

RESOLVE Network Update

The recent homicides of Amanda Clearwater, her three children (six-year-old Bethany, four-year-old Jayven, and two and half month-old, Isabella) and her niece (17-year Myah-Lee Gratton) in Carman, Manitoba serve as another painful reminder of the horrific reality of domestic violence in our country.

Saskatchewan Anti-Violence Research (SAvR) Network: Community-Established Priorities

The province of Saskatchewan has one of the highest rates of violence in Canada. This can be seen in statistics, which illustrate the fact that Saskatchewan's rates of police-reported domestic violence are over double the national average.

RESOLVE Tri-Provincial Project Updates

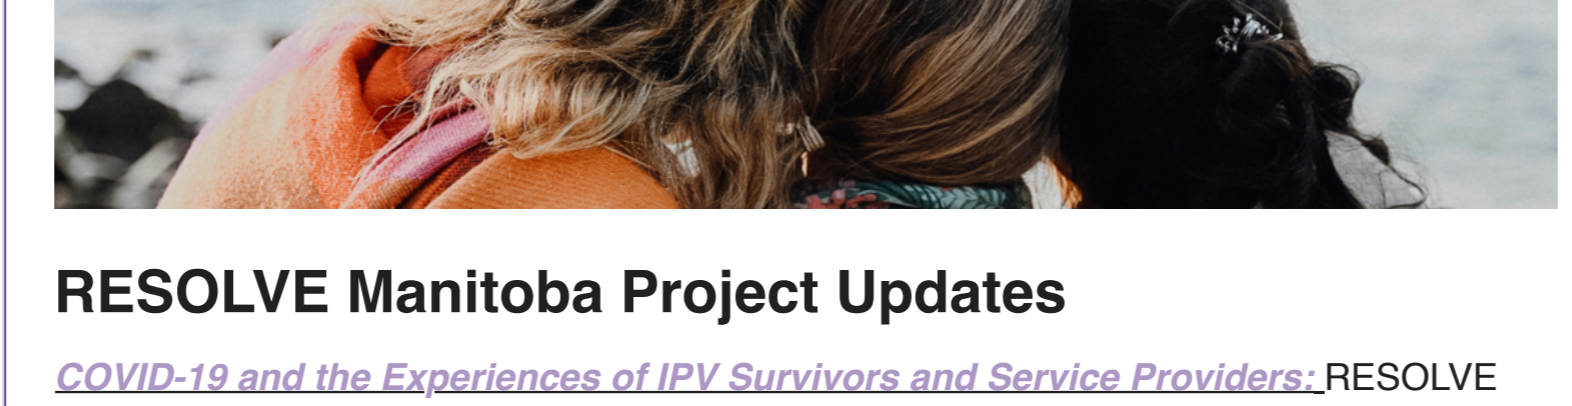

Responding to Women who Experience Intimate Partner Violence in Rural Municipalities across the Prairies: Our Research Associate, Dr. Masha Kardashevskaya, will present our research findings at the 20th biennial Symposium on Violence and Aggression "Current Trends in Violence" at the University of Saskatchewan.

Examining the Nature & Context of IPV in 2SLGBTQ+ Communities: A recent publication authored by RESOLVE, delves into the topic of inadequate policing methods and their impact on the safety of 2SLGBTQ+ survivors of intimate partner violence.

Attachment and Child Health (ATTACH™): The ATTACH™ program is an intervention that has been effectively developed and evaluated for at-risk parents and children experiencing toxic stressors.

RESOLVE Manitoba Update

RESOLVE Manitoba Project Updates

COVID-19 and the Experiences of IPV Survivors and Service Providers: RESOLVE recently completed the COVID-19 and the Experiences of IPV Survivors and Service Providers research project.

Awareness to Action: Moving from Screening and Assessment to Developing Appropriate Parenting Plans After Family Violence in the Family Justice System (A2A): This project will continue the work of the previous Family Violence Law project by sustaining the Manitoba Community of Practice and continuing to produce educational webinars, research briefs, and legal bulletins.

Assessing Capacity to Conduct Indigenous-Based Research and Engage with Indigenous Communities in the Prairie Provinces: The research team facilitated conversations and sharing circles with Indigenous community-based organizations and academics to examine RESOLVE's capacity to conduct community-engaged Indigenous research.

Improving Shelter Experience for Indigenous Women: We have formed our Advisory Committee for this project. This research project aims to contribute to our understanding of Indigenous women's experiences seeking help in Indigenous and non-Indigenous-led women's shelters.

Reducing Family Violence: Perspectives of Cultural Communities Interacting with Service Providers Applying Cultural Safety and Humility: We have received ethics approval for this project and will start recruiting research participants.

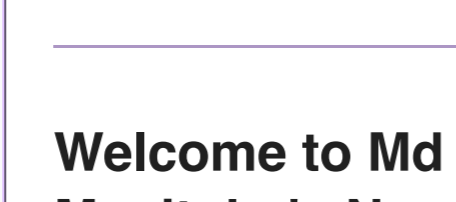

The Healing Journey: A Longitudinal Study of Women Who have been Affected by Intimate Partner Violence

The following three new publications are based on the Healing Journey study, and include:

- 1. "I Worry About My Kids' Safety When They Visit": Mothers' Perceptions of Father/Child Post-Separation Contact in the Context of IPV
2. "We Got Our Healing Through Traditional Ways": Canadian Indigenous Women's Use of Violence Against Women Shelters, Mainstream Counseling, and Traditional Healing
3. "Never Give Up, The Creator Has Good Things in Store for You": Risk Factors, Protective Factors, and Evidence of Resilience for Canadian Indigenous Women Abused by Intimate Partners

RESOLVE Saskatchewan Update

Passing of Dr. Mary Hampton

Dr. Mary Hampton, previous Director of RESOLVE SK, has recently passed away. Dr. Hampton was a wonderful person, community member, and scholar who touched the lives of many through her work as a community-based researcher and psychologist.

Our thoughts are with Dr. Hampton's family, friends, and loved ones.

New Episodes of the RESOLVing Violence Podcast!

The RESOLVing Violence Podcast, a project developed in line with RESOLVE's goal to disseminate knowledge and bridge the gap between research and practice, launched back in September 2023.

Through these podcast episodes, we hope to continue to facilitate the transfer of knowledge from researchers, organizations, and service providers working to prevent, respond to, and assist with recovery from violence and abuse to those applied stakeholders and people with lived experience.

Episodes of this podcast are typically 20-30 minutes long, perfect for listening to during your commute or lunch break and are released every Tuesday on all podcast platforms.

Sexual Assault Services of Saskatchewan (SASS) Launches Saskatchewan Sexual Assault Data Centre

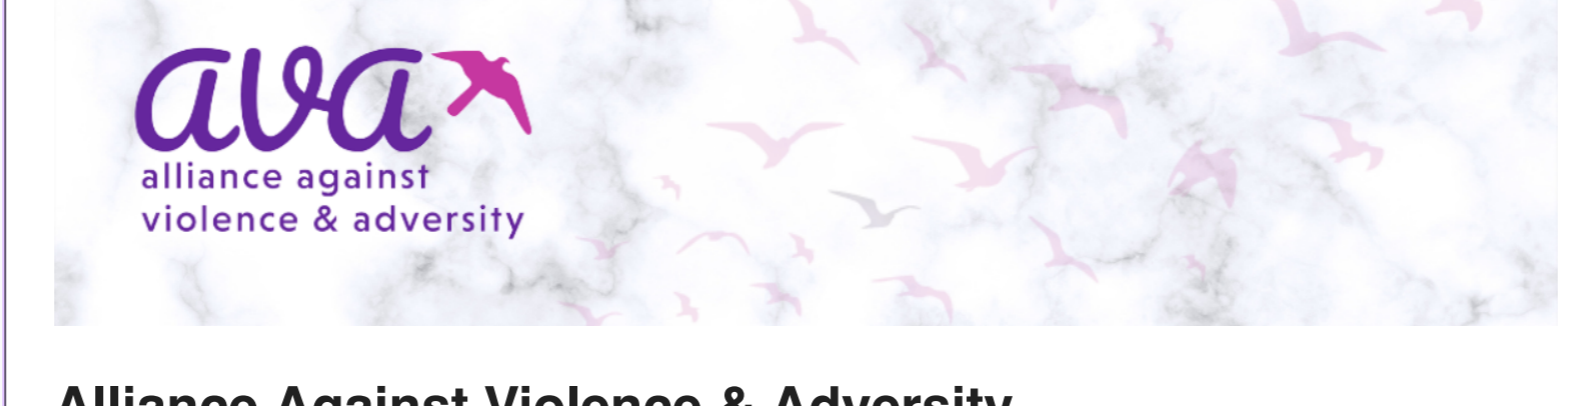

SASS has launched their Data Centre, a resource for allowing users to see the frequency of sexual assault reporting across the province. Those employed in the industry or performing research in the sexual violence sector can use this tool to inform their work with data that is local and relevant to their community.

- A Heat Map of SV reporting in Saskatchewan;
• The ability to sort by community, year, police force, and charge closure;
• Different types of charts for creating a deeper understanding; and
• Glossary of terms.

The Data Centre can be viewed on the SASS website.
