1) Introduction

Welcome to St John's College! To make your transition to St John's College easier, we have prepared this Fellow's Handbook. It is designed to help you find your way around the College and get to know our policies and procedures.

How to use this handbook

The Handbook contains sections on the services that the College can offer you and information about College activities that might interest you. It also includes information on the obligations of fellowship at the St John's. The College staff and their positions are listed, as are their office hours and locations.

The accompanying booklet Fellows Handbook: Bylaws & Agreements contains information on the structure of the College Assembly, the governing body of the College in day-to-day affairs, as well as the text of the agreement between the University of Manitoba and St John's College. You may obtain a copy of this booklet from the General Office.

2) Short History of the College

Bishop Robert Machray officially opened the present St John's College on November 1, 1866, but the College's roots lie in the early years of the Red River Settlement. Starting in the 1820s, the Anglican church began founding schools to educate the children of local settlers and to provide theological training to Indigenous people. When the Diocese of Rupert's Land was established in 1849, the first Bishop, David Anderson, created the first school to bear the name "St John's."

Robert Machray became the Bishop of Rupert's Land in 1865 and arrived in the Red River Settlement later that same year. He recognized a need for an Anglican college and set about finding the necessary funds to re-open St John's. The buildings from Bishop Anderson's school were renovated and others acquired to house the boarders and faculty of the new school. The Reverend John McLean came from London, Ontario to become the College's first Warden. When the school was re-opened on All Saints Day, 1866, it had nineteen boys attending as either boarders or day students and three students enrolled in theology courses.

The College grew with the community it served. After the creation of the province of Manitoba in 1870, the Manitoba Schools Act (1871) created separate school boards for Roman Catholic and Protestant schools. At the time, St John's College was one of only three secondary colleges in the entire province, still maintaining its focus on training young men for Anglican ministry.

In 1877, St John's College, St Boniface College and the Manitoba College became the founding colleges of the University of Manitoba. In the early years of the University the colleges provided all the instruction to their students: the University itself was limited to granting degrees in fields other than theology. During this period St John's was housed in locations on Main St and Broadway Avenue before moving to the Fort Garry campus in 1957.

In 1970, an agreement was reached between the University and the College whereby the two institutions' separate academic programs (excluding theology) were merged. From that point on, the College's students and faculty fellows have all been admitted to or employed by UM but choose to affiliate with St John's. By the terms of the 1970 Agreement, the College continued to operate independently with respect to the residence, food service, and chaplaincy. In 1992 the College launched a major fundraising campaign called "Founding the Future." The goal of the Founding the Future campaign was to raise one million dollars for the continuing support of the College's theology program, academic programs and residence renewal. This was also when the College's development office was permanently established, and it has continued to fundraise to sustain the work of the College and towards capital projects like the Robert B. Schultz Lecture Theatre.

St John's remains a vital community within the University of Manitoba. It also retains its historic ties to the Diocese of Rupert's Land and continues to provide education and training in Anglican theology. Like the University and the Diocese, St John's acknowledges its colonial history and is working towards Reconciliation in a variety of ways. In the twenty-first century, the College is moving forward towards a bright future committed to academic excellence, wide-ranging supports for students, faculty and staff, and inclusion and social justice.

Should you be interested in learning more about the history of St John's College, there are two book-length histories written by Laurence Wilmott and J.M. Bumstead respectively that are available in the General Office.

3) College Governance

St. John's College is an independent constituent college of the University of Manitoba, governed under the terms of the act of its incorporation as Chapter 39 of the Statutes of the Province of Manitoba, 1871, and re-enacted in 1990 as Chapter 171.

The statutes of the College are amended, repealed or replaced by the Synod of the Diocese of Rupert's Land, most recently in 1992 and 2002.

The governance of the College is bicameral.

The College Council determines the overall direction and policies of the College, subject to the responsibility vested in Assembly for academic affairs. The Council is charged also with maintaining a direct formal connection with the Diocese of Rupert's Land, and is ultimately responsible for the financing of the College. Council has representation from both the Diocese and from Assembly, including at least one student.

The College Assembly has responsibility for academic matters within the College and for the day-to-day operation of the College, including approving the annual budget, within the fiscal policies established by Council. All College Fellows and College Officers are members of Assembly, which also includes representation from students of the College and Diocesan Council.

4) College Academic Membership

The academic membership of the College consists of its Fellows, including the Warden and any other College Officer who holds an academic appointment at the University of Manitoba.

The Fellows of St John's College are a self-governing and autonomous academic community. Fellows, who normally also hold appointments in The University, are elected by College Assembly on the recommendation of a Fellows' Membership committee. The Fellowship is thus constituted in accordance with its own traditional values of intellectual diversity and openness. In this way, the Fellowship of St John's College fosters multidisciplinary conversation and collaboration to a degree unique within a modern research university, while at the same time respecting and upholding the principles of equity, diversity, inclusion, and academic freedom guaranteed by the larger institution.

Fellows are elected to College Fellowship, initially as a Visiting or Research Fellow. After one year, Visiting Fellows may apply and be elected as a Senior Fellow. Senior Fellows remain as academic members until resignation, retirement or expulsion. Visiting and Research Fellows do not normally have continuing appointments at the University of Manitoba; they are elected annually to the Fellowship.

5) St John's College Library

The St John's College Library is part of the University of Manitoba Libraries, and as such, benefits from an integrated library system that provides access to over 2.3 million volumes, including a wide range of electronic resources, and employs a highly trained and skilled staff. Located on the third floor of the College, in a bright and inviting space, the Library provides service to College members and Fellows and to other students, faculty and staff of the University of Manitoba. In addition to the traditional circulation and reference services, it offers the request and delivery of materials from the other libraries in the system, a virtual chat reference service, and a team of liaison librarians who provide specialized reference assistance including one-on-one consultations, classroom and individual instruction on research methods for assignments and term papers, and research support for faculty and graduate students.

The Library has an excellent collection of French-Canadian and English-Canadian literature. It is also strong in the areas of Christian theology and history and of Canadian history and politics. The Globe and Mail and Winnipeg Free Press are delivered daily to the Library courtesy of the College.

The Head of the College Library invites College members and Fellows to contact the liaison librarian for their area of teaching and research to suggest materials for purchase, to request an instruction session for their students, or to discuss how the Library can assist them with data management and scholarly communication. Additional information about the Library's services and resources can be found on its web site: <http://libguides.lib.umanitoba.ca/stjohns>.

6) St John's Art Collection

The College houses one of the largest collections of Canadian art in Western Canada. During the 1970s, College Fellow Ken Hughes and Bursar Garth McLeod oversaw the development of the Collection. Artists sold, donated or loaned their work to the College and friends of the College donated art works.

The Collection is a rather eclectic assemblage, containing original works as well as prints, photolithographs and serigraphs and reproductions. The works represent a wide variety of media, themes and perspectives. The emphasis of the Collection has always been to showcase the works of Canadian, and especially Manitoban, artists. The collection has grown in numbers and stature as many of the artists who sold or donated works in the 1970s and 1980s have or had already achieved significant national and international recognition as major Canadian artists. These works are an important part of the emergence and development of the history of several Manitoba and Western Canadian art movements.

More information on the College's Art Collection can be requested from the Art Committee of Assembly. Check this year's committee list to see who are members. The Art and Music Committee are responsible for planning the annual St John's College Art and Music Competition in consultation with the Faculty of Music.

Iggles Advocate: “Iggles” is the newspaper of the St John’s College Students’ Association. The editor is a member of the Student Council and works with a committee of fellow Johnians to publish the paper as often as possible. The paper relies on student contributions for its material but inclusions from faculty and staff are always welcome. “Iggles” is intended to be a fun way for students to communicate to each other: cutting-edge investigative journalism is not to be found in “Iggles”.

The Rupert’s Land News: The newspaper of the Anglican Diocese of Rupert’s Land, “The Rupert’s Land News” is published monthly except July and August. It contains stories of interest to the Anglican community in the diocese and publishes notices of coming events that might interest its readers. These and other items may be purchased in the General Office; see the Office for the current selection and prices.

15) Conference Services

During the summer months, when the University regular session is finished, the College hosts conferences in the Residence and College. There are a small number of rooms made available to students who wish to stay in Residence during the summer to take summer classes or to find summer employment. Most of the Residence rooms, however, are rented to conference groups. The revenue raised through hosting summers conferences is used to keep Residence fees at a reasonable level, and to help fund academic programs and other College functions. Money raised through conferences also provides summer employment for College students and purchases furniture and equipment for the Residence that could not otherwise be funded by the College.

The Residence contains three guest suites: two with two bedrooms and one single bedroom unit. These suites are available for booking when not in use by conference groups. In the past, visiting lecturers and researchers have stayed in the College during the summer. Speak to the Dean of Residence (8363) for more information, rate schedules and booking.

If you are organizing a summer conference, consider holding the conference at St John's College. Contact the Dean of Residence (8363) for price information and booking conference facilities. We can provide your group with accommodations, meeting space and equipment (including AV equipment, parking) and handle all your food requirements.

16) Development Office

The St John's College Development Office has existed since 1991. The duties of the office include:

Public Relations: Creating, shaping and maintaining a public image for the College, both internally and externally. This involves: issuing media releases for various College event such as Convocation, the Marjorie Ward Lecture, art shows, conferences, and any other event that might be of interest to the public; taking pictures of College events both for future publicity but also as an archival record; creating and placing advertising; writing stories for inclusion in the (Anglican Diocese) Rupert's Land News; and writing and editing the In Lumine. If you have Public Relations requirements or need to know deadline dates for any of the above, please see the Development Officer.

Alumni Relations: Maintaining and developing relationships with all College alumni. This is done through letters, calls, visits and information dispersed through newsletters etc.

Fundraising: Asking alumni, Foundations, corporations, faculty, staff, and friends for donations to St John's College. This is done through letters, phone calls, and one on one solicitations. Once a gift is received it is important to issue the receipt promptly, maintain the database information, and to steward the relationship so that future support might be garnered. Funds are raised for projects identified and developed by the Program Planning and Development committee of Assembly, which meets jointly with the Planning and Development Committee of Council. Either Assembly or College Council then approves these projects, as appropriate.

There is also a Development Committee which reports to Council and, as needed, a Capital Campaign Committee. These committees plan and implement fund raising and public relations strategies while also suggesting policies for Council approval.

Fellows (and staff members) are usually solicited for donations or pledges once per year through an in-house College Faculty & Staff campaign. The University of Manitoba conducts a similar campaign also. There is no obligation to participate in either, but the College prides itself in the strong support that the Fellows and Staff provide both in participation rate as well as dollars raised.

Long-term gifts (such as bequests) are also encouraged and are of great value to the College. The Development Officer would be pleased to provide any appropriate fund raising advice and also welcomes your suggestions.

The Development Officer is a member of Assembly and attends Council as a non-voting College Officer. The Development Office is open Monday through Friday each week from 8:30-4:30 and is located on the second floor of the north wing. The office of the Assistant to the Development Officer is located in Room 211 (phone 7381).

Matriculation: Matriculation ceremonies are held each year in September. This ceremony commemorates the initiation of new members, including staff, students, and fellows. Each new member signs the registrar's book, which dates to 1866.

Graduation Dinner: Each year, SJC students host an annual graduation dinner and fellows are invited and strongly encouraged to attend this event. It provides a great opportunity to enjoy a nice meal with your colleagues and to see what amazing things our students have accomplished.
