Cost: $150.00

Enrolment limited to 12 students

This 30-hour course is designed to support graduate students who are actively writing a M.A. thesis or Ph.D. dissertation (Ph.D. students are prioritized).

PTAEC Courses are for students whose first language is not English

Course Description

Advanced Graduate Writers Workshop builds on the topics, knowledge and skills addressed in ESLC 0210 Research Writing for Graduate Students and students are strongly encouraged to complete ESLC 0210 before applying to take ESLC 0298.

The course is organized as follows: per three-hour class, 2 hours are guided peer review “workshop” sessions in which students work in small groups to share and receive constructive feedback on a portion of their thesis or dissertation. The remaining 1 hour of class targets advanced writing skills through skills workshops, presentations, class discussions and lectures on topics specific to graduate level writing/learning.

Course Objectives

Students who successfully complete this course will be better prepared to:

- Engage with a writing instructor and fellow graduate writers to increase confidence in the writing process
- Discover and demonstrate techniques for peer review and self-editing written documents
- Develop strategies for overcoming common writing challenges
- Identify how academic texts are structured in terms of functional stages or moves
- Identify the features which characterize academic texts and realize their communicative purposes
- Identify and use academic language on the discourse level

Required Textbook:

Swales, J.M., & Feak, C.B. (2012). Academic Writing for Graduate Students. 3rd ed. Ann Arbor: University of Michigan Press.
