Message from the Dean

C.H.C. Edwards

Each year the Dean's Message seems designed to highlight some particular event or events that have marked the year in question. This past year has been marked by a general economic recession, which has been reflected in a tougher articling market for our graduates and severe financial restraints for Faculty and students alike.

The Faculty budget has suffered a reduction which has held back some future developments in the field of clinical education. Although we now have over 370 students in the School (the highest number since we moved into Robson Hall), we shall have no extra staff, academic or support. However, all is not "gloom and doom". The Faculty and student morale is high and despite the restrictions, we are determined to maintain the high quality of legal education which is already established. None of the Faculty is leaving, except our much respected Librarian, Professor Shih-Sheng Hu. To him, who in ten years has built up our Law Library from being one of the poorest to one of the best in Canada, I would like to pay a sincere tribute and to wish him every success as he moves on to the challenges of the University of Toronto.

To all the graduands, who also leave us this year, go my very best wishes whether you stay in Manitoba or decide to venture forth into other more luxuriant provinces.

C.H.C. Edwards,
Dean.

Message from the Senior Stick

Over the past year a number of issues affecting the Law School have surfaced or intensified. Enrollment limitations. Budgetary restrictions. Curriculum reshaping. The Legal Aid Clinic. On a continuing basis, the Manitoba Law Students' Association and its various functions have required administration, and regular student-faculty problems have demanded attention. No faculty can effectively and successfully function without student input and co-operation in each of these areas. To those who have contributed and have helped to make the year not only worthwhile, but also enjoyable, I would like to express the thanks of the whole student body. Our thanks goes out also to those faculty members who have done a little bit extra to contribute to the success of these student activities.

To most of us, our years at Law School have been, and are, years of change. It is difficult to really study the law without experiencing a personal change. Having chosen careers as practising lawyers, we have made a decision which, quite frankly, will affect us for the rest of our lives. But how will it affect us? I would hope that our years at Law School will prepare us to take a creative and responsible approach to the profession, one which will enable us to criticize our legal system while maintaining a respect for the law itself as the basis for society.

To those, both faculty and fellow students, who have helped us to establish a sound basis for our careers, we owe our thanks. The rest is up to each of us.

I extend to all Manitoba law students congratulations on academic and extra-curricular achievements, and my best wishes for future fulfillment as practising lawyers.

DEAN EDWARDS

Cliff baby, taught conflicts this year in order to boost sales for Dicey & Morris (His stock rose 52 percent). He enjoyed the ethnic flavour of the course, to the extent of ordering a rhetorical pizza from one of its Italian defendants. Was struck by the hand of God when he reached for a drink. Has seen the light, but can't tell how many watts.

BURT BASS

Don't buy two notebooks for his courses. Raconteur. His mother dresses him funny. Has new family law casebook, with pictures, exhibiting "manger, c'est ne pas tricher." Pardon his French.

TREVOR ANDERSON

Admired Lord Eldon so much he aquired an English accent. Occasionally dates the Torrens System. Nyto.

ART BRAID

"Imagine me, Art Braid, disagreeing with the Court of Appeal!" Waiting for return of Croke partner. Court of Appeal says nice hairdo, Art.

DAVE DEUTSCHER

Would have long hair if he could. Plays the horses, some say they play with him. Left more in Vegas than Howard Hughes.

JANET DEBICKA

Models latest fashions from Victoria Leather. Much abused, but likes it. A willing listener for students' problems.

GORDON DILTS

Mr. Litigation, but Butch beat him in a no holds barred cage match at Court of Appeal. Can be viewed, centre stage, acting a charade to bemused drunks at 5 a.m. at Pembina-Stafford Sals. Great party goer.

DALE GIBSON

Fights for academic standards. Can't remember case names. Should be struck down by the Clapham Omnibus. Not to be confused with W.G.; has less hair.

GRANT GIBSON

Famous author of INSURANCE LAW IN CANADA: THIS FOOL'S PARADISE. An expert on Autopac but nobody bothers asking. Has become a shop keeper and mover of materials.

ALVIN ESAU

Thank God--a professor with long hair and a beard. By default, has become resident expert on ethics. Rookie of the year (even with competition).

CAM HARVEY

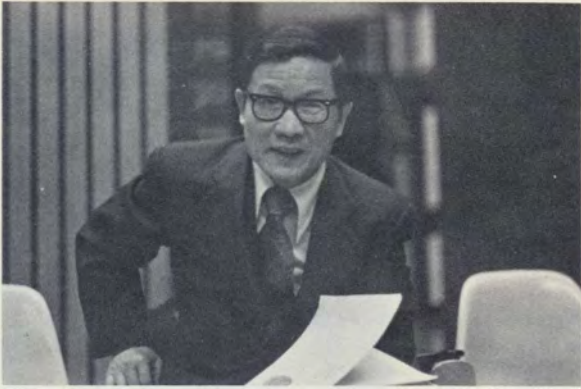

Cam told a joke this year, but apologized immediately afterward. Thinks students will be upset if they don't get all their classes. Believes in make-ups for summer holidays. (Ed. Comment: hear, hear) Fun guy; he oughta be teaching insurance.

JOE HERSHFIELD

Are those spots on your pants from Beer and Skits? If you need a "free" meal, let him win at cards. He thinks we don't notice he comes to student functions--we do.

S.S. HU

Inscrutable! For really delicious Chinese food, HU's Palace, eat in or take out, Ph. 474-0773. Ask for Harry. This joke is in poor taste, but we wish he wasn't leaving us. Best of luck in Toronto.

JOHN IRVINE

Fond of animal torts. Some think, too much. Poor attender, worse driver. Rumour has it that he moved to the country because decent folks didn't want him around. Welcome at Robson Hall.

YURI LURJI

Doesn't teach. Why is he here? Born again capitalist----and loving it!

GERRY NEMIROFF

The Nem missed his chance at Scorio at Jet's game. Returned from Alberta, so it can't be that good. Good prof, but wants to reform law school in his own image. Look out!

BUTCH NEPON

Talking tall. Glad that MTS doesn't charge by the hour. Doubles as Little Beaver on All Star Wrestling. Speakes very highly of the "Crusher."

ROLAND PENNER

Rolly enjoys pontificating and confounding his classes by using his courtroom style to lecture. He enjoys entertaining behind closed doors at lunch time. Just missed getting part in Walking Tall. Firey radical with house in Garden City and cottage in the Whiteshell--Marx would turn over.

SHIMON SHETREET

Advance scout for Israeli occupation of Manitoba. Can't understand what he's saying, but they say he's bright. A good arguer. Not above insulting the guests he invited to speak--we're glad for it.

BARNEY SNEIDEMAN

Always prepared for the flood, Spiro Agnew's favourite effete intellectual snob. Barney makes Woody Allen look macho. Enjoyed $50 dinners and marking papers.

HOWARD SNOW

Got his jaw fixed but still doesn't talk sense. Another fun guy who teaches insurance. Puts elbows to good use on basketball court.

KEITH TURNER

A rigid examiner. Early to bed, early to rise (and classes), makes him prematurely white.

LINDA VINCENT

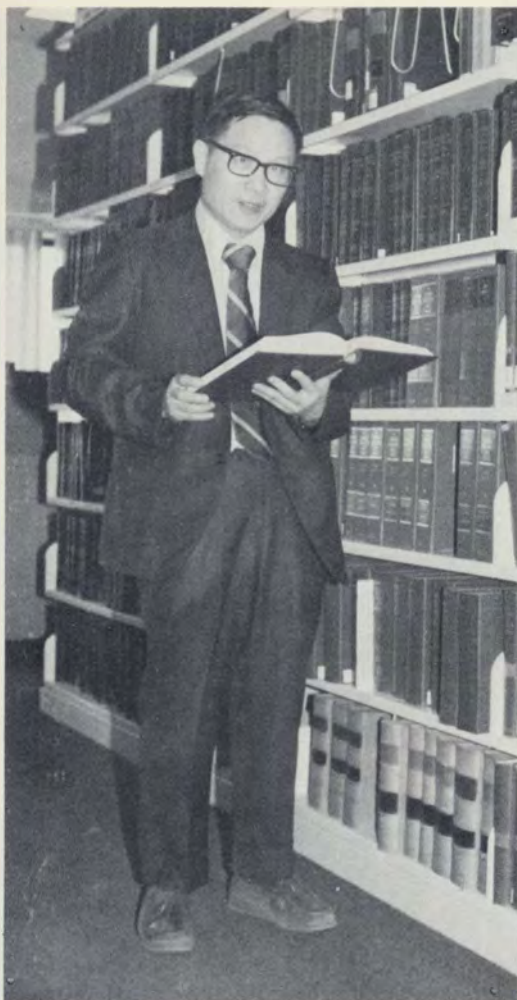

Only intellectual available in the course. Seems too normal to belong to this group; must have hidden shame. Ask Cam.

Dedication to Professor Hu

Professor Shih-Sheng Hu, Head of the Law Library, left Manitoba this year to accept a position at the University of Toronto as Professor of Law and Chief Law Librarian. Professor Hu was with us since his appointment in 1967 as Associate Professor of Law and Head of the Law Library. In 1971, he was promoted to Professor. He is also a member of the Manitoba Bar.

Professor Hu was educated in Taiwan, where he received his B.A. in Law, and in Toronto, where he received his LL.M. and B.L.S. He has been exceptionally active in law librarianship in terms of publications and service on local, national, and international committees. He is the author of the Manitoba-York-Windsor modified KF classification schedule and a Manual for Canadian Law Libraries (1968). He is a prominent member of the Canadian Association of Law Librarians, Western Association of Law Librarians, and the American Association of Law Libraries, and has served each of these groups in various capacities. For example, since 1965 he has been on the Cataloguing and Classifications Committee of the American Association of Law Libraries. Also, he has been on several University of Manitoba committees such as the Senate Planning and Priorities Committee, The Executive of the Senate Library Committee, and the Faculty of Law Building Committee, to name but a few.

Professor Hu is generally, and genuinely, regarded as one of the premiere Law Librarians in North America. Besides achieving the intellectual and professional successes noted above, he was throughout his tenure at Manitoba a master of human relations. He developed and encouraged friendly and efficient working relationships among Library employees, the faculty, students, and the legal profession. We thank him for his outstanding contributions to legal education in Manitoba, and we wish him and his family great success in Toronto.

Valedictory Address

Distinguished Members of the Head Table, Honoured and Welcome Guests, and Brothers and Sisters in Law:

How nice that we're here--three years is a long time to wait. I was going to do this valedictory by the socratic method but I wouldn't want to spoil the lovely dinner that the Grad Committee has provided for us. However, I will follow Butch Nepon's example and keep it short.

Of course, I felt very pleased and honoured to have been chosen to deliver this address. I must confess that when I actually sat down to write it, I had several misgivings. Most of my experience in public speaking comes from my pre-law school occupation which was playing music in sleazy bars. The public speaking involved in that particular field of endeavour consisted mainly of talking to the audience while trying to get the guitar back in tune, and the basic purpose behind such talk was to be charming and witty enough such that people would buy me drinks. Of course that would be totally inappropriate for such a dignified and serious event as this but I did want to say that I think you're all wonderful, wonderful human beings and I drink rye on the rocks with a little water.

Another carryover from my former occupation is that I do take requests and I will make announcements on behalf of anyone who asks. I realize that this may be a rather abrupt departure from tradition in speeches of this sort. However, I learned the art of flexibility and accommodating people at the feet of Michael Park and, like him, could never bring myself to refuse any reasonable request. So certain people have asked that the following be brought to your attention:

Cam Harvey wishes me to announce that in the event of his death there will be make-up classes.

Grant Gibson wants to indicate to any of you intending to return next year that his course in Insurance Law will consist of four hours of classes and thirty-seven hours of examination.

Shael Wilder has asked me to convey his regrets that he cannot be with us tonight--he's travelling abroad to see if his course credits can be applied toward other gold medals. Barry Browning was seen putting an oddly shaped ticking package on Shael's plane and, of course, Guy Kay is nowhere to be found. However, Saul Engel sends along regards from Israel and says the climate there isn't quite so hot as it is here.

On behalf of all those in his situation, Bob Morrison, future mayor of Thompson, Manitoba, wanted to be sure that thanks would be extended to those very special loving people who stood behind the suffering law students; those patient dear ones who bore the brunt of the Bus. Org. bad moods and the exam time neuroses; who provided moral and financial support and a soft voice and understanding glance at the end of a weary day. Besides those kind of people, Bob also wants me to thank his wife.

Too numerous to mention are those who requested that gratitude be expressed to the Women's Football team for restoring the macho image to the Faculty of Law.

Trevor Anderson wishes to advise all students that the two minute cassette tape of his most stimulating lectures is now available at the Materials Distribution Centre at their customary low price of Forty-three dollars.

On behalf of all those intending to practice in the hinterland beyond the Perimeter Highway, Dunc Geisler, Steve Shavers and Jim McManes will be making available loans at reasonable rates to their impoverished colleagues in the city. Dunc only grinned and winked when I asked him if animal torts could provide a satisfactory social life.

All those leaving for Ontario, Alberta, and B.C. wish to extend a fond farewell and a hearty "so long suckers" to those of us who only stand and wait.

And, of course, Keith Turner extends his annual invitation to the graduates to join him for his evening meal tomorrow morning at 8:30. He joins with the Dean in reminding us that Cleanliness is next to Equity.

Now that the business has been taken care of, perhaps I can turn to some less serious matters.

I know that the Dean has a suspicion that students suffer through their three years without learning or retaining a thing. Tonight I'd like to dispel those fears once and for all. Who amongst us could ever possibly forget that Equity and the Common Law have been fused and their union is not a sexual one. Nobody who has had the pleasure of learning Torts from Dale Gibson could ever fail to remember that the Reasonable Man is undoubtedly somewhere underneath the Clapham omnibus. Before I entered Law School I always thought that a Mechanics Lien was something mechanics did when they were drunk...Now I know it's something lawyers do when THEY'RE drunk. And, of course, we're all grateful that Negotiable instruments was a required course. Most of us thought that a "holder in due course" was George DeMoissac on a Saturday night.

And who could forget all those wonderful words we learned--words that skip trippingly along the tongue like "certiorari", "donatio mortis causae", "lis alibi pendens"--words that are so useful at scrabble games and cocktail parties.

I don't mean to make overly light of the experience--three years out of anyone's life is not purely a matter for laughter. No doubt the meaning of the whole thing falls somewhere between the absurdity of "Monty Python" and the pathos of "The Way We Were". Time has a way of retouching the original artwork and twenty years from now we will look back with memories that have smoothed over the bad and made better that which was good. And there were good times to remember. There's a certain magic in the fact that the sharing of this common experience has forged a bond between a disparate group of varying backgrounds and temperaments and that that bond of friendship and the feeling of having been through this together will remain strong.

And it's worth remembering that while the statutes may be repealed, the cases over-ruled and the textbooks outdated, what will remain with us is the new found knowledge of our own capacity to cope. It's been interesting to watch the transition in all of us from utter terror at the thought of an impending moot court to a certain amount of self-confidence in our own ability to display the quality Ernest Hemingway once described as "grace under pressure."

I must confess that my most vivid memory of Law School happened on the first day. We were all assembling in the moot courtroom for the first orientation session. A tall brown-haired girl carrying the usual number of notebooks walked in, took a long look around, and with a look on her face that said quite plainly "you must be kidding," turned and left the room never to be seen again. Many times during the last three years I've wished her happiness.

Anyway, for better or worse, it's finally over and we're now to be unleashed upon an unsuspecting world. But let's not think too hard about that tonight. There is more pressing business upon which to attend. As Lord Mansfield once said, "I'd rather have a bottle in front of me than a frontal lobotomy." Bartender, pour a round for the house. Charge it to the University. Hell, we've earned it.

Good luck and thank-you.

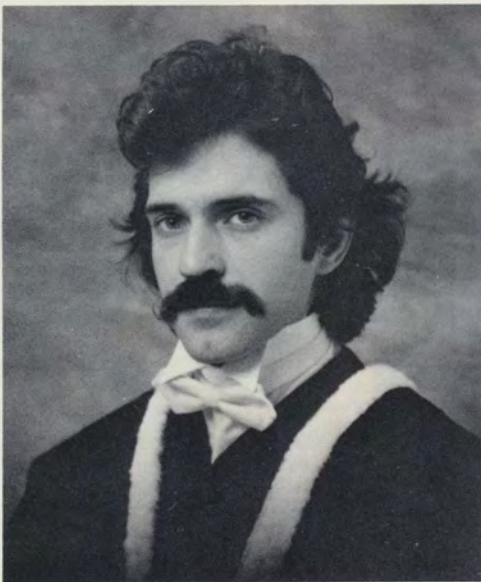

THESE ARE THE MEN WHO
WILL BE WITH YOU
IN THE FUTURE

Grads Prelude

Class of '78

RONALD GEORGE ALLARD

A ghostly figure, Ron appeared for several 50 minute intervals each day, only to disappear who knows where. Secretly, though he is a rowdy at heart and capable of the good time.

URMAS OLEV ANNIKO

Never one to mince words, Urmás has remained somewhat of a mysterious fellow to almost all of his classmates. However he has been quick with the smile.

PATRICIA JEAN ARMSTRONG

To timid young men of 1978 Princess Patty appeared hard as nails and far removed from it all. It can now be revealed that Pat is indeed somewhat mellow--source confidential.

GARY CHARLES BALDWIN

Baldwin is no dummy, as his presence in Law School amply attests. Once, when asked what the secret of a brilliant legal career was, he replied in his studied drawl, "legal brilliance is all relative."

HARVEY JAY BERKAL

In his unending search for noon-hour speakers, Harvey scoured the streets of Winnipeg. Apart from leading one to a hellofa case of shrivelled hands, it also kept Harvey's attendance at the Law School sporadic. Harvey will be articling at Lage Bros., Pianos and Organs Ltd.

WARREN DEXTER BESEL

One of the backroom boys, at the back of the room, that is. Warren always had that smug look of one who may not know what the law was but does know what it will be (in Practise).

KEVIN RICHARD BOLT

Kevin took virtually every toughie offered at the school and managed to come away intact (in fact, even better for it). His method of attack was to be incisive and quick and let the details look after themselves (the night before the week before the exam. Kevin also managed to come away married.)

MONA GLENNE BROWN

The girl with the Southern Manitoba accent drove twenty miles every day from the farm. She's a crusader for women's rights and due to her effort, Women and the Law has prospered.

BARRY GEORGE BROWNING

Barry changed strokes in mid-stream. The former Registrar of the University found out what it was like to be on the other side and didn't do too badly at it. Barry whipped the Law Journal into shape and left the School with a Journal of intellectual content rivalling "Penthouse Forum". Barry is sailing for Victoria.

ANDERS BRUUN

The Law School's answer to Anders Hedberg--not quite. Because he has only one given name, Anders became an aggressive over achiever and ended up in Law School where he was given lots of names. Became an UMSU (um-soo) Rep.

RICHARD HAROLD BRUSEGARD

Richard almost never had anything to say in class, but when he spoke it was rarely worth not hearing. All kidding aside, Terry was one to be known as a scholar and a gentleman.

KENNETH RENE CARROLL

Ken was so quiet, at parties he would stay in the room with the coats. However, Trevor could bring out the best in this man. Main interest was studying.

LORETTA MARIE CENERINI

A Darling of the Class of '78, Lorette gave us stability. And bilingual, yet. Alas, a certain law office in St. B has been brightened by her presence.

DAVID BRUCE CHEGUS

Bruce used his middle name for no reason apparent to us. Personable, hard-working and conscientious, but seldom heard from in class.

LAWRENCE CHERRETT

What can we say about our alligator? Larry is dooing very well at living down his image as an intelligent hard working fellow. From here it's down hill all the way ...right into a bright future.

DONALD ROBERT CRANSTON

Don is a quiet sort of fellow, but was always ready and willing to give a helping hand. One of the Law Journal people. Don and his lovely wife have gone West (to Alberta) as apparently all young men should.

MARLEY STEPHEN DASH

Not to be confused with a downtown bus service, Marley did just about everything there was to do at Robson Hall (which may not have been much). What else can a committee of five say about him, except that he will surely gleam success in the future (a typical pious cop-out on the part of the committee).

PIERRE RENE DENISET

Don't believe all this Pierre Rene stuff. To all of us it was "Deno" and affectionately at that. The QBJ's son partook of hockey, baseball, curling, coffee, you name it. Always fun to have around and bound to succeed.

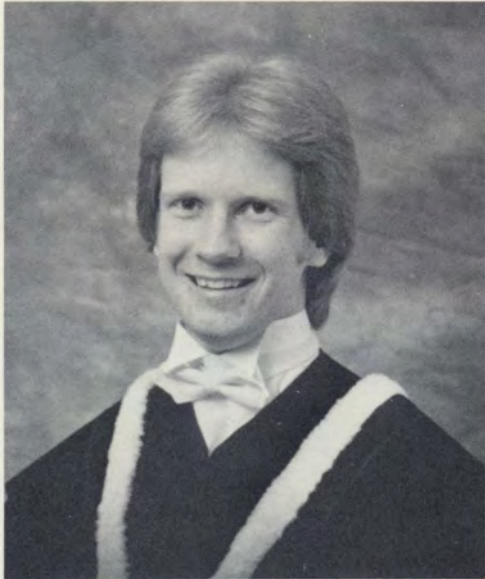

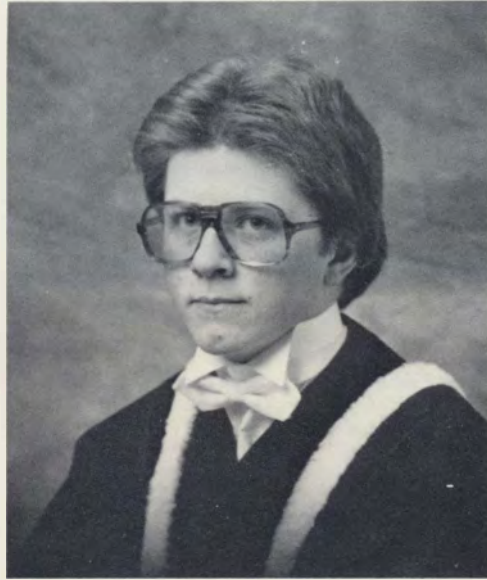

LAWRENCE WILLIAM DONALD

Here was another of the great Law School hockey stars (or was that hoockey? ). Same was also a key organizer in the Grand Forks trip--and what goings on there were there were ! ! Or were there?

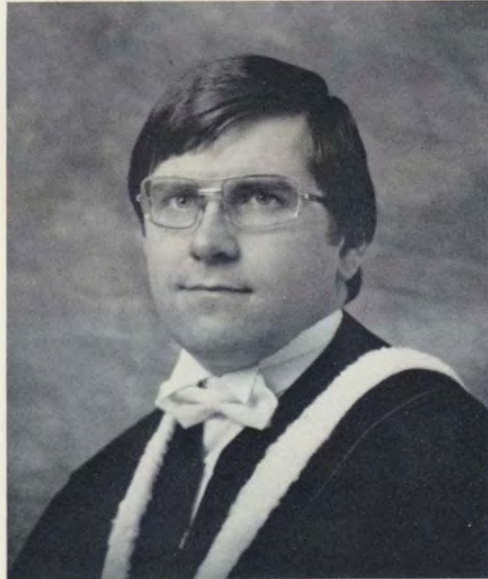

DANIEL JOHN DUTCHIN

It seems this quiet fellow found classes peaceful and relaxing. As a matter of fact, Dan was seldom heard from. But we're certain that a rosey fire burns somewhere underneath.

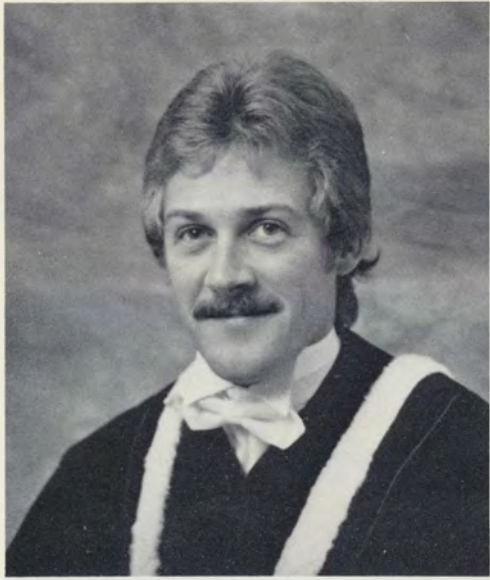

GREGORY WARREN EDMOND

At that serious function, the Law Foundation dinner, Greg nearly brought his table down with uncontrolled laughter. The Dean and others at the head table have since wondered what it was they said that was so funny. Active, and always a lot of fun to have around (like at stags).

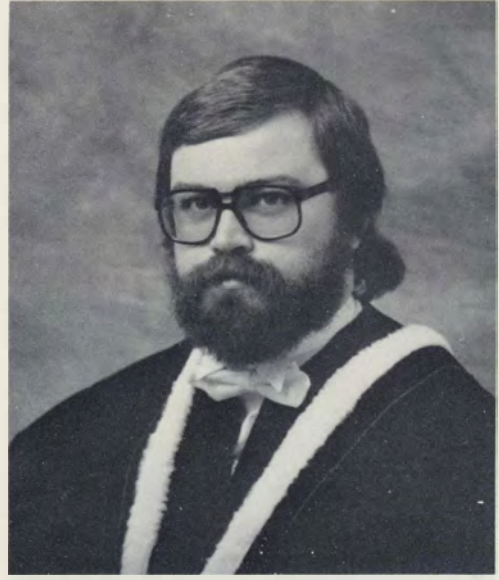

DOUGLAS SCOTT FENTON

One of the harder working and more serious members of the class, Doug's solidly conservative background always manifested itself in the most benevolent directions. This one is bound to succeed--does he have a mortgage to pay off?

JAMES ALEXANDER FERGUSON

Fabulous Jim; what is it that he has in his brief case? A man of many talents, personable and popular, Jim always had a smile for someone. An active member of the glorious round table set.

JAMES DOUGLAS FLANNIGAN

Ah... we're not certain if we know who this distinguished looking gentleman is. Best of luck, though, in the future.

RONALD FRIESEN

One of the many rather quiet students in our class this year, Ron's presence was nevertheless always felt.

DUNCAN EDWARD GEISLER

Duncan flies in for his classes. Now famous for the recent spread done in THE LAWYER on his future. Duncan, who knows what its like to wake up with almost no money in his pocket, will be threshing the bucks in Manitoba's heartland.

COLIN JAMES GOLDIE

Our philosophy is: if you can't say anything bad, then don't say anything at all.

ROBERT MICHAEL GOSMAN

Bob, as he is affectionately known, is another one of those who has taken the gentle approach to his three years in law School. Tread lightly where everyone fears to tread.

DOUGLAS WAYNE GRANTHAM

Obviously a fine fellow (sits in the back row doesn't he) Doug with his diligent work and friendly spirit is sure to succeed in whatever location he has chosen in Stonewall.

ALLISTER LAWSON GUNSON

A very liberal minded person, Allister has been active in law school political affairs (has he now). But when articling time came around, Allister threw all that aside to go on with Newman MacLean.

MARLA FINKEL (GUTKIN)

Is it Finkel-Gutkin or Gutkin-Finkel? Mention the words "Biz Planning" and Marla simply shakes her head. Sweet little Marla, known for her peanut butter lunches (ask Ralph), size four feet, and permanent smile, is truly a delight to those of us who have spent these years with her (them).

RALPH LAWRENCE GUTKIN

AAAAAYYYY Ralphie! !! Or is it Finkel-Gutkin or Gutkin-Finkel? Mention the words "Labour Relations" and Ralph simply shakes his head. Sweet big Ralph, known for his peanut butter lunches (ask Marla), size 14 shoes and permanent smile, is truly a delight to those of us who have spent these years with him (them)..

ARTHUR GEOFFREY HALL

Geoff got away with out any exams in his final term. His academic contributions and shared experiences in Super Crim were invaluable. Geoff managed to do very little of anything at law school, which is to say that he was quite successful (in what).

PETER HARRIS

Peter spent first year at that wringer of school, Western Ontario. We're glad to see that he returned to Canada and graced us with his presence.

BRIAN HUGH HAY

Friendly, outgoing, expansive. Brian was the "life-guarding" type at law school. Seen lurking around the beaches of Manitoba and of the law school? A super curler. Destined to be engaged, married and successful.

GEORGE THOMAS HODGSON

We are not certain what it is George does at law school, however, we found him to be frequently available for coffee, certainly an important credential in this academic endeavor.

TERESA MARIE HOMIK

Intelligence and beauty, Teresa seemed to have that smug look of someone who may not know what the law is, but knows what it should (and will, if she gets her way) be. Of course, things are not always what they seem.

TERRENCE HOPWOOD

Terry was willing to pay for a gold script, hand-lettered write-up, but no one would get it for him when he ordered. Immaculately (over) dressed, well tanned, well groomed, Terry intends to impress everyone he meets. Terry almost had his face selected for Men and the Law T-shirts.

DAVID ROGER JAMES

Married a princess. Mr. Excitement's idea of fun is not to have any. Our Solomon-Greenberg winner, his style in court belies his vivacious personality. A tough man to work for, David styles himself after Noel Coward, and has attained notoriety as a punching bag.

DAN WILLIAM JAMIESON

Dan is another one of the dedicated people who played their part in whipping the Law Journal into the publication that it became-- one of some stature. Like Journal, like Dan.

DIANE ELIZABETH JONES

Jolly jones Diane--always had a smile for everyone. Shortly after hitting the library or stalking a class, she was invariably seen heading to U.C. for several cups of coffee (for others). Always willing to help.

JAMES CAMPBELL JORDAN

Jim was another one of the many silent people to grace this year's class, but his presence at the back of the class certified that he was one of the good guys. Known for his penetrating stare.

BRIAN ADAM JUCE

Juce came in many flavours, and always in an old T-shirt. These days he must be feeling quite closed in a 3-piece. A vicious curler, Juce skipped one of the 14 best curling teams this year.

NORMAN KAHN

No relation to Kubla, this man did much to promote the "individual peace and harmony" of the class. Despite his lack of antics Norman was a conscientious student and we wish him continued success in the future. What else could we say?

KOREN GLORIA KAMINSKI

Vivacious and beautiful and interested in everybody, Koren always had a smile and a kind word for her munchkins. We must, of course, reassure her that jambusters do not, indeed, bite.

LYNNE CHERYL KATZ

Proven not to be as quiet as she once seemed, Cheryl had a very gregarious personality (as was revealed). She has made some major contributions to Robson Hall, often emanating from the MDC Photocopy Division.

BRENDA LESLIE KEYSER

Another very active member of the female contingent at Law School, Brenda's intelligence, without militancy spoke well for increasing numbers of women in the profession of law. A keen football player for the championship team.

DAVID ALLAN KLEIN

Although his picture is missing, fellow students will remember David as the one on the rebound plan. First Year was spent at Toronto; the next two years were on loan to Manitoba. Dave will be articling in Toronto and is bound to succeed.

RENATE KRAUSE

Renate also spoke well for increasing the number of women in the legal profession. Quiet and charming, one has to wonder why she chose the profession of law. Best of luck, always.

SHAYNA BELLA KRAVETZ

In her own way, Shayna made a major contribution to virtually all social functions at the law school. Bubbly, and always full of good spirits, Shayna was fun to have around (with).

MICHAEL LANSKY

Liquid gold seemed to stir in Lansky's eyes and there he went--to Edmonton. So while we're slaving it out here, Mike is laughing all the way to the bank. Good luck is not really in order here, he won't need it.

PATRICK EVADNE LEECH

It seems Pa was the kind of person who believed that one should never put off until tomorrow what can be put off indefinitely. The yearbook staff, following this philosophy, put off writing a writeup for Mr. Leech.

JANNINE MARY LE MERE

This aggressive girl was obviously headed for the A.G.'s. Active in the sports, Jannine starred particularly in ladies football. The picture speaks for itself, but suffice it to say that Jannine was our candidate for a fold-out.

DAVID GARY LOADER

Dave has spent a lot of time with his nose in the books. Unfortunately, he was seldom heard from. A very competitive curler--hated to lose like no-one else.

SUSAN LOADMAN

We would swear up and down that Susan attended class once, but Susan was unavailable for comment. As she might say, "absence makes the heart grow fonder."

JACQUELINE ANN LOWE

Jacque, a great conversationalist, was another one of the friendly out-going folks that would accompany anyone for coffee. Consequently, one found her in U.C. for hours on end. Still, Jacque had the time to become involved in many activities at the school.

GLADYS FAY LOWES

Fay could be called the worrier, but we all knew that she would pull through with flying colours, didn't we Fay? Best of Luck in the future.

JOAN GLENNY McKELVEY

Who?

GORDON ARTHUR MCKINNON

As a school board trustee, Gord did a great job, and found time to go to Law School. Had an ace up his sleeve in Super Crim. Landed a peach at Scarth, Simonsen. Teamed up on a less than successful croke team.

GEORGE MACLEAN

Says you can get learning outside the classroom as well as in it, right George? These notes say George has unfailing good humour, but not having seen him around, we cannot attest to that.

JAMES DAVID MCMANES

A farmer who kept the school curling for two years. Plans to buy a law practise in Brandon with the proceeds from this year's crop. Recently became a new man. Thinks people with curls have more fun, but that is only by the short and curlies.

SCOTT NORMAN FRASER MCNEILL

We're not certain which name to use, but suffice it to say that Scott's pleasant personality and conversation were always an asset to any coffee table in U.C.

MICHELE LYNN MADICK

An enthusiastic and friendly student, Michele was seen studying in the Women's lounge in semi-darkness. At least we believe it was study that Michele was engaged in. If not, then perhaps it was a snooze. Best of Luck in your future endeavors.

JAMES ALLAN MANN

Jim is such a nice, unobtrusive guy that it's kind of hard to think of something appropriately cruel to say about him here. Perhaps it's for the better that nothing be said here.

ESTHER MATZ

Esther, also known as Mrs. Matz, was able to put to practical use many of the choice titbits picked up from the lectures. She can hardly wait for rent controls to end so that new affronts may be made on Part IV of the Landlord (and Tenant) Act.

PAUL EDWARD MAYER

Tall, dark, and handsome, Paul lent a pleasant personality to the back room boys, notably on the right side. Should do well in practise or whatever he does.

CHARLES ALFRED SANDBERG

Known for his red hair, beard, howling, and a connoisseur of everything, including hot butter and salt. Prepares dinner by sliding down the bannister. Not always seen with his partners because busy studying ISRAEL AND ETHICS.

RICHARD ALLAN SAULL

Rick is a top student, a hard worker, a popular guy, and a good boxer...athlete. What does he lack? About $5 for the decent write-up. Another loyal member of the Paper Chase Gang who has recently bitten the dust. To be found at the A.G.'s.

STEVE LESLIE SHAVERS

What's this we hear about you and a racoon, Steve? Deceptively bright, but without looks to match, Steve relished in stopping Art Braid for breath at least twice a class. In other classes made us hold our breaths awaiting to see whether the mouse would enter the mouth. Gone to The Pas.

CHARLES ANTHONY SHERBO

El Presidente, a cruel man, but fair and just. The police have actual film footage showing Charlie nailing the Dean's head to the coffee table. The Dean had transgressed the unwritten law—he slighted Eye-talians in his conflicts class. A valuable addition to Richardson's and one of the best Senior Sticks in recent memory. Pewk!

ROMAN STACHURSKI

He only looks dumb; he took poses for this picture after 6 months of eating and two months of definition. For lunch he rubs gravel through his hair, and once attempted to eat St. John's College with double cheese. Roman is presently on display in Hawaii where he is reportedly charging 50cents a touch. Soon to be found at Aikins, Mac.

NORMAN GRANT STAPON

Paper Chase team captain, Disco Grant provided the beat for dancin' feet. Who else would have thought to put DONOGHUE v. STEVENSON to music. All the best to Mr. and Dr. Stapon.

PATRICIA MARIE STEFANEK

It has been said that Pat has that "innocent" look. Looks, however, can be deceiving. Pat, of course, was the tall, beautiful belle at the back of the room—ergo qualifies for one of the "good guys". Late Flash! Pat is now Mrs. Pat Bolt. Best wishes in your career, Pat.

LAWRENCE BARRY STEINBERG

A hard-working, popular, good-looking guy with a great sense of humour, he did a fine job of doing these writeups. Look for him to return in a few years time teaching Business Planning. By then he will have shrunk and grown a beard. Laurie wanted to write more but we wouldn't let him, Pewk!

DAVID HARVEY STOLLER

We've got news for you, he's incredible! Drove to school playing his one Myron Cohen tape over and over again, all to prepare himself for Cam Harvey's humour. David is the type of guy who...well, you just cannot describe him in less than a page. We're very sorry Dave, but this was the best we could do for you.

ELLERY GERARD STRELL

Has been seen doing fond things in public places with the sister of one of his fellow graduates. Is used to 24 hour days, so is ready for articling. Plans to create his own work in Autopac claims alone. Another Paper Chase team member.

EMIL GLEN SVEINSON

Oh, Glen! You can take them out of the country, and leave them there. He hates the fresh air, wide-open spaces and the barnyard smells. In spite of this, he managed to pull off top marks, City life must agree with him. Good luck, Glen.

KRYSTYNA DANUTA TARWID

Out to clean up Western Manitoba, Krys aims to clean out the territory of ornery rascals while in the employ of the A.G.'s. Our third year rep forgot about it, and at this writing, is back in Poland tracing her Roots; she promised to bring back two parsnip, a potato, and a pole-bean. Guess who's in the salad? (Ed. Note: Ans.: the writer)

PAUL STEVEN TESKEY

What is he doing here,; he should go home! Paul has plans to incorporate his own Credit Union and Protection Agency. Our fine Valedictorian had the fans rolling in the aisles. But following Telley Mercury, that was not hard to do. Paul, the conscience of the school, is one of the finest. Borders on genius, if not already over the line.

MICHAEL THOMAS TRACEY

Mike was able to do three years work in two weeks time. Why let school work interrupt a 7 month party, eh Mike? Can be seen with Rodin's brief case in the Law Courts Building. Likes to dress up in a blue pin-stripe suit and look important. For five $200 dinners at Churchill's Mike graciously consented to conducting this year's course evaluations. See Rodin, Greg SUPRA.

NEIL FRANCIS TRENHOLM

Would you believe that Trenholm is a Scottish name? Neil is a man who doesn't wear underwear--although we have never had the opportunity to look. Neil will be happy to learn he can wear his kilt in comfort, while working in his thermal chair at Norton, Schwartz. Neil will be remembered for his rapid fire questioning and his gratuitous remarks.

ROBERT GEORGE WALKER

Bob is the man with the Keleakis franchise. We are looking forward to seeing it go public on the TSE along with expansion to rival MacDonalds. Bob spent a lot of time at the back which obviously puts him in with the good guys--which is genuinely what he is, he is. Best of lunch and luck in the future, Bob.

PAUL NORMAN WARREN

Part lawyer, part used car salesman. Over the years Paul went through more cars than exams. Has decided that marriage is a necessary element to the practise of Law. Will he be surprised! Paul will continue to live by his motto: "No Reasonable Offer Refused."

EUGENE STEPHEN WASKIW

Radar is the most exasperating person we have ever known. Received offers from Edmonchuck. Makes a computer look disorganized, and has volumes of notes upon notes upon notes upon...Believes in 6 a.m. classes and phoning this writer to remind of same. Huey (another of his many names) has edited everything that happened at the law school, including this yearbook.

SHAEL HARVEY IAN WILDER

The man with gold in his eyes. Proof positive that lobbying and flattery will get you everywhere. The School must find a new method to set the examination time-table since Shael will be unavailable. Cliff, Gord, Art, Barney, Rollie, John, Burt, Cam, and Linda will miss his friendly advice and criticism.

DAVID MICHAEL WILLCOCK

Big, tall, quiet Mike was an underage draft to play for Norton, Schwartz. Thinks Appeal Court Judges should clean-up their eating and dressing habits. Mike will have to learn to stop speaking out of turn and spend week nights without the Law School Library.

BEVERLY JEAN WILLIAMS

Our legal secretary can now start giving orders to legal secretaries. A breeder of dogs. Spent more money on photo copying than she did on tuition. Studies best in a lake environment, but will do well practising law in the city. Funny, can't recall ever seeing her in class.

DEBRA ROSE LYNN WINDJACK

Without quid pro quo, Manitoba's loss is Alberta's gain. Such a sweet, gentle and fun-loving girl, how can she ever expect to be a tough, mean lawyer? Has 24 hour endurance around exam time.. Hair measures 4 feet 11 inches in length. We wish her all the best in the future.

GEORGE CHARLES WOOLLEY

Our own pipeline to the vats of Labatt's. George can boast of having one of the city's largest party rooms in his family. But at school, he's a Coke-a-holic. And nurses poor Andrea on a mixture of Coke and brew. One major of the Paper Chase team.

JOSEPHINE MARY YOUNG

Like a coupla others, we could swear that we once saw Josie at a class. Often attends parties with her sister in tow. For those who know her (outside of classes) she's really somethin'. The friendly type. We wish her the best, as well.

Missing Persons

GEORGE JOHN DeMOISSAC

De-m-oy-sak was last seen at the Great Library wearing sun glasses telling Garth Niven, "She began to massage her mountainous flesh as if she were kneading bread dough, letting me know that she had the same idea I had". George likes bread. He plans to tour with the famous Strokettes.

MARIA ELAINE KUCHER

Don't believe we've ever seen or heard from this one!

DARYL JOHN ROSIN

The Big D, a strong, silent type--women are supposed to go for. Only time will tell. Collected information for the Feds about obscene phone calls. Maybe that accounts for his thin smile everyday. Sure to be able to employ those techniques while sojourning at Aikins.

REMI SMITH

He's that most dangerous of Frenchmen, a Frenchman with a mind of his own, and an English name. A nice quiet fellow, his comments were always stimulating and intelligent. Collects corduroy jackets with leather patches at the elbows and likes to be sewn into them.

STEPHEN TASKER WALKER

The Blond Bomber (Basher, what have you). Steve has the aura of the country man, but assures us that he was city born and bred. The motor cycle, perhaps, proves it. Would take on Rodin any day! Is articling out in the suburbs.

CHARLOTTE GOLDBERG

Charlotte was signed on as a high-priced free agent after playing out her option at Georgetown, U.S.A. Signed a one year contract and so impressed the coaches that next year she will be editing the Law Journal and teaching Legal Research. Came to the Dean's rescue once in Conflicts.

ROBERT WILLIAM MORRISON

Not to be confused with Morrison, Robert Hugh, SUPRA -- which is what we did.

ALAN ROSS

Who? Serves him right for not getting his pix taken.

EVELYN TEICHMAN

We're not certain, but we suspect that Evelyn was the sweet, quiet, little thing that often drifted into the class at a quarter to. Anyway, best of luck in the future.

ELIZABETH ANNE WOLFRAM

Miss Duck. We think she married someone in this class: Red hair and beard. Oh no, that's the one she married! Popcorn connoisseur. Regularly pops a few. Corns, that is. Likes it best with hot butter. And a little salt for friction.

JAMES ROSE

How many times do we have to tell you? Deleted in good taste!

HYMIE GUGGENHEIMER

Once signed up for one of Joey's seminars. Don't know if he showed up. That's all we know about him.

OUR APPOLOGIES TO ANYONE WHO MAY NOT HAVE BEEN OFFENDED BY THESE WRITE-UPS. HOWEVER, YOU MAY REEK YOUR VENGEANCE ON THE FOLLOWING AT THEIR RESPECTIVE HABITATS: M.M. H.G. C.S. M.S. L.S. E.W. (in order of importance)

JAMES FREDRICK CHARLES ROSE

The final word: "Why not just scrap it all, and start a new country-- call it Canada II". - Constitutional Law 10:48 a.m., February 3, 1977.

The Dean's Ditty

And now a farewell to a class numbering more
Than the Faculty e're graduated before.
They total one hundred and twenty-two no less
Can they all get offices is still a good guess.
Yet if they follow the trail of Geisler the bold
They'll go to the country and haul in their gold.
But e're we lose sight of a class that's so great
Let's look at some names that are here on my slate.

First there's young Berkel, Harvey Jay
Who in common rooms moves pianos to play.
But when the Dean said of music--e'nuff
Young Harvey just couldn't get rid of the stuff.

And then there were dear Bolt and Stefanik
Who all through the classes were very lovesick.
In Conflict of Laws the Dean smiled wryly
To see such hand-holding not even done slyly.

And of course there was our petite Mona Brown
Who fought to give every woman her Crown.

The class had its share of mature but not old
Like Browning whose energy never ran cold.

And then our friend Fenton of wide Moot Court fame
Who rarely missed cases in the paper-chase game.

A more care free lot you could ne'er come across
Than DeMoissa and Gunson and Young Alan Ross.

And if you want space in the L parking lot
Then give Lawrie Steinberg what money you've got.
Tho' in a fine group with both Walkers and Dash
Why should a poor student spend parking lot cash.

Still if in your jobs you find salary moldy
Remember to contact your colleague called Goldie.

My gosh there's so many of this blinking lot
To include everybody takes more than I've got.
Of wit, or good rhyme, or just simple "know-how"
So, here's where I finish this Crazy pow-wow!
But I wish for you all - though you're not mentioned here
Good luck and good grades - and no failures this year.
