Gifts today, funding the future

The five-year annualized return of the fund was 8.5% and the 10-year annualized return was 11.3%, both exceeding the investment objectives of the fund based on the UIT providing for inter-generational equity. The UIT added a new asset class in January 2019, investing in the Brookfield Super-Core Infrastructure Partners Private Fund. This investment is through a limited partnership, and the university's share of the partnership at March 31, 2019 was valued at $21.3 million. This investment added further diversification to the overall UIT portfolio, and steady income stream from the investment will provide support for beneficiaries of the fund. It is also an ideal investment for an endowment fund, as it is inflation-linked, has strong downside protection and a long investment timeframe.

INVESTMENT PAYOUT RATES

The University of Manitoba set a long-term payout rate, also referred to as a spending allocation, in order for the current generation to realize a benefit from the UIT. This spending allocation rate is determined with the knowledge that future generations also need to be supported. The payout requirement is currently set at 4.25% of a rolling 48-month average of market value of the UIT.

Your endowed gifts provide students with exceptional experiences that allow them to realize their own potential and achieve success.

Keith McCullough, third-year student in the Faculty of Law and one of the 2018/2019 Pitblado Scholarships recipients, says:

“I can think of no better gift any person could give to another than to support their education. On behalf of the University of Manitoba scholarship and bursary recipients, thank you so much for your continued investment.

We are working hard to make you proud and to ensure we are one day able to give back to the next generation.”

Your endowed gifts create opportunities and inspire students to make an impact of their own. Bella Oghieakhi, Master of Arts graduate in Peace and Conflict Studies and 2017/2018 Manavathé Graduate Student Bursary recipient, says:

“The moral support from donors encouraged my journey in the pursuit of peace and motivated me to ‘pay it forward’ by sponsoring a 5-year-old girl in rural Zimbabwe to attend school.

Donor gifts, like these, are having a significant impact in the lives of individuals from various cultural backgrounds, including mine, and I want to express my gratitude for this, as well. Thank you for influencing the next generation positively.”
