Faculty and Instructors – you can take the guess work out of copyright from the comfort of your own screen

Join the U of M Copyright Office on MS Teams for a live online info session.
Wednesday, February 3, 12:00 – 1:00 PM
Click here to join the meeting

Learn best practices to ensure the course materials you share with students are compliant with the U of M Copyright Guidelines and Canadian copyright law. In under an hour we’ll cover

- Copyright in online course delivery
  While much remains the same as teaching in person, there are a few significant differences to be aware of.
- The do’s and don’ts of sharing online content.
  Tips on how to verify a work has been posted legally on the internet
- Terms of use for e-Resources available through U of M Libraries
  The most reliable source for copyright friendly materials
- Free to use images, figures, photos, and artwork
  From Creative Commons to the Public Domain. Search strategies and CC license basics

If you prefer to learn at your own pace, try the Copyright Office – Webinars & Educational Resources hub on UM Learn

- A one-stop source for copyright info whether you are teaching on campus or online. You can access it by logging in here or look for it on the UM Learn homepage under “My Courses”. Contact um.copyright@umanitoba.ca if you have any login issues.

Or let us come to you.
Whether it’s a one-on-one meeting or an entire department, copyright information sessions are available on demand to fit your needs and schedule. Sessions can be adapted to ensure the content is relevant to specific Faculties and Departments.

For more information or to have your copyright questions answered, we are here to help

- U of M Copyright Office
  203 Allen Physics Building
  um.copyright@umanitoba.ca
  (204) 474-7277 / 9607