Traditional Territory and Land Acknowledgement

The University of Manitoba campuses are located on original lands of Anishinaabeg, Cree, Oji-Cree, Dakota and Dene peoples, and on the homeland of the Métis Nation. We respect the Treaties that were made on these territories, we acknowledge the harms and mistakes of the past, and we dedicate ourselves to move forward in partnership with Indigenous communities in a spirit of reconciliation and collaboration.

I personally acknowledge that my place of work (University of Manitoba campuses and research sites) and my personal residence are located in the heartland of the Red River Métis nation and the traditional territories of other Indigenous peoples of the region. I am continuing to learn about the traumas experienced by Indigenous peoples and also the richness of Indigenous cultures, especially their relationships with the land.

As students of agriculture, we are students of the land. One of the goals of this course is to learn about appropriate nutrient management that helps to meet human needs while respecting and caring for the natural environment. Seeing ourselves as part of the land, rather than only land managers, can help foster a relationship built on reciprocity rather than extractive resource use. I believe such an approach will help guide modern agriculture to greater sustainability.

Equity and Inclusion Commitment

I am committed to upholding and advancing equity, diversity, and inclusion in my teaching. I respect your identities (e.g., race, gender identity, sexual orientation, ability, etc.) and commit to working against any form of oppression or discrimination based on these or other categories. I recognize that I am still learning and developing in this area, and so I invite your feedback on my actions related to equity and inclusion in this course. If you feel comfortable doing so, please contact me directly with your concerns. To submit anonymous feedback, you may place a typed, unsigned note in my mailbox in the Soil Science office (Room 362 Ellis) and/or contact the Soil Science department head.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

U of M Course Calendar Description

Advanced study of behaviour and crop requirements for selected nutrients (except for nitrogen, as covered in SOIL 7140). Students will be required to review literature and prepare seminars on assigned topics. Prerequisites: SOIL 4520 or consent of instructor.

General Course Description

The technical content for the course will be aimed at the graduate level, assuming that students are already well-grounded in soil fertility at the undergraduate level. After completing this course, students will have an advanced level of knowledge in a representative number of topic areas in soil fertility and/or nutrient management outside a specialized focus on nitrogen, which is covered in SOIL 7140 Soil Nitrogen.

For this version of the “Topics in Soil Fertility” course, the focus will be on the behaviour of phosphorus (P) in soil and how that knowledge can be applied to the determination of nutrient requirements and management for crop production, agricultural sustainability and environmental protection. In addition to acquiring technical knowledge, students will also further develop their critical thinking skills (e.g., by evaluating and discussing assigned readings from scientific journals) and their communication skills (e.g., by writing weekly assignments on the reviews and research papers, plus writing and presenting a major review paper for discussion).

Course Learning Outcomes

On completion of this course, you should be able to:

1. Understand and explain key concepts regarding P forms and their behaviour in soil and the environment, focusing on Canadian Prairie agroecosystems.
2. Summarize, evaluate, and critique research papers related to P management, identifying the contributions to knowledge as well as weaknesses and/or next steps.
3. Formulate perceptive questions on specific topics related to P management, based on relevant readings.
4. Integrate various knowledge sources in a focused literature review on a topic related to P management.
5. Prepare and deliver an oral presentation on a topic related to P management.
6. Facilitate a class discussion on your presentation topic.

Topics, Readings, and Course Materials

Students will be assigned selected readings, including book excerpts and articles from peer-reviewed journals for weekly assignments based on the topics listed below. Readings include selections from Sims, J.T. and Sharpley, A.N. 2005. Phosphorus: Agriculture and the Environment (PAE). Specific research papers will be selected in consultation with students working on topics for their review papers and complementary papers chose by the instructor. Additional resources will be provided to students as needed.

Below is a detailed list of potential topics and readings for Managing Agricultural Phosphorus. This list, including the order of topics, is subject to revision based on student interests and the discretion of the instructor. Topics will likely be addressed over two class sessions, with the first devoted to discussing the book chapter or review paper and the second devoted to discussing research papers from the published literature.

COURSE FORMAT AND ASSIGNMENTS

Class Sessions

The learning process will consist of an introduction to a topic, accompanied by readings, short written assignments, and an interactive discussion among the students and instructor. The class will meet twice per week for a total of 24-26 sessions. Each session will be approximately 75 minutes in length and will involve one of three formats, consisting of:

1. Introductory lectures and discussion – by instructor
2. General overview of topic
 - a. Introduction to the topic – by instructor
 - b. Oral presentation of book chapter or literature review on the topic – by instructor, guest lecturer, or student presenter
 - c. Discussion based on student written assignments (Assignment type 1 below)
3. Discussion of specific research papers related to topic
 - a. Overview of papers – led by instructor
 - b. Discussion based on student written assignments (Assignment type 2 below)

Assignments

Short written assignment type 1: on general topics and review papers (approx. 8 assignments)

Compose three questions that could be asked to initiate discussion in the session. Ask "open-ended" or "thinking-type" questions that focus on analysis, creativity, adaptation, or evaluation. Questions should not be easily answered by a simple yes, no, or memorized fact and should not be directly asked or answered in the assigned review paper or book chapter. The three questions should focus on the following three perspectives:

- 1) fundamental processes or mechanisms in that topic area – this could include effects of temporal and spatial variability, interactions among system components (soils, organisms, climate), and so on
- 2) practical implications for agronomic production
- 3) practical implications for environmental protection or sustainability

All students (including the student presenter, if applicable) shall complete the assignment. Assignments should be typed, single spaced, and fit on a single page. Assignments are due by email (or submitted in UM Learn - TBD) by the beginning of the corresponding class session.

Short written assignment type 2: on assigned scientific papers (approx. 8 assignments)

Complete the following activities for each of the assigned papers (1-2 papers) for a particular session:

- 1) Identify the most important strength or contribution to knowledge in the paper. Briefly explain and justify (1 paragraph).
- 2) Identify the greatest weakness in the paper or the next logical step required to expand knowledge in the area. Briefly explain and justify (1 paragraph).

Assignments should be typed, single spaced, and fit on a single page. Assignments are due by email (or submitted in UM Learn - TBD) by the beginning of the corresponding class session.

Major Review Paper and Presentation

Students will choose one of the course topics from the outline as the basis for their major review paper and presentation. Each student must consult with the instructor to select their topic by the end of the first week of class.

1) Written Literature Review Paper

- Focus on 10 to 20 key published papers that illustrate contemporary knowledge in the chosen topic.
- Papers should be 10 pages in length, excluding figures, tables and references, using an 11 point font and with a 1.5 line spacing to allow readers to add comments
- Provide an introduction, body, and summary or conclusion for the paper, plus a complete list of references. The paper should address the fundamental processes in that topic area, as well as the practical implications for agronomic production and environmental protection.
- Each student must submit their proposed outline and initial reference list to the instructor at least three weeks prior to their presentation to discuss the direction and scope of the paper. The instructor will provide verbal feedback and a grade for the outline.
- Each student will be required to submit two versions of their review paper:
 - the first version is distributed by email to the class and instructor one week before the oral presentation and is graded by the instructor;
 - the second version is revised based on feedback received from the instructor and fellow students and is graded by the instructor.
- Grammar, spelling and composition will be evaluated and considered as part of the grading criteria for the review paper (10% of mark for each version of the paper)

2) Oral Presentation of Literature Review

- Deliver a 30-minute presentation, based on the content of the review paper. The presentation does not need to cover all material in the review paper and can focus on key aspects the student wishes to present.
- Use standard practices for good oral presentations, with an obvious introduction, body and conclusion, as indicated on the evaluation sheet (provided to students at the beginning of the course).
- Facilitate a class discussion on the topic.

COURSE EVALUATION AND GRADING

Course element	Due date	% of final grade
Short written assignments (16)	Beginning of each class, as assigned	35%
Participation in discussions	Every class	15%
Outline of review paper	3 weeks before oral presentation	5%
First version of review paper	1 week before presentation	20%
Oral presentation	TBD based on schedule of topics	15%
Revised version of review paper	Last day of classes (April 10)	10%

The instructor will provide feedback and grades on short written assignments within one week of submission. Feedback on the review paper outline will be provided orally while meeting with students individually at least 3 weeks before their presentations. Feedback and a grade for the first version of the review paper will be provided on the date of the student oral presentation.

Late Assignments

A 20% penalty will be assessed on the grade for each 24-hour period after the assignment is due, unless an extension has been granted before the due date. No points (0%) will be awarded for submissions received after the assignment is returned to the rest of the class.

Missed Assignments

If you miss a class and an assignment is given or due, it is still your responsibility to submit the assignment on time. A penalty will be assessed on late assignments as indicated above unless a full explanation is submitted ahead of the due date explaining exactly why you will not be able to submit the assignment on the due date.

Letter Grade Equivalency:

A+($\geq 90\%$); A(80-89%); B+(75-79%); B(70-74%); C+(65-69%); C(60-64%); D(50-59%); F(<50%)

Communications

You must obtain and use your University of Manitoba email account for all communication between yourself and the university. I will send email messages only to your University of Manitoba email account. All communication must comply with the Electronic Communication with Student Policy: http://umanitoba.ca/admin/governance/governing_documents/community/electronic_communication_with_students_policy.html.

Email is my preferred form of communication to set up appointments or discuss issues related to the course. I will do my best to respond to all emails within 24 hours on weekdays and 48 hours on weekends/holidays. For urgent matters, you may phone or text me but I cannot guarantee an immediate response.

Academic Integrity

Each student in this course is expected to complete their coursework and programs of study with integrity by making a commitment to the six fundamental values of honesty, trust, fairness, respect, responsibility, and courage.

In this course, academic integrity looks like referencing the work of others that you have used and completing your assignments independently unless otherwise specified.

Please refer to these specific course requirements for academic integrity for individual work:

1. Complete your assignments independently unless otherwise specified. You must do your own work in all assignments without direct help from your class peers, family members, or from tutors that are not approved by the instructor. Use of artificial intelligence tools, including but not limited to ChatGPT and Grammarly, is not permitted unless explicitly specified. Failure to complete your work independently is considered inappropriate collaboration and/or academic fraud. If you are in need of assistance, please contact the instructor immediately for support and/or to arrange for approved supports.
2. Do not share course materials (e.g., notes, exam questions, assignment instructions, article) that have been created by the instructor or were authored by another. Sharing of such materials with your peers or with note-sharing services is a violation of the Copyright law.
3. Reference the work of others that you have used in your own work. To plagiarize is to take ideas or words of another person and pass them off as one's own. It is not necessary to state the source of well-known or easily verifiable facts, but you are expected to appropriately acknowledge the sources of ideas and expressions you use in your written work, whether quoted directly or paraphrased. Plagiarism applies to any written work, in traditional or electronic format, as well as orally or verbally presented work. This applies to images, diagrams, etc., as well as to written material, and to materials or information from Internet sources. To provide adequate and correct documentation is not only an indication of academic honesty but is also a courtesy which enables the reader to consult these sources with ease. Failure to provide appropriate citations constitutes plagiarism.

4. Do not submit assignments already graded in another course. This is considered duplicate submission.

Plagiarism, duplicate submission, inappropriate collaboration, academic fraud, and personation are violations of the Student Discipline Bylaw and will lead to the serious disciplinary action. Please read the section on Academic Integrity under UM Policies at the end of this syllabus. Visit the Academic Calendar, Student Advocacy, and Academic Integrity web pages for more information and support.

Accessibility

Please see the University of Manitoba's Accessibility information under "UM Learner Supports" in Schedule A at the end of this syllabus. You are also welcome to discuss any accessibility concerns you may have with me directly if you feel comfortable doing so.

Attendance

Regular class attendance is highly recommended to gain a full understanding of the course material. Failure to attend class regularly will result in a deduction from the points allocated to participation in discussions.

Assignment Extensions and Late Submissions

In case of illness or other extenuating circumstances that cause you to miss classes and/or due dates, please communicate with me directly first. In some cases, you may be required to follow the University of Manitoba's Self-Declaration for Brief and Temporary Student Absences Policy and Procedure. Note that travel, vacations, work and other scheduled personal obligations are not considered extenuating circumstances.

If unforeseen catastrophic events occur and you require an extension on an assignment, please contact me to explain the extenuating circumstances under which you are/were not able to meet the deadline.

See the Course Assignments and Evaluations section above for specific requirements and penalties for late or missed submissions.

Recording of lectures:

No audio or video recording of lectures or presentations is allowed in any format, openly or surreptitiously, in whole or in part, without permission from Dr. Thiessen Martens. Course materials (both paper and digital) are for the participant's private study. If you need to record lectures for accessibility or accommodation reasons, you are encouraged to discuss options with me or contact Student Accessibility Services to arrange an accommodation.

Copyright

Please respect copyright. Copyrighted content used in this course is appropriately acknowledged and used according to copyright laws and University guidelines. Copyrighted works, including those created by the instructor, are made available for private study and research and must not be distributed in any format without permission. Do not upload copyrighted works to a learning management system (such as UM Learn), or any website, unless an exception to the Copyright Act applies or written permission has been confirmed. The UM website, Engaging in Respectful Conduct (https://umanitoba.ca/student-supports/respectful-conduct), includes more details about expectations for behaviours related to university activities.

Sexual Violence Policies

The UM has several policies and procedures that deal with the rights and responsibilities of the University community with regards to all forms of sexual violence. For a comprehensive list of policies and associated resources, visit the Sexual Violence Resource Centre's information page (https://umanitoba.ca/student-supports/sexual-violence-support-and-education/sexual-violence-get-informed). Please note that there are many supports available in addition to these policy documents (see UM Learner Supports).

Voluntary Withdrawal

Voluntary withdrawal (VW) is a way for students to leave a class without academic penalty once the Registration Revision Period has ended. If you opt to voluntarily withdraw from a course, you will not be eligible for a refund and, if applicable, will still be required to pay any outstanding tuition fees for the course. On your transcript, the course you have withdrawn from will be listed; however, "VW" will appear in lieu of a grade. If you do not drop a course before the VW deadline, you will receive a final grade in the course on your transcript.

Please note that there are separate deadlines for dropping a course early in a term during the Registration Revision Period. Dropping a course means you are removing that course from your schedule, will not be charged tuition fees for that course, and the course will not appear on your transcript.

The Registrar's Office website, Withdraw from a Course (<https://umanitoba.ca/registrar/withdraw-course>), includes more information on the different ways in which you can withdraw from a course and important dates and deadlines to do so.
