SYNOPSIS | Working within the realms of furniture design, architecture, and creative direction, Fougere will present a dynamic overview of his work to date; citing key projects, working processes, and his perspective on design.

BIO | Thom Fougere (1987) studied architecture at the University of Manitoba before working in furniture, product design, and architecture. In 2010, he was appointed Creative Director at Canadian design house EQ3. During his nine year tenure in that role he led the company through a transformative brand re-positioning. The comprehensive process included a refresh of the company's visual identity, design direction for the product line, graphic presentation, photography and interior design, including acting as the lead designer of EQ3 showrooms across Canada and the United States.

In 2015, Thom Fougere established his eponymous studio based in Winnipeg, Canada. Working within works within the fields of product design, architecture, commercial interiors, photography and art direction. His works have been exhibited internationally at design fairs in Milan, Stockholm, New York, Montreal, and Toronto.
