Developing a Community Based Program of Research: Tips and Traps

Community based research is complex in the number of research partners, varying goals and the time to foster and sustain productive relationships. This complexity makes it important to plan programs of research rather than single projects. The presentation will give examples with lessons learned and opportunity for a beginning dialogue.

Time: 10:30 - 11:30 am
Room: 370 Helen Glass Centre for Nursing, Fort Garry Campus

Workshop: Managing and Facilitating Community Partnerships

This workshop will build on the earlier Faculty lecture with opportunity for faculty to consider potential partners, & strategies for developing and maintaining specific relationships. Specific issues such as authorship, research design and communication strategies will be addressed.

Time: 1:00 - 4:00 pm
Room: 210 Helen Glass Centre for Nursing, Fort Garry Campus

Social Inclusion, Poverty, Housing, Psychiatric Survivors: Understanding Musical Chairs

Why are so many people with mental illness experiencing homelessness? What can be done to address this problem? This lecture will use a simple analogy of musical chairs to help understand the complex problem of policies and practices that have led to increased homelessness, particularly with those with mental illness, and strategies that can address the issue.

Time: 5:00 pm: Reception; 6:00 - 7:00 pm: Presentation
Room: The Fort Garry Hotel, 222 Broadway

How to Turn that Clinical Project into Research

This mini-workshop will be a pragmatic discussion of integrating the researcher role into practice. A key strategy is moving clinical projects to also be research projects. Specific tips and examples will be given.

Time: 1:00 - 2:30 pm
Room: 336 Helen Glass Centre for Nursing, Fort Garry Campus
