appropriate resources on campus. This program title captures these more accurately. In addition the program logo was also changed, see below.

COMMITTEE WORK

Nancy Callaghan, and Heather Morris, coordinated the Peers program and chaired the Steering Committee. Brandy Usick chaired the Placement Coordinators' meetings.

Staff held memberships on several Student Affairs and UoM committees including, Student Relations (Lynn Smith), Faculty of Graduate Studies (Nancy Callaghan and later Brandy Usick) and the Senate Committee on Instruction and Evaluation (SCIE).

Lynn Smith, Chair, completed and presented the final report of the SCIE Subcommittee on Investigating the Use of Plagiarism Detection Software.

TRAINING

The Student Advocacy office is dedicated to providing volunteer and employment opportunities to students; in fact over the years many of our Student Advocates joined the office as student employees while completing their respective academic programs. Student Advocates Nancy Callaghan, Heather Morris and Brandy Usick are all alumnas of the Peers program. In 05R we were very fortunate to have Zuzana Dankova and Paul Taylor continue in their positions of Peer Advocates. We were also pleased to welcome Peter Zettler, a Peer, who selected Student Advocacy as his placement.

RECOMMENDATIONS

As an update to the issue of students bringing in unauthorized electronic devices to exams, in 05R Student Advocacy recommended a revision to the Examination Policy. This recommendation was to provide more explicit regulations pertaining to students having these and similar electronic devices with them during exams. With the assistance of Neil Marnoch (Registrar) this revision was made and updated in the online Examination Regulations Policy. This update will also apply to print material for the upcoming year.

REFERRALS

One of the factors contributing to the success of the Student Advocacy office is the support we receive from the university community. In 05R, 628 of our student contacts came from referrals made by other offices on campus. The top referrals came from Faculty and schools (42%), Student Affairs offices (28%), Academic departments (13%), and Friend/family (7%). Many other services provided referrals as well. See Figure 3 for details.

*University offices include ACCESS, Central Administration, Ombudsman, Learning Assistance Centre and Equity Services.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to all the staff at the University of Manitoba who work tirelessly and passionately to help students successfully pursue their academic goals.

Student Advocacy would like to acknowledge Nancy Callaghan who left the office this past year. Nancy became affiliated with the office as a Peer Advisor in 1996. She was hired as a Peer Advocate and later as a full time Student Advocate in 1999. Nancy was a dedicated and passionate advocate who worked effectively with students and with members of the university community. In addition to her work as an advocate, she also oversaw the Peer Advisors Program and was the Chair of the Steering Committee. She was a highly regarded member of the office. Although we were sad to see her go, we wish her all the best in her future personal and professional goals.

Professor Bracken is on leave and needs to be replaced. Professor Marie Edwards of the Faculty of Nursing has been suggested as a replacement, and has agreed to serve, if nominated.

The composition of the Committee on Nominations calls for ten members of the academic staff, the majority of whom are to be members of Senate. Since eight of the academic members currently on the Committee are Senators the replacement will not necessarily have to be a member of Senate at the time of election to the Senate Committee on Nominations.
Report of the Senate Planning and Priorities Committee on a proposed site for an Indoor Soccer Complex

Preamble

1. The Terms of Reference for the Senate Planning and Priorities Committee (SPPC) are found in section 8.32 of the Senate Handbook, wherein SPPC is charged to make recommendations to Senate regarding physical plant development.

2. The Space Planning sub-committee of SPPC met and reported to SPPC on a proposed site for an indoor soccer complex.

Observations

1. In June of 2006, Senate approved the designation of a Sports and Active Living Precinct, with the "intention to further develop recreational and athletic facilities adjacent to and in concert with existing facilities as appropriate and consistent with the university Campus Plan".

2. The proposed siting of an indoor soccer complex is consistent with the Sport and Active Living Precinct. In fact, as part of the Sport and Active Living Precinct proposal, a number of potential projects were envisioned, including an Indoor Soccer Facility. At the time, the SPPC Space Planning sub-committee noted that such building development "must be considered architecturally -- they cannot be big-box sheds".

3. The Space Planning sub-committee carefully reviewed the proposed siting of the Indoor Soccer Complex (as depicted in the attached diagram). The sub-committee concurs with the landscape architects on the overall disposition of the proposed building, site access, parking strategy, and outdoor play fields.

4. The sub-committee observed that the logic of setting the building to the northwest end of the play fields makes good sense both functionally and formally. The building would be somewhat imposing if it were to be located adjacent to Chancellor Matheson Boulevard, and setting it back to mirror the buildings that comprise SmartPark would only fragment the site. Further, the building has been set back from the stadium in order to provide an easement to accommodate existing civic infrastructure.

Recommendation

SPPC recommends that the Senate approve and recommend that the Board of Governors approve the proposed site for an Indoor Soccer Complex adjacent to University Stadium, as depicted in the attached diagram.

Respectfully submitted,

Norman Hunter, Chair, Senate Planning and Priorities Committee
Eduard Epp, MRAIC, Chair, Space Planning Sub-committee
Preamble

The Senate Committee on Awards (SCOA) terms of reference include the following responsibility:

"On behalf of Senate, to approve and inform Senate of all new offers and amended offers of awards that meet the published guidelines presented to Senate on November 3, 1999, and as thereafter amended by Senate. Where, in the opinion of the Committee, acceptance is recommended for new offers and amended offers which do not meet the published guidelines or which otherwise appear to be discriminatory under Policy No. 419, such offers shall be submitted to Senate for approval." (Senate, April 5, 2000)

Observation

At its meeting on August 3, 2006, Senate Committee on Awards reviewed one new application that appears to be discriminatory under policy number 419. The committee received letters of support for the Cyril Tobias Memorial Bursary from Mr. Peter Dueck, Executive Director of Enrolment Services and from Ms. Kali Storm, Director of the Aboriginal Student Centre.

Recommendation

The Senate Committee on Awards recommends that Senate approve and recommends that the Board of Governors approve the Cyril Tobias Memorial Bursary as set out in Appendix A of the Report of the Senate Committee on Awards - Part B dated August 3, 2006.

Respectfully submitted,

OFFERS

CYRIL TOBIAS MEMORIAL BURSARY

With a bequest from Cyril Herbert Tobias, an endowment fund has been established in support of bursaries directed to Aboriginal students. The available annual interest will be used to provide bursaries to students who:

1. are Aboriginal (Status, non-Status, Métis, Inuit);
2. were born and grew up in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta;
3. have completed at least one year of study as full-time students at the University of Manitoba and have achieved a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.5;
4. have demonstrated financial need on the standard University of Manitoba bursary application form.

The number and value of individual bursaries will be determined at the discretion of the selection committee.

The selection committee will be named by the Director of Financial Aid and Awards.
Dear Dr. Baydack and members of the Senate Committee on Awards:

Enrolment Services at the University of Manitoba is committed to growth in Aboriginal education. The Aboriginal population in Manitoba makes up 11.7% (approximately 150,045) of the total population of Manitoba. According to the Senate-approved General Terms and Conditions for Student Awards at the University of Manitoba, we can allow and encourage the establishment of discriminatory awards for designated groups such as Aboriginal students as long as the proportion of Aboriginal students to the total student population falls below 80 percent of the proportion of Aboriginal people within the total provincial population. Eighty percent of 11.7% is 9.36%, and the population of Aboriginal students on campus is still a long way from 9.36% of the total student population.

In 2005-2006, the undergraduate student population was 24,267. At 9.36% of this total student population, we would hope to have a population of at least 2271 Aboriginal students. The actual number of self-declared Aboriginal students was 1560, or 6.43% of the undergraduate population.

As the statistics show, Aboriginal students are a highly under-represented group within the University. Therefore, I strongly support the establishment of the Cyril Tobias Memorial Scholarship.

Dr. Rick Baydack
Chair of the Senate Committee on Awards
C/o Ms. Diana Kaspersion, Awards Establishment Coordinator
417 University Centre

Dear Dr. Baydack & Senate Committee:

Please accept this letter as formal support for the Cyril Tobias Memorial Bursary designed to assist Aboriginal students with financial need.

As the Director of the Aboriginal Student Centre, I can verify that financial strain is the leading cause for Aboriginal students leaving school before graduation. It is common knowledge that many Aboriginal peoples live in poverty and whereas a university education can help rectify this, most cannot afford to do so. It is only reasonable that the University of Manitoba would want to assist in rectifying this situation with or without the declared commitments made in the Strategic Plan.

The number of Aboriginal students attending the University of Manitoba continues to increase and, I believe, is partially due to the financial assistance made available through community members, programs and faculties. The Cyril Tobias Memorial Bursary offered to Aboriginal students encountering high financial need is an example of wanting to assist our community. I support the request for this Bursary as it is highly needed and will help many students to continue to pursue their academic dreams.

I trust that the Senate committee will approve this bursary and others like it, in the hopes of increasing the recruitment and retention of Aboriginal students.

In education, miigwetch!
