You must receive permission for the nominee to be considered. Ask if anyone else is nominating them for an Indigenous Award of Excellence. Each candidate may only be nominated once per year. Past recipients are not eligible to win again.*

If you are re-nominating a nominee from 2021, please ensure the nominee's information is up to date.*

The nominee is aware that if they receive the award, they will be asked to be filmed for the awards video.

By submitting a nomination, I consent to being filmed as part of the awards video should my nominee receive the award.

Using the following criteria, please provide specific examples that describe the nominee's contributions. Please provide details that demonstrate the impact the candidate has made. You may use point form. The selection committee will only consider information that is included in the nomination package, so please complete your nomination in full and in alignment with the awards criteria.

Fosters a greater understanding of Indigenous knowledge, cultures and traditions amongst students, staff and faculty. (Max 250 words)

Demonstrates visionary thinking that has resulted in advancing Indigenous engagement at the University of Manitoba with continued impact. (Max 250 words)

You may attach up to two single-page letters of support from students, faculty, staff, and/or community supporters to accompany the nomination. It is helpful to share the criteria for the award with those providing the letters so that their statements are informed by the criteria; it should be clear how the contributions relate to the specific award criteria. These letters offer an opportunity to show the contribution of the nominee from different perspectives. The impact of the letter is not weighted by the status of the individual providing the letter, but their ability to speak about the contributions the nominee has made.
