- New Directions in Dementia Research: Big Data – Pre-announcement
  CIHR will soon launch a funding opportunity on big data in dementia research. The funding will support one pan-Canadian research team working to generate and enrich big datasets on neurodegenerative diseases. The team funded will support the access, linkage, analysis and dissemination of big data on dementia in Canada and internationally, working with the Canadian Consortium on Neurodegeneration in Aging. The funding will be allocated as part of the CIHR Dementia Research Strategy which supports research on the latest preventive, diagnostic and treatment approaches to Alzheimer’s disease and related dementia. More information will be available shortly.
