Faculty of Law

1982-83

Dean's Message

Congratulations to the Class of '83. You have survived with flying colours the first of the ways through which you must wend on the road to professional and personal fulfillment. There are two quick observations to be made. First, most of you will not be required ever again to face greater anxiety or pressure than that associated with 100% final examinations at the Faculty of Law. Each April, even after all these years, I myself continue to feel pains of empathy and sympathy for this brutal, if necessary, ritual. Having survived these tests, though that is not their point, you may be confident of your ability to handle yourselves in just about any situation you may encounter.

Second, you now have a responsibility which extends beyond you alone. No longer will you be the centres of your universes. Instead, you will now be expected to render service both to your employers, your clients and your community. You have been privileged to graduate from a leading professional faculty. You must now determine how you will exercise that privilege and how, in the process, you will benefit others. Some of you will see the law degree, and ultimately the practitioner's licence, as a money printing machine. While, undoubtedly, one of the great motivations for becoming a lawyer is the inherent security of income it provides, even in these times, nevertheless, one hopes that is but a small part of your vision. The doing of good work, rather than bad; being of service to clients and community, rather than selfishly and egotistically being involved only in one's own advancement; and, the taking on of unpopular causes and the championing of the rights of the under-privileged, should also be prominent in your minds and your activities.

There are many frontiers to challenge. Pressing native rights; women's rights; the rights of the economically disadvantaged; assisting the victims of stereotypical assumptions and the "isms" which go with that evil; and much more, are goals and ideals worth pursuing and commitments worth making.

You have been blessed with a first rate legal education. I charge you now to do something more with it than simply enter the marketplace.

Law School has been an experience that will remain with us for many years. We learned to juggle families, friends, law, and jobs. We learned to laugh at ourselves for spending weeks preparing for a thirty minute oral advocacy exercise. We learned to tolerate the questions of our classmates and the demands of our professors. Some of us learned humility (remember articling interviews?), others learned cooperation (Litigation?), and still others learned about commitments - to the law and to our colleagues. These are the tools which will remain with us long after we forget the ratio of BRIDGES v HAWKESWORTH or the meaning of lex loci delicti commissi. Robson Hall will have left its mark on all of us. Good Luck to all.

Car Rally

This year's car rally was won by the car of Nancy Harwood and John Jones, despite its many right turns and twists. Runners-up were the team of Mike Terrell, Derek Woods and Victor Minenko.

Soccer

This year's side was relatively successful posting a four and two record during the regular season. This included stunning victories over Phys. Ed. and Arts. In the semi-finals after a hotly contested match, Law fell to the West Indian Student Assoc., the final score being 5-4. Most Valuable Player this year was Dennis Smith who possessed a unique scoring talent.

Once again, the team of Professors Art Braid and Phil Osborne established their superiority at the croke board soundly teaching Dennis Smith and Larry Bird the finer points in the championship match. The award for best costume went to Vic Bellay for his interpretation of a lounging state trooper. Runners-up were the team of Patti Wight and Maureen MacDonald with their antennae.

(1) The Boys (Larry Bird, Dennis Smith, Bill Johnston, and Bob Campbell) check-out the competition while (2) the pizza gets cold and (3) Tom Turner expropriates funds. Earlier that evening, Liz Thomson practices her beer-pouring skills (4).

Solomon-Greenberg

Briefing the Administrative Law Course, cross-examining till 3:00 a.m., arguing law at 4:00 a.m.; those were some of the simple feats performed by the Greenberg competitors. The comments from the Bench were probing and kept us on our toes. We will always remember, after an hour of trial, the following question from the Learned Trial Judge: "Who's the defendant here anyway?" But, despite My Lord Dilts' tortuous logic, Lee Steusser and Steve Vincent managed to pull ahead and win the Solomon Greenberg title. Of course such a competition could only end with the very important Tournament of Charades. The score there: Dilts - 4, Others - 0.

Graduates

Lori Ainemer

Lori, is that man you're always with your husband? your son? your boyfriend? or your brother? Frequently seen huddled with Mike Rice criticizing the system. One of the less vocal members of our class. Many students owe Lori's notes a thank-you for their graduation.

Iris Allen

This legal beagle has a voracious appetite for the study of law (and licorice!) Her Nikes will come in handy next year as she jogs around Legal Aid to champion the cause of the "little guy". Rumour has it that an honorary LL.B. will be conferred on her husband Gord.

Gerald Ashcroft

Has anyone ever been in the library on a weekday evening and not seen Gerald? He wrote the book on farm law - literally - at PLEA during the summer. Articling at Legal Aid.

Ellen Gordon and Gord Pollard at "Trivial Pursuit".

Gary Ball

Gary organized the first inaugural "Law School Car Rally That Was Over Before It Started". There are still those (remaining unnamed) who stalk him in dark alleys because they "know" they came in first. Gary's avid interest in photography helped with this year's yearbook. He's articling with Autopac next year where his knowledge of cars should be put to the test. Preppy yet sophisticated.

Donald Bell

One of the founding partners of Bell-Acme Law Partners, "you pay, we'll put you away". First year class rep, Don fought a hard battle with Alison in second year and lost out to Martha. Don has since given up on politics to play Mr. Surburbia and enter into the institution of marriage. A Beer'n'Skits activist, Don is one of our most quotable and unforgettable graduates (just ask Jack). Articling with Walsh Yard. Famous quote: "Put the murderers and rapists back on the street where they belong."

Chuck Blamaru

This hot-blooded Rumanian can't decide whether to be a lawyer or a hypnotist. His happiest hours are spent over cards, musing about various career options. Never having read a case, Chuck should have a lot of fun with the Section 96 Judges.

Mr. Botan discussing the law.

Sharon Boonov

Queen of the PJC, spent half of third year with a serious crush on E.T. Wore two hats (so she'd appear taller) as Grad Committee Co-Chairman and third year rep. Sharon comes across as the wholesome, cheerleader type but the sensuous Hallowe'en costumes disclosed her true identity. After showing Legal Aid her stuff as a summer student, they snapped her up as an articling student.

Al Botan

Emminently the most quotable graduate, one of his most memorable quotes being, "J.L. can S.M.D." Even after Al leaves law school his ghost will remain to haunt future legal "beavers". It's a dirty job, but someone's gotta do it.

Marilyn Born

Everybody admires Marilyn. Brent H. admires her for her red shoes. Everybody else admires her for her mature wisdom and her dedication to ideals. This dedication is shown by her relentless pursuit of a job with Legal Aid and her naive sacrifice of a steady job in the vain hope of finding fulfillment in law.

Bill Bowles

Bill asked us not to mention any of his pre-law accomplishments, so we won't tell you about those wild drug-filled weekends, groupies, what it is like being a rock star, and how it feels to be a Ph.D. Mr. Sports Jacket was famed for his intimidating comments emanating from the back row. A Greenberg co-winner and a Legal Aid summer student, Bill was the odds-on favorite in the articling pool. Articling with Aikins-MacAulay.

Robert Briercliffe

No one knows who he is, including J.L., but he makes J.L.'s list every year. This basically quiet guy comes alive when he drinks. Bob will be with Fillmore, Riley next year, but it has nothing to do with the large envelopes he was seen taking there from the Department of Transport. Our advice is don't pick up any bad habits from your friends.

Mr. Bowles at the office.

Dana Brinley

What can you say about Dana? What can anybody say about Dana? New kid on the block, Dana came to us this year from Queen's and is leaving us for Vancouver to article with the big boys on the coast. Rumour has it that he came to Manitoba not for the education but to reduce his phone bills. Nice guy to know and we look forward to having a place to stay next time we're out west.

Bob Campbell

Question Bob, we're confused. With all of your sexual exploits, why couldn't you get Shawn Greenberg into bed? Having played a transvestite and Dave Deutscher, Bob is best at playing the fool. Can you believe this man is a responsible father? Articling with Fillmore Riley.

Stuart Carroll

The truth has finally come to light. The only reason Stuart entered law school was to make himself a hotter commodity on the marriage market. He was pleased to discover that the study of law also offered such fringe benefits as Hearts, Boggle, and Beer'n'Skits. Stuart plans to spend next year organizing parlour games at Schwartz McJannet and writing songs for the Bar smoker.

Lisa Castle

The next Acquisitor, shall definitely end up a corporate whiz-kid. Never drinks, only cocktails, with red licorice swizzle sticks. Articling with Leinburd Teskey.

Tana Christianson

"Miss Piggy" was given the best legs in law school award. She should hold this title forever. (There's no room for varicose veins in those jeans.) This notorious ear tickler is well known for her "madcap" driving style and her meticulous dress. Rumour has it that Clifford's had her in mind when writing their theme song. Tana is happy to be articled with Simkin Gallagher. ("Barb says" it's a good firm.)

"Scrap Iron" Fedorchuk on patrol.

David Cohen prepares for Moot Court, proving that he does, in fact, study.

David Cohen

Once a man about town and ladies' man, David is rarely seen now that he's married. A backrow cynic, David is best known for the constant rumble emanating from that part of the room. He and Al attended Labour to admire Marva's anatomy. Plans to submit his artistic styrofoam cup collection to the Louvre.

Mike Cook

Love Boat afficiando, Mike loves to cook up a mess of pork chops and snuggle under the covers. A loyal man, Cookie was never caught fooling around with the women at school. Finally joined the Beer'n'Skits team in third year. Articling with Sinclair, Edmond.

Martha Chuchman

Although Martha's cars are legendary, her preference is to dress as small furry animals; mice, kittens or rabbits are special favorites. Even without a recap of her social life, her mother's perogies and Martha's ability to pronounce Saskatchewan case names reveal her Ukrainian heritage. Even before she was social committee chairman, Martha demonstrated her devotion to law school activities by blocking a punt with her face in an important flag football game.

Alison Diduck

Alison's credo is Live, Love, Laugh and those who know her know it's true. In first year, "Miss Diduck" was notorious for her eagerness to answer Cliff Edward's call, but she has managed to live down that reputation. Subject to funding (the story of Alison's life), she will be articling with the Section 96 Judges. If worse comes to worst, she can always go back to Klinik as volunteer legal counsel.

Jeevit Dulat

In spite of her Big Black Cadillac, Jeevit rarely manages to make it to class on time. While others exhibit signs of psychosis as exams draw near, Jeevit remains her usual calm self. Is this possibly due to her extensive knowledge of psychology? Articling with the Section 96 Judges.

Brad Evers

Still wondering why he didn't go into Education instead. Brad took a year off to find himself but was obviously unsuccessful since he returned for third year. He can usually be found in the smoke room while his books are studying in the library. Always rushed to class five minutes early to get the best seat in the back row so he couldn't read anything put on the board unless he brought a telescope.

Kaye Dunlop

Member of the Phil Osborne fan club, known far and wide for her admiration of his anatomy. Editor of the Law Journal, Kaye will go down in history as the first editor to have published an Eddy article and she will never forget the headaches he caused her. Another student whose fashion rivaled Nikki's sweatshirt collection. Attended 10 job interviews, had 12 callbacks and 15 offers. Will be articling with Darcy, Deacon.

Joanne Enns

Joanne broke a lot of hearts when the truth about her marital status was revealed. A founding member of the back-row team, Joanne is the only woman in our class who Al respects. Our class would lox at Beer'n'Skits if not for Joanne's musical abilities.

Liz Thomson and Martha Chuchman get happy.

Mike Finlayson awaits the morning mail.

Mike Finlayson

Most often seen hanging about the front porch of the Legal Aid Clinic, that is, when he wasn't out grocery shopping or home doing laundry. Spent the summer with Legal Aid learning the ins and outs of the courtroom. Finlay will be found in the halls of Schwartz McJannet next year (he couldn't negotiate office space), but only after Nancy makes an honest man out of him.

Chuck Framingham

What can be said about a man who pursued graduate work in dirt? Chuck felt obliged to explain the practical side of things in first year Real Property. It is dirt that provides vertical support for party walls, isn't it? Chuck will be whistling to the tune of Pollock and Co. next year.

Dale Fedorchuk

The Ukrainian choirboy who danced his way off the Swan River farm and into the esteemed position of Dean's first draft choice for the Ethics course. A Greenberg finalist, Dale almost reinstated capital punishment during his knife-wielding performance on CBC. Walsh Micay will be articling with Dale.

Marvin Giesbrecht

Suave, sophisticated, yet earthy, laid back to the point of inattentiveness, Marvin is confident of success as the only carpenter in Manitoba with a law degree. Articling with the Public Trustee.

Jenette Goodman

Jenette can often be heard in the hallways humming snatches from various fugues. After five years in this bourgeois hellhole, who can blame her? Jenette has been a most appreciated perpetrator of various parties, dinners and showers. Despite attractive offers from many important caterers, she will go on to breaking kneecaps, er, records for the A.G.'s department next year.

Brian Gordon

Not Ellen's brother, Brian is one of the most desired students of our class. While others sought articles with the Section 96 Judges, Brian sought a Q.B. appointment. Always a sport, he conceded that Vern was a good pick. Articling with Thompson, Dorfman.

Bill objects to Brian Gordon's methods at Moot Court.

Ellen Gordon

El-Babe proved her dedication to law when she took off to see Bruce Springsteen during first year memo week. Only 5 feet tall but virtually impossible to miss. Known for her movie trivia quizzes, dynamite legs and "the voice", El has established warm personal relationships with nearly everyone who has ventured into Robson Hall. Will be articling with Margolis, Kaufman solely because they share her love for "The Boss" and the Fuse.

Elliott Goszer

Coined "Mr. Efficiency" for his ability to conserve energy before scoring, both on and off the ice, while others study, Elliott showers and shaves. The "darling" of the class because of his clean cut appearance. What possible evil could lurk behind that face? Is he really as pretty as Jack London? Articling at Gould and Associates.

Tony Grenon

The latest word is that Tony "Stirstick" Grenon has been spending a great deal of time researching the Migratory Birds Act in anticipation of his work next year with the Department of Justice. Was it the money or do he and Eddy L. know something we don't? Although R.P. and B.N. never knew who he was, he was their favorite student.

Martin Gutnik

Martin is a firm believer in avoiding libraries, not reading cases, and not remaining calm around exam time. His many "outside" interests fortunately do not include golf. A consistently strong student, he will be articling with Aikins MacAulay.

Nancy Harold

Nancy brought into Robson Hall and into the world our first "Law I Dropout" and just two days after Christmas exams at that. Since then its been one deadline after another but within the easy control of the calm and cool Nancy. Next, off to article in hometown Toronto.

Nancy Harwood

A "Gabby" by any other name is still a "Nancy". Don't ever think that if she promises to knit you a nose-warmer that she won't deliver. Nancy has enticed many a young man up to see her etchings. Actually, she doesn't do basic lines. She will be putting them away with the Feds in Patorgalongash, whatever that is.

"Yes, you can drink beer and go to law school" Tony Grenon reassures a first year.

Brent Hemington

What can be said about Brent, even if anyone thinks anything. He is a fine, up-standing young man who should make a great lawyer if he ever gets around to articling. The fraulians better watch out when he stomps into town this summer in his big leather boots.

Barb Hochman

Conceived in New York, realized in Winnipeg, and incorporated in 1972, Barb is the mother of a 125 lb. bouncing 3-year old. Having written the Corporations Act, Barb can tell you things that Art Braid only dreams of. Having gotten offers from every firm to which she applied, Barb is articling with Aikins MacAulay.

Anna Hunt-Binkley

Graduation means putting an end to the double life she has been leading. She will forego the big city for Brandon where she has her home, horses, and husband (and not necessarily in that order). Interested in family law which, coincidentally, a certain Brandon firm seems to have an opening for. With luck like that, Anna should have no problem making the name of Hunt-Binkley a household word in Brandon.

Brent Hemington tries to sell his first year casebooks to the library.

John Jones

Suave, sophisticated, deep ... and a heck of a guy. John Paul is the founding member of the Milk Toast Club and the "How long can you stand on your head while memorizing the DLR's Society". His notes have carried at least three people (including Victor) through law school. Most noted for the annual 1200 mile Grey Cup dash. Articling with Darcy Deacon.

Jonathon Kroft helps out at Moot Court.

Marlene Kane

The "Mario Andretti" of our class, Marlene is a hard worker, a Dean's Honour List member, and Law Journal Book Review Editor. She looks forward to post-graduation resumption of mid-winter holidays, and at 5'2" anticipates a career as a corporate giant articling with Hydro.

Doreen Kelly

Being a Dean's Honour List student, and a top contender for the Gold Medal, one would have thought that Doreen was the shy retiring, studious type. Not true! Just watch her at the bar where all of the male strippers are close personal acquaintances. What possible evil lurks behind her innocent facade? Articling with Thompson Dorfman.

Nikki Kagan

Born in 1960, Nikki is best known for her stunning sweatshirt collection, aversion to sitting in any one place for an extended period of time, and an insatiable urge to whisper in class. The folks at Wolchok Levine had better be prepared not to get much work done next year.

Jonathon Kroft

Our Vice-President, while noted for the quantity of questions he asks in class is more noted for the "class" answers he gives. A Greenberg finalist, it is apparent that Jonathon has been blessed with the qualities of a good learner and practitioner. While hard work earned Jonathon numerous academic awards, he will best be remembered for his insightful contribution to Beer'n'Skits, his quick hand in the croke tourney, his "common room" coffee, and an unforgettable performance at the coffee house. Articling with Aikins MacAulay.

Kelly Land

I came, I saw, I made the Dean's Honour List, and I still don't have a job. His class notes were the next best thing to being there. Founding member of the Robson Hall video club, many of his most delightful hours were spent eating power dots in the basement of U.C. He will be fondly remembered for his absence at all law-related events. Articling with the Chapman Co.

Kelly balances a pencil case and pen.

Margot Langdon

An enigma, a mystery woman, Margot joined our class in second year after a brief stint in Architecture. Always active; finds little time to study; she became a more well-rounded individual by not devoting her life to the law. A hard-working Beer'n'Skits participant, she lent spirit and fun to the grueling rehearsals. Articling with Schwartz McJannet.

Ross Leckow

Robson Hall's dancing cossack and resident Kremlinologist can't wait to finish third year at law school. "After that it's nothing but booze and broads," says Ross. He also plans to buy the most impractical Italian sports car he can find - on an articling student's salary Ross? Articling at Wilder, Wilder and Langtry will fulfill one of his dreams - working at a Portage and Main law office.

Kris Lercher

Kris was always engaged during law school, but we were never sure to whom. A firm believer in house-husbandry. The darling of the Beer'n'Skits judges. Wins awards even though she only mouths the lyrics, at the back of the chorus line. Loves cute professors who call her "Mrs. Lercher". Answering the beep at Wolch Pinx.

Ken Lindstein

Ken gave the appearance of being the quiet, hard-working type. But it must be said that he was never too busy to stop and taste the flowers. Ken spent his time at Robson Hall pinning away for those lazy summer days spent in the Glenella Pool Hall. Ken will be home-steading next year in The Pas.

The original "Buddies".

Cathy Lovegrove

Cathy who? ... oh, you mean Dyck! If you ever want to get into the business of recycling binders, give her a call. Talking about devotion to her car club, she got married in the back seat of a '57 Chevy. Hope those 8:30's aren't as tough next year. Articling at Aikins MacAulay.

Don MacDonald

Third year's resident expert in world political relations and North American professional sports. He could be seen throughout his law school career at every lunch break engulfed in conversation on the two subjects with his colleagues. Most famous for the bright wit and sense of humour shown as chairman of the Speakers' Committee introducing many guests to Robson Hall this past year.

Maureen MacDonald

Our President. Known far and wide for her wit, Maureen is one of the great entertainers. A big fan, she's a leader of the Eddy and Phil fan clubs. Alternates the vast majority of her time mediating committee disputes and writing the toast to the groom for Sharon's pending (?) marriage. Famous for her slinky moves on the Beer'n'Skits stage.

Tom McMahon reflects during a lull in Intensive Criminal Law.

Lionel Martens

Lionel "the party kid" is one of law school's most well rounded individuals. Dividing his time between studies, sports, and music, this blue-eyed boy still managed to amass an enviable academic record. Conjecture still exists, however, surrounding Lionel's acquisition of an articling position at Pitblado. Of course it was purely coincidental that they require the services of a left winger for their hockey team.

Rod McLeod

This squash devotee can occasionally be found even at law school casually perusing "those law books" just to keep his hand in. Has a keen sense of competition which led him to the croke tourney, almost doing well twice. Rod has the kind of personality and business background that will make him a surefire success. Articling at Taylor Brazzell.

Sandy MacPherson

Soft spoken and unassuming, Sandy wowed us with her vicious Marva Smith imitation at Beer'n'Skits. Cutest ear muffs in law school. Articling with the A.G.

Tom McMahon

A veteran commentator hailing from the back row gang. Took it upon himself to provide left-wing rhetoric to balance that of his reactionary backrow colleagues. Tom is foregoing the "final test" for a stint in Africa (in the Ivory Coast, home of Africa's only indoor ice rink). He is, of course, waiting to article for one of his classmates in the future (perhaps B., B., and W. if he curbs his left-wing ways).

Victor Minenko

The fact that Victor hasn't missed a late night movie in three years and has seen every late night movie ever shown at least twice doesn't necessarily make him an insomniac. He holds the all-time record for circuits around the library and for the shortest factum ever in moot court in second year. He would like to take this opportunity to thank John, Kelly, Joanne, Tana, Maureen, Tom, and the countless others who provided him with notes over the years. "One day, when I get a good night's sleep..."

Lore Mirwaldt

Lore is our returning officer in the elections of our new executive. She continues her memorable march to the alter with a certain transplanted Grey Scott. Contrary to rumour, Lore doesn't believe life consists entirely of one interminable debate. But, she is willing to discuss the idea.

William Molloy

A bright student with foresight, so much so that he experienced a severe energy crisis long before the western world did. Often passing exams more by osmosis than by intent, he readily admits that "the skin on my teeth is getting pretty thin". Perhaps one of our top soccer players, William displayed deadly accuracy in hitting crossbeams and goal posts. Will be missed at Robson Hall where he could usually be found hunched over Eddy's paper. Articling with Thompson Dorfman.

"Some of us do take it seriously, Norm". (Dale Fedorchuk and Barb Murphy).

Barb Murphy

Forever famous for keen case reports in Real Property, Barb occupied the front row seat that afforded the best view of the profs worth viewing. A Greenberg finalist, she will trade in her thermos for the coffee breaks at the A.G.'s. Off hours are spent running her private chapter of the Mickey Mouse Club.

Ray Oakes

Ray recently became "Mr. Oakes" when he married Rosie. Although this was expected to prompt some maturation, it was certainly not reflected in this year's beer chugging champ's (disqualified on a technicality) attendance record. Should fit in well with the whirlpool at Booth, Kripiakevitch.

Jerry Olfman

Normally one of the more vocal members of the back row, except when the profs ask questions. He's authority for the statement that you can get an articling job even if you don't want one, no matter how much you don't try. Once overheard saying, "Parking violaters should be nailed to the wall because they're habitual offenders, unlike murderers." Articling with the A.G.

Cathy-Anne Pachnowski

The Pollyanna (i.e., eternal optimist) of our school, CAP is our Bencher and a top notch salesperson. Her most famous salespitch was, "The fact is, you have to eat supper Friday night anyway, so you might as well come to the dinner and dance." Who could argue with that logic? Articling with Oliver and Derksen.

Diane Papst

Diane set the place in the now fashionable trend of combining law school and motherhood - her daughter Victoria arrived right on schedule after first year finals. Since then, Diane has alternated between half-time and full-time. Will be articling with the City of Winnipeg and hopes to do Labour Law. Her law school motto: "I survived".

Ray Oakes and Ken Lindstein take in some rays in the library.

Art Platt

Art is one of those shy, quiet types that are so rare at law school. One of the growing number of newlyweds in our class, Art plans to travel with his new wife before settling down to the arduous task of articling. Also known for his plaid shorts; a real "Granola kid".

Hal Pruden

For three years Hal has anchored the law soccer team as did his brother before him. Hal has kept busy balancing his family life with law school and a full time job, occasionally finding time to study. A Greenberg finalist, sure to be successful in whatever he chooses.

Avis Raber

Avis appears to be a well rounded person - a good student, a good wife, and an amateur golfer, but few know the dark presence she exudes in the courtroom. Has won the nickname "Raber the Razor". A Greenberg finalist, the Razor will be slashing her way through the Highway Traffic Act for the A.G. Contrary to the rumour, she assures us that the job does not include babysitting for a certain higher-up.

Mike Rice

Michael's dislike of the law is well known. Skipped out of Bus. Org. all year except for the day of the evaluation forms. Claims he erased the pornographic videotape he made at his class party - but we know better. Good luck, Michael, in your career as a speech therapist. Articling with the Section 96 Judges.

Ron Laxer lounges in the Common Room.

Anu Sadana

Anu forbade the printing of any jokes that play on her name. Oh well, we couldn't come up with anu one anyway. After honing her skills with Legal Aid, she will article with Skwark, Myers. The firm is having rads installed to help her feel at home.

Dianne Scarth

Another of our more-educated returning students, Dianne mixed half and full time law to the point where she won't even admit how many years she has been here. Not one to waste a lot of time at Robson Hall, she cruised in on time for classes but was otherwise elsewhere. A Greenberg finalist, she will be taking up the cause on behalf of Arpin and Company.

Harley Schachter

As a top student, Harley hit the law books and as financial editor of the Law Journal he balanced the Journal's books. With so many books to handle, Harley well deserves his reputation as the hardest worker in the Faculty. His friends know him as a man to be respected in the courtroom, feared on the croke board, and relied upon in an emergency. Frequently heard singing, "When I'm called You-oo-oo" to Marie. Articling with Pullan, Gould.

"A Conflicts Flow-Chart" by Harley Schachter.

Harvey Slobodzian

Would like to follow in Gordon Dilts' footsteps and thus we can look for some staggering accomplishments in the near future. Although his intense interest in subjects such as the Torrens system and fundamental breach have led some people to refer to him as "Professor Harvey", anyone who saw him in Litigation can testify that "Harvey Wallbanger" is a more appropriate nickname. Articling with Newman, MacLean.

Dennis Smith consoles while clerking at Moot Court.

Dennis Smith

Athlete extraordinaire; Dennis was recipient of the soccer trophy for his unique goal-scoring skill. Managed to fit second year into his schedule while playing for six different hockey teams and curling in two different leagues. A regular on the ball hockey and broomball circuits, Dennis shall long be remembered for that immortal line, "Score another goal Maureen or it's sixteen cases of beer down the drain".

Richard Swystun

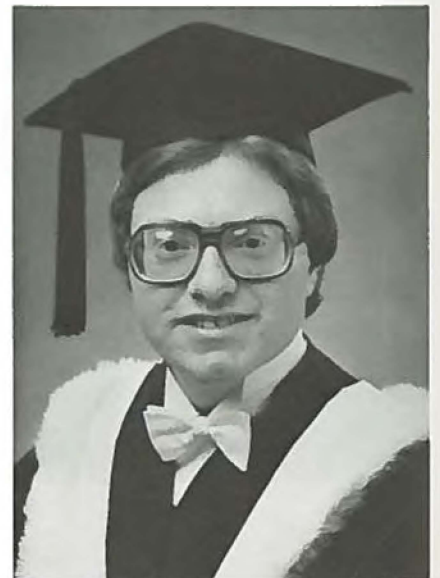

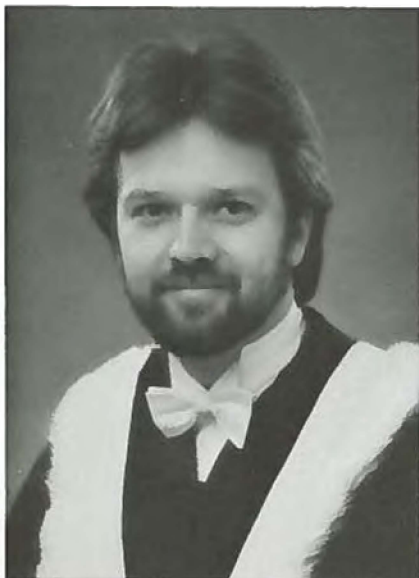

Richard comes from a long line of lawyers. He entered law school upon graduation from Engineering and has since learned to read. He is presently working on writing. Most commonly, Richard may be found parking his beloved Camaro in the furthest reaches of the parking lot - safe from negligent drivers, tidal waves, and nuclear holocaust. Next year he will brighten the halls of Simkin, Gallagher.

Elizabeth Thompson

Thorny legal and ethical issues are a piece of cake for Lizzie; her biggest dilemma in law school was whether or not to abandon her personal conviction that eyeglasses should be carried and not worn and risk missing something in contracts when Phil turned around to write on the board. Her stated preference for married men is just good career-planning - she's drumming up clients for her future, brilliant family law practice out of Legal Aid.

Allan Weinsenker

Al's law school nemesis was Tax II. With that over, Al can hang up his Income Tax Act and concentrate on developing a Paul Newman style from his favorite movie. There are some who speculate that his wish to practice Family Law is motivated by a desire to meet rich, beautiful divorcees, but Al is being tight-lipped about the prospects. His athletic ability will come in handy next year when he'll be chasing after criminals and swimming in paper for the A.G.

Sherry Wiebe

The petite, blonde bombshell of Room 6 is our best darn cheerleader and is sure to marry the captain of the football team. Actually, all of Sherry's qualities are both admirable and enviable. This Greenberg winner's forte is the male physique. She chose Buchwald Asper as the firm with whom to article because she felt their bodies were the most rateable. Leading organizer of the women's "sporting" events.

Patricia Wight

If you hear a giggle but don't know where it's coming from, look up, waay up. Patti is anxious to finish law school. It has given her brain damage. Moving to Victoria with R.C. to: (a) article; (b) catch up on her sex life; (c) do sweet tweet; (d) design shifts for Izod LaCoste; (e) edit and condense her copious notes; (f) dye her hair; (g) all of the above. Best of luck in B.C., Patti, now we can sell our shares in Bell Telephone.

Derrick Woods

"Beep, beep, Mr. Pinx wants you at the PSB ... No it doesn't matter that it's 3 in the morning." Destined to be either a great trial lawyer or a touring Intellivision pro, Woodsey will undoubtedly succeed at whatever he chooses.

Farmer Frank gets heart-burn.

"Paul, I'm just not that type of girl", threatens Sherry Wiebe.

Missing:

Susan Baragar

When asked which of her achievements we might publish without fear of litigation, Susan gave us that sly smile and invoked her right to remain silent. This neutral chicken wasn't really placed in this world to bother Dilts. Next year Susan will be advancing novel arguments on behalf of the "accused" clients of Walsh, Micay.

Larry Brock

Second year started off with Larry stripping at a beer bash. The question is why he didn't go all the way? Voted by the third row committee (women's branch) as best pecc in third year. Articling with Walker, Crystal.

Bill Greenaway

For a member of the "hippie turned establishment" set, Bill can sure play the pipes. Is it true what they say about kilts? There was a study made about profs who came to law school ... Bill's. Who ever said that Sociology and law don't mix? Articling with Taylor, Brazzell.

Mike Miller

A man with to images: boyish charm vs. dark and mysterious. A favourite of all the women at school. Not known for his attendance at either school itself or school related activities. Our man from Colorado will be articling with Martens, Alsip.

Mike Terrell

Winnipeg was just a layover for this easterner bound for Alberta. Mike's claim to fame is the fact that he was the first in our class to accept an articling position. While he attracted some attention from the girls in first year, he assures us that the paternity suit which arose during his first year in residence was a case of mistaken identity. Don't forget to write, Mike.

Larry Bird

Larry "I want to be John Wayne" Bird. "I hate Law School and I hate commies, just give me a six shooter and I'm happy". Disciple of Barney Miller and Hill Street Blues, underneath this shallow facade exists little else, honestly. This red-neck extraordinaire shall be articling with Tupper Adams.

Mike Capozzi

Mike's always been fun to sit next to Mike because you can pretend that you are in San Francisco in 1906. Voted most likely to be convicted of dangerous driving by anyone who has ever driven with him. Articling with Gottli, Bueti.

Ron Laxer

Ron's articling out west next year. He took the job when he discovered there was a Keg in Brandon. Ron's shown us that he can do two things at the same time: pass law school and party. A lesson to us all.

Lynn Sawiak

Lynn's life goal was to be a stand-up comic. Instead she has been forced to settle on a slight variation. Only time will tell whether the courtroom can substitute for the Carson Show. But seriously, Lynn was voted among the top three nicest people to have gone through law school without taking lessons. She'll be "putting them away" with the A.C. next year.

Ron Thompson

An enigma. Known for his fondness of the first row. A consistent keener, Ron has never come to class unprepared. Maintaining tradition, Ron handed in an excessively lengthy Civil Liberties paper, much to Butch's respectful chagrin. Articling in B.C.

George Xuereb

George has been to law school on three different continents and has had group sex on four. Rumour has it that George attends Family Law to discuss technique. This scion of Maltese royalty, has decided to forego collecting rent from his serfs and spending time with his falcons, to prosecute (Joel Cairo, maybe).
